Mr. O'Flynn left some posters containing a letter from Canadian Labor Congress President Claude Jodoin stating the Canadian labor movement endorses the United Appeal. Mr. O'Flynn asked members of the BDTLC to put the posters up in their shops, and they agreed to do so.

A member of the BDTLC, speaking to Mr. O'Flynn after the meeting, said, "In the city of Belleville labor is looked upon as a very insignificant thing except at times like this.

"We felt we did a good job on the campaign last year, but we received very little recognition for our work. We think this campaign is very worthwhile, but we would like to get recognition for what we do."

Mr. O'Flynn stated the group that labor would certainly receive recognition this year in the campaign.

MERGER DISCUSSED

In other business at the meeting, a possible merger between the BDTLC and the Quinte Labor Council was discussed.

A motion was passed to send the BDTLC president, Bill Nicols, and any member of the executive board who wants to, to a meeting with Trenton officials to discuss the idea of a merger.

The BDTLC also passed a motion to send two delegates, to be chosen by the executive at their next meeting, to attend the office's conference in Peterborough from October 15 to 17. The theme of the conference will be "Role of Labor Councils."

The BDTLC resolved to send a letter to each of its locals that has fallen behind in payment of dues as a reminder to them.

In a final item of business, the Council decided to contact each area local in a bid to get more representation from them on the Council and to ask that they would allow Council representatives to speak to them.

Youth Given Fourteen Days, Loses Licence

Magistrate T. Y. Wills made good a warning last week he would jail persons convicted of dangerous driving while evading police pursuit.

He ordered 22-year-old Garrit A. Wolvers to serve 14 days in Jail -- and suspended the man's licence for six months.

He handed down the penalties after being told of 25 - mile chase from Belleville to Stirling early Saturday morning after police tried to stop the accused man's car for speeding on Front Street. The chase led outside the city, along Highway 37, the Maple County and the Ridge Road leading into Stirling. At one point, claimed Constable Barry Peterson, the chase clocked 100 miles an hour.

There were two women and a second man in Wolvers' car, he said.

Magistrate T. Y. Wills called it "a most flagrant" case of dangerous driving.

"Young people who do this sort of thing . . . should get a short term of imprisonment first of all and a suspension of licence," he commented tersely.

More Arrests Expected in Drug Racket

TORONTO (CP) — RCMP in Toronto and Montreal said Monday they expect to make more arrests in connection with a drug racket that already has netted at least 23 suspects in the two cities.

An RCMP spokesman here said the force has "warrants out for a number more."

"They're difficult to locate," he said.

Monday are believed to be in the Toronto area; others may not be.

In Montreal, RCMP were looking for at least two more persons since five were arrested Saturday.

All suspects were arrested after RCMP in Montreal picked up and charged Joseph Rosario (Willie) Lamy, 44.

Monday in Toronto simultaneously made eight arrests, charged another seven already in the jail and Monday charged another man.

TRIGGERS OTHERS

Lamy's arrest triggered the others.

"As soon as we arrested Lamy, we arrested the others," said Superintendent J. R. Carriere, head of the RCMP C division in Quebec.

Lamy testified at the Dorion inquiry into corruption in high government places that he gave Marie Rivard $20,000 as she left for Mexico. He said he left her husband Lucien, awaiting extradition to the United States on narcotics charges. Rivard's trial started Monday in Laredo, Tex.

RCMP in Montreal and Toronto identified the following as charged Saturday either under the Canada Evidence Act or under the Narcotics Contol Act: Real Cousineau, Montreal, 38; Samuel Miller, 59, Margaret J. Littler, 36, Albert Poirier, 58, all of Ottawa; H. Hazel Reynolds, 34, Cecile Johnston, 25, and Neil Hicks, 47, of Vancouver. Miller's case was transferred to Montreal. All except Hicks appeared in a Toronto court Monday and were remanded in custody until Wednesday.

They are to appear with the following charged in the Don Jail while awaiting trial on other charges:

Elizabeth Pugh, Shirley Kinsman, Laura Pitoscia, Alfred Cooley, Frank Fenelon, Michael Deschenaux and Cathy Lyle.

Charged Monday and scheduled to appear Wednesday with the others in Toronto was Norman Woods.

All seven in Don jail were charged under the Narcotics Control Act while Woods was charged under food and drugs regulations with selling controlled drugs.

Each was arraigned Monday and remanded in custody until Sept. 21 for preliminary hearing.

Crown Prosecutor Pierre Lamontagne, whose statement that he had been offered a bribe to end resistance to bail for Lucien Rivard led to the Dorion inquiry, opposed bail for the suspects.

Yet to be arraigned, but charged, were Lucians Grid Cournoyer, 38, currently serving a sentence on conviction of another charge, and Hicks, also rested in Toronto and taken to Montreal.

The arrests were the result of efforts by two Junior RCMP officers fresh out of police training school.

Identified as Christian Sampson and John Piplachaty, the undercover men spent since last November getting to know drug addicts in Montreal and Toronto and in buying thousands of dollars worth of narcotics from as many suppliers as possible.

Minister Says Creditistes Will Disappear

VICTORIA (CP)—The Creditistes of Quebec will die and the New Democratic Party will flourish last in the forthcoming election, Mines Minister J. Watson MacNaught said Monday.

Mr. McNaught said in an interview the Creditistes led by Real Caouette have no principles because "their philosophy is alien to the better interests of Canada."

He said voters in the province would not be interested in backing a provincial party—it has no candidates in other provinces—and "I think Caouette realizes this. That's why he says we're all Canadians.

"The NDP will come last because they are a splinter group."

Bridge Club Looking for New Members

The fall and winter season is fast approaching and members of the Belleville Bridge Club are preparing for another enjoyable year at the bridge tables. Last evening a preparatory meeting was held at a summer home across the Bay with president Bruce Miller, past president, Irving Shulman, secretary treasurer "Jerry" Hyde and members of the executive present.

Mr. Hyde informed the members there were 18 of last year's register ready to roll and it was expected that at least 21 teams the same as last year would be ready for play in the week of Thanksgiving. All present expressed the hope that the Club would enlarge and each one was requested to seek new members.

The club plays every night throughout the season, which is topped by a stag night and the annual banquet at which the wives of the members are invited.

The annual meeting was set for September 29th at the Columbus Hall if the hall is available and at which time the new president and executive board will be elected after which the members will enjoy an evening of bridge.

Any prospective members are requested to get in touch with Mr. Hyde, Mr. Miller or any of the directors after the meeting last evening two tables of bridge were enjoyed and the usual lihilities ensued. A delightful lunch closed a most enjoyable evening.

MOBILE SAFETY LANE operated by Ontario De partment of Transport is again in the city — this time at Belleville Plaza. Checks last until September 30 fro m Monday to Friday. Hours are 12-4 p.m. and 5-7 p.m.

Mobile Safety-check Unit Now Operating in City

For the second year in a row the Ontario Department of Transport has its mobile safety-check unit operating in Belleville.

Assisted by local garage operators and the city's traffic police squad, departmental experts now are putting automobiles through voluntary checks.

They opened for business at the Belleville Plaza yesterday and, by the time they called a halt at 7 p.m. had given scores of vehicles a once over for safety's sake.

The check works both in the interest of the motorist and those with a vested interest in highway safety.

At no cost a car-owner may discover what adjustments may be necessary on his vehicle. Because it is voluntary, the experts rest assured any defects discovered will be quickly repaired in the same spirit.

Only yesterday it didn't work quite that way for one motorist. Traffic police stopped his car near the Plaza and insisted he take the check. He did — and was found wanting. Officers then removed his licence plates.

Mayor Will Sign Scroll At City Hall

Since the beginning of 1965 The Salvation Army has held special services and events, this being the centennial year for the Army.

In keeping with this, on Saturday The Salvation Army Centennial Cavalcade will arrive in Belleville. The cavalcade will consist of two officers travelling across Canada by special train—namely Major William Leslie as speaker and Capt. Bruce Robertson as vocalist.

They will be met by a Centennial bearing a suitably-worded declaration signed by the Prime Minister of Canada, and a facsimile of this document, will be signed by His Worship, Mayor J. R. Ellis, at 3:00 p.m. outside the city hall.

The Belleville citadel band will provide music for this event.

The Divisional Commander and Mrs. W. Trevlyn and divisional staff, officers and salvationists from Picton, Trenton and Tweed will support the cavalcade.

Brigadier Bernard Bernat officer in charge of the Belleville corps, has also arranged for the cavalcade to make a visit to the Hastings Manor at 1:45 p.m. and a short open air service at the Bitesay Shopping Centre at 4:30 p.m.

At 8:00 p.m. a special evangelistic service will be conducted by the members of the cavalcade at the citadel.

The public is cordially invited to attend these centennial gatherings.

Term Dated Back to Time Of Arrest

Gerald W. Stalker had a driving licence suspension lifted against him recently. However, he told Magistrate T. Y. Wills, he had not yet renewed it since insurance would cost him between $150 and $200 for two years.

Today, he pleaded guilty to driving while under suspension.

But, he told His Worship, the only reason he was driving at the time of his arrest was to oblige a friend, whom he considered too much under the influence to be behind the wheel.

The magistrate was sympathetic. He suggested the man's friends reciprocate by helping him obtain his licence.

But, he added, "they can't serve your time."

He sentenced Mr. Stalker to seven days — then ordered the term date from the time of arrest last Saturday.

Historical Society Plans Visit to Perth

The pistols used in Upper Canada's last fatal duel at Perth back in 1833; three hundred year-old fossils; bits of flora from a pre-historic Siberian mammoth found in a gravel pit near Smiths Falls, and records of the 22000 pound cheese made at Perth for the 1932 world's fair, will be among the interesting exhibits seen by members of the Belleville Historical Society when they visit the Perth Museum on Saturday, Sept. 18.

Members of the local Society, along with any others who care to go, will make the trip to Perth by chartered bus, leaving the Church Street museum building at 10:00 a.m.

Hopes are that enough people will be interested in the trip to fill two buses. Anyone wishing to make the trip should contact the county museum at 962-3731.

Cpl. Frank Bromfield Retires From OPP Force, 36 Years of Service

Yesterday was a day of ball and farewell occasions for Provincial Police Corporal Frank Bromfield of Belleville.

The veteran OPP officer hailed another birthday — then bade farewell to the force he has served for a record 36 years.

With the corporal and his wife present, the men showed their appreciation to their veteran officer by unwrapping a table load of gifts, while tribute was paid by senior officers to his record service.

"On behalf of the Commissioner and the entire force I wish to thank Corporal Bromfield for his cervices in regard to the protection of life and property during his service," said the superintendent.

The service started a few years after the corporal arrived in Canada from his native England in 1923.

JOINED IN 1929

He joined the force in 1929 — when it counted only about 300 men in all ranks. He served nearly 13 years as constable out of OPP headquarters — then at Queen's Park — before being transferred to Niagara Falls in 1942. Other transfers followed to Welland and Hagersville detachments.

In 1947 the force inaugurated its province-wide radio hookup. The following year, promoted to the rank of corporal, he was posted to Belleville, to take charge of the district's communication network.

He has served in that post ever since.

Knowing his beat has more than police significance for Corporal Bromfield. His prime interest has always been classical music. Well known in district music circles, he is a leading member of St. Thomas' Church choir.

The Bromfields, who live at 15 Greenlawn Avenue, have one son — an Ontario Hydro engineer now at Kingston—and three grandchildren.

Around the 'Cat'

There is some good weather ahead and the lawn bowlers are reluctant to call it a day.

On Saturday a mixed doubles tournament was staged by the Trenton Lawn Bowling Club and a Belleville rink of Mr. and Mrs. Jack Avery captured the three-game high. Mr. and Mrs. Clinton Mitts of the Trenton Club took second place and Mr. and Mrs. Mel Caverly of Madoc were third in the standings.

Clayton Maguire and Mrs. Pearl Carr of Trenton won the one-game high in a cut with Frank Morrell and Mrs. Grace Clapp, who were tied for one-game high. The greens were as fast as they have been this year and the 18 rinks competing thoroughly enjoyed the bowling in the crisp afternoon.

In a women's tournament in Stirling rinks from Belleville, Peterborough, Stirling and Peterborough, Stirling and Trenton competed and Mrs. Vera McIntosh, Mrs. Betty Vince with Mrs. Carm Mott as skip won the one-game high. Another rink of Mrs. Nora Kyle, Mrs. Edna Jackman with Mrs. Elsie Humphreys as skip failed to get into the prize money.

At Cobourg a women's doubles tournament was held with rinks from Oshawa, Port Hope, Trenton, Stirling, Belleville and Cobourg competing but rain cancelled out the tournament after two games had been completed. Mrs. Lil Maracaro and Mrs. Grace Clapp finished in third place and Mrs. Jessie Hunter and Mrs. Millie Smith from the Belleville club finished fourth.

The women's tea days will wind up on Thursday with competition for the Brading Trophy. This tournament will be confined to the local club members and will start at one in the afternoon. Following this competition the women will be free to use the greens on Thursday afternoon as long as the greens are playable.

On Wednesday afternoon the Campbellford Club will hold a tournament for the Wiggins' trophy and many Belleville rinks are going out.

U.S. Critical

Criticism in the United States Senate of the contributions of western allies toward the war effort in Vietnam has been followed up by an article in U.S. News and World Report under the heading, "How Helpful Are U.S. Allies?"

The report is the same old refrain, about how much the Americans are contributing and how little their allies, and saying nothing about the grave misgivings felt by these same allies about increased American involvement in hostilities in Vietnam.

The U.S. says it is also serving as the buttress of various défensive organizations, including NATO and SEATO, has individual pacts with several nations, and has contributed millions of dollars in economic aid to under-developed countries.

Of this country, the U.S. magazine observes: "Canada, next door to the U.S., is heavily dependent on American armed forces for its protection. Yet from Canada has come more criticism."

To this end it may be said that apart from missiles and jet fighters (which are Canadian-manned anyway), Canada does not have to depend on the armed forces of its neighbor. Canada, moreover, has made substantial contributions of men and aircraft to NATO and to United Nations peace-keeping missions in the Congo, Cyprus and the Middle East. It fought alongside Britain in two World Wars before the U.S. even came into those conflicts.

Then, the United States is heavily involved today in the defence of the free world and has given much in the way of economic aid around the world. But it is able to afford such largesse, and it tends to overlook the contributions Canada and other countries have made according to their smaller resources.

Holsteins for Mexico

Prince Edward County cattle breeders have a good customer in Mr. Aquilino Gutierrez of Mexico. On his fourth buying visit to the County, Mr. Gutierrez has purchased 31 Holsteins.

According to our Picton correspondent, Mr. Gutierrez imports around 500 head each year and buys them all in Ontario. In the last two weeks he has purchased 110 head, or five carloads.

One thing that may be of concern in these deals is the welfare of the animals themselves. Perhaps shipping facilities have improved in recent years, but speaking personally we would not want to be one of those Holsteins heading south for the tie.

The old saying about being "herded like cattle . . . or like sheep" means exactly what it says, and dumb as these creatures are the sight of them herded into pens or trucks is not a comforting one. Cattle and sheep need fresh air like ordinary human beings.

The cattle are to be assembled at Georgetown and shipped by rail. The Picton report says they will not leave the cars until they reach the Mexican border.

Had Criminal Record

The 64-year-old man who shot and killed two 19-year-old Toronto girls and then himself on the look of a person who was seriously deranged. In fact he had a criminal record and was being sought by police for attacking his wife.

A psychiatrist says there are 200 such persons in Toronto who are mentally suspect and capable of similar acts of violence. Unfortunately, no legal or other restraint can be placed upon them, so long as they keep within the law.

It is one of the terrifying aspects of human nature that it is often the most unlikely people in whom the most violent tendencies repose. A couple of months ago a young American college graduate and football hero robbed a Nebraska bank, shooting the bank's president and two employees as they lay on the floor.

And only last week a 23-year-old Ohio man was arrested in the slayings of four persons in Western states. The bespectacled suspect was pictured lounging casually in a court ante-room and smiling confidently as if nothing had happened. In appearance he looked like any average college student.

Lake Cruise

Ulster's Lough Neagh, the largest inland lake in the British Isles, has long been a difficult body of water to explore. For all its size, main roads seldom touch the shores of the lake which touches five of the six counties of Northern Ireland.

This year for the first time, it is possible to cruise round the lake in the Maid of Antrim, a cruise boat which carries 100 passengers.

Lough Neagh is famous for its eel fishery. The eels come from the Sargasso Sea, a region of calms and mixing ocean currents northeast of the West Indies. Their journey to Ireland is said to take about three years.

Bilingual Computer Tutor Has Cushy Job Seeking Him

By RICHARD JACKSON
From The Intelligencer's Ottawa Bureau

OTTAWA — There's a Federal Government job going here in the National Capital, and if you're the man or woman for it, then you can just about write your own ticket.

All those Federal Civ- s- vil Service fringe benefits . . .

. . . job security unmatched anywhere in the nation . . .

. . . good, reasonable hours leaving plenty of time for recreation and leisure . . .

. . . the country's best and most generous superannuation, paying 70 percent of salary calculated on your 10 best earning years . . .

And, if you fill the enormous by exacting specifications, may- be anything from $9,000 to $25,000 or even better a year to boot.

The job?

Computer tutor.

Qualifications?

The job?

To program a high speed digital computer for English and French.

It's a computerized world, isn't it?

And a bilingual country, e'nest-ce pas?

IT'S NOT EASY

They've got computers now that can write poetry, correct high school exams (although not very well, it turns out), calculate income tax (yours and everyone else's), play chess and fly satellites.

But not one that can translate English into French or French into English.

Down at the National Research Council here they have a computer that could do the job and they have an ambitious plan for rapid — 20,000 words an hour — machine translation.

All they need is the mathematical scientist with the necessary linguistic wizardry to properly program it.

Dr. K. F. Pupper, vice-president of the NRC, for six months has been scouring the world for this extremely specialized combined skill, still hasn't found the talent to make the computer bilingual, but isn't giving up yet.

It's been possible, for nearly 10 years now, to electronically switch English into French.

But the translation has been too loose and the computer needs a tutor to educate it in the fine points of grammar and syntax.

Trouble is, the international competition for this kind of wizardry is fierce.

For at a recent seminar held by the North Atlantic Treaty Organization it came out that a number of other countries' industrial nations have ambitious programs of machine translation in the works, and that Canada are shopping around frantically for just such a computer tutor.

DON'T MEASURE UP

The idea here in the Capital for using the bilingual computer is to dig for the hidden backlog of Federal Government translations that gets bigger and bigger with each passing day now that everything must be done to two languages.

The crunch came last March when the Canada Pension Plan legislation was introduced in the Commons a week while Quebec MP's waited for the French translations of the committee hearing and of the bill itself.

But best the translators have been able to do is just try keeping abreast of official Government announcements, Cabinet statements and other top-drawer documents, while all the lesser material piles up.

Since March, the Research Council has flown in several highly qualified language-oglists from different parts of the world for interviews and examinations.

But skilled though they might be, none of them has quite measured up to the specialized requirements for tutoring a bilingual computer.

It's no trick to program a computer for simple translation on a word - for - word basis.

What is needed is the skill to program the electronic transposition of entire sentences with all the nuances, from one language to the other, observing highest grammatical style and properly preserving syntax so that a minimum of editing is required. And at 20,000 computed words to an hour.

Sept. 14, 1965 . . .

The Gregorian calendar was adopted in England 211 years ago today—in 1752— when the government decreed that the day following Sept. 2 should be Sept. 14. The revised calendar had been ordered in all Catholic countries 170 years before, by papal edict "that the"Protestant countries refused the reform on principle. Even when the English government decided to put its calendars in phase with astronomical time, mobs roamed the streets shouting, "Give us back our days!"

1628 — Salem, Massachusetts' second settlement, was incorporated.

1917—Kornilov's march on Moscow was defeated.

Twenty-five years ago today—in 1940—the U.S. Congress approved the first Selective Service Act; the Japanese admiralty apologized for the bombing of the Canadian liner Empress of Britain; Luftwaffe attacks on London and RAF attacks on invasion ports continued.

Balance of Power

Times Of London

Most outside observers have seen political power in Indonesia as being divided between the Communists, with President Sukarno's backing, the balance lest either side should overwhelm the other. Over the past year this balance seemed to have gone awry, with the Communists in each case, Indonesian armed forces are not united in their anti-Communism, but those of the Army and the air force. The latest Communist move is the demand for the arming of a peasant social commissioner — a demand which the army has brusquely rejected. The Chinese may not mind how soon Indonesia finds her "justice and prosperity" or how soon the Communist party wins unrestricted power. They are more interested, as they look ahead, in fashioning a present usefulness as an ally on the world stage.

Keep Close Tab on Events To Ascertain Asthma Cause

By JOSEPH C. MOLNER, M.D.

(THIS IS THE SECOND OF A SERIES OF TWO ARTICLES)

Yesterday we discussed the many causes of asthma, now, what can we do to relieve it?

First — and this is not always easy — we must eliminate or at any rate evaluate, conditions which simulate asthma: Emphysema, scarring of lung tissue, heart disease, and, certainly, any chronic infection which may be inflaming the breathing passages and hindering the space for air flow. The first two may present little improvement; the latter two may yield dramatic results under medication.

Where none of these is involved, and, particularly when the asthma has been present through much of the patient's lifetime, what can we do about true asthma?

Smoking is absolutely taboo.

If the patient is extremely overweight, reduce.

The most promising source of relief is finding what allergies may be present. Just as a "food allergy" is an exciting way of tracking down some allergies, you should also keep a careful record of events that precede asthma attacks.

More than food can be involved. The animal dander you may have? Does it occur when one is cleaning house? It may be a dust sensitivity.

Attacks can be triggered by medicines, or cosmetics. Give special attention to any drugs if the asthma developed after the age of 30 or so; food allergies are more likely to be apparent early in life.

Drugs can be given by mouth, inhalation, or in the form of suppositories to relieve the spasm of the bronchial tubes. If they don't relieve the asthma entirely, at least they make the patient more comfortable, and thereby lessen some of the emotional tensions. It helps to know that you can get at least some relief from a severe attack.

Strictly Personal

Professional Can Judge Speedily

By SYDNEY J. HARRIS

If a layman walked into an operating room, picked up a scalpel, and began to hack away at the patient on the table, how long do you suppose it would take before the doctors and nurses realized the man was no surgeon?

Not more than a few seconds, of course. The same holds true for any profession. Mark Twain, who was a Mississippi pilot for some years, once said he could pick up a sea story and know in a paragraph whether the author had ever worked on a ship.

My friends are so often shocked when I read a few pages from a new book, and then say it is down with the supreme conviction that it is not worth reading. "How can you tell it's no good until you try it?" they ask.

But this is precisely what distinguishes the professional from the amateur. I flatter myself that I can tell in 20 minutes if a play has anything to offer, and in a dozen pages if a book is worthy reading.

Last night, for instance, I picked up a new book that had been send to me by the publisher. It dealt with words, a subject I am naturally most interested in.

The opening paragraph of the book is the author's preface, told me all I needed to know. He wrote, "A statement that is often attributed to the proverbial 'man in the street' is that . . . " And I put the book away.

In the first place, the phrase "man in the street" is not proverbial. It is colloquial, and it is lazy. No seasoned writer would use it so loosely.

In the second place, no real writer would put the phrase in quotation marks. If it is worth using, it is worth using in itself. The quotation marks simply signify that the author is slightly ashamed of using so shopworn a phrase, and hopes to take the curse off it by enclosing it in quotes.

Minor matters? Perhaps. But not to a professional. The trained ear can smell bad writing as quickly as the layman can smell a bad egg. And it isn't necessary to devour half the egg in order to know it.

One reason that drama critics become the bitter and jaded creatures they often turn into is that duty forces them to sit through three and four acts of a play, when they knew by 9 o'clock that it was a wasted evening.

We all want parlor diagnoses from our doctors, and curbstone opinions from our lawyers. But we resent it when the professions of letters tells us in a moment what it takes a whole evening to find out for ourselves.

words they borrow, like bifteck or pique-nique. To do likewise in English would not be unfriendly. To speak more than one language is great. But it's just as great to speak no more than one at a time.

The Language Of Revolution

Ottawa Journal

One of life's small irritations would be lessened if, before the next revolution in Latin America, radio and television news commentators would look up "junta" in an English pronouncing dictionary. Announcers insist on making it sound like "boonta," which is right if one is speaking Spanish. But "junta" is an English word, too, pronounced the way it looks, with a "j" as in "jabber" and an "unt" as in "grunt." The same applies to many other words which have been assimilated into English. The listener's ear is jarred and his train of attention derailed by an announcer suddenly veering into an attempt to speak another tongue with different rhythm and intonation. The French, who take language seriously, quickly give French pronunciation and even spelling to

Happiness Is Where You Find It

Dutton Advance

Listening to evangelist Billy Graham on television the other night we heard him utter some truths to which everyone could give considerable thought.

He was speaking in Hawaii which he claimed was the ameniest state to explore. Even climate-wise, this he had experienced. Yet, there, too, one finds a measure of discontent, loneliness, and unhappiness. Graham also pointed out that San Francisco, a city of great appeal to many, has the highest suicide rate in the world. In the evangelist's opinion happiness comes not so much from one's location but rather on one's attitude toward life.

Ask anyone in a small town what he would like about living in the big city, and he'll probably talk about professional hockey games, wrestling matches, night clubs and the like. He may point out that the one night of the week there is something doing for them is fortunate enough to live in the city.

Ask any big city man what he would like about living in a small town and he'll probably tell you about restful living, working a short distance from home, and the pleasure of talking over the latest fishing with the neighbors.

In practice, however, it doesn't always work out that way.

After a hard day at the office and a tough battle with traffic on the way home, the city man is often too tired to take in a night at the opera or an evening on the town.

The small town fellow often finds himself so involved in good works and the social round that he doesn't have time for a life of leisure. He prefers to have meetings to go to which keep him out most nights of the week, and his actions are subject to much closer scrutiny than in a larger centre.

This all goes to prove that happiness is where you find it, that life elsewhere may not be always what it appears. The Eskimo in his igloo might easily be a happier man than a native on a tropical isle.

Art of Being Unreasonable

North Bay Nugget

Here's an item you might want to show the boss if you've been rubbing edges with him lately.

According to Prof. Paul Pigors of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, autocracy is complete without its quota of non-conformists and eccentrics and generally unreasonable.

"A reasonable man rocks no boats," he says. "He is content to go along with things as they exist. But the unreasonable man is a disembodied worry who will come up with new ideas."

But don't expect it to have much effect on the boss. How do you think he got where he is today? By being reasonable?

Claims Judge Proceeded on Bad Principles

WHITEHORSE, Y.T. (CP)—Decision was reserved Monday in the Crown's appeal against a nominal sentence given a former superintendent of the Yukon Indian agency.

The British Columbia and Yukon Appeal Court hopes to announce a decision today in the case of William E. Grant, convicted in June on six counts of misusing federal funds.

The Crown had appealed Mr. Justice John Aikins' decision on each of the six counts on the ground that Mr. Justice Parker had proceeded on wrong principles in minimizing the seriousness of the offences.

N. V. K. Wylie, Crown counsel, said the trial judge had "violated almost every rule of the imposition of sentences in such cases." He objected not only to the nominal fine but to the judge "lauding Grant for what he did."

The former Indian agent, he said, had used cash relief cheques, endorsed in the name of various Indians, in the Yukon, to pay for construction of Indian housing, installation of plumbing, running water line to an Indian village, setting up an Indian co-operative store and other purposes.

SAYS TRUST BETRAYED

"His motives may have been of the highest but he betrayed his trust," Mr. Wylie said. "A thief who steals of necessity is still a thief."

When Chief Justice H. I. Bird suggested that Mr. Grant might have been prepared to become a martyr in order to emphasize the poor living conditions of the Indians in his agency, Mr. Wylie replied:

"Maybe, but where did his responsibility lie? It was his duty to carry out the wishes of his superiors. It was not his duty to forge cheques and use this cash for other purposes than Parliament had approved."

Defence counsel James L. King argued that the Crown had failed to show what error in principle the judge had committed by the trial judge.

Mr. King said the trial judge had the three principles of protection of public, deterrent to others and reformation of accused definitely in mind when he pronounced sentence on Grant. He said Indian neglect in the Yukon led Crown to take action knowing he was sacrificing his career.

The chief justice agreed that the trial judge was justified in applying local knowledge of conditions but felt concerned only with whether greater or lesser sentence should be imposed.

New Regulations on Marketing Go Into Effect Wednesday

OTTAWA (CP)—New federal regulations governing the marketing of fresh fruit and vegetables go into effect Sept. 15, the agriculture department announced on the weekend.

The regulations provide grade standards for 30 kinds of fruit and vegetables of commercial significance in Canada and set marking, packaging and inspection requirements to govern the production, preservation, export and import trade.

Grades are being introduced for a shiller-peer, brussels sprouts, field and greenhouse cucumbers and greenhouse tomatoes. These, along with sweet corn, for which grading was optional previously, will be subject to grading, packing and marking requirements and to inspection and certification if they are exported out of Canada.

A number of changes have been made in grade standards.

For potatoes a new requirement for Canada No. 1 grade stipulates that, at time of packing, at least 65 per cent of the tubers must be free of blemishes which would not be removed by peeling.

Grade tolerances for apples have been tightened.

Under the new regulations, slower skin pearmain will be tolerated in fruit contained in boxes, trays or cell-type packages, and the peremaile is the amount of russeting has been reduced. In addition, Canada Extra Fancy and Canada Fancy grades must be free of storage scald in the first two weeks after packaging.

Jean Marchand Will Resign From Board

OTTAWA (CP) — Jean Marchand, who plans to run as a Liberal candidate in the Nov. 8 election, informed the prime minister's office Monday he will resign from the royal commission on bilingualism and biculturalism.

The prime minister's office said Mr. Marchand had been received from Mr. Marchand in Montreal, saying his letter of resignation will follow shortly.

The former labor leader told the press conference in Montreal Friday he had decided to seek the Liberal nomination in one of the Quebec City ridings.

Mr. Marchand was appointed to the royal commission by the Pearson government July 22, 1963, along with the nine other members.

His departure will reduce French - Canadian representation on the commission to three —Co-Chairmen Andre Laurendeau, editor of Montreal Le Devoir; Montreal journalist Jean-Louis Gagnon, and Rev. Clermont Cormier, president of the University of Moncton.

Four Elderly People Beaten By Gunmen

CLARENCE, Ont. (CP) — Four elderly people were robbed and beaten in their home Monday night by four masked and armed men who demanded to know where they kept their money.

Clyde Wilson and his three spinster sisters Lucy, Florence and Muriel were cut and bruised in the attack. They were reported in good condition today.

The four intruders broke into the Wilson home in this small community 25 miles east of Ottawa, shot the family dog, pulled a telephone from the wall and smashed most of the lights.

Neighbors said there had been rumors that the Wilsons, all around 70 years of age, kept "quite a pile" of money in the house. Police said the four men ransacked the house without finding anything of value.

Provincial police set up roadblocks over a wide area in an all-night search for the men.

First word of the attack came after Lucy Wilson managed to loosen the heavy cord used to tie her up. She freed her brother and sisters. She then ran a neighbor's home with blood streaming down her face and her hands torn and bleeding.

Teacher Says Wedding Will Cost Him Job

WELLAND (CP) — Stephen Ryan, 27, a Roman Catholic separate school teacher, says he has been fired by the principal of Notre Dame College School here for marrying a divorcee.

Mr. Ryan said he was called to the office of the principal, Rev. Kenneth Burns, Sept. 6 and told that because of a classroom would "illustrate a way of life that Roman Catholic education does not condone."

Paul Forestell, the school's lawyer, said Mr. Ryan had not been fired or suspended. "He is still on salary," he said, "but he is not performing his duties at the moment. The issue is being settled by the school's lawyer and Mr. Ryan's lawyer."

NEEDS NOTICE

Mr. Forestell said written notice would have to be given Mr. Ryan before he could be fired.

Mr. Ryan said he was given no written reason for his dismissal and was told by Father Burns that he was excommunicated.

A. C. Ede, separate school board chairman, said it would be standard practice to dismiss any teacher from Notre Dame who had violated the church's credo as Mr. Ryan had.

Mr. Ryan said he planned to see Education Minister William Davis today to appeal the school's decision.

Last Friday, he said, the separate school board's lawyer offered him a $1,000 cash settlement plus $100 to help cover his legal expenses appealing his dismissal.

Norwegian Socialists Lose Office

OSLO (Reuters)—The Norwegian political scene took on a completely new pattern Monday after the Labor party was swept from office following almost 30 years of socialist rule.

In a two-day election that ended Monday, a non-socialist coalition of four parties was estimated to have gained a majority of 10 seats over the combined socialist parties in the new Parliament.

Einar Gerhardsen, prime minister for most of the post-war period, conceded defeat in a television appearance with all party leaders early today.

An Ode--or to Folly

Writer's Note: Ode normally means a poem, usually lofty in character, but because the folly described in this ode is so outrageous, it is not worthy of an ode in poetry form and can only be put down in prose form, with no apology to anyone for bursting its name with such dastardly examples of idiocy.

IN THE BEGINNING: It has been brought to my attention several times during the past few weeks that there are certain individuals in this newspaper's editorial department, especially after a recent happening, but yes, despite historical evidence, who are under the utterly false impression that the Ottawa Rough (less) Riders will win a certain cup in a certain 1965 classic.

I find it difficult to believe that anyone entrusted with the monumental assignment of editing such an important social edifice as a newspaper could be guilty of such gargantuan errors of thought — assuming of course that the people in question are capable of any form of thought whatsoever.

But alas, and alack as well — plus one thousand woe is mees — these parchment self-acclaimed intellectuals are — or should that be inepts — insist upon spouting the imagined virtues of their heroes and confuse hanging onto their fond dreams of Ottawa players clutching greatly to the headline of that famous cup for which the whole thing is about in the first place.

The whole affair, for sheer idiocy, outstretches any example ever before recorded in history. Even the Hunchback of Notre Dame, the epitome of stupidity were he alive today, could not, if he were to garner up all his fantastic couple of imbecility, make it by infinity, come to the conclusion that Ottawa could even so much as represent the east let alone win (Oh I choke to think of it) the Grey Cup.

But there is some hope, though of a very limited nature. Because I am burdened with such an overwhelming degree of compassion for poor, underprivileged persons, such as these perpetrators of this fantastic folly, I am willing to accept a public apology, voiced on a soap box in the middle of Front Street at the four corners during rush hour, from the guilty persons and thus put an end to the folly before it is too late.

Whether I receive this apology or not, and along with it the reconstruction from these persons in question that the Hamilton Tiger Cats, those glorious representatives of pigskin might from the Steel City, certainly will represent the east in the fall classic, is in doubt, though probably, for reasons previously outlined, those persons probably lack the mental power to comprehend the error of their ways and will most likely continue groping about their self-made path to eventual damnation.

Besides the editor and city editor of this establishment, I have been given to understand that a certain sports editor is in cahoots with this group of dreamers.

It is too sad for more.

THE END: But here I shall rest my case. For in the word of Thomas Fuller, not that I couldn't use my own words — could even consult Colonel Bishop's Concise-a-was one thousand times — but a prophet isn't appreciated at home, "Where ignorance is bliss 'tis folly to be wise."

And to the people in question here, and they know who they are, ignorance is indeed bliss.

Editor's Note: Nuts to you buh; you are on obituaries for six weeks.

City Editor's Note: I concur completely with the editor's sentiments.

Writer's Note: The proof is in the pudding. Even when confronted with their mistakes, they continue. For shame.

Susanna: Do hope my little contribution will help others as much as I have by a helped through your column:

Through the years I've come to the conclusion that glass jars are about the best for storing cereals, cookies, etc. When preparing these for future use I wash and dry the jars well, then roll up paper toweling in a ball, toss it inside and reload. Next time I need a jar, I know that the ones with the paper towel balls are clean, odor-free and dry. This is truly a fine idea, and saves extra washing at jelly and jam preserv i n g time.

For cottagers, or those who live in areas where regular garbage collection is never a certainty, dispose of canned goods by removing both ends of the tin, place them in the can's round part and squash by stepping on it. Doing this saves a great deal of space in most people who are living in out-of-the-way places or are camping, or have large quantities of tinned products.

My trips from the cottage to the town dump have been cut to a minimum by stacking flat cans in a carton. M i g h t mention that it is also wise to rinse the cans well before fastening them so that ants won't be attracted by food particles left inside. — N. R. Milligan.

Catch-cans-as-catch-can . . . A Non Onion Omel — SUSANNA

I KEEP IT COOL — NO TEARS!

Dear Susanna: It seems that people are always crying over their onions — not I — . Try my solution:

Keep one or two onions in the fridge at all times. Replace as you use them. Apparently a cold onion doesn't release its sad fumes.

I also use this method at picking time by putting the whole bag in the refrigerator and taking out about two cupfuls at a time as I prepare them.

If you publish my suggestion, please send me a copy. — Mrs. Jean Pugh, Lindsay.

OATMEAL LACE COOKIES

The bottom of the cookie box shows up quickly these days. Jennifer, 3, can climb over the garden fence, open the side screen door, climb up to the kitchen cupboard and open the box. She scuttles back to the garden like a squirrel, clutching eighteen tasty cookies as her little hands can manage and shares them with expectant Douglas.

TUESDAY

Dinner Menu by Mary Moore

Beef Pancakes (see Monday); Chili Mac; Creamed Broccoli or Cauliflower in Cheese Sauce; Relish Tray; Green Pepper Rings and Cucumber Slices; Steamed Peach Pudding; Lemon-Nutmeg Sauce; Coffee.

So you are getting more than your share of lemons these days. This time it is Oatmeal Lace Cookies with a coconut variation. This selection was made because we had a request for them. Margaret did the testing for me. She is a fine cook and did every step with as much care as any food researcher could require.

OATMEAL LACE COOKIES

Yields 4 dozen 2½" - quick and easy - with variation

½ cup unsifted all-purpose flour

¼ teaspoon salt.

¼ teaspoon single-acting baking powder.

½ cup granulated sugar.

2 tablespoons cream.

2 tablespoons corn syrup or golden syrup (Rogers).

½ cup melted butter.

Into your mixing bowl sift the flour, salt, baking powder and sugar. Add the rolled oats, cream, the golden syrup, butter and vanilla. Mix well to blend. (Note: If you want to add the coconut do so now or apportion half of the dough on greased cookie sheets and add only 1 tablespoon coconut to the remaining half of dough). These cookies must be measured on to ungreased cookie sheets. To make 48 2½" - cookies measure dough by level-off measuring teaspoonfuls onto cookie sheets, spacing them 2½" to 3" apart, because lace cookie dough spreads. Bake at 375 deg. Fahr. 5 to 6 minutes, just until edges are gold. Remove from oven and allow to stand for 1 minute, then remove to cooling racks with spatula, and let cool.

Notes: 1) For entertaining you may want to make them smaller - 2" in diameter - so measure only ½ teaspoon dough on to cookie sheets for smaller ones. 2) Thirty seconds after these cookies are taken from the oven they may be rolled, like brandy snaps, around the handle of your wooden spoon, while they are still pliable, and they crispen too much before you have rolled them all, just slip them back into the oven for a few seconds to soften them again.

Architect's Wife Present At Opening

TORONTO (CP)—The opening Monday of Toronto's new city hall was dominated by the women in the crowd.

The man, Viljo Revell, the Finnish architect who designed the building, died 10 months ago.

His widow, a handsome, dark-haired woman, sat unsmiling among the dignitaries on the main platform, obviously under strain at being in the public eye.

Before the ceremony, she told reporters it was impossible to describe her feelings at viewing the building that was her husband's dream. She speaks English well, but with an accent.

An official said Mrs. Revell agreed to come to the ceremony on the promise she wouldn't be bothered. She declined to make any further statements.

She wore a corsage of yellow rosebuds, presented by controller Margaret Campbell, on her white tie silk coat which was worn with matching black accessories.

On the platform before the 15,000 spectators, Prime Minister Pearson and Ontario Premier John Robarts greeted her before exchanging handshakes with other guests. She sat between Nathan Phillips, a former Toronto mayor, and Karl Lunness, Finnish ambassador to Canada.

Ann Landers

Unsightly Moustache Mars Girl's Looks

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I'm a law student at the university here and am very much interested in a charming and brilliant girl in the sociology major. This girl has everything, including something she doesn't need. A moustache.

For the life of me I can't understand how an attractive, well-groomed young woman can be blind to a growth of unsightly hair on her upper lip. Surely she looks in the mirror to apply lipstick. Why doesn't she see it?

If you think this letter is a gag let me assure you I'm dead serious. I've been tempted to say something to her but somehow I can't get the words out. It would be a great service to me and heaven knows how many others, Ann Landers, if you would print my letter and tell me what to do. — U. OF C.

DEAR U: There is no earthly reason for a girl in this day and age to go around looking like Jerry Colonna. If you want to do the young woman a tremendous favor suggest that she buy a bleach which is available in all drug stores, or have the moustache removed permanently by a dermatologist. The procedure is relatively simple and painless.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: My husband and I recently adopted our second child. We couldn't love these little ones any more if they had been born to us. I am writing to ask how to deal with a problem we are faced with again, now that the second baby is in all the time. I am incredible that adults ask such a question, but we get it all the time.

When people see the infant they ask, "Was the mother married?" It so happens the mother was married, but whose business is it anyway? Both my husband and I become terribly irritated when we are asked this question but we try not to show it. We simply reply, "Yes, she was married." Afterward we feel ashamed for answering a question that shouldn't have been asked.

You are adept at putting people down when they need it. How about an answer for these lunkheads? — UP TO HERE WITH IT.

DEAR UP TO: Such a tasteless question is best answered with a question. Look the clod in the eye and say, "Now why do you suppose the world would you be interested to know that? What difference would it possibly make to you?" And don't let them off easily. Press for an answer.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: You've had just about every imaginable type of man and wife problem in your column—mine, I hope you can come up with a solution. I'm really at the end of my rope.

Lyle and I had always gotten along fine until four months ago when his company put table tennis in the cafeteria. We played a little now and then. Since Lyle gets off work at 4:30. He used to be home at 5:00 and have dinner on the table by 7:00 I am surprised. There's no point in asking him to be more considerate of me and the children. He says a man has to have an outlet for his energies and I should consider myself lucky he isn't doing other things.

Maybe he is right, but it does seem a bit one-sided. Any help you can offer will be greatly appreciated. — SECOND FIDDLE TO A LITTLE WHITE BALL.

DEAR FIDDLE: Surprise Lyle with a table tennis set and take up the game at once. If you have some friendly neighbors, doubles are fun, too.

MEXICO CITY (Reuters)—A recent New York appeals court ruling that Mexican divorces were valid, although seen here as good advertisement for the "divorce boom industry," has given instant divorces under heavy fire.

For more than 30 years Mexico's northern border states have supplied legally authentic divorces to A to Z on request. These required only a brief visit by one of the parties and a fiveminute appearance in a Mexican court.

Fees averaged around $500 for the lawyer. It was estimated that in Ciudad Juarez alone, the border city of Chihuahua State, about 10,000 American citizens shed their partners every year.

Chihuahua allows divorces on about 20 grounds and is therefore the most popular state for would-be divorcees.

On the fringe of the legal operation, shadier businesses employ phoney divorce lawyers for as little as $50. These are said nowhere, but can serve their purpose where the "divorce" is by mutual consent.

But, as lawyers here, "quickie" divorces granted to Americans in Mexico are not valid in the United Stat. This is because Mexican federal laws require foreigners to be legal residents before they divorce, that is, to reside considerably longer than a one-hour visit to Ciudad Juarez.

The authorities in the northern states, however, have long wanted a blind eye on this statute because of the steady harvest of dollars.

Victor Velasquez, a leading Mexican lawyer, has issued a warning here that the New York ruling does not amount to automatic confirmation of all divorces obtained by Americans in Mexico.

Stating that the ruling is on strictly those divorces obtained with the consent of both parties and then in special conditions," he said: "Every divorce, if challenged, would have to be settled on its own merits."

Burning Rectal Itch Relieved In Minutes

This Special Hemorrhoid Remedy Contains a Unique Healing Substance That Relieves Pain As It Shrinks Hemorrhoids

One of the most common afflictions is a condition known as "Itching Piles". It is almost embarrassing for the sufferer relating the day and especially aggravating at night.

If you want satisfactory relief — here's good news. A recent research laboratory has found a unique healing substance with the ability to promptly relieve the burning itch and pain. It actually shrinks hemorrhoids. This substance has been shown to produce a most effective rate of healing. Its pain-killing properties also help prevent infection.

In one hemorrhoid case after another "very striking improvement" was reported. This improvement was maintained over a period of months! Among these sufferers were a wide variety of hemorrhoid conditions — from cases of long standing.

This was accomplished by a new healing substance (Bio-Dyne)—developed by a well-known research institution. This substance is now obtainable in ointment or suppository form known as Preparation H. Ask for Preparation H Suppositories (convenient to carry if away from home) or Preparation H Ointment with special applicator. Available at all drug counters. Satisfaction or your money refunded.

Kennedy's Mother Accepts Award on Behalf of All Retarded Children

TORONTO (CP) — Mrs. Joseph Kennedy accepted the first International Award of the Canadian Association for Retarded Children Monday night on behalf of all the people who have been working for years to improve the lot of the mentally handicapped.

Mrs. Kennedy, 75, was guest of honor at a black-tie dinner and ball attended by 1,000 persons.

She accepted a $15,000,000 National Canadian Crusade for Retarded Children. Speakers included Governor - General Georges Vanier, Prime Minister Pearson and Premier John Robarts.

Mrs. Kennedy, mother of assassinated president John F. Kennedy, called on Canada to support the more than 900 guests to help financially and by spreading the knowledge which the Kennedy Foundation for the Retarded has helped to gather. The $25,000,000 collection has donated $100,000 to the CARC.

Mrs. Kennedy said she hoped other mothers of retarded children would take courage from the fact that her own retarded daughter Rosemary, 46, was born 18 months after the boy who was to become a United States president, and before six other normal children. She said many women fear all their children may be retarded.

She urged her audience to persuade pregnant women to have medical attention all through their pregnancies because research has shown the nine months after conception to be the most important in a child's life.

A presentation was made to Mrs. Kennedy of a painting of Mount Kennedy in the Yukon, named to honor her late son and recently climbed by Senator Robert Kennedy, his brother. The artist, Mario Moderodysti of Milan, had been flown to the mountain by helicopter to make sketches and take photographs.

At a press conference, she described herself as "the daughter of a Boston lawyer, the wife of an ambassador and the mother of a president," and as back seat than to the limelight.

Successful Living

Sulky, Moody Husband Difficult Living With

DEAR DORIS: As I read your wonderful column last night and read the letter from Desperate and In Love, I thought I'd write and tell you, that I think you gave this girl excellent advice. You will remember that she and her fiance found that they couldn't talk to each other. I hope for her sake she doesn't marry this man.

I married a young man 24 years ago. I knew he was moody and had a hot quick temper but I loved him. I wrote to you a year ago and you suggested that we see a counsellor but I just couldn't lay bare my troubles to them and my husband would probably have a heart attack on the spot!

DORIS CLARK

However, the third last time he had one of his pouting spells I told him I had had enough and as soon as our two children had finished their education I was going to leave him. This was a shock and he was quite humbled but after a few weeks was just the same. Any little thing can trigger off his temper, as he is a perfectionist — especially in other people.

I think it is very hard on children as they can't be expected just to jump every time someone speaks. I started out, and still do, waiting on him hand and foot, I would just love to have lots of friends drop in and have a visit with us but that is also out.

I certainly try to keep up a good front to the children, but they are sensitive to the atmosphere and can sense when things hit a snag. — A VERY INTERESTED READER.

DEAR VERY INTERESTED: Thank you. Sulkiness, moodiness, are hard to live with. But you gave up too easily. Would you expect a single bath to last a lifetime?

Since you got results, why not keep up the good work? Remember, you do this only father-fed-love a great favor when you hold to your stand and thus help him to free himself from the ravages of his own bad temper.

And the benefits which would ensue to you and your young people are incalculable.

DEAR DORIS: I am asking you to do me a favor. We are very lonely pensioners and we've got to make our own fun. They want me to make candy and they told me to write to you. They want me to make fudge and mints and toffee.

Please, Doris, do your best to get these candy recipes for me, to make them and me very happy. I want to make them for picnics to eat out in the park; lots of fun for old people. — MRS. J.M.

DEAR MRS. J.M.: I must say it's handy to have a candy-cooking sister. She has typed out for me her best recipes for creamy fudge, mints and Everton toffee. They are on their way to you and may be had by anyone writing in and enclosing ten cents and a stamped, self-addressed envelope.)

Confidential to URGENT: Full marks to you for buying sensibly; and the sooner you can make good decisions about your dresses, the better. But at 14 I'd say advice from an older sister might have a good deal to recommend it. Why not listen carefully — then make your own decision? Two heads just could be better than one.

Confidential to NAIL BITER: There are ways to stop, but I cannot repeat this in this column. Send me a stamped, self-addressed envelope and repeat your question.

THE LITTLE WOMAN

"I think it's trying to tell us something."

All Eyes Look Down to Flattering Fall Shoes

With all eyes on legs this season, leather shoe fashions are styled to flatter the foot and the leg.

Toes are rounding out to a comfortable new width in fall shoes of soft, lightweight leathers.

From the shallowest shell to the tallest boot, there are leathers of every texture — gleaming polished leathers and velvety suede, interesting grains and embossings, plushy brushed leathers and slick patent leather. These are artfully used alone or in combination.

SLINGS, SANDALS, WALK INTO FALL.

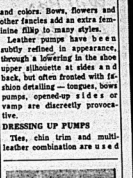
Elegantly engineered slings and sandals walk into fall and winter. Sling-backs of every width, shape and leather texture complement well-bred winter costumes. With pretty coats and suits, graceful slim-heeled slings in clear-tinted or neutral leather shades step forth. For tailored tastes, there are more severe sling-back styles — including the shoe with Chanel tip — in dark or natural shades of leather and on lower, broader heels.

Fall sandals include shoes of delicate smooth leather strippings, or simply a wide swath of suede. Straps "T" off, or span the instep or vamp.

For at-home occasions (from dinner for two to a Saturday night bash), tasteful sandals and mules come in all leathers and colors. Bows, flowers and other fancies add an extra feminine flair to many styles.



Leather pumps have been subtly refined in appearance, through a lowering in the shoe upper silhouette at sides and back, but often fronted with fashion detailing — tongues, bows pumps, opened-up sides or vamp are discreetly provocative.

DRESSING UP PUMPS

Ties, chin trim and multi-leather combination are used on casual or dress pumps in a variety of ways.

In a few short seasons, leather boots and boot-shoes have become an active part of fall fashion for everything from skiing to tasting.

The below-calf white leather boot popularized by Courreges is still with us, joined by similar styles in colored smooth and suede leathers. Other boots: from knee to ankle levels; feature lacing, gored insets, cuffs and chains.

Rivard

lawyers, after losing one round in the tactical battle Monday, opened up an avenue for a possible later claim that the court has no jurisdiction to try the charges — a claim already ruled out once by trial Judge Ben C. Connally.

Judge Connally ruled against the defence Monday when it sought a postponement of the trial, making no mention at all Rivard's lawyer had not had enough time to talk with him since his extradition to Canada on July following his recapture from his now-celebrated Border Jail break.

The defence reply was to declare the prisoners "mute" — that is, refusing no-trial tactic — refusal to acknowledge the court's jurisdiction. That leaves the defence room to renew its protest over jurisdiction.

COURT ENTERS PLEAS

The court entered not guilty pleas for the 30-year-old Rivard, Charles Emile Groleau, 28, a French-Montreal lad described by the prosecution as Rivard's "executive officer"; Allyn Gaston Lavoie, 25, of Quebec, and Joseph Raymond Roux, 28, both described as Montreal salesmen.

The powerfully-built Rivard, central figure in Canada's Doucet inquiry into influence-swapping, took a lively interest in the proceedings Monday, throughout the long indictment with horrorstrimmed glasses and watching the lawyers closely. He also displayed no particular curiosity, though, when guards wheeled in the evidence — including the 78 pounds of heroin worth a major fortune.

His auburn-haired wife Marie, who flew here Friday from Montreal and secured another name at a motel a few blocks away from the federal building, watched from the front row of the thinly-occupied spectator seats.

Through the evidence of Caron and federal officials who made the seizure here, the defence hinted at a line of attack: idea of objectives, winning some and losing some on procedural points. Most of these were directed at "irrelevancy" of a stack of prosecution exhibits.

THE INTERPRETER

But continual defence complaints that it was impossible to understand Caron's rapid-fire and French - accented English testimony ended with Judge Connally to have him testify through an interpreter from Montreal, a Mrs. Gendron, testifying by. But when Caron was asked at the outset in English whether he had had "business relations" with the defendants, he was understandable and blunt. "Yes," he replied succinctly, "smuggling narcotics."

The old brick courthouse Rivard is guarded in the manner of a frontier Fort Knox. Plainclothes U.S. marshals and immigration border patrol men with six-guns swinging from the hip pop out around every corner. Rivard had his hands manacled behind his back when four armed guards — one carrying a shotgun —brought him into the court building from nearby Webb County Jail early in the day. Reporters had to identify themselves to get past a steel mesh door onto the courtroom floor.

In Moscow, a statement distributed by Tass news agency seemed to criticize China for siding with Pakistan and for risking the renewed threat of border hostilities with India.

Rusk advised Peiping to "stay out" of the conflict and added: "I think there are those who feel that China is fishing in these waters."

Meanwhile, a new Chinese statement accused Thant of acting as "Washington's political broker" in his peacekeeping efforts. Peiping charged the United Nations with "dealing out a two to help the Indian reactionaries."

CONFERS WITH MINISTER

Thant conferred in New Delhi with Indian Foreign Minister Swaran Singh Monday. Later he held privately with New Delhi charge d'affaires in New Delhi, Alexei A. Rodionov, about the possibility of Thant's returning to New York via Moscow, a UN source said. There were reports Thant would go to see Soviet Premier Kosygin.

Police Hunt 2 Armed Thugs In Robbery

OTTAWA (CP) — Police are searching for two armed thugs who robbed a department store of businessmen and his wife of some $14,000 in cash and travellers' cheques Saturday night.

Christopher T. Thomas, president of Thomas Products Corp., Ltd. and Thomas Supply and Equipment Co. Ltd., was pistol whipped by one of the bandits who broke into the executive's apartment.

Mr. Thomas is the father of internationally - known horsewoman, Mrs. Shirley Nelson.

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas had been watching television when the two men pried open a door. Mrs. Thomas was gagged with tape and so her husband struggled with the men as he was struck on the head.

Apartheid Will Be Attacked

By WILLIAM NEVILLE
OTTAWA (CP)—The 54th inter-parliamentary conference is expected to denounce South African apartheid today for the racist policies of apartheid.

A draft resolution branding apartheid "a grave crime against humanity" is one of four scheduled to come before the conference for formal vote.

The resolution, prepared by a committee on "self-governing territories and all colonial questions," charges that the government of South Africa has maintained apartheid in defiance of numerous declarations on human rights.

It calls on the conference to "strongly condemn" the republic's government and asks members' parliamentarians to push their own governments to implement United Nations' resolutions calling for sanctions and other action against South Africa.

Other resolutions to come to a vote today approve closer ties with the United Nations Economic and Social Council, urge member countries to share in an exchange of television programs with "progressive educational values in a humanitarian sense," and call for an all-out effort, led by the United Nations, to tackle the world population problem.

By conference order, all four votes will be taken without prior debate.

Before the votes are called, a further plenary session will be held on a draft resolution on prospects for improved international economic relations. It urges a swift and large-scale increase in technical assistance on a no-strings basis and the earnest attempt by all nations to ease trade barriers.

Monday's debate on this crisis-ridden centred on demands by the developing countries for more stable markets and prices for primary products. Several delegates from Africa and Asia argued that, with their economies closely linked to one or two such products, no real progress could be made unless they can get a far greater return from exports.

CANADIAN HITS HARD

One of the hardest hitting speeches of the day came from Colin Cameron, the NDP member for Nanaimo-Cowichan-The Islands and one of the few election-bound Canadian MPs who have remained at the conference.

Mr. Cameron emphasized that, while the "have" nations have a responsibility to approach international economic development with the proper attitude, the recipient nations also have a responsibility to use foreign aid it is used for the proper purposes.

"Those who represent the Africans and Asians," said Mr. Cameron, "must be able to assure us that our workers are not being asked to subsidize millionaire adventurers, that their contributions will go towards making children happier and healthier and better educated, not to fill the pockets of politicians and generals."

The New Democrat MP made a direct appeal to India and Pakistan to end their war over Kashmir and get on with the fight against their joint enemies of poverty, ignorance and disease.

mental retardation. They largely involve research.

"Here are some areas in which we and deserves our full support," Mr. Pearson said. The dinner at the Royal York Hotel was a colorful climax to Mr. Pearson's day in Toronto.

The Progressive Conservative Party, provided features and red-coated Mounties escorted were spread throughout the room.

It was Mr. Pearson's first public trip outside the capital since he called the Nov. 8 election last Tuesday.

Sandwiched around his public appearances, Mr. Pearson held a number of separate private meetings with party people, including Finance Minister Gordon; Robert Winters, chairman of the British Newfoundland Corp. Ltd. (Brinco), Leonard (Red) Kelly, Liberal member for York West, and Defence Minister Hellyer.

MAY NOT RUN

There has been some talk that Kelly, the star winger for the Toronto Maple Leafs of the National Hockey League, may not run again. He is a hard-some majority in the 1963 federal election.

The proposed hydro-electric power project at Churchill Falls, Labrador came up in the discussion with Mr. Winters. "It wanted to get a report on Churchill Falls," Mr. Pearson said.

Brinco would be the developer of the giant project if Newfoundland and Quebec reach agreement on transmitting the power.

Mr. Pearson flew here Monday morning from Ottawa in a privately-chartered Viscount, and returns the same way today. After a few days at home, he's on the road again, flying to his home riding of Algoma East for his nomination on Saturday and some grass-roots campaigning.

The official kick-off for the Liberal campaign is set for Sept. 21. But informants say the Liberal star will be Mr. Pearson's trip to his Northern Ontario riding.

Mr. Pearson's city hall cavalcade-mounted Mounties, a band, a platoon of a cramp and a chill. He said he had been hoist, went to bed, and missed the wind-up dinner which she was scheduled to attend.

Soviet-Chinese Relations May Plunge to New Low In India-Pakistan Conflict

By WILLIAM L. RYAN
Associated Press Correspondent

The armed conflict between India and Pakistan over Kashmir seems likely to plunge Soviet - Chinese relations to a new low.

The Russians, Sitzery over the possible consequences of a new war in Asia, have taken extraordinary measures to direct the world's attention to their demands for restoration of peace.

The latest official Soviet government statement can hardly be interpreted as anything other than a stern lecture to the Chinese, warning them that meddling in the India - Pakistan conflict may "cause the present developments to escalate into a serious bigger conflagration."

China is not mentioned by name, but Moscow speaks of imperialist states "which could push India and Pakistan "toward further aggravation of the military conflict."

By implication, Moscow suggests China has taken a dangerous course.

DEPLORE INCITEMENT

"Those whose inciting statements, which sometimes sound up, the conflict must be warned by the entire world, by all states, bear a heavy responsibility for such actions," the statement says.

Nobody outside the contending sides in the subcontinent is making inflammatory statements except China and, perhaps, its partner in Southeast Asia, Indonesia. Peiping has applied pressure on India's borders, making inflammatory anti-Indian statements and attacking United Nations efforts to mediate the dispute. Indonesia is permitting anti - Malaysia violence in its own country.

Moscow says no country has a right to add fuel to the fire, because of the dangers inherent in the Asian situation. The statement says that outside meddling might mean eventually the United States might find themselves drawn into the conflict one by one.

The statement implies that such activity helps "U.S. imperialism," which can exploit the events to distract world attention from the other war in Viet Nam, but this seems like a device to justify the Soviet - Red Chinese attitude. Obviously the United States is just as anxious to end the fighting as the Soviet Union.

The Chinese Communists have been deriding the Russian Communists for their attitude toward world affairs and their policy statements on the Kashmir Pakistan conflict are likely to bring another Peiping blast-back and new accusations against those the Chinese call "the Khrushchev revisionist clique." Now, the Chinese insist, is inhibiting revolution by spreading the word that small wars can lead to big ones.

In this case, the Soviet Union once again finds itself saying that small wars are dangerous and that outside meddling in them makes them even more dangerous. It has issued two official government statements along these lines, has called a for special press conferences to emphasize its position and has offered its good offices in any attempt at mediation in the Asian subcontinent.

He showed the students a copy of what he described as a campaign document, dated Aug. 31, for Liberal party workers.

It outlined as a weakness to the Liberal party "a disenchantment of youth, especially in the universities."

Mr. Diefenbaker said the prime minister had admitted in a broadcasting book extract to an interview in which he was quoted as saying there was no connection between the loss of the student vote and the party advice to campaign workers that student support had slipped.

The delegation called upon Mr. Diefenbaker to discuss university financial problems.

"That will be a major element in the campaign," the delegates were told.

Conservative policy was to help with capital grants for university students, to $3 from $2.

This should be enough o balance the university fees.

Even the per capita increase wouldn't be enough for New Brunswick and Nova Scotia universities, Mr. Diefenbaker said, and allowances would have to be made for them.

Union President Pat Kennedy of Loyola College, Montreal, and Lloyd Crowdis, Dalhousie Good, a University of Manitoba student, said they are to meet Prime Minister Pearson Thursday on the same subject.

Two Released In Shooting Death of Girl

TORONTO (CP) — Terence Barbee, 18, and Gerry Hosser, 19, both of Buffalo, were released by police Monday night after intensive questioning in the shooting death of 17-year-old Rosalie Elaine Graham Monday afternoon.

The shooting took place in Miss Graham's second - floor downtown apartment. Police said she had been shot through the head and they found an 20-caliber semi-automatic carbine in the apartment.

Miss Graham and two men had been alone in the apartment at the time, police said. The girl was babysitting for Mrs. Margaretha Arthur, 28, of Toronto, they said.

An inquest has been ordered for this afternoon.

Billy Graham Takes Second Trip to Surgery

ROCHESTER, Minn. (AP) — Evangelist Billy Graham was resting in satisfactory condition today after a second trip to emergency and a minor tiff over what that development meant.

Graham, 46, underwent surgery last Thursday for a prostate gland condition. He was taken back to surgery Monday for cauterization of what a Mayo Clinic spokesman said was "a tiny blood vessel."

The spokesman said bleeding occurs in about one in 100 cases and is not considered serious.

Rev. Grady Wilson, associate of Graham in the Billy Graham Evangelistic Association, said earlier Monday he was "deeply concerned."

"We believe now the crisis is over," Wilson said Monday night.

A Mayo Clinic surgeon, who did not permit use of his name, was quoted by the Minneapolis Tribune as accusing Graham's associates of "seeking publicity."

Jury Returns No Bill in Two Cases

KITCHENER (CP)—A grand jury returned no bill in two cases when the Ontario Supreme Court opened here before Mr. Justice Maurice King Monday.

They found there was insufficient evidence to place Mary Ulbarik, a 29-year-old Galt housewife, on trial on charge of manslaughter of her husband, Lajos Ulbarik.

The seven - man jury also decided the Crown had not produced sufficient evidence against Gordon Spiegelberg of Kitchener, charged with breathalyzing to cause injury or death.

At a March preliminary hearing in Galt, evidence was given that Mr. Ulbarik had 50 times the normal amount of arsenic in his system and was close to acute arsenic poisoning.

Mrs. Ulbarik was arrested in August, 1964, and remanded to the Ontario hospital for examination. In December last year she was certified well. The charge against her was reviewed in February when the hospital released her.

Willie Hits Homer 500; Giants Win

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Willie Mays belted the 500th home run of his major league career Monday night and helped San Francisco Giants increase their lead in the tight National League pennant race.

Mays clouted his 47th homer of the season while Marichal gained his 22nd victory. Combined, they sparked the Giants to their 11th consecutive triumph, one less than the longest winning streak in the majors this year.

The home run for Mays came at the start of the fourth inning on a 3-1 pitch from Don Wilhelm. It tied the game at 1-1 and triggered a four-run rally that put San Francisco ahead to stay.

It also put Mays in a select 500-or-more class with Babe Ruth, 714 homers, Jimmy Foxx, 534, Ted Williams, 521, and Mel Ott, 511.

CAN'T CATCH RUTH

While it is virtually impossible for the 34-year-old Mays to catch Ruth, he could easily pass the other three before the end of next season. He's only 9 behind his 512th, he will become the greatest home run hitter in the National League. Then when he reaches 535, he will be the greatest right-handed home run hitter in both leagues.

Commenting on Ruth's record, Mays said:

"I'll have to average 40 a year to catch up with that guy. I don't think I can do it."

After Mays drove his homer into the centre field stands—he hit the first in his new park in 1961 against Warren Spahn in New York's Polo Grounds—his team-mates mobbed him and congratulated him. Then they went out and secured the victory for Marichal.

It was the third in four decisions for the 26-year-old right-hander since he was suspended eight days for hitting catcher John Roseboro of Los Angeles over the head with a bat.

Marichal, who has lost 10 games, was bested by the Houston club last year but didn't bother him as he scattered eight hits, tying Sandy Koufax as the winningest pitcher in the majors, completing his 24th game and reducing his stingy earned-run average to 1.79.

In the only other NL games, Pittsburgh Pirates dropped Cincinnati Reds 3½ games behind by winning 8-4 and Philadelphia Phillies edged Milwaukee 4-3, sending the Braves five back.

GAME RAINED OUT

The only rained-out American League game, Cleveland at Baltimore, was rained out.

Marichal also permitted two hits to the Giants' attack, driving in a run in the fourth with a single and swiping the other in the sixth. Jim Wynn hit his first homer for Houston in the fifth.

Vernon Law gave up four runs on three hits, including Deron Johnson's two-run homer, in the first inning but held the Giants to only three hits the rest of the way. He wound up winning his 17th game against 7 defeats, while Sammy Ellis dropped his ninth game against 19 victories.

Willie Stargell sparked the Pirates' comeback, driving in three runs with a double and a single. Dr. Ernie Alley contributed a homer, a double and a single.

Clay Dalrymple's seventh-inning homer snapped a 3-3 deadlock and gave the Phillies their fifth straight win. Sammy Ellis pled the game with two runs in the fifth off Milwaukee's Ken Johnson. Dalrymple walked with the bases loaded, forcing in the tying run.

Johnson Ranked Tenth

Clay Beater Joins Chuvalo Crew

TORONTO (CP) — George Chuvalo of Toronto has called in Ameo Johnson, the World Boxing Association's 10th-ranked heavyweight, as a sparring partner for his shot at Ernie Terrell's WBA heavyweight crown.

Chuvalo meets Terrell, of Chicago, at Maple Leaf Gardens this fall, but no definite date has been set.

Johnson, who has a record of 10 wins and a draw in 13 fights after spending three years in the U.S. Army, arrived in Toronto Monday.

The 26-year-old fighter is the first to hold a decision over Cassius Clay, achieved in amateur competition, and is preparing for a proposed fight in England against Henry Cooper.

Chuvalo, who has moved his summer training quarters to Toronto from Gravenhurst, Ont., starts work with Johnson today.

Irv Ungerman, Chuvalo's manager, says he has been under strong pressure to switch the Terrell-Chuvalo bout to Las Vegas to form a double feature urge him to merge the promotion with the Patterson-Clay fight. tions.

He said he had been given an offer in the $100,000 bracket by Bob Nilon of Intercontinental Promotions, Inc., who called him Friday and Saturday. Al Boland, advisor to Patterson, called Ungerman Sunday to Wednesday.

When the Biz Six of the National Hockey League shuffle the shackles of training camps and en sconsolized exhibition schedule avid buffs should not be able to use the time- honored excuse cliche "Shucks, they're not in shape yet."

While many contend that pre-season games rarely are a true measure of a team's strength, the golden boys of professional hockey will have a better concept of how the opposition shapes up.

The league fathers have lined up a pre -season exhibition schedule of 44 games including the 12th annual all - star game to be played in Montreal Wednesday, October 20.

There will be 21 games in which NHL teams will be the sole competing clubs and many of these are certain to give the pre - season depesters a pretty good line on what they can expect once the flurry starts in seriousness after the October all - star tilt.

None of the exhibition games will be played in the west this year because all clubs chose to stay near home in the month preceding the start of the 1965-66 season.

Toronto Maple Leafs open training at Peterborough on September 16th. New York Rangers training at Kingston open camp September 21. Dates and venues of other clubs are: Detroit Red Chicago Stadium Sept. 22; Montreal Canadiens, Montreal Forum, Sept. 24th and Boston Bruins at London, Ont., Sept. 26.

The New York Rangers will play Houston in Kingston on October 3rd; the Boston Bruins on October 13th.

It was announced here some time ago that efforts would be made to bring the Rangers here for an exhibition tilt but the tightness of the schedule seems to have knocked that in the bud. However, it is understood that efforts will be made to have the Rangers play an inter - squad tilt here during the training camp activities.

Toronto has the most exhibition games with 14 and 10 of these are against rival NHL clubs, Montreal plays 13 pre - season games, including four against NHL teams; New York 1 games, including nine against NHL clubs; Boston 18 games with five against NHL teams; and Chicago seven games with six against NHL opponents.

NHL teams are allowed to schedule three games against other NHL clubs in their own rinks but only Toronto has done so. The Leafs play New York, Chicago and Detroit at Maple Leaf Gardens. The Black Hawks play Toronto and Montreal Canadiens while Detroit also has games against Montreal and Tor onto at the Olympia. Montreal has Chicago scheduled for a game in the Forum as well as the All - Star Game. Toronto and Montreal visit New York at Madison Square Garden.

Fans will see a new rule in force during the first 32 games of the exhibition schedule, including those of Oct. 13. The rule, allowing a player who is preceded by the puck across the centre red line to pick up the puck inside the opposition's half of the rink without being offside, will be tried on an experimental basis. If the rule proves effective, it could become a regular part of the game for the 1966-67 season.

After Oct. 13, the current rule will be in force and will be enforced during the 1965-66 season. The rule states that a forward pass from the defending zone must be completed by the pass receiver who is legally on-side at the centre line; i.e. the pass receiver must carry the puck over the centre line.

Another new rule fans will see with the start of the exhibition series, and which will be in force during the coming season, is the one pertaining to pre-game warm-ups. The home team will have the entire ice surface for its pre-game practice for 15 minutes, beginning 45 minutes prior to the opening face-off. Then the visiting team will practice for 15 minutes. The 15 minutes prior to the start of the game will be used for resurfacing the ice.

Brooklin Blames Floor

New Westminster Wins Cup Opener

NEW WESTMINSTER, B.C. (CP) — Brooklin Lumbermen Christie blames the springy wooden floor-bees for his team's 5-4 loss to New Westminster Monday night in the first game of the Memn Cup Canadian senior lacrosse championship.

But he said his players—accustomed to the hard terrasum floors of Ontario — should be used to the bouncy softwood floor for Wednesday's second game of the best-of-seven series.

He made 36 saves to earn an approving ovation from the New Westminster crowd of 3,000 tiring defence let Baker down in the third quarter, New Westminster whipped in the five goals that gave the game its rounded final score.

Wayne Shuttleworth, Dave Tory, and Bill Wilkes each netted two for the B.C. Amateur Lacrosse Association champions. Paul Parnell got the other.

Leroy Fergusson put in a yeoman performance with three goals for Brooklin. Art Burrows and Glen Lolton each got singles past New Westminster goalie Les Norman.

Coach Christie said the delayed arrival of his players' sticks did not affect Brooklin's performance Monday. "We had plenkiki only a light morning workout, anyway."

But he said the western floor's unusual bounce slowed Brooklin's running and impeded fast turns. The players agreed, however, that the floor—wooden sections laid over ice-making pipes—was much easier on the feet than the harder terrazzo.

Christie said he plans no lineup changes for Wednesday's game.

New Westminster coach Doug McRory said he would continue with the same lineup.

PRAISES OPPOSE

He had praise for his entire team, singling out Sepka in particular.

He also extended a pat on the back to burly defenceman Bon Loftus, who defeated Sepka when he was chopped with a hockey stick by Brooklin's Bill Castator.

Loftus charged across the rink and used Castator upward, ing with a retaliatory check. Castator, dazed, went to the penalty box—and to did Loftus.

McRory said he didn't approve of charging from behind but "I don't like to see my players backed and pushed."

Brooklin picked up five penalties in the final quarter, when the Merchants got two penalties.

Brooklin had acquired only three penalties, New Westminster's two, up to that point.

How They're Hitting

NEW YORK (AP) — Jesus Alou deserves credit for San Francisco Giants' advantageous position in the National League baseball pennant race.

While Willie Mays has been walloping home runs and Juan Marichal pitching exceptional baseball, Alou has been batting at a .333 pace during the Giants' 10-game winning streak.

Since San Francisco started its streak Sept. 4, Jesus has collected 11 hits in 28 times at bat. Meanwhile, Mays has hit at a .310 clip with 13 safeties in 42 tries. The Giants head the NL pack by two games.

Jesus Alou, a .274 batsman as a rookie last year, is in sixth place in the circuit batting race with a .310 average. Mays is third at .317.

Pittsburgh's Roberto Clemente, the leader, slumped 10 points to .336 in last week's games. He collected only three hits in 23 times at bat. Hank Aaron of Milwaukee held second place with a .328 mark, a gain of two points. Aaron had seven hits in 28 tries in last week's action.

Mays, who fell one point, is followed by Billy Williams, Chicago, .313 and Pete Rose, Cincinnati, .311. Williams advanced from seventh place on a six-point increase resulting from a 10-for-25 performance.

Mays slugged three homers and lifted his leading total to 36. Johnny Callison of Chicago boosted his pace-setting runs batted in total to 118, seven more than he had a week ago.

OLIVA GAINS

Meanwhile, Carl Yastrzemski's Boston League batting lead has been cut in half. The Red Sox outfielder, who led by 10 points a week ago, now leads by only five. He fell four points to .323 with five hits in 21 attempts while Minnesota's Tony Oliva gained one point to .318 on the AL's downswing.

Brooks Robinson of Baltimore remained in the No. 3 position with a .306 mark. Fred Whitfield of Cleveland is fourth at .299 followed by Jimmie Hall, Minnesota, .297. The figures do not include Monday's games.

Tony Conigliaro of Boston took over the AL home run lead with his hit two last week, giving him 28 for the year. Dodger's Willie Horton is second with 27.

Lose First In Eight

Jets Clip Leaf String

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Johnny Powers drove in the first and last runs for Columbus Monday night as the International League's 1965 pennant winners edged Toronto 4-3 in the fourth game of the Governor's Cup finals.

The Maple Leafs had won three in a row from the Jets in Toronto, all by shutouts, but the Jets broke a string of 18 scoreless innings in the first frame when George Scriggs walked and came around on singles by Gene Michael and Powers.

The Jets added two more in the second on a walk, single and a two-run throwing error by pitcher Gary Kroll before failing to pick a runner off third base.

Jet starter John Gelnar was riding along on the 3-1 lead until the seventh when Rois Gibson and Mike Ryan teamed to tie the score.

The series resumes tonight with Columbus seeking an outwo win to wrap up the best-of-seven series.

Jack Lamabe, a 10-3 performer during the regular season and winner of two playoffs, will pitch for Toronto. He opponent will be rookie left-hander Woody Fryman.

Gus Bodnar To Coach Marlboros

TORONTO (CP) — Gus Bodnar, former National Hockey League player, was named Monday to succeed Jim Gregory as coach of Toronto Marlboros of the Ontario Hockey Association Junior A series.

The 40-year-old native of Port William, Ont., saw service with Toronto Maple Leafs, Chicago Black Hawks and Boston Bruins of the NHL between 1943 and 1955.

For the last two seasons Bodnar coached a Junior C team in Lindsay, Ont. Previous to that he coached St. Catharines of the OHA Junior A series and Brampton and Lakeshore in the Metro Junior B circuit.

He won the Calder Trophy as the NHL's outstanding rookie in 1943 and set an NHL scoring record that still stands by notching his first goal 15 seconds after stepping on the ice in his first big league game.

Argonaut "Sitter" Missing

TORONTO (CP) — Some Toronto Argonauts fans may have been cheered Monday when they rolled past the downtown intersection of Dupont and Davenport streets.

The flagpole was vacant.

Nevertheless, Argos still have a record of no victories and seven defeats in the Eastern Football Conference.

Last Thursday, Paul Bole, a 27-year-old chiropractic student, climbed to the top of the flagpole vowing he would remain there until Argos won a game.

Monday, he had disappeared.

Tony Mili, general manager of the restaurant which built the flagpole and shelter, said:

"Paul was missing when we opened this morning. Maybe he came down sometime on Sunday or during the early hours of this morning."

Bole had said he was depressed by the Argos' form in their 26-6 loss to Saskatchewan Roughriders Friday night.

It was the fourth win in nine outings for the $2,500 yearling purchase of Jack Hernick, Sam Sperling, and Bill Sokoloff, owners of the Rexdale Stable.

Margie clicked with runner-up Dearg Lightning for a $42.20 quinella.

Patterson-Clay Bout For Las Vegas

Nov. 22nd?

NEW YORK (AP)—The title fight between heavyweight champion Cassius Clay and former two-time champion Floyd Patterson is expected to be made official today," Joe Lee Vegas, Nev., Nov. 22.

Announcement of the date and site will be made at an afternoon press conference at a midtown restaurant, press agent Harold Conrad said Monday.

The press conference will start at 4 p.m., EDT, said Conrad.

"Clay will be there along with some members of the Louisville group that sponsors him, Jim Dercks of Las Vegas, the newly-elected president of the World Boxing Association, and other principals," said Conrad.

Conrad, who handled press, promotion and other details for Intercontinental Sports, Inc., in the past, said he will represent several groups at the conference.

Inter-Continental, which promoted the fiasco at Lewiston, Maine, last June 26 when Clay flattened former champion Sonny Liston with one punch, apparently is going to co-promote the Clay-Patterson fight with Al Bolen, one of Patterson's advisors.

Minto Cup Final

Green Gaels Drop First

OSHAWA (CP)—Coach Jim Bishop of Oshawa Green Gaels promised more firepower to get his club "back into the series" against New Westminster Salmonbellies after a 9-6 loss Monday night in the opener of the Canadian senior lacrosse final.

The Salmonbellies, out to avenge a loss at the hands of Oshawa in the 1964 final, won a year ago, survived early jitters to come from behind for the victory before 4,000 fans.

Second game of the best-of-seven series is scheduled for Wednesday with the home club fourth on Friday and Saturday.

"This B.C. club will beat any club in Ontario. But we've got running I think we can win the cup if we take the next game.

"Then it won't go more than six," said Bishop.

START WELL

The Green Gaels, unbeaten at home since June 1, 1964, and winners of 21 playoff games in a row this season, started at a flashy form, but couldn't cope with the brilliant performance of Don Wallis in the Salmonbellies goal and the westerners' rugged defence.

"We were too as sharp as we might have been and didn't have ball control," said manager Fred Wallis of Oshawa.

"This guy (Wallis) showed us the best goaltending we have seen in two years."

Wallis stopped 36 drives and the 16-year-old rookie made his best saves off Gary Cordick, Jerry Lowless and John Davis, Oshawa's top scoring threats.

Except for Wallis and Wayne Goss, top scorer in the league with three goals and a pair of assists, there was little to choose between the clubs.

Two goals by Goss late in the second period brought the Salmonbellies from behind and gave them a lead they never lost.

Bears Win Over Mustangs

LONDON, Ont. (CP) — University of Alberta Golden Bears wound up a successful preseason swing against Ontario football opposition here Monday night with a 20-9 victory over University of Western Ontario Mustangs before 1,500 fans.

The Bears opened their eastern jaunt with a 27-13 win over Royal Military College in Kingston Saturday. RMC plays in the Ontario conference while the Mustangs are members of the Senior Intercollegiate Conference.

Fumbles and penalties were costly to the Mustangs. They fumbled the ball five times—three times within their own four-yard line—losing them all. They also lost 130 yards through 11 penalties.

The Bears moved into a 7-0 first-quarter lead, stretched it to 14-0 at half-time and added an uncontested major in the fourth quarter. Mustangs scored on a third-quarter field goal.

Fullback Jim Hale scored the first Alberta touchdown on a 19-yard pass-and-run play from quarterback Willie Algajer after a Western fumble.

Another fumble led to the second Alberta major. Quarterback Rich Hawkins bobbled the ball in his three and Steve Egbert recovered for Alberta. Fullback Irwin Strifler barrelled over for the touchdown.

FLOEN AILS

WINNIPEG (CP)—Winnipeg Blue Bombers' coach Bud Grant said xrays taken Monday of the injured throwing arm of quarterback Kenny Ploen revealed no fractures. Grant said Ploen will not quarterback this Sunday when the Bombers play Ottawa Rough-riders, Eastern Conference leaders, in Winnipeg. He said he would play defensive halfback.

Day, tackled hard during Calgary's 29-20 loss to British Columbia Lions in a game in Vancouver Saturday night, will be replaced by backup quarterback Jerry Keeling for the Stampeders' game against Saskatchewan Roughriders in Regina next Saturday.

Leafs' Foy Is Rookie Of The Year

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Joe Foy, 23-year-old third baseman for Toronto Maple Leafs, has been named Rookie of the Year by the International League.

Foy, batting champion with a .302 mark, received 11 of the 20 votes cast by the league's baseball writers.

Others in the balloting were Jacksonville Suns' outfielder-first baseman George Kernek and outfielder Bobby Tolan; pitcher Arnie Umbach of Atlanta Crackers and outfielder Mickey Stanley of Syracuse Chiefs.

Foy, the only .300 hitter among the league's regulars, played every inning of every game through Aug. 17, when he was temporarily sidelined with a stable injury. A power hitter with better than average defensive ability, Foy tagged 14 homers, 31 doubles and eight triples. He was in 140 games, batted 300 times and drove in 73 runs.

Foy originally was signed by Minnesota Twins in 1962, but was drafted by Boston Red Sox in the first-year player draft that winter.

The Tracks

TORONTO (CP) — Avelino Gomes was fined $100 and given a 10-day suspension Monday by the stewards of Woodbine Race Track.

Gomes was fined for sparring with jockey Hugo Dittfach of Calgary after the running of the $50,000 Seagram Handicap and drew the suspension for interfering with Doug Chop in the same race.

Gomes is due to start his suspension today and will not ride again until Sept. 23.

Monday, before the suspension took hold, Gomes was the featured seventh race at Woodbine when he brought home Miss Bill Acres' Feathery.

During the running of Saturday's first race, Gomes, astride Feathery, allowed his mount to come off the rail and bump Dougs Chop, ridden by Dittfach.

The incident led to a fist swinging match in the scale room, where the jockeys weigh in after races. Gomes was fined by the jockey's room.

Monday's daily double of Quebec Style and Brief Sin paid $43.20. The quinella of Orsinda and Carolman, in the sixth, paid $14.10.

CHICAGO (AP)—Tom Rolfe, yielding 14 pounds to his four rivals, led on a strong stretch run Monday on win the $138,100 American Derby by 2½ lengths, smashing the Arlington Park track record in the process.

Tom Rolfe was timed in 2:00 2-5, clipping the track record for 1¼ miles of 2:00 3-5 set by Prove It in 1962.

Tom Rolfe paid $2.80 and $2.20. Royal Gunner made $2.40 to place in the race without winning.

WAR SPREADS — The war between India and Pakistan, which flared over possession of Kashmir, has spread along much of the border between the two countries. Outside Kashmir the major ground actions have taken place near Lahore, Ferozepore and Hyderabad. Aerial incursions have taken place both ways across the borders of East and West Pakistan. China with troop concentrations across the border from India in several places, has condemned India's part in the war and demanded the removal of Indian troops and military installations along the Sino-Sikkim border. # Little Done to Rebuild Negro Community of Watts Month After Race Riots

By ANDREW JAFFE

LOS ANGELES (AP)—A let-George-do-it attitude pervades the riot-torn predominantly-Negro community of Watts. In this case, George is the government.

Businessmen along 103rd Street—the community's commercial centre—wait outside stores to put them on their feet. They have been told funds are coming to clean up the rubble, massive new buildings, replace looted stock and redevelop the area. So they wait.

Almost a month after the riots end, the 10-block stretch still looks as if it had just been devastated by a bombing raid. Children clamber amidst the charred ruins, hunting for scraps of copper to sell for salvage. Fallen marquees block the sidewalk, forcing pedestrians into the gutter. Unemployed men lounge at street corners.

VISIT THE RUINS

The street is clogged with traffic—shoppers driving slowly there and sightseers. Before the August riot tourists came to Watts to see the towers—100-foot structures of steel and glass. Now they come to see the ruins.

When it was over the riot claimed 36 dead and destroyed what is estimated $40,000,000 in property.

One of the dead was shot looting at the Watts police station. For three hours fires raged along the street unchecked. Firemen responded quickly, but had to withdraw in a hail of stones and bottles thrown by an angry mob. When they returned, it was too late: 90 per cent of the buildings in the commercial centre had been scorched by fire, most of them were destroyed by it.

"The tragedy we face," says one white storeowner, "is that there no longer is a shopping area in Watts. Customers are already leaving to shop. Those of us who remain are almost in isolation."

CAN'T DELAY

The City of Los Angeles has issued orders that buildings that create health or safety hazards be cleaned up immediately. Where owners delay, city engineers do the work and send them the bill.

Sam Rittenberg, 65, sits near the rear of his loan shop. Next door the liquor store he owned is nothing but a few tons of bricks awaiting the bulldozer. Will this white merchant rebuild?

"It all depends on the attitude of the community — and what steps the government takes," says Rittenberg, 22 years a Watts shopkeeper. "Right now I feel uneasy here. I lost $35,000 in one night."

At the street's only bank, manager F. K. Rigbenstadt, also white, ponders the possibility of a blight covering the street if it is not quickly rebuilt. Says he:

"We're concerned about the future of Watts because without these business there would be no need for the bank. But the bank can only make loans based on a sound financial statement —which many Negroes here don't have. As for the white storeowners, they are waiting to see if the insurance companies pay off."

Riebenacht says most of the white merchants have indicated an interest in rebuilding—but all have reservations.

"They want to know, 'will it happen again?' I can't answer that, can you?" the banker asked a reporter.

CLAIMS ARE UNPAID

Undoubtedly the insurance companies play a key role in the district's future. A sample of 102rd Street merchants shows that claims have not yet been paid, but businessmen expect them to be. A greater cause for anxiety is an unconfirmed report that companies are cancelling fire insurance in the area and upping rates on burglary coverage.

Rittenberg says he could not operate a liquor store without such insurance.

J. W. Heath, 56, is one of the few Negro shopowners on the street—and a Watts resident. Heath, lounging in slippers at his one-storey department store still dark and empty from the riot, says he may stay but wants more police protection.

Looting was kept to a minimum because Heath opened his doors during the riot and then stayed on the premises to try to argue mobsters out of taking his goods. He was still shocked at the violence.

CAN'T BELIEVE IT

"I never believed people would do things like that in open daylight," Heath says. "I don't understand why the police let it happen. But we can't live without police protection. If this community does rebuild, we're going to need more protection before the tough elements move in."

Heath is worried about the arson that has plagued south Los Angeles since the riot ended. Fires have been set each night in the area—usually by means of fire bombs. Burglary attempts have almost doubled.

Looters took all the Dickmans' stock—even the shelves and pictures. A Negro couple who lived above the store kept it from burning. As soon as the riot was over, Samuel Dickman, 60, was back cleaning up.

WHITE REOPENS

Dickman borrowed $15,000 worth of merchandise from friendly jobbers, boarded up his broken windows and reopened the store.

Now he and other merchants say what they want most is a gigantic shopping mall, replete with potted palms, luxurious avenues and ample parking.

Councilman John S. Gibson Jr., who for 14 years has represented the Watts area and kept an office there, fears the businessmen are not ready to take on such a large project.

"In order to qualify for urban redevelopment funds, they must show some willingness to give up some of their land—and pay the bill for new buildings. . . .

"Some of these men balk at decorating the streets with Christmas lights.

"Now if they want government's money, they're going to have to get together and show some community interest."

Students Will Pay More for Room, Food

TORONTO (CP)—Many Ontario university students will need more money to eat and sleep on campus this year.

About half of the province's 15 universities have increased residence fees by up to $100 and some students will have to pay $915—a year for room and board.

York University here leads the increase with single room rates rising $100 to $915. Two students sharing a room will pay $800, a $15 saving.

Victoria College, University of Toronto, has the next highest increase. Its double and single rooms were $655 and $715 respectively but now are a uniform $740.

Other University of Toronto residences increased rates by $50 to $730 for men and $700 for women.

A longer session starting this fall at Queen's University, Kingston, contributed to the increase in its room and board rates to $755 from $631 and to $841 from $710 for a double.

Trent University, Peterborough, and the University of Windsor both added $50 to last year's $700 rate.

A $90 increase to $320 from $260 gives University of Ottawa students the cheapest accommodation in Ontario.

Byelections Could Reflect Strength of Major Parties In Coming Federal Election

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Voters in the Ontario ridings of Nipissing and Toronto-Bracondale elect provincial members Wednesday in balloting that could reflect the campaigning strength of the Progressive Conservative and Liberal leaders.

Both leaders have thrown themselves into the campaign in the 7,000-square-mile Nipissing riding, centred on North Bay.

Premier Robarts has appealed to voters in a televised television appearance to send him as other man for his "team" at Queen's Park, and campaign signs of Conservative candidate Jack Gorman, a 49-year-old contractor, have urged voters to "Go Gorman! Go government!"

Both ridings were won by Liberals in the general election—Leo Troy in Nipissing and Joseph Gould in Bracondale—and were made vacant by their deaths.

In the elections, Conservatives took 77 seats, Liberals 24 and New Democratic Party seven. In two byelections Sept. 23, 1964, the Conservatives won Windsor-Sandwich from the Liberals but lost Toronto-Riverdale to the NDP.

In Nipissing in 1963 Mr. Troy defeated Mr. Gorman by a 923-vote margin—11,434 to 10,495. In Bracondale Mr. Gould won with a slim 69 votes over Conservative candidate Stanley Frolick.

In Bracondale, an urban constituency with an immigrant vote of about 4,000 of 18,800 eligible voters, the NDP man is 46-year-old social worker, John Farina, who is hitting at such moves as the government social care scheme and the government decision to lend money to the financially-troubled British Mortgage and Trust Corp. Ltd.

Liberal candidate is George Ben, a former Toronto alderman who has already some support in the riding which gave him a 4,000-vote lead in losing bid for a seat on the city's board of control last year.

In afternoon duels, a 54-year-old undertaker is the Conservative standard-bearer.

In Bracondale as in Nipissing, the Conservatives are emphasizing that a riding which sends a government member to Queen's Park can expect more done for it than one that elects an opposition member.

Stalking his campaign on the proposition that immigrants, as Canadians, went to be approached in their new language, Mr. Odette is sending all his literature out in English, unlike the Liberals and New Democrats who are issuing campaign literature in half a dozen languages.

Now Ringo Is a Daddy

LONDON (AP)—Beatle Ringo Starr's wife Maureen gave birth to a son Monday in Queen Charlotte Hospital. Both mother and baby are well, a spokesman said today.

Ringo married Maureen Cox, an apprentice hairdresser from the Beatles' home town of Liverpool, in February. Mrs. Ringo—real name, Mrs. Richard Starkey—is 19, and has known Ringo since she was 15.

Ringo's latest comment: "I'm made up, you've no idea."

Made up is current Beatle slang for delighted.

people like the advertising

Surprise you? Well, it's a fact. In a recent North American survey, 78% of the people interviewed said they actually prefer a newspaper with ads to one without. They like the advertising. In contrast, 54% would rather have TV without ads, and 61% would prefer radio without ads.

In another survey validated by the Canadian Advertising Research Foundation, 71% of those interviewed said they find television commercials irritating, and 13% said the same of radio. In contrast, only 8% said they were irritated by newspaper advertising.

What's more, Canadians not only like newspaper advertising, they're influenced to buy because of it. 83% of those interviewed described newspaper ads as a guide to day-to-day shopping. Only 6% considered television, and 3% radio, in this same light.

Yes, Canadians are a nation of readers. 12,400,000 people read a daily newspaper every week day. They read the paper for local, world, and social news; for entertainment; and for the ads. And many like newspaper ads so much, they'd rather read a paper with them, than one without. Interesting fact. Especially to the advertisers.

HOPE ABANDONED—A wrecked truck body is a playpen for a little girl in Canada's "Tobacco Road" in Southwestern Ontario's Norfolk county. Families, caught in the trap of chronic poverty, have formed a tradition of living on relief for as many as three generations. The employment that is available is mostly seasonal work on tobacco farms. (CP Photo)

Ontario Tobacco Area Breeds Its Own Brand Of Canadian Hillbillies

SIMCOE, Ont. (CP)—A tradition of living on relief has given rise to a breed of "all-Canadian hillbillies" in Ontario's tobacco country.

Some 2,000 persons in Norfolk County—one of the 10 poorest counties in the province—live in one- and two-room homes of rotting wood, tarpaper and tin, with debris-filled backyards and children in makeshift clothes playing amid the rubble.

Robert Perry, warden of Norfolk County and a member of its recently formed poverty committee, says: "It now has become tradition with many of these families to stay on relief. It started with the grandfather, was passed along to the father and now it is the son who intends to pass the habit along to his children."

Historically, Norfolk is a poor county. Between 30 and 40 per cent of its non-farm families earn less than $3,000 a year.

Yet Norfolk County is the largest contributor to an industry which rets the province close to $100,000,000 each year. Of the 4,513 tobacco farms in Ontario in 1964, 2,014 were in the county.

During the early years of the industry—the late 1920s, '30s and '40s—thousands of lean-tos, shanties and tents housed the seasonal workers. As automatic progresses of the last two decades took over more of the harvesting operations, the Tobacco Road residents of Norfolk County began to disappear.

CONTENT TO STAY

Mr. Perry described those who have stayed on as "the all-Canadian hillbillies." And they show little intention of moving.

Most seem content with monthly welfare and family allowance cheques. Those who will talk freely to strangers give a variety of reasons why they can't work. Most common are weak hearts, back ailments and pregnancies.

But it is only the last that are usually in evidence.

Emily and Russell Gogo have had 14 children in 22 years of marriage. They moved from Brockville, Ont., to find work on the tobacco farms of Norfolk County 12 years ago.

The 10 eldest children are wards of the Children's Aid Society and Mrs. Gogo can't recall when they were taken away from her.

"It doesn't matter much," she said. "I've got my hands full with the four I've got here now. My husband and me, we ain't seen the three oldest for some spell. I guess they just don't want to come home no more."

"Home" for the Gogos is two rooms, a leaky roof, tarpaper-patched walls and peeling paint. It replaces a tin-walled shanty they lived in for the first 11 years in Norfolk County.

The Gogos and some of their neighbors who earn between $1,000 and $2,000 a year on the tobacco farms supplement their income by dealing in scrap, keeping a back-yard junk pile of wrecked motor vehicles and scrap metal.

BREAK LAW

Police and county officials say drink often is to blame for minor law-breaking. They cite cases of fathers spending welfare cheques on beer instead of the week's groceries or shoes for the children. When the county issued coupons for food exchange only, the men often made deals with area grocers for cash them for less than their value.

Most of the hillbillies live on what welfare allows them every week, which is $32 for the Taylor family. Lawrence Taylor and his wife have 18 children, which brings them in another $72 a month in family allowance cheques.

Asked if he ever thought of moving somewhere else—Hamilton, for instance—Taylor replied: "Yup, opportunity's real good in Hamilton — wouldn't mind living there.

"They pay $29 a week for relief. Not like this cheap county. How do they expect to raise kids decently around here for that money?"

But Lawrence, like many of the others, is not really thinking of leaving Norfolk County. "This is my home, where I lived as a young man, where my children were born, where one of my children died right under that tree," he says.

"It's where my children's children shall live some day too, I hope."

CANADA'S TOBACCO ROAD—Piles of junk and scrapped automobiles litter the yards of tobacco workers in Southwestern Ontario's Norfolk county. Some tobacco workers, who may earn $1,000 to $2,000 a year on the farms, try to supplement their income by dealing in scrap and wrecked cars. Others depend on relief. ## Rivard Named Kingpin

By JOHN LeBLANC

LAREDO, Texas (CP) — A small man with a big story has provided a recital of petty chicanery, dandy-stealing and sordonic sloppiness in multi-million dollar international dope transactions that the United States government is trying to pin on Lucien Rivard and three fellow Canadians.

Pint - sized Joseph Michel Caron of Montreal, who said he made a living stealing before becoming a heroin courier, named Rivard as the director of a vast smuggling operation.

He completed 15½ days of evidence Tuesday—the basis of the government's case against the four—before going back to penitentiary to finish a 10-year term for smuggling the 78 pounds of dope whose seizure here in 1961 touched off the whole fantastic Rivard politico-criminal saga.

Caron's day before a Federal District Court jury, involving all 228 pounds of heroin—a retail value of up to $150,000,000, revealed a succession of mishaps and escapades that had more of the flavor of Mack Sennett comedy than the supposedly well-oiled narcotics machinery.

Some of the touches:

Caron, after two short consignments—from Montreal to a motel at Bridgeport, Conn., took his wife and children along and couldn't resist stealing a bedsheet from the motel when they left.

SCRATCH BOTHERS HIM

He said defendant Julien Gagnon, alias Jerry Massey, with another big load of heroin hidden in a car sitting on a Montreal dock after being unloaded from a liner, took time to go back aboard the ship and make sure he would be reimbursed for a "real" scratch picked up by the car on the voyage.

According to Caron, another just-unloaded dope car driven by Joseph Ra ymond Jones caught fire on a highway within a half mile from the dock. Unsuspecting firemen put out the flame and the car then drove off.

The Mexico City safari on which Caron was nabbed at the U.S. border had special bungles of its own. First, Caron failed to deliver the consignment. "How's the weather?" to the two Mexicans who were identification before loading him up with some $30,000,000 to $50,000,000 in dope.

When identification was finally settled and his car loaded up, Caron, instead of meekly disobeyed Rivard's loading instructions by sticking some of it under the back seat, where bulges were to catch the eye of a border guard.

The former truck driver said Rivard told him to "take it easy on the gas" and hit the international bridge here in time to join the cavalcade of cars that would be streaming across the river from an Oct. 12 Mexican fiesta at Neighboring Nuevo Laredo.

CAME EARLY

Instead, Caron rattled across the bridge Oct. 10. The final irony was that the back-seat bulges caught the eye not of a

Catholic Council Opens Religious Liberty Study

VATICAN CITY (AP) — The Vatican ecumenical council took up today where it left off last fall—on the question of man's right to worship according to his conscience.

Pope Paul opened the council's fourth session in person in St. Peter's Basilica Tuesday. He told the prelates he will create a synod, or senate of bishops chosen from around the world, to help him govern the church, a step long sought by progressives.

The 36-page document on religious liberty was on the verge of an initial vote last November but, shortly before the 1964 session ended, the scheduled ballot was suddenly shelved.

Then, were 100 bishops who wasted more time to study the topic. Now Emile Cardinal Leger of Montreal and the late Albert Gregory Cardinal Meyer of Chicago got up a petition supported by some 96 per cent of the prelates, asking the Pope to let the vote take place.

The council's presidency announced in the name of the Pontiff that the vote would well be held next year rather than have the freedom of any council fathers infringed.

North American cardinals and bishops have been in the leadership in seeking a clear, strong council statement that no man should be compelled to go against his conscience or be kept from acting according to his conscience in following his religion.

Religious liberty was a pivotal chapter within another topic, the one on Christian unity, during the council's second session in 1963. Many bishops thought the matter so important that it should be a separate topic. That was done in 1964.

Opposition has come largely from some Italian and Spanish prelates. They fear there could be difficult consequences for Catholicism in predominantly Catholic lands, if the document should pass, and jeopardy for the church's concordats with Catholic governments.

The Most Reverend Courtney Murray of Woodstock, Md., noted American Catholic theologian, was the chief drafter of all five versions the document has had so far.

The document begins by saying the dignity of the human person is the basis of religious freedom. It says that freedom is a true right that all men and all religions can properly claim.

The document says that public powers should see to the religious liberty of all residents and not allow persecution for religious reasons. It upholds the right of free assembly in worshipping God and the right of parents to give their children a religious education through religious schools.

It concludes by saying that faith is a free act and that no one should ever be forced into becoming a Christian.

Would Need 18 Months To Change Money System

WASHINGTON (AP)—United States Secretary Henry H. Fowler said Tuesday that "by the most optimistic timetable" a full agreement on a new system for creating international money could be reached within 18 months. But Fowler indicated negotiations may take a much longer period than that.

General agreement has been reached by 10 major countries on the need for a conference to study the possibility of providing new machinery to supplement international money and credit to supplement the dollar and the British pound.

Preliminary discussions will get under way at the annual meeting of the International Monetary Fund late this month.

British Mortgage Shareholders Approve Merger With V.G.

STRATFORD, Ont. (CP)—Shareholders of British Mortgage and Trust Co., obviously shocked by a report that their company could be more than $10,000,000 in the hole, voted overwhelmingly Tuesday to merge with Victoria and Grey Trust Co. of Lindsay, Ont.

The merger proposal, approved shortly after Victoria and Grey shareholders, will create a new trust company with assets totalling about $275,000,000 and 24 branches across Ontario.

The vote — 251,188 for and 6,451 against—was taken shortly after one shareholder asked President Harold Lawson what shareholders would get back if the merger were rejected and British Mortgage allowed to fall into bankruptcy.

"Nothing," he replied bluntly.

Mr. Lawson outlined for the first time details of some of British Mortgage's investments and loans that precipitated its financial woes after Atlantic Acceptance Corp. went into receivership June 17 for failing to meet some short-term debts.

These investments and loans, plus unexpected troubles in the company's mortgage portfolio, leave it open to potential losses estimated by auditors to be in the $8,000,000-$14,000,000 range.

Previously the company had admitted only a $1,050,000 loss, caused through its investment in Atlantic shares which declined sharply in value after its receivership.

Mr. Lawson drew gasps from the 700 shareholders at the special meeting when he detailed some collateral loans advanced by British Mortgage, including $650,000 to C. Powell Morgan, former president of Atlantic.

Of $1,802,000 put into bonds and stocks of companies associated with Atlantic, including several subsidiaries, Mr. Lawson said about $1,534,000 is "water over the dam."

He also wrote off between five and 20 per cent of a $2,400,000 investment in secured Atlantic notes—and $1,000,000 in junior subordinated debenture notes. Another loan of $1,800,000 to Aurora Leasing Corp., an Atlantic subsidiary, is not secured and there's little hope of seeing the money again, he said.

Urging shareholders to accept the Victoria and Grey merger, Mr. Lawson said no other offer

UN Truce Bid Fails; War Goes On - - Shastri Want Ceasefire - - Khan

By JOHN CHADWICK

RAWALPINDI, Pakistan (Reuters) — President Mohammed Ayub Khan called today for a purposeful ceasefire and and an honorable settlement in the war with India.

Ayub made it clear to a press conference that he stuck to his demand for a plebiscite in the disputed territory of Kashmir and said:

"Pakistan is determined to wage this life-and-death struggle at whatever cost. He will go on as long as necessary.

The president said he would welcome any practical initiative the United States or the Commonwealth could take toward a ceasefire.

"The United States can play a very definite role," he said. "She can tell both India and Pakistan that she will not stand for this trouble."

Asked if he would drop his precondition for a Kashmir plebiscite if President Johnson called for a ceasefire, Ayub said the demand for a plebiscite within three months could be negotiated.

FULL HOSTILITY

Asked if India's peace mission had any tangible success, Ayub replied:

"I really can't say. We do not know what has transpired in India. It remains to be seen what response he submits to the Security Council and what resolutions they adopt."

He said he wished to make clear the India-Pakistan war was not going to do either country any good.

"What India is going to get out of continuing this struggle I don't know," the Pakistani leader said.

He declared India is "on a wild-goose chase if she expects she can subjugate over 100,000,000 people."

Explaining he did not believe an independent Kashmir would be a constructive proposition at present, Ayub said: "Complete independence would create another cockpit for power politics for the whole world."

Bitter Battle Of Attrition Being Waged

By RONALD BATCHELOR

SIALKOT, Pakistan Reuters

Pakistani and Indian tanks are still waging a bitter battle of attrition across a 100-square mile checkerboard of Irish farmland in the Sialkot sector north of Lahore.

The Pakistani commander here claimed Tuesday that in the last six days Indian armored forces lost 150 to 200 tanks in a series of assaults on his defending forces.

The commanding general estimated the Pakistani forces were outnumbered five to one in armor and more and more than three to one in men in the Sialkot sector, where the fighting was essentially an armored and artillery battle.

A colonel declared: "The Indians now are fighting for prestige. We are fighting for our lives and for the existence of our nation."

"This war can only bring ruin of both our countries, but we have no choice but to fight on until the invader is driven from our soil."

NEW DELHI (Reuters) — Prime Minister Shastri said today a United Nations ceasefire attempt has failed and declared the operations of the Indian armed forces in the war with Pakistan must continue with unabated vigor.

Shastri's announcement was broadcast over All-India radio after the departure for New York today of UN Secretary-General U Thant, who spent six days in the Indian and Pakistani capitals in an attempt to halt the undeclared war between the two Asian neighbors.

Shastri said: "In view of (Pakistani) President Ayub Khan's remarks at a press conference in Rawalpindi today, it should be clear to all that the defensive operations in which our armed forces are engaged must continue with unabated vigor."

President Ayub told reporters in the Pakistani capital that his government would reject any ceasefire that did not ensure an honorable settlement of the Kashmir problem. He made it clear means the holding of a plebiscite in the disputed territory.

Hopes of even a temporary ceasefire faded when U Thant flew to New Delhi for New York today saying:

"Even if an end to the fighting has not yet been achieved, that is no reason for any cessation of the efforts of all men of goodwill to achieve it."

India had been ready to agree to a ceasefire as long as it did not involve any political commitment.

But it was obvious, the star would go on when news came from Rawalpindi, the administrative capital of Pakistan, denouncing President Mohammad Ayub Khan as saying Pakistan would fight to the last, and that any ceasefire had to be purposeful and bring about an honorable settlement of the Kashmir problem.

But Thant did say he believed that both sides had become stronger in the last week.

IS ENCOURAGED

In a statement on leaving New Delhi for Bombay on his way back to New York after his mediation mission, he added: "I find evidence of this in the replies of both governments to my appeal, and to that extent I am encouraged."

It was apparent here that In-

Only One Opposed To Pact

By ARCH MacKENZIE

WASHINGTON (CP)—A bill authorizing integration of the Canada-United States auto industry was slowed by one-man opposition Tuesday without defeating any marked concern about eventual passage.

The setting was the Senate finance committee which had scheduled a two-day public hearing and now is booked for three days due to pressure of business in the full Senate and the steady flow of critical interrogation from Senator Albert Gore, Tennessee Democrat.

Otherwise, Tuesday's script read virtually the same as in late April hearings before a House of Representatives committee. Two weeks ago, the full House endorsed the bill virtually unchanged by a margin of better than 2 to 1.

The agreement, signed Jan. 16 by Prime Minister Pearson and President Johnson, contributed to attract little congressional interest. Only four of the 17 committee members were on hand at the opening and the low point was three.

TRY TO END BLOODSHED IN CONFLICT

By WILLIAM NEVILLE

OTTAWA (CP) — The interparliamentary conference is expected to decide today if and how it can use its weight to try to end the current fighting between India and Pakistan.

The consensus is that a meeting of the world's parliamentarians will make an effort to at least general terms, while at the same time avoiding any judgment of either the parties or the internal issues involved.

The dispute between the two Commonwealth neighbors has been before the 800-odd delegates from 61 nations almost since the conference began a week ago. Many speakers referred to it in the general opening debate and both India and Pakistan seized the opportunity to label each other the main villains of the piece.

But efforts to take formal action by way of conference resolution have been put aside until today to await developments in Asia and especially the results of mediation attempts by United Nations Secretary General U Thant.

However, a meeting of the inter-parliamentary council, the leading conference sub-group, called for this afternoon has the Kashmir dispute high on its agenda and some action is expected.

The council, composed of two members from each of the national delegations, will meet in closed session with three draft resolutions and one amendment on the dispute before it. They include statements by both of the warring parties.

A draft submitted by the Indian delegation condemns the use of force by any international disputes and calls for prompt negotiations "with a view to normalizing relations." At the same time, however, it notes UN reports on the fighting which are "prima facie" blame the current fighting on India as such, but stresses the need for "a free and impartial plebiscite" in Kashmir, a point already strongly opposed under current circumstances by India.

The other two draft resolutions, one by the United Arab Republic and the other by Argentina, both label the current conflict a threat to world peace and demand an immediate end to the bloodshed. Neither addresses itself to any party, calling instead for bilateral negotiations between them.

Though representative of national parliaments and not governments, the inter-parliamentary Union is felt to exert some influence in international political disputes through its position as the foremost world body of parliamentarians.

Plea for Handicapped Made to Kiwanis Club

A disheartened quadruplegic with no use of his legs or his right arm, and only partial use of his left arm, entered the Toronto offices of Dr. James A. Tuck recently, hopefully searching for a job.

The handicapped man had never worked and had little hopes of ever having a job, but he wanted desperately to work.

In the afternoon he found a job. A job he has been doing ever since. He was hired to sit in a big plant and watch burglar alarms.

Dr. Tuck, Director of Psychological Services with the March of Dimes, told this story and others to the Kiwanis yesterday at their regular weekly meeting.

'Watching burglar alarms may not seem like a very exciting job to us," Dr. Tuck said. "But to a man who had never worked and whose chances seemed hopeless, it is indeed very exciting.

"This example points out our philosophy in having the handicapped hired.

"We want employers to hire them, but not because they are handicapped, not out of sympathy, but because they can do the job they are hired for.

"Though the quadraplegic had only partial use of one arm — he could use his fingers slightly — watching burglar alarms did not require any more physical strain than he was capable of. He had to be dependable and alert, but physically he had only to press certain buttons when lights flash.

ASK NO FAVORS

"We're aware the physically handicapped in terms of their work capabilities. We want to put them into jobs, but not into jobs they can do.

"We want employers to give the handicapped person the same chance as he would anyone else and to make the same expectations, no more or no less."

"We believe we should be as honest as we can with the handicapped person and his family. This may seem an obvious thing, but sometimes these people have to settle for less than the goals they could have reached or achieved had they not been handicapped. We want to be honest with them about their chances of succeeding in the competitive labor market."

Dr. Tuck pointed out that there was an increasing interest in March of Dimes work in Belleville in view of the fact it was recently joined the United Appeal.

"Your Kiwanis workshop here," he said, "is an example of what is desperately needed all across the country. Many of our people simply do not measure up to the standards required in competitive employment. They cannot fit in. It is a shame for them to get shoved in an attic and forgotten about.

"The large majority of the handicapped want to work and sheltered workshops are often the place for them to go."

In other Kiwanis business, a film was shown to promote the club's upcoming sponsorship of motorcycle races. The races are slated for Saturday night with the big field beside No. 2 Highway, three miles east of Belleville just where the new line crosses the highway to go into the Canada Cement plant.

The program to consist of a week at home, a week at camp, and a week at home in the respective countries. Should a Belleville scout be selected District Council will pay his registration fee of $100 and assist him with additional aid to a sum of not more than $75. Scout "Jamboree-Jet" will be held in Ottawa on October 18th and 19th and all "hams" are asked to assist. Cubs, "C.N." Tel co-ordinating this activity.

NEW GROUP FORMED

Mrs. Fort (Q.M. Sea) identified a new grouping under the Boy Scout Banner to include boys age 14 to 17 (grade 9-12) to be known as "Venturers." Scout groups in Belleville will participate in Fire Prevention Week, Oct. 2-9 as part of their program.

District Council heard with regret the leaving for Ottawa of Frank Crawford who for well over 15 years has been one of Belleville's best workers in Scouting. "Frank" will be sadly missed and was wished all success in his new job. He will be succeeded as "Training Pin" as soon as one can be procurred.

"Lew" Andrews requested permission to conduct swimming at the Y.M.C.A. on 20th and 27th of Nov., 2nd and 4th and 11th of Dec. An unprecedented demand of almost 300 per week has been made but this is necessary. The request was granted with a big "Thank You" to Lew who's main concern seems to be to have all Belleville boys able to swim if he can help it.

Notice of the Scouter workshop to be held in Oshawa (Dist. Council to meet reports of penses for scouters attending) where changes in the scouting program will be discussed. Apple Days Oct. 22 and 23, a meeting of D.C.'s and assistants on Dec. 4th and the annual meeting to be held at 8 p.m. on Dec. 7th was followed by the D.C.'s report and reports of Group Committees indicating that they had been considerable activity in camping, canoeing, and visiting during the summer months. The meeting closed at 9.30.

Beame Scores Stunning Upset In Primary

NEW YORK (AP)—Abraham D. Beame, a soft-spoken, five-foot-two accountant called on the lower East Side in the rooring 1920s, emerged today as a giant in New York politics.

In winning the Democratic race for mayor Tuesday night, he defeated city council President Paul R. Screvane and shook the bias of Mayor Robert F. Wagner's political powerstructure to the very foundations.

Screvane was the retiring mayor's personal choice as a successor. It was said among politicians that Wagner backed to a Screvane victory as a big boost to his presidential future —one that might set him into the governor's chair.

How Wagner's role as the state's No. 1 Democrat may be in jeopardy.

Beame, 59-year-old city comptroller, rolled past three opponents in a primary election and will face Republican representative John Lindsay in the Nov. 2 general election.

99,000-VOTE MARGIN

Beame collected nearly 10,000 more than Screvane. A record 726,720 Democrats voted in the primary election.

Other candidates for mayor were Representative William F. Ryan and councilman Paul O'Dwyer.

The most powerful vote-getter in the Democratic City and District Attorney Frank D. O'Connor, Beame's running mate for city council president, he got 350,462 votes, nearly half of the ballots cast.

"I'm pleased, however because it was an upset," Beame said today of the primary results. "I'm confident that the people will win in the general election."

Beame, city comptroller in the Wagner administration, was born in London in 1906 while his parents were en route to the United States from Poland. They settled on the lower East Side with other Jewish immigrants.

Arthur Parker, Peterborough, NDP Candidate

PETERBOROUGH (CP) — Max Saltsman, NDP member of Parliament for Waterloo South, said here Tuesday night that Prime Minister Pearson called an election because he was afraid to push his own program.

Mr. Saltsman was addressing an NDP nominating convention that chose Arthur Parker, 32, a foreman in an electrical plant here, as party candidate for Peterborough riding.

Mr. Saltsman said that aspects of the Liberal program such as the Canada Pension Plan and the medical care plan were forced by a majority in Parliament.

"These programs should have been a part of in this Parliament," he said.

Diefenbaker Pleads for Party Unity

OTTAWA (CP) — Progressive Conservative Leader Diefenbaker appealed today for all Conservatives to join the party's election battle and said former trade minister George Hees has a role to play in the party.

Mr. Diefenbaker said in reply to newspaper questions: "I want to see every one of the party. Mr. Hees has a role to play and I hope he and others will join in."

Mr. Hees resigned from the Diefenbaker Cabinet in 1963 after a policy dispute and did not seek re-election to the Commons. He now is president of the Montreal and Canadian stock exchanges.

Mr. Diefenbaker said that after speaking at Oakville, Ont., Wednesday and Saturday night, he will attend a party convention in Prince Albert, Sask., Monday, he will go to Ottawa for a campaign opening meeting in Halifax Sept. 24.

Mr. Diefenbaker recollected that he issued a call Aug. 31 in Calgary to close party ranks "I said there is no place in the party for division."

NO LONGER AN ISSUE

He said some Conservatives had left over the question of nuclear weapons in 1963 "it's that no longer is an issue."

"My appeal is for party unity in the interests of the nation," he told reporters. "The conservatives have "a tremendous issue in Canada's unity."

"The Conservative party made Confederation possible and now it has the mission of strengthening and even preserving Confederation."

Mr. Hees, who had at one time been considered Mr. Diefenbaker's heir - apparent, and Pierre Sevigny, former associate defence minister, both quit the cabinet in 1963 following the resignation of Defence Minister Harkness over the nuclear arms issue.

More Canadians Each Year Spend Vacation Camping

OTTAWA (CP)—Canadians in unprecedented numbers are leaving the comforts of home to spend their vacation close to nature.

Figures issued by the national parks branch of the northern affairs department provide graphic proof of a camping boom.

Last year, the branch says, about 700,000 campers booked for the 13 federal parklands, United States visitors not included in every province except Quebec. That figure was 15 times as high as the number who camped out on federal property in 1950.

The report cites three examples of the tremendous growth in camping activities. In Alberta's Jasper National Park the number of campers days in the 10 years after 1954 rose from 13,000 to 187,000.

In Prince Edward Island National Park the increase was greater — from 5,000 camper days in 1956 to 106,000 in 1964. Fundy Highlands National Park showed the greatest increase, from 1,700 camper days in 1956 to 50,000 last year.

The parks branch estimates the number of camping facilities—which it attributes in part to better roads both in and around the parks—should in part to greater leisure time—is growing at the rate of 16 per year a year.

To keep abreast of the camping boom, the federal government has spent about $10,000,000 to provide nearly 3,700 campsites to go with the 3,900 in existence in 1954.

STARTED IN 1885

The 9,000 campsites, one-tenth of which are fully serviced trailer sites, can accommodate about 36,000 campers. Others are allocated to overflow areas or under designated camping grounds.

The federal government gets into the business of operating parks in a number of ways.

For example, it created Banff National Park in 1885 to prevent commercial exploitation by railway interests. At that time the province of Alberta, where the park is situated, had not come into existence.

Another federal park, Point Pelee National Park on Lake Erie, was established to preserve in Canada although it is administered by the northern affairs department. Responsibility for the British admiralty which sold it to the federal government.

Other parks have been bought from Indian bands and still others, including a spit of land near Kejimkujik, in southwest Nova Scotia, have been donated by provincial governments.

Depending on what kind of scenery they prefer, campers can head for parks ranging in size from the tiny St. Lawrence Islands National Park near Gananoque, Ont., to the vast one-square mile in size, to the vast Wood Buffalo National Park which covers 17,000 square miles in northern Alberta and the Northwest Territories.

Entrance fees to the parks are nominal, ranging from 25 cents to $1.50 a day, and exploring the campsites is one of the country's most picturesque scenery and some of its most exotic wildlife.

Chrysler Car Prices Higher In United States

CALGARY (CP) — A higher wage bill for workers has obliged Steelworkers' contract will likely result in increased prices on Chrysler's 1966 models sold in the United States, Donald Todgham, president of Chrysler Canada Ltd., said Tuesday.

Mr. Todgham told a press conference that "if prices go up in Canada, they won't be increased as much as in the United States", partly because the automotive trade agreement between the two countries will narrow the gap spread between the costs of U.S. and Canadian cars.

The Chrysler president was in Calgary to attend the preview-ing of his company's 1966 cars.

"Our new contract agreement pushed up our costs by $30,000,000 a year," he said. "We offset cost prices unless we can cut costs."

Hockey Club May Be Incorporated

TRENTON — What business would the Ontario Securities Commission and the Toronto Stock Exchange have looking into the affairs of the Trenton Minor "B" Hockey Club?

At the present time none.

But these official bodies would be within their jurisdiction to pursue the club's activities if and when a plan considered by the organization's president Howard Weese materializes.

Monday night Mr. Weese told the Community Gardens directors he had been advised he can register the name of the Trenton Junior Hockey Club Limited. He said a capital structure of 40,000 shares at $1. par value had been discussed. He led the directors to understand it was his idea to sell 7,000, or 8,000 shares and leave the balance in the treasury for future financing.

He expressed the opinion that shares in the proposed company would be offered at $1. to $10. lots. He said he preferred the stock method of operation to the Booster Club raising finances for the club's ides suggested by the club's manager Jack Bone. Mr. Weese is sold owner of the Junior "B" O.H.A. franchise for Trenton.

He was called by Gardens directors to express his views on a report they had about dissention in the ranks of the club's administration. The Junior "B" executive comprises: Howard Weese, president; Gordon Webb, treasurer; Bob Johnson and Doug Carpenter, committee members; Eugene Poirier, coach.

Bank Prevents New Threat To Sterling

LONDON (Reuters) — The state-controlled Bank of England, armed with new support from the central banks of 10 countries including Canada, threw its weight into the foreign exchange market Tuesday to offset a new threat to the stability of the pound sterling.

The move came after the government announced that British sailors' wages would increase, deficit last month.

Within minutes a European bidder of sterling—some market dealers hinted it was France—offered to sell the currency below the market rate.

The Bank of England was understood to have stepped in as buyer and the price was quickly restored. West German banks bought sterling.

The trade figures for August disclosed that more imports and fewer exports had resulted in the biggest trade deficit for four months and the second biggest for this year.

Exports and re-exports were down from July's £434,000,000 ($1,302,000,000) to £414,000,000 ($1,218,000,000). West Germany was the only European country which increased its purchases.

Victoria Grey Shareholders Approve Merger

LINDSAY, Ont. (CP) — A shareholders' meeting of Victoria and Grey Trust Company voted unanimously Tuesday to ratify a merger agreement with British Mortgage and Trust Company.

H. J. McLaughlin, chairman of the board of Victoria and Grey, told the shareholders present that the merger was in reality a takeover of British Mortgages, which had financial difficulties after the bankruptcy of Atlantic Acceptance Corp.

Mr. McLaughlin said the board of Victoria and Grey had no fear in endorsing the merger even though its studies had shown the British Mortgage had lost $6,500,000 through Atlantic holdings.

Also at the meeter, he said, Victoria and Grey shareholders would have 56 per cent of the new company's shares and British Mortgage shareholders would realize only $2.50 a share for the first year, and a year ago for more than $40.

The 81 shareholders present represented 76.4 per cent of the 1,350,000 total outstanding shares of Victoria and Grey in person or by proxy.

Think 'Graveyard of Atlantic' Once Covered by Rich Vegetation

HALIFAX (CP) — Scientists from Dalhousie University here believe Sable Island, the "graveyard of the Atlantic," once was covered in rich vegetation but now is girdled by the bands of winds and currents.

An ancient soil profile has been found on the 18-mile-long island 200 miles east of Halifax, indicating the presence of vegetation, perhaps as recently as the last ice age.

Now stripped bare of all greenery except for scrub grass and a few bushes, the home of the Sable Island ponies and deathtrap for many ocean-going and coastal ships is being eaten away by prevailing winds and storms and currents from the Gulf of St. Lawrence.

These are some of the findings of a group of oceanographers and students from universities who studied the island and Sable Island bank, as well as the Bay of Fundy, in a four-week expedition aboard the navy's auxiliary vessel Sackville.

They also discovered the shift of a sand-spit known as the Bar, for more than 100 years, a whale's carbone and ancient oysters and shells on Sable Island. Many pebble concentrations foreign to the area were found on the island and may have been used on the ships which broke up there. Or they may have moved into the area during periods of ice-rafting or melting.

FORMS TOP OF PLATEAU

A leader of the expedition, Dr. D. J. Stanley, says findings throw cold water on the theory the island is receding as the sea ward the east. The erosion of Sable Island is typical of the western and southern coasts, he says.

But Dr. Franco Medioli and graduate student Noel James, Dr. Stanley, differ between 300 and 400 samples and underwater pictures of the island and bank.

Sable Island is one of the few in the world located on the edge of the continental shelf as situated well off the coast. It is the pyramidal top of a large plateau which was once dry and the studied back as far as 1,000,000 years, scientists say.

Two other groups are still at sea. One is studying plankton populations in the Grand Banks area from the oceanographic survey ship Hudson. Another is doing seismic work off Newfoundland aboard the Sackville.

The expedition was sponsored by the Atlantic and Atlantic Oceanographic Group of the Bedford Institute of Oceanography.

He was testifying at an inquest into the death of Rosalie Elaine Graham, who was taking care of a six - year - old daughter of Mrs Margaret Barbee Arthur at the time of the shooting.

The inquest has been adjourned to Oct. 1.

Gary Hooser, 21, also of Buffalo, testified that he was in Mrs. Arthur's apartment when the accident occurred.

Hooser told the jury that he and Barbee were alone in the two-room last Friday. They returned to Buffalo later that night after they met Mrs. Arthur in a night club, and came to Toronto again Saturday.

Barbee and Hooser spent Saturday and Sunday nights in Mrs. Arthur's apartment, the witness said.

Hooser testified that on Monday afternoon Barbee said he was going to clean his gun, which he had bought by mail order about four months ago, and got it from a bedroom.

"Rosalie was sitting in a chair, facing toward the window. Then I heard a blast from the gun," Hooser said.

"Rosalie slumped forward and Terry said; 'My God, I've shot her' and ran into the kitchen.

Chequers Discussions

With the British cabinet getting away from it all by holding meetings amid the peace and tranquillity of Prime Minister Wilson's home at Chequers we may expect a corresponding surge of effort on the economic scene in Britain.

From such calm surroundings there might even emerge a solution to the savage encounter now raging between India and Pakistan. Reports from London say the cabinet deliberations at Chequers included proposals for ending the fighting; among them the possibility of a Commonwealth peace bid if the Asian mission of UN Secretary-General U Thant brings no results.

Thus far U Thant has been unable to secure a conciliatory response from either India or Pakistan and there have been reports that Prime Minister Pearson and Sir Abubakar Tafawa Balewa of Nigeria may be chosen as members of a Commonwealth peace mission.

A more likely outcome of the conflict will be a military stalemate as both sides begin to think better of a prolonged and costly conflict that neither can afford. Just now, with the fighting still raging, neither side is in the mood for arbitration from outside. This has already been demonstrated by the rejection of mediation offers by various countries, including Canada and the Soviet Union.

Toronto's City Hall

Mrs. Viljo Revell, wife of the Finnish architect who designed Toronto's new city hall, remained quiet and solemn-faced throughout the entire opening ceremony Monday, even when Governor-General George Vanier quipped that a yawn in one section of the top-piece building might cause an epidemic of 3,000 yawns in the other.

It was of course a sad occasion in most respects for Mrs. Revell because her husband died of a heart attack nearly a year ago.

In any event opening ceremonies are invariably an ordeal. Mrs. Pearson, wife of the Prime Minister, became ill during the opening and returned to her hotel.

The building itself was jammed with people and one of two elevators reserved for the public broke down nine times. The third elevator was reserved for the Governor-General and members of the official party. It is incredible to think that the huge and modernistic edifice has only three elevators.

Mayor Givens' and Metro Chairman William Allen's offices, supposed to be open only to invited guests, were thrown open to the public. And it may be said, why not, since the building and the people who work there are servants of the people who are paying for this municipal extravaganza.

Eventually the building and its staff should manage to work themselves out to their mutual satisfaction. Meanwhile, in constructing the new city hall, Toronto has severed one more link with a somewhat unexciting past and moves forward another notch in the spectrum reserved for the fastest-growing and most interesting cities in North America.

Plea for Band

In a letter appearing on this page today there is a renewed plea for support for the establishment of a band here in the city. The writer, Glen Crawford, says he has the names of about 25 persons who could form the nucleus of a band and it only remains for "someone to recognize our problem of organizing and offer some assistance".

Mr. Crawford is right. We have considerable support right now and should not have to look far for organizing ability among the group he mentions. He says there are hundreds of young people who would be interested in joining.

There is no reason why a meeting should not be called and an executive formed to go into such matters as finance, equipment, uniforms and so on.

Belleville welcomes this kind of initiative in whatever sphere.

Nothing Works!

Peter de Vries says in his new book, 'Let Me Count The Ways, "You begin with the fact that everything is awful. That any two people are mismatched, that nothing will work. You go on from there . . ." Don't expect anything of human beings, or of a world inhabited by them . . . Life is as it is, the world is as it is; and crazy as both of them are, there is cause for happiness, yes — even for hope. Deep in the heart of Russia and fearsome, death-dealing missiles. They are aimed precisely at Toronto. When war comes (probably as the result of some translator being drunk), they will be fired, and will hit an island in North Saskatchewan, causing the demise of several moose. —Globe and Mail columnist Richard J. Needham.

If alcohol had been discovered only one year ago, it would be the wonder drug of wonder drugs. — D. W. H. Grant, Johns Hopkins University scientist.

Letters to the Editor

Sees Health Unit As Boon to Area

The Editor,
The Intelligencer:

Dr. Matthew Dymond, Minister of Health for Ontario, is to be commended for the strong position he took in recommending that Hastings County and the City of Belleville should join together in a public health unit for the combined area. Warden Fred Bedford and the Hastings County Council are also to be commended for re-appointing a committee to look into this.

We are entering an era when all public functions will be operated on a regional basis. Co-operative ventures of all kinds are more economical and often better organized. Our method of nursing is already on a regional program this year and the Hastings County Council members have recognized that a regional unit must more practical; and are not the consolidated schools giving better service to the students?

Our whole way of life is changing rapidly, but we need all the more to care for the health of our communities and what better way than to have our health services co-ordinated under one agency? The independent spirit of our fathers has brought us a long way, but comprehension, communication, co-ordination and co-operation are necessary for all if we are to survive and benefit by our increasing awareness of the need to work together for the common good.

(Mrs.) Winnifred Donaldson
Reg. N.

Nucleus Exists For Band in City

Editor,
The Intelligencer.

It would appear to me that a city the size of Belleville would certainly have a few citizens with enough foresight to see, what an asset a good band could do for our community.

I know that the people of our city, enjoy watching any kind of a band, as I have seen many of them in the other towns, watching parades and band competition in the past few months.

There are citizens who will travel hundreds of miles to watch bands compete against each other, and will sit there and say, "I wish we had a band like that in Belleville."

I took my family to Port Hope on Dominion Day and witnessed a large parade, a drum majorette and band competition.

The population of Port Hope almost doubles every year at this time, to watch the fine musical displays, and is always attended by a good number of citizens from Belleville.

Each year Peterborough has a show in Kingston, which drew people from different parts of Ontario and New York State. There were also many local people attending the event.

This is not a fly-by-night type of organization, as many communities have Drum Corps and have had them for some time. South towns as Smith's Falls and Lindsay and many smaller towns are always represented at the Canadian National Championships, each fall.

There are many fine Drum and Bugle corps in Toronto and the largest is supported by the Metropolitan Police Association.

If an association of this type will spend $30,000 on Drum Corps, then it must be a pretty worthwhile cause.

There must be someone or a group of sensible people in our city who could certainly organize a top competing Drum Corps for the fine district.

Membership would not offer any problem as there are hundreds of young men in the city who would like to belong to something different and get a chance to represent our city.

I have in my possession, a list of names from a city people, (approx. 35), who are ready and willing to become members of a Drum Corps, should one be organized. All that is required now, is someone to recognize the problem of organizing and offer some assistance.

Glen J. Crawford,

Henry Corby Senior Was Conservative

In a letter to the editor appearing on this page Sept. 2, reference was made to Henry Corby Sr., father of Senator Corby, and it was stated that he was "elected a Liberal member for this riding to the first parliament of the new province of Ontario in 1867." Mr. Corby was elected to the first parliament of Ontario on Sept. 8, 1867, and re-elected on March 31, 1871, a Conservative member for the riding of Hastings East, consisting of the Townships of Thurlow, Tyendinaga and Hungerford.

Law Needs More Teeth

Peterborough Examiner

Magistrate R. B. Baster of Northumberland - Durham has been asked to see that unnecessary noise and disturbance is being caused by drivers who feel compelled to screech tires and use noisy mufflers on their cars. As a remedy he proposes heavy fines against drivers convicted of this kind of offence.

The magistrate's response is understandable. But will larger fines have any effect on the numbers of traffic violations of this or other types? Traffic laws are often broken because drivers have a psychological need to ignore authority or to demonstrate their virility — and the automobile is a ready means at hand. And the effect of fines depends largely on the ability to pay.

A more certain way of controlling traffic offences is to make liberal provisions in law for revoking drivers' licenses, thus keeping chronic offenders off the road altogether. This, admittedly, is a harsh remedy for tire-squealers — too harsh, perhaps. But the day is not far removed when increased road congestion will require such measures in the interests of even moderate highway safety.

Today in History

BY THE CANADIAN PRESS

Sept. 15, 1965 . . .

One of the busiest days of air fighting, later known as "Battle of Britain Day," took place 25 years ago today—in 1940 — as unprecedented masses of German aircraft attacked London. The invasion alert was given and rumors filled the air, that landings had been made or repelled, and that Goering was shot down over of a bomber over London. The RAF claimed 185 German aircraft lost in the day, whereas the true figure was 60, making the victory in fact less than that of Aug. 15, when 75 Luftwaffe a c h i e v e s were listed. But the losses were critical. Two days later, Hitler secretly cancelled plans to invade Britain before the winter.

1794 — Vincenzo Lunardi made the first flight in Britain, by balloon from London to Standon, Herts.

1830 — The world's first passenger railway, from Liverpool to Manchester in Eastern England, was opened.

First World War

☆ Fifty years ago today—in 1915 — Lord Kitchener announced that 11 newly-recruited new armies in the field would be sent to France at once.

Second World War

Twenty-five years ago today—in 1940—the Luftwaffe made one of its last extensive day attacks on London; an unexploded 1,000-pound bomb in St. Paul's Cathedral churchyard was defused; the government allowed Canadian men aged 21 to 24 were called up for military training.

Delicate Position

Montreal La Presse

By strange paradox, this minority government, essentially provisional, has already accomplished more in two years than strong governments longer in power. And the best is that it is in poor position to reproach a divided Opposition for having hindered it in making good on its promises. Taken together, along with the visible repugnance on the part of the public for another electoral battle, these factors put it in a delicate position to call a third general election in four years.

Digitalis Respected Drug But Harmful in Excess

By JOSEPH G. MOLNER, M.D.

Dear Dr. Molner: I am 73 and have a heart condition for which I am taking digitalis.

I have been told that this drug is a poison. The medicine doesn't agree with me. It gives me nausea at times. Would you advise me to continue it?—Mrs. A. M. M.

This is true of almost any medicine. Aspirin in excessive amount is dangerous enough to kill more children than any other "poison," because the young victim sometimes eat a whole handful of the tablets, thinking it is candy or something.

Ordinary sleeping pills, such as a blessing to so many people who need them and use them in proper quantity, are deadly when taken in large amounts. We see that illustrated in so many suicides.

In strong concentrations alcohol is a poison. It is obviously unreasonable amounts for a lifetime, yet healthy but foolhardy people continue to drink a great deal all at once, and die.

Digitalis (or foxglove) has been used for several hundred years. It is a respected medicine which, in proper amount, stimulates a heart that needs a little prodding.

If the amount is larger than the patient can tolerate (some of us can take more than others without adverse effects) digitalis poisoning can begin to appear. Or perhaps a better phrase is digitalis intoxication.

The signs include a slower heart rate, nausea, and diarrhea.

I have no way of knowing whether your nausea is the result of a trifle more digitalis than suits you, or of some entirely different cause.

Don't think of digitalis as a poison, because in proper dosage it is, as you realize, very important for your welfare.

Proper dosage is that which helps you without bothering you. Your doctor has to watch all the signs he can find to decide the exact, correct amount.

He can take your pulse (and get a good idea of whether your heart is being sufficiently stimulated) when he examines you from time to time. But he can't know that you have these periodic spells of nausea unless you tell him about them.

A small adjustment in the dose may be the solution. That is true of many medications. The results are best when the patient and his doctor work together. Tell him what you're seeing (like) A happier and healthier you.

Dear Dr. Molner: I am 61 and have been diabetic for the last five years. Recently I have developed warts under my arms and around my neck. I would like two on my neck removed as they catch on my blouse. Would this be safe.—Mrs. R.B.

Many warts do disappear for no reason at all, but they are cosmetic nuisance but are not dangerous.

Removing them is quite simple, and your diabetes will not interfere with the process.

Cheerful note to Mrs. J. R.: No, potassium iodide (often used to loosen thick mucus) is not habit-forming. You won't become an addict!

Is Glamor Missing?

Oshawa Times

Has the nursing profession lost its glamor? According to one expert opinion, it has. He claims this is a contributing factor in the shortage of trained nurses in hospital and medical organizations. It is a problem, it seems, that has become worldwide.

Dr. Eliot Corday, associate professor of medicine at the University of California and president of the American College of Cardiology, in travels through 31 countries, found that almost all of them had a shortage in nurses.

"One would think that dietetics, which rule by fiat, would reinforce more women in nursing," he commented on his return. "They have not been able to do it." He recalled that Florence Nightingale had glamorized" nursing and imbued women with a sense of accomplishment that lasted almost 100 years. Today, however, "the nurse feels she is looked upon as a genial. We must glamorize nursing again. I have often wondered how many prospective nurses became airline stewardesses instead because of a more glamorous appeal.

We feel, as The Charlottetown Guardian says, we must be behind the times, for we never realized that nurses had lost any of their glamor. Certainly not for us. But if that's the reason for the shortage of recruits in the profession, by all means let's try to do something about it! Unfortunately, in this respect, Miss Canada that we have seen, Dr. Corday didn't give any hint as to how to go about accomplishing it. He did suggest a pay boost, and that maybe be a good thing too. But glamor and fat emoluments don't always go together.

It could be argued, of course, that glamor is one of the main reasons for the shortage in the first place. If they didn't have this attribute, they wouldn't be in such demand as brides and the problem of shortage would not arise at all.

Vain Man Minimizes Role of Luck

By SYDNEY J. HARRIS

One of the surest signs of a vain man is that he minimizes the element of luck in his life. After they have achieved success, most men mentally edit their past.

I thought of this the other day when a young lady came up to interview me for her college newspaper. She wanted some advice to convey to budding journalists, and I told her the only suggestion I had was: "Be lucky."

Industry and talent too often go unrewarded for any man to pride himself on reaching his goal, or to make sententious speeches about the way to succeed. The path is hollow, and the speeches are humbug.

Many years ago, at a luncheon, I asked Ely Culbertson how he happened to come here from Europe and begin his brilliant career as a bridge player. He explained it was all due to a bet in a gambling casino.

His family's fortune had been wiped out in the Russian revolution, and Culbertson was broke in Paris, with no prospects except perhaps driving a cab. One night he wandered into a club where a game of euarre was going on. He placed a 20-franc chip on the table — almost his last money.

As he did so, the player next to him dropped on his toe. Culbertson demanded an apology, the man refused, and they went outside to fight it out.

When Culbertson returned, a half hour later, his 20-franc note had won and doubled 10 times, giving him a return of more than 20,000 francs, which was a sizable chunk of money in those days. With this he came to New York, met Josephine Dillon, and made his fortune.

Such stories are not found in the sappy books, but they are an inevitable part of life, and may be the most important part. Culbertson was a brainy gent, but there are many smarter than he who remain perched on bookkeeper's stools all their lives.

I say this not to degrade a man who has hard and lucky fought their way to success, but merely to urge a little humility and humor on the pompous dispensers of platitudes about Getting There.

Statesmanlike

Cape Breton Post

If Prince Philip were a foolish or trivial man there would be little objection to his attending the funeral with Queen Elizabeth. But Philip's not a foolish or trivial man there would be little objection to his attending the funeral with Queen Elizabeth. But Philip's not a simple. He's a complex individual with many facets of people in that a member of royal family should be conspicuously intelligent and make utterances of statesmanlike calibre. Thus, when Philip advocates patience and peace there's an uproar that strikes echoes off the Tower of London, a gloomy edifice in which difficult princes once were incarcerated.

GLEANINGS FROM OUR FILES OF BYGONE YEARS

Passenger traffic manager of Canada Steamship Lines, stated the company was making arrangements for construction of two $2,000,000 lake steamers to be built at a Great Lakes shipyard and which will be launched in 1947. One will be named the S. S. Hurontario, to replace the vessel of the same name destroyed by fire at Sarnia, Ont., and the other will be called the Kingston.

Construction of the ships, which will be part of the company's post-war reconstruction program, will be subject to priorities on materials. They will be built strictly of steel and equipment will include a hospital, telephones in staterooms and public rooms, a library, music lounge, cocktail bar, etc. Voters and a referendum stated that the ships will be constructed so that if the St. Lawrence waterway project is completed, they will be suitable for cruises from the head of the lakes and the Atlantic Ocean.

Wheat Sales

Winnipeg Tribune

It would be a sad thing indeed if political euphoria over the economic results of the Canadian wheat sale to Red China was allowed to obscure the hard reality of a continued and continuous need for grain salesmanship. They are by their nature abnormal sales which may not happen so readily as they occurred. What must be done to ensure a steady export of grain? Not more politicking but just plain hard selling in regular world markets.

Toronto Stocks

TORONTO (CP) — Prices were fractionally lower on the Toronto Stock Exchange in quiet morning trading today.

In the industrial list, Algoma slumped 1¼ to 65, but most other changes were marked in fractions. Victoria and Grey Trust was down ¼ to 14¼. Shareholders of Victoria and Grey Trust Tuesday approved a merger with troubled British Mortgage and Trust.

Pine Point up more than $7 in the last three trading sessions, jumped 1¼ to 69¼ among base metals. Denison was ahead ¼ to 33¾. The company is rumored to be involved in a control fight with Normetal Mines.

United Comstock gained 5 to 38¼ cents on more than 267,000 shares as the only feature of the speculative mining list.

On index, industrials were down .20 to 167.86, base metals .27 to 80.82, western oils .04 to 99.55 and the TSE index .18 to 157.70. Golds were up .25 to 100.67. Volume at 11 a.m. was 785,000 shares compared with 572,000 at the same time Tuesday.

However, there were a few bright spots in the list. Oshawa Wholesale A was ahead 2¼ to 49¾ in a continuation of its strength which started Friday with the news that the company would pay a bonus dividend and ask shareholders to approve a 2-for-1 stock split.

Kelly, Douglas A was up ¼ to 6¼ after announcing increased earnings in the year ended May 29. Canadian Imperial Bank of Commerce tacked on 1 to 68¾ and Bank of Montreal ¼ to 62¾.

Claim Captain Said Freighter Was Sabotaged

MONTREAL (CP)—The 7,900-ton Fort William, the name still legible on her upward-turned port side, smoldered in Montreal harbor today after an explosion and fire Tuesday that took five lives.

Cause of the blast which tore through the four-month-old, $6,000,000 Canada Steamship Lines freighter and set her ablaze before dawn was still unknown. It will be the subject of a department of transport inquiry opening today in Ottawa.

It was known that the cargo contained calcium carbide, a substance which, a transport department source said, "generate'an explosive gas on contact with water."

A newspaper in the hometown of the ship's captain, Sam Williksman of Oshawa, reported that he told his wife by telephone after escaping the burning ship, "Honey, my ship has been sabotaged. There's nothing in the general cargo hold that would cause an explosion."

His wife did not confirm the report.

FIVE PRESUMED DEAD

The captain and 14 of his crew managed to get off the vessel, some of them in their underclothes, but five others lodged on the starboard side of the ship that went undetected when the Fort William flipped onto its side were presumed dead.

CSL President T. R. McLagan said the vessel might be repaired. She is 525 feet overall. Pier 63 surrounded by firefighting tugs.

Capt. Wilkinson injured a leg slightly as crewmen pulled him from his cabin following the blast. Recuperating in the Montreal Sailors' Institute, he spoke to reporters, but made no comment on the "sabotage" opinion attributed to him.

Death Toll After Hurricane Reaches 74

NEW ORLEANS (AP)—Governor John J. McKeithen says Hurricane Betsy probably has more than $1,000,000,000 damage in Louisiana and he fears the death toll will well rise.

"There is no question but that we will find many more bodies after flood waters recede," the governor said Tuesday after a survey of the Plaquemine River delta lands to the south.

The official death toll had reached 74 — 57 in Louisiana, seven in Florida, four in Arkansas, one in Mississippi.

The search for a sunken barge loaded with 600 tons of deadly chlorine was renewed at Baton Rouge, 85 miles upstream.

The chlorine, a common industrial chemical, was shipped in four big tanks aboard the barge. A ruptured tank would allow the chemical, released from pressure, to form a lethal gas which could bubble out of the water and, like a low hanging mist, move with the winds, killing anything in its path.

The big danger was that a vessel on the busy river could plow into the submerged tank. To avoid this, a 37-mile stretch of the river has been closed to traffic.

The search was directed by the navy destroyer Hyman. The effort included divers, who must work by feel in the muddy water, planes and elaborate underwater detection devices.

Wellington Man Director Dairy Council

BANFF, Alta. (CP)—Thompson Benedict Cooper of Montreal was elected president of the National Dairy Council of Canada at its convention here Tuesday. The council represents manufacturers, processors and distributors of Canada's dairy products.

Provincial directors named included Roy Gildner, New Dundee, Ont., and J. M. Hartwick, Wellington, Ont.

Leaves Ministry to Become New England Lobster Champ

WESTPORT, Mass. (AP) — William D. Whipple, who found the call of the sea stronger than the call of the ministry, is putting new life into the lobster fishing industry in these parts.

Whipple, a 1953 graduate of Princeton University, began going after lobsters in the late 1950s after trying out the character boat business, and losing money in it, and the ministry said losing interest in that as a career.

He moved his fishing base a half-dozen years ago to Westport Point. A well protected harbor on the Massachusetts coast close to the Rhode Island line.

Whipple soon began to show some of the fervor that though he was young, he had made a study of their trade of lobster trapping.

New England lobstermen set out wooden traps lined off laths, with a net arrangement at the entrance which the lobster finds easy to navigate on the way in but impossible to escape through.

Most lobstermen set individual traps in places where they think they'll find lobsters, with distinctively painted buoy connected by a long line to identify the owner.

Whipple put his traps down in strings—a series of traps linked to each other by rope with a buoy at either end.

While the average lobsterman hauls one trap at a time to the surface to take out the catch and rebait, and then goes on to the next, Whipple picks up one end of his string, ar-4 then in rapid - fire order m. es trap after trap along a franchise of long view side of his boat.

The boat itself is designed to his specifications, with a v-e bottom, a broad open deck and a wide open stern. He has a hole end of a truck without a tailgate. This allows the serviced traps to slide rapidly back into the water.

His traps are set in Buzzards Bay and the ocean area off the Massachusetts coast in that forner of the state.

Most lobstermen, who work alone or with a single partner, would find that an impossible number for one boat. But Whipple carries a crew of two and a boy while he operates the boat.

His record catch and many lobstermen find it implausible, came one day last fall when Whipple brought 1,050 pounds of lobsters ashore.

CBC Head Calls for New Code of Ethics

From Reuters-AP

LAGOS (CP) — Canadian Broadcasting Corporation President J. Alphonse Ouimet Tuesday called for a new code of ethics for a n i o n a l service broadcasters.

Ouimet, addressing the opening session of the first Commonwealth broadcasting conference, said:

"We feel that the national service should have these main goals: First it should be a complete service for everyone; no one interest or taste should have special claims and all points of view should have the opportunity to be heard.

"Secondly, the service should link the whole country, not only physically but in its reflection of national and common interests.

"Thirdly, the service must be predominantly of the country in its character—in our case Canadian."

Wet Weather Halts Harvest In Alberta

EDMONTON (CP) — Some western grain farmers face disaster unless a quick change in weather allows harvesting of a record crop.

Statements of alarm came out of Alberta Tuesday as cold, wet weather with some snow settled over the province and edged into Saskatchewan and Manitoba. Temperatures in the dry belt generally were 20 degrees below normal.

Harvesting has not been general since rainy weather settled over the Prairies Aug. 23.

R. E. English, statistician of the Alberta department of agriculture, said much of Alberta's unharvested grain crops will be lost if the weather does not dry up considerably by next week.

The Edmonton weather office was not optimistic about a return to dry harvest weather this week.

Grain authorities in Winnipeg said last week there is little reason to doubt the Prairies will yield enough wheat to beat the 293,000,000-bushel record of 1963.

But the bad weather is cutting into the value of the yield.

Croll's Visit To Birthplace Is Described

OTTAWA (CP) — Senator David A. Croll, a member of the Canadian parliamentary delegation that visited the Soviet Union in July, remembered clearly some of the scenes of his boyhood in Byelorussia, Novosti press agency reports.

The Russian agency, in a story released here, tells how Senator Croll visited the little village of Teterino which he left at the age of seven nearly 60 years ago.

"I remember things very well indeed. I recall this place quite well," he was quoted as saying as he climbed a hill on the edge of the village.

"I sat here frequently with the neighbors' boys. Once we even found on this hill the remains of a French soldier, who was evidently buried here during Napoleon's retreat from Russia."

The senator also tried to find the house where his parents had lived but, along with many others, it had been burned by the Germans during the Second World War.

"The Fascists destroyed everything here, but they were unable to uproot the people," Novosti quoted him as saying.

On their return, Mr. and Mrs. Parker will live at 46 Saranac Boulevard, Apartment 2, Toronto.

Susanna's Family Fare

PEACHY IDEAS

Our staunch friends at the Department of Agriculture have again supplied us with two timely, topical tips. I was indeed grateful to be reminded about these right now:

Prevent peeled peaches from turning brown by sprinkling the surface with orange or lemon juice, or, by covering them with sugar and allowing them to form their own syrup.

Having trouble trying to peel tough-skinned tomatoes? Blanch them. Place a few at a time in a wire basket or large square of cheesecloth. Plunge into boiling water for just a minute or so, then dip immediately into cold water to skin slither off easily.

— SUSANNA

HOT PLATE

Dear Susanna: How often are we already to sit down to dinner only to find we have forgotten to warm the plates! Instead of heating up the oven (and the kitchen) let the hot water run on them for a couple of minutes, dry immediately and they are warm and ready for the table.

— Mrs. Saunders.

PRESS ON!

Dear Susanna: You may say as you read my letter, "What a zany idea!" but never mind, you may also find that it is so useful when one is travelling!

When doing a handwashing in the sink, it is possible to eliminate ironing many of the smaller flat pieces such as handkerchiefs, ribbons and chiffon scarves, by pressing them against the bathroom tiles with a dry towel. They dry quickly and are nicely "ironed" when peeled off the wall. — J. Christiansen

Brilliant! Scrape off a scarf and let's go! — SUSANNA

Successful Living

Best Approach Always Honey Over Vinegar

DEAR DORIS: My husband is from Germany. When his niece and her husband visit us, they never talk English. I feel so lost sitting there, and I have vowed with my husband about it. He acts as if he is scared to say anything to them.

They both can talk good English and the young woman visits me what to do in my own home. She starts to cook something before she asks me first. She is 26 years old, the same as my daughter. I get mad. I could walk out. Would you please tell me if I am in the wrong? — UNHAPPY HOSTESS.

DEAR UNHAPPY: You've been married for 21 years; high time you and your husband had an understanding about such things. You have held your peace, with the niece, too long.

Starting now, learn some words in their language; ask them the name of dishes you are serving. Get the Little Berlitz book of easy German and get them laughing with you about pronunciation.

And indulge, the niece. Let her feel you are being gracious because you are her hostess; ask her to show you how to cook some native dish. Use the honey-instead-of-vinegar approach. You can keep your poise and start a new area of international goodwill!

DEAR DORIS: I am an alcoholic. I have been dry for eight years. Since I sobered up I have bought a new home and worked hard to get it looking nice. I have paid up all my old debts and have been able to make my wife and family happy. The thing is that my wife is still very cold.

Things that I think she should be talking with me about I usually hear from outsiders. She is away on a vacation to Rome at present. She planned this trip for six weeks and got a real charge out of discussing it with everyone but she never once talked it over with me.

What I would like to know is, is she still hurt from my drinking days or what is the answer? She has a religious sect call set the home for meetings while I am away, which I am very much agitated.

Could this have any bearing on her being so cold? Most of these people I call on have been separated from their wives or husbands, and she is just terrified that her mother and family find out about these goings on. — STILL HOPING.

DEAR STILL HOPING: Eight years of sobriety deserve better treatment. Staying dry takes character.

Whether the years of drinking destroyed your wife's trust, or the new sect teaches self-control, or she feels she should still punish you to keep you sober, I'm not prepared to say.

We all need the warmth of physical contact. Your wife needs to learn all over again that you are the most important person in her life. You need to reopen communicatibs between you.

Try for a heart-to-heart talk, pointing out that coldness only begets discouragement. If you need the help of a counsellor to get you talking again, seek one.

Ladies' Club Hears About Trip South

The Prince Edward - Belleville Ladies' Club held its regular meeting at the Recreation Centre on Wednesday afternoon and it was most gratifying to have 34 members and two visitors present after the two week summer recess.

The president Mrs. Baird opened the meeting in the usual manner and Mrs. Farnsworth presided at the piano for the afternoon's procedures. The minutes of the June meeting and the July picnic were read by the secretary Mrs. A. Mitchell, following the treasurer's report by Mrs. L. Fox which plotted that there was a bank account of $130.82 and an account of $3.19 on hand. Mrs. Pierce reported sending four cards and flowers and a letter of appreciation was read from Mrs. Wess for the numerous cards, the lovely cake and many kindnesses shown her on the occasion of her 80th birthday.

Mrs. Burd whose group was in charge of the program introduced Mrs. W. Insley who favored with a vocal selection. This was followed by a humorous reading 'all by Mrs. Insley of her recent trip to Los Angeles in which she attended the 37th Miss Malion Airport on March 5th at 2.30 p.m. and arrived at Los Angeles at 8.30 p.m. She changed planes in Chicago at O'Hare Airport and continued the rest of her journey by Golden Jet. As they passed over Lansing, Michigan they were flying at a height of 27,000 feet. Next day they lunched out on the patio of her host with Bougainvillea in full colour and flowers blooming everywhere.

Other interesting places visited were Knott's berry farm where boysenberries are produced for jam. They also visited Disney Land and Forest Lawn Cemetrano, the construction of which began in 1797, dedicated in 1906 and restored by the earthquake just six years later. She also visited Beverley Hills, Sanset Strip and Hollywood.

During her stay she attended her sister's golden wedding anniversary which today had not been her sister for 18 years. After an enjoyable visit she returned home on May 29.

Mrs. Burd and her group served lunch, after which the hostess Mrs. Baird, closed the meeting.

Bringing Up Baby

HINTS COLLECTED BY MRS. DAN GERBER (MOTHER OF 5)

Forcing or coaxing are probably the worst methods most unlikely to succeed when it comes to feeding a baby. Then these "persuaders" often spite a baby's natural desire for food. They may well turn a normally amiable baby into a fussbudget who will not eat, not made to eat.

Pertinent pointer. An unhurried, unworried mother in a relaxed mealtime atmosphere are still the best ways to feed baby. Little one that eating is one of the truly pleasant experiences of life.

Pleasure personified. Second helpings are usually in order when you serve your baby these cereal-fruit combinations: Cereal, Banana and Peaches; Rice Cereal, Banana and Mixed Cereal . . . with Applesauce, Peaches and Bananas. Each cereal is mixed with fruit juice and right with the fruit for heavenly flavour and a wonderfully smooth, moist texture. All four have added iron and the B-vitamins—thiamine (B1), riboflavin (B2) and niacin. Packed in glass jars.

Position isn't everything. When it comes to a sleeping baby, that is. Tummy position or flat-on-back position o.k. unless your doctor specifies a preference. By alternating positions, you'll soon discover your baby's preference. Please for the tummy position: covers stay put better . . . diaper will absorb more moisture.

Naturally yours from good old mother Nature, that is good word on Gerber Strained Fruits, Junior Fruits. Know why? It's because they're flash-cooked in a matter of seconds to preserve the precious vitamins the good earth gave them. The happy result? Fruits with unsweetened-as-baby-likes-it natural appeal. # Dating Back 5,000 Years, Caps Are Oldest Headgear

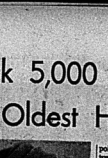
By MARGARET NESS

NEW YORK (CP)—Caps are the oldest form of headgear. They can be traced back about 5,000 years when wild Phrygian horsemen living on the steppes of Russia wore them in pointed style.

They were a symbol of freedom during the French revolution. These French "liberty" caps were revived in the fall of 1668 but in velvet.

During the last 100 years, however, caps have never been sufficiently exciting or fashionable to command such a vogue as have the bonnets affected by the Empresses Josephine and Eugenie and Queen Victoria or the cloche of the 1920s.

During the middle ages caps were the usual headgear, appearing in many variations. Even court jesters wore them with bells. By the 14th Century, Anne of Bohemia, wife of Richard II, introduced English ladies to the tall tapering dunce's cap from the point of which flowed a long, fluttering veil. This conical cap remained popular for nearly 100 years.



By the reign of Elizabeth I, caps had moved from indoors. Men wore round shapes for day and as nightcaps. Ladies took to lace or linen caps. Then they found a useage that is still popular today. They were worn under a second hat or hood.

TOPPED BY BONNETS

Just 10 years ago Emme of New York introduced her divided hats. Firmly atop a small baby cap in gay silk stripes, the set a gold-and-white shantung breton. Both could be used separately, of course.

The Elizabethan cape was the first small frilled affairs. Later, they grew to enormous proportions, then gradually were reduced to small lace caps. Until the middle of Victoria's reign, women wore caps in fashionable muslin both indoors and under their bonnets.

pointed clown caps with upturned brims. The next year Sally Victor visited Greece and produced long-tailed caps such as those worn by the palace guards in Athens.

In 1907 there were Moorish caps rising high in front with sunburst seams at the top and tassel. There were pillbox caps, influenced by the ceremonial costumes of Ghana, worn far back on the head with sock drooping feathers. There were pork-pie hats dropped variations such as the gypsies wore in Goya's paintings.

The fall of 1961 placed the cap silhouette high on the popularity list. Glove-soft leathers and suedes were used in jockey caps and turbans. Last fall the head-hugging helmet cap appeared.

This look and variations of the theme, such as Sally Victor's draped gold velvet cap, have also kept caps in this fall's fashion picture. One pink mink cap is edged in crystals and has a back stem-tassel from which dangles a jewelled triangle. Adolfo likes caps, in velour and mink. And the crochet craze in young circles has introduced a for-the-young "urchin" version in a clash of wild checks.

Caps will be around for a long time yet.

Women's Institutes

RIVER VALLEY W.I.

RIVER VALLEY — Members of River Valley Women's institute toured Roy Mallory's Apiary on the Frankford road on September 2nd. The group viewed the hives of bees outside the apiary building and inspected the extracting and packaging operations. Mr. Mallory ships honey to Toronto and also supplies five stores in the Stirling district. Crates of beeswax are sent to Montreal.

Mr. Mallory introduced his three assistants and spoke briefly to the Institute members on the honey industry. He said bees are necessary for the pollination of fruits and vegetables and therefore essential to the farming industry. Honey, he explained, should be stored in a dry place at a temperature of about 70 degrees.

Mrs. Ernest Carr thanked Mr. Mallory and Miss Joyce Carr presented him with a momento of the occasion.

BUSINESS MEETING

Mrs. Clarence Chard was hostess for the remainder of the meeting.

Mrs. Glenn Rush opened the meeting and Mrs. Roy Tucker presided over the program, which was centred on Canadian Institutes.

Mrs. Ross Holland read a paper on the theme, "He who never makes a mistake never makes anything".

Mrs. Allen McDonell reported on agriculture, Mrs. Vernon Harry on education and Mrs. Sheldon McIntosh on history.

Mrs. Percy MacMullen, public relations officer, displayed the souvenir issue of "The Countrywoman magazine. These books will be available at the Trent Valley Area conven'ion to be held at Club Canada on November 23-26. All proceeds will be forwarded to England to be used for the pennies for friendship fund.

Mrs. Roy Tucker, A.C.W. convener, read an article dealing with the work among psychiatric hospital patients in England, the United States and Australia. At one large mental hospital in England, the Institute members are in charge of an arts and crafts class.

Mrs. Roy Bush told of the value of used stamps to assist a leper camp.

Mrs. Sheldon McIntosh will be hostess on October 7 at 2.00 p.m. and the district president Mrs. Leslie Finkle, will pay her official visit.

The senior project, "It's for you," will be held in Stirling on October 21 and 22 with Mrs. Vernon Harry and Mrs. Ross Bush as leaders.

Ann Landers

She Had Baby at 41, Husband Walked Out

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I just read the letter from the woman who became pregnant at 42. Here is my story and I hope it helps her.

I was 41 when I discovered I was pregnant. Our son was in the Navy and our younger daughter was eight years old. Our eldest daughter was engaged to be married. We gave her a big church wedding when I was in my seventh month. I had to make my own dress because I couldn't find a mother-of-the-bride gown in a maternity style.

ANN LANDERS

I admit I was not thrilled at first but became reconciled to the fact that I would be raising another child and I tried to be cheerful about it.

My husband was burned up. He called me a dumbell and told everyone who would listen that all women should be shot at age 40. I was sure he would get over his anger but to my surprise he walked out on me the week after our daughter's wedding. I have not seen him since.

That was 18 years ago. My "baby" is now a handsome young man about to enter college. I had to go to work to support him and myself but with the help of my two older children I raised the boy. When we went places together strangers mistook figure out the relationship. Once he said to me (he was 10 years old at the time) "I'll sock the next person who calls you my grandmother."

The "late arrival" cost me my husband, but if I had it to do over again I would not do it differently. This boy is the most marvelous thing that ever happened to me. — PAYING BUT GLAD.

DEAR GLAD: That husband of yours sounds like a beaut. How wonderful that you didn't allow his leaving to turn you into a bitter old woman. Congratulations and best wishes.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I liked your answer to the man who wrote about members of the choir falling asleep in church during the minister's sermon. It reminded me of an old story my father used to tell. Maybe you've heard it before. If you have it's too late to stop me.

A preacher who was delivering his sermon spotted a man in the congregation who was sleeping peacefully. He became annoyed and tried to awaken the slumbering partshioner by speaking loudly, but it was useless. Finally the preacher turned to the deacon and said, "Go wake that man up." The deacon replied, "Wake him up yourself. You are the one who put him to sleep." — SEATTLE SAM.

DEAR SAM: O.K. now that you've shaved it and told it, how about waking up my readers? I'd like them to see the next letter.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: When you pick up a newspaper and see heart-breaking pictures of bosey, starved, half-naked children wandering around the streets of a bombed out Asian city and then you read the silly, inconsequential complaints that people write to Ann Landers about, doesn't it make you sick to your stomach?

Someone has a sister-in-law who is a tramp, or a neighbor who lets his dog bark at night, or a husband who drinks too much beer and sits around in his underwear. These are problems.

We Americans should get down on our knees at night and thank God for the daily blessings of food and shelter and pray for peace. — TEEN FROM INDIANA.

DEAR TEEN: Amen.

Parents are people — they can be right and they can be wrong. To help understand their viewpoint and to promote harmony at home, write for Ann Landers' booklet, "How to Live With Your Parents," enclosing with your request 20c in coin and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

'Look for the Marbling' In Buying Beef Says Chef

By ANNE MASON

EDMONTON (CP)—"If you buy good quality meat with the grain running in one direction and slice it properly, you will almost never have a tough piece of beef," says Henry Baghman, head chef at the Macdonald Hotel.

Chef Bachman, who was in charge of cooking for the Queen during her visit to Charlottetown last year, advises a beef buyer to "look for the marbling."

Good meat will contain marbling — fine streaks of fat through the body of the beef—and a good coating of fat on the outside, says the Montreal-born chef.

Also look for white cartilage remove from any cut of beef for roasting.

"The cartilage is a sign of good beef. It means the animal was slaughtered while young, when the tissues are more tender and juicy.

Beef should be cut against the grain, since meat sliced with the grain is tougher. If the grain in a roast runs more than one way, at least part of it will be tough.

"It's better not to serve the roast piping hot," he says. "Let it rest for half an hour to an hour before serving, keeping it warm but not too hot or it will continue cooking."

FIBRES RELAX

Resting and some cooling allows the meat fibres to relax, but the most surprising result is that the roast is more tender, looks more appetizing and is more economical—the meat is easier to carve, portions even and there are fewer scraps.

A chef for 22 years, Mr. Bachman suggests a housewife should buy red or blue ribbon beef, especially when cooking a steak or roast. A rib, cut close to the short loin end, or top sirloin, preferably boned, makes excellent roasts.

Roasting should always be done in an open pan without foil. Cook for a short time at high temperature, then reduce the heat.

For example, a six-pound sirloin tip should be cooked 20 minutes at 400-450, then, if you want it rare, 1¼ hours more at 350-375.

Chef Bachman says freezing doesn't improve meat. Some of the flavor or juice is lost with thawing. But the average person can't tell by taste whether meat has been frozen.

Beef packed in airtight containers can be kept for up to a year if the freezer temperature is 10 below zero. And meat, especially steaks, should be thawed before cooking, preferably in the freezing container or wrapper to avoid drying it out.

Chef Bachman's favorite method of cooking steak is to coat a frying pan lightly with oil and heat to the smoke point; place the steak, seasoned to taste, carefully in the pan and quickly sear on both sides, then cook until done to your taste.

FAVORITE RECIPE

His favorite beef recipe—scalloped beef tenderloin a la deutsch—is easy to prepare and can be done in 15 minutes.

For three or four servings the ingredients are:

1 pound sliced beef tenderloin (scallopped into two-square slices a quarter-inch thick); 2 cups sliced mushrooms; 1 green pepper; 1 medium onion cut into large dice; ½ cup red pimento in large dice; 4 tablespoons clarified butter; 1 cup peeled and diced tomato; 2 oz. red wine; 1 cup meat gravy; salt, pepper, chopped parsley.

Saute the mushrooms, onions and green peppers in half the butter until transparent or limp, then add tomatoes and red pimento. Toss lightly for one minute.

In a second frying pan over very high heat, bring the remaining butter to smoke point and quickly toss the beef tenderloin for one or two minutes, adding salt and pepper.

Immediately place on a hot platter, put the other garnish on top, sprinkle with chopped parsley and serve immediately, preferably with rice.

Water Skiiers Compete For Kite Flying Awards

DESERONTO — The Central Canadian Water Ski Kite Flying Championships were held last weekend, sponsored by the Quinte Marine Ski Club situated on the Napanee River two miles east of Deseronto.

The event was a great success and it is hoped it will be held again next year. Much of its success was due to almost perfect weather and low winds for the complete weekend.

This sport is very exciting and all flyers attest to its safety, especially since a man of 62 took his first flight and has enjoyed the sport ever since.

TRICK FLYING

From the spectators viewpoint the trick flying event is probably the most thrilling of the three divisions of kite flying. Here each competitor is allowed two passes through the course. From the firing of the starter's gun he has 20 seconds in which to perform the tricks which he has chosen. Each trick position must be held for one second.

This may not seem to be a very long time, but when one observes these flyers' kites seemingly out of control, one understands what difficulty they are undergoing, and wonders how they can hold a position for even one second. To add to the difficulty no trick can be repeated in either of the runs.

Gymnastic skills on the high bar such as layouts, turns, flying spiderdown, and even flying while suspended with only the aid of the safety harness are seen often during the competition.

Winners of this event in the womens' class were Marg Collins of Collins Bay, Cathy Galt of Napanee, Elaine MacDonald of Belleville, and Sharon Kimmett of Deseronto.

SLALOM FLYING

In the slalom flying event much of the style and grace are sacrificed for daring swerving, diving and swooping around buoys.

The object of this event is to guide the kite around markers set at prescribed distances while the boat driver guides the boat down the centre of the course. The flyer must get his kite in the air and go through the tow markers at the beginning of the course, called the gate. Because of the dangers involved, only men with an expert or master's rating are allowed to enter this exciting competition.

John lost his skis on the first round which meant he had to complete his second round without them. He remarked that he liked to fly better without skis.

FORMAL KITE FLYING

The formal kite flying event, although not as spectacular as the other two events, shows the flyer's ability to control his kite. Grace and poise throughout the flight contribute to the overall points a flyer can achieve. The kilists are judged from the time they start from the dock while taxiing on the water, during take-off, in actual flight, landing and returning to the dock.

All women competitors who enter this event must have a first class rating. Men with only a first class rating are restricted to entering any other events but this.

BANQUET, PRESENTATIONS

The events ended with a banquet at Dawson's Motel where presentations of the trophies were made by various club members.

The men's overall awards were taken by Rollie (son of a gun) Bonneau from Brighton, John Robertson of Kirk Kove, and Ken Kirk of Kirk Kove.

The guest speaker was Mr. Douglas Alkenbrack, M.P. for Prince Edward - Lennox who wished all skiers the greatest success and said he thought this was where the saying "to fly a kite" comes into its own.

Small Party Blocks Brandt From Power

By HANNS NEUERBOURG

BONN (AP)—A small political party may block the way to power for Willy Brandt's Social Democrats even if they emerge the most popular group in Sunday's general election in West Germany.

Erich Mende, chairman of the Free Democratic Party, has pledged to see that the Socialists do not occupy the Palais Schaumburg, Bonn's Rhineside chancellory.

All professional pollsters predict a close outcome in the race between the two top parties, Chancellor Ludwig Erhard's Christian Democrats and Brandt's Socialists. Thus, the men around "Handsome Erich" are likely to have a say again when it comes to forming a new government.

Mende, 43, a former army officer, discusts everything socialistic. He has publicly ruled out any idea of allying himself with the Socialists in case they need the free democratic votes for control of the new Bundestag.

'TIP THE SCALES'

"We will be thewrightthat «We will be the weight that tips the scales," Mende says.

Tempting offers in case of a Socialist victory could split the Free Democratic leadership, but so far Mende has kept control of his party.

Mende's group includes former Hitler Youth leaders who pursue a strongly nationalist line. It also has some bitter anti - Nazis imprisoned during Hitler's Third Reich. There is no handy label to characterizing the party except, perhaps, that it stands strictly for private enterprise.

No Estimate Of Damage in Co-op Fire

Picton's Volunteer Fire Department was called at 3:46 p.m. yesterday and arrived on the scene in time to extinguish the blaze in less than one hour.

Heavy quantities of water were poured into the grain-filled silos and firemen were forced to use oxygen tanks and masks in fighting the fire in the dust and smoke-filled silos.

The silos and main building were not damaged. The fire was confined to the interior of the 100 foot high double silo.

Company officials as yet have not estimated the damage caused by the fire and especially by the water.

The fire was said to have started by friction from an overheated motor belt located in the silo.

Canada Will Make Plea for Standby Forces

UNITED NATIONS (CP)— Canada will urge the forthcoming session of the United Nations General Assembly that more countries set aside permanent stand-by forces which would be available readily for peacekeeping duties, Canadian delegation sources said Tuesday night.

The Canadian plea will be made Sept. 24 by External Affairs Minister Paul Martin when he delivers before the assembly what is expected to be a major Canadian foreign policy statement.

Sources said Martin is expected to urge strongly broader participation by UN members in the world organization's peacekeeping duties, stressing that Canada believes that the most important task facing the UN is the strengthening of its peacekeeping facilities.

READY TO SERVE

Canada has had a standby force ready to serve the UN for a number of years and Canadians now are participating in UN duties in such places as Cyprus, the Middle East, Kashmir and Korea.

The sources said Martin will call on other nations to join such countries as Canada, India, Ireland, the Scandinavian countries, Ghana, Nigeria and Ethiopia in setting up UN peacekeeping units which would be ready to serve on short notice.

Canada also is expected to call on the world organization to do all it can to bring peace to Viet Nam although Canada in the past had not spoken out too strongly on the Vietnamese war because she, along with Poland and India, is a member of the International Control Commission on Viet Nam, Laos and Cambodia.

Rivard

Caron said he got amnesia as low as $10 for gasoline and a passport when he was broke and jobless. And one of his gaffs was trimmed to include the exact $99 monthly payment he owed on a car he bought to qualify as a delivery man.

When he went to Rivard once for more money, he said, that alleged ring chief advised he only made between $10,000 and $15,000 a year, not enough.

He said Gagnon—whom he referred to as Massey—brought in a large consignment of 68 pounds by boat from Europe at Montreal, Jones another one of 84 pounds—each of which he made the Bridgeport deliveries —and there was the final one of 76 pounds picked up at Mexico City.

Caron admitted under cross-examination that he had never set eyes on heroin but had been told the amounts. The last 76 pounds was on display in the courtroom until Tuesday when Federal Judge Ben C. Connally had it removed because the defence claimed it could "inflame" the jury.

MENTIONS NEW NAMES

The examination of Caron brought some new names into the case. He mentioned a Montreal friend named Gerard Turcot, whom he did not link in any way with the drug traffic but who he said went to Rivard on his behalf when he needed money.

The name of Joseph (Pep) Cotroni of Montreal cropped up. Caron said that during his meetings with the Mexicans two Montrealers turned up. He did not give names. The defence asked him whether he had not previously identified one as Cotroni, but he said he could not recall that.

He gave a firm identification, through, of Frank James Coppola—charged with the four Canadians with conspiracy to smuggle heroin to be tried separately—as his contact at Bridgeport. Coppola is free on $50,000 bail.

Four defence lawyers banged away at Caron's veracity, eliciting many discrepancies between his current testimony and evidence he gave before a U.S. grand jury that indicted the group.

ADMITS CHANGES

Caron cheerfully admitted most of them, saying that a lot of things were happening then —before he pleaded guilty last year—and insisting that he had the facts straight now.

He made no bones about making a living as a thief from 1961 until he got into heroin.

"We claim that if he's a thief he's also a liar," William C. Wright of Laredo, Rivard's lawyer, said.

The defendants here all face terms of a maximum 20 years and minimum five on one count. A second charge with a seven sentences faces Rivard in an accusation that he conspired with the Mexicans, who are still at large.

Anzacs Join In Drive On Viet Cong

By EDWIN G. WHITE

SAIGON (AP)—Thousands of United States paratroopers and South Vietnamese soldiers along with Australians and New Zealanders teamed out today in Viet Cong territory about 30 miles north of Saigon, a U.S. spokesman said.

The joint operation was launched Tuesday in an effort to establish a base for U.S. forces in an area long under guerrilla control.

The spokesman said no major contact had been made but that the allied forces drew sporadic sniper fire. No U.S. casualties were reported but Australian and New Zealand troops took light losses.

U.S. airforce parachuted 2,500 tons of rice to South Vietnamese just northeast of the district town of Ben Cat in one of the largest such drops in another part, U.S. paratroopers and Australian and New Zealand contingents reached Ben Cat by convoy along Highway 13 on which the Viet Cong have pulled many land ambushes.

One truck in the convoy blew up on a land mine and one was inflicted the casualties on the New Zealanders. (Reuters news agency said two New Zealanders were killed.)

A U.S. Navy plane on a strike in South Viet Nam crashed at sea 145 miles southwest of Saigon, and the pilot was presumed dead. Cause of the crash was not known.

Seventeen Americans were killed in action during the week ending Sept. 11, a military spokesman said. Fifty - eight others were wounded.

Only One

secretary for economic affairs, flickled most of the questions in endorsing the bill on behalf of the U.S. government.

CALLS IT A CARTEL

Gore said the agreement represented the creation of an international cartel benefitting the big companies at the expense of small parts-makers and is the antithesis of a free-trade concept.

"It would expand exports from Canada and export jobs to Canada," he said—brushing aside statistics for the first six months of the year which show expanded exports by both countries.

Connor said Canadian cars and parts exported to the U.S. in each of the last two years averaged $60,000,000 and the 1965 rate is up to $120,000,000 for a half year. U.S. exports to Canada in the last two years had averaged about $900,000,000 and the 1965 rate was nearly $800,000,000.

Gore said he would hate to see a trade war with Canada but he would have preferred to see the U.S. exercise retaliation in other trade fields when Canada in 1962 became a short-lived system of setting tariffs for auto-makers boosting exports.

The U.S. had "succumbed" to Canada's plans.

Gore said he had been informed, in searching for witnesses to back the agreement with Canada, that many small parts - makers are "literally frightened to appear" for fear of losing sales to the major car-makers.

PRAISES PACT

Mann called the agreement "one of the most significant international economic initiatives that we have taken in a number of years." He said:

"Duplication will be avoided. Production costs will be reduced. Canadian subsidiaries of U.S. companies will be able to produce longer runs of fewer models, lower their prices and expand their markets."

Paul Douglas, a Liberal Democrat from Illinois, said the agreement appears to represent another U.S. administration fait accompli for the Senate.

He also said that while the U.S. may have to get together with Canada and Latin America if unable to forge a trade understanding with the European Common Market, the continuing world trade talks at Geneva should be exhausted first before taking a step with Canada which might invite charges of discrimination toward other countries.

has been received. And without help, British Magnum, an 88-year-old firm, would have to go into receivership, he said.

PREVENTED PANIC

Mr. Lawson said the reason the company could not detail its losses earlier, despite a duty to keep shareholders informed, was that it was essential first to prevent depositors knowing about the situation and creating a run on the assets of British Mortgage and possibly other trust companies.

Appointed president in late July following the resignation of Wilfred Gregory, Mr. Lawson said that when Atlantic first went under there was no indication British Mortgage would be caught up.

Efforts had been made to get help from a bank and from a consortium of Canadian trust companies, but both failed. Then a $6,000,000 offer from Denison Mines Ltd. for treasury stock at $10 to $20 a share fell through after an audit showed the book value of the shares to be well below $10.

As a result, Mr. Lawson said, the Victoria and Grey offer was the only hope for the company.

Presented July 27, it offers Victoria and Grey shareholders one share in the new company for each share now held, and British Mortgage shareholders one share for every six now held.

FEW QUESTIONS ASKED

There were surprisingly few questions from shareholders, although several asked who was responible for the trust company's position.

Mr. Lawson replied that he is sure a royal commission is appointed by the Ontario government to look into Atlantic and connected events will study the situation.

At Lindsay, 81 shareholders took only 30 minutes to approve the merger at a Victoria and Grey meeting Tuesday.

H. J. McLaughlin, Victoria and Grey chairman, noted present shareholders will have about 96 per cent of the new company and that British Mortgage shareholders would get only the equivalent of about $2.92 for shares selling last year for $40.

He also said tax writeoffs would put British Mortgage's loss by half.

Round of Celebrations Mark 25th Anniversary Of Battle of Britain

LONDON (Reuters) — Thousands of British war veterans today launched a round of celebrations to mark the 25th anniversary of the Battle of Britain in which the small and undermanned RAF dealt Hitler's Luftwaffe its greatest defeat.

Twenty - five years ago today, dogfights between German and British planes left a pattern of vapor trails across English skies. The day — Sept. 15, 1940 — ended with 185 German planes reported shot down at a cost of 26 British planes and 14 pilots.

The dogfights marked the turning point in the Battle of Britain, which began in July, 1940, and lasted until the following October. In the intervening weeks a total of 1,733 German planes was shot down for the loss of 915 British Spitfires and Hurricanes.

When the life-or-death struggle ended, Winston Churchill, the country's wartime prime minister, summed up the nation's debt to the RAF in a sentence that has gone down in history:

"Never in the field of human conflict was so much owed by so many to so few."

Members of the 10 branches of the RAF Association gathered throughout the country today to honor the memory of those "few."

CENTRE ON CHURCHILL

However, the main celebrations of Battle of Britain Week here will be reserved for the weekend and will centre on Churchill himself, who died last January at 90.

Sunday, a Spitfire and a Hurricane will swoop low in salute over Churchill's grave in the small churchyard at Bladon in Oxfordshire, near his birthplace, Blenheim Palace.

About the same time the Queen and Prince Philip, himself a trained pilot, will attend a Battle of Britain thanksgiving service at Westminster Abbey in London.

Later in the day the Queen and Philip will watch a fly-past over London by 16 Lightnings, the 1,300-mile-an-hour jets that now serve as front-line interceptors for Britain's fighter command.

Saturday, 12 RAF bases will be open to the public for "mini days" display of old and modern aircraft.

BACK TO KINGSTON PEN

MONCTON, N.B. (CP)—Gerald D. Hillier, 21, of Hamilton, who escaped from Collins' Bay penitentiary near Kingston Feb. 13, was recaptured by city detectives without a struggle here Monday. He was serving a four-year term for forgery when he escaped. He told police he arrived here Friday to "get a job and go straight." He will be returned to Ontario.

UN Truce Bid

dia has rejected to accept Pakistan's demand for a cease-fire agreement should include a commitment to hold a plebiscite in the disputed territory of Kashmir, Baskpoint of the war.

Expressing deep concern at the present troubles, Thant said:

"I need hardly reiterate the fact that happier future relations between the two countries are vital to the interests of both countries and to the peace of the world."

Shastri held talks with Thant Tuesday night. Indian officials reported Thant then spent much of the night communicating "with other countries."

The Indians said these probably were the Soviet Union, the United States and Pakistan, but a UN spokesman would not comment.

Income Tax Explained

A column designed for the working taxpayer who is not in a position to employ the services of a professional accountant or visit an Income Tax Office.

By C. A. MILLER
Retired Supervising Assessor, Income Tax Department

STANDARD DEDUCTION OF $100

Every taxpayer may deduct $100 from the net income when they make no claim for charitable donations, medical expenses, or union dues. The taxpayer should use whatever gives the greater deduction. If he has some medical expenses but no donations or union dues, and the net medical expense after the deduction of 3 percent of his income is less than the $100, he should then claim the standard deduction of $100 and not the medical expenses. You cannot claim both.

I still find taxpayers who want to argue that the $100 applies to each of donations, medical expenses and union dues. They will insist on claiming the $100 for medical expenses, where the church donations claimed exceed that amount. The taxpayer can make any claim he likes on his return but he should be aware of the fact that the Income Tax Department, in the assessment, and the assessor will delete any claim that is not in order.

If the taxpayer has not resided in Canada for the full twelve months of the taxation year he may only claim that portion of the standard deduction of $100 that applies to his period of residence. The same applies when a taxpayer is leaving Canada for permanent residence in another country.

For a personal reply, enclose a self - addressed, five cent stamped envelope, plus 25 cents for each question.

Question 1: My church donations and union dues exceed $100. Can I claim the standard deduction of $100 as I have no medical expenses?

Answer: No.

Question 2: My total medical expenses are $140 but after deducting the 3 percent I have nothing left. If I take the standard deduction of $100, can I use the medical receipts next year?

Answer: Medical expenses may only be claimed for a 12 month period ending in the taxation year. You will have to determine if you have a claim next year.

GERMAN A-BOMBS?

BERLIN (Reuters) — Professor Klaus Fuchs, former atomic spy who helped build the first Soviet A-bomb, said Tuesday West German scientists are working to produce military plutonium and would be able to make their own atomic bombs by 1968. He was writing in the main East German Communist newspaper, Neues Deutschland.

Only Minor Changes in 1966 Mustang

DEARBORN, Mich. (AP)—Ford Motor Co. unveiled its 1966 Mustang Tuesday with only minor changes apparent on the highly successful vehicle.

The company lists "styling touches," a five-dot instrument cluster and new safety features as standard changes.

New options include a tape player and a high performance engine and automatic transmission combination.

Donald N. Frey, Ford vice-president and Ford division general manager, said exterior styling changes were limited to the grille, side scoop ornament, wheelcovers and gas filler cap.

For the first time, a 271-horsepower engine is available either with a three-speed manual transmission, a three-speed automatic transmission or a four-speed manual gearbox.

A new tape system offers music in full stereo, combined with an AM radio. The tape player is integrated into the instrument panel with the radio. The tape cartridge slips into a slot above the radio dial and provides up to 80 minutes of music from each cartridge.

May Narrow Difference in Car Prices

TORONTO (CP)—There is a chance that the price differential between Canadian and United States-built cars may be narrowed in 1966 model cars, Earl K. Brownridge, president of American Motors (Canada) Ltd., said Tuesday.

The price differential has been a source of speculation since the auto trade agreement between Canada and the U.S. was approved in Ottawa early this year.

Mr. Brownridge said at a press conference that such a closing of the gap will not necessarily mean lower Canadian car prices.

Some economists have said the only economic justification for high Canadian car prices, with the agreement in force, is to subsidize the large-scale capital reorganization Canadian companies must make to take advantage of the agreement.

The companies have said that pricing policies are far more complex and that a narrowing in the gap can only be undertaken gradually.

Mr. Brownridge said the prices of American Motors Products, which will not be revealed until Oct. 7, will depend partly on what competitors do.

SAMPAN SUNK

SINGAPORE (AP)—A Malaysian security patrol boat Monday night fired on an Indonesian sampan and sank it in Singapore waters. Three Indonesians who were in the boat jumped into the sea and were captured.

'Whynottas' Prove Hobby For Family

CHIPPAWA, Ont. (CP)—"Whynottas" are causing a population explosion in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Norm Peterson.

It's the result of a combined artistic effort by Dad and the four children: Glenn, 8, Lloyd, 6, Murray, 4, and Ellen 2.

Whynottas? They're three-dimensional carvings of animals, bugs and other creatures—in such woods as walnut, red cedar, oak, maple, ash and cherry.

The artistically - inclined youngsters had been drawing the figures for fun. Then Mr. Peterson got the idea of making models based on the drawings. He cuts the figure out with a band saw and uses a wood rasp for roughing before finishing the model in sandpaper.

They're called whynottas because the children, when deciding what to draw, would say: "Why not a dog" or "Why not a cat" and the like.

Thus far the venture has been a hobby but Mr. Peterson, formerly a commercial artist with the Winnipeg Free Press, has some thoughts of turning it into a business sideline. His present job is in the consumer and industrial sales promotion division.

Voice of Canada League Advocates One Language In Canada -- English Only

OTTAWA (CP)—An organization advocating a one-language Canada — English only—held its first general meeting here Tuesday night. Twenty-nine persons contributed their views.

The Voice of Canada League, founded by Deane Russell, a one-time member of Prime Minister Mackenzie King's staff and now an Ottawa business man, was originally known as the Canadian Confederation Movement when founded July 1. It was later called the Canadian Constitution Council before the present name was adopted.

To suggestions that the group is anti-French, Mr. Russell told his audience that "nothing could be further from the truth."

But he said "there comes a time in the thinking of English-speaking Canadians when they should think of drawing a very firm, very decisive line." A pamphlet issued by the organization asks members to "speak out now—take a clear, firm and decisive stand against 'bilingualism for the conduct of Canadian affairs.'"

English-speaking Canadians, says the publication, are being accused of being complacent and fanticulate. "Others are using this curious facet of our Canadian character to assume authority and power to design our national future for their minority aspirations, but without reference to the feelings and wishes of the great majority of our total populations."

DISLIKE APPEASEMENT

Mr. Russell told the group "many Canadians dislike the political appeasement that is going on."

Tables and chairs were set up for about 100 persons in the rented hall—Mr. Russell says the organization has between 150 and 200 members—but in Ottawa "people find it difficult to come forward and be named . . . people feel they are intimidated."

It had been suggested, he said, that the group's literature be sent out in plain envelopes, "but of course we will not do it."

"I would rather go fishing and I will if we don't get a little more evidence of people coming forward and doing something."

"Apart from a general discussion, the meeting included a progress report by Mr. Russell, and a recorded reading of 30 letters received by the league. There was a recorded talk by vice-president Gladys Taylor of Toronto, and a recorded reading of a newspaper column written by Bill Dryzile, also of Toronto.

Mr. Russell said it was too early for the organization to take an active part in the present election campaign, but literature would be sent out to all members of the previous Parliament.

He had attended an organizational meeting in Toronto Monday night and "I got the impression in Toronto they are going to go out and do something and they don't care who knows it."

Trade Minister Wants Mandate To Negotiate

By DOUG DULMAGE

REGINA (CP)—Trade Minister Sharp kicked off the Liberal party's Prairie election campaign Tuesday night with a plea to the people of Saskatchewan "to participate actively with the rest of the country . . . in making decisions which will affect the shape of Canada for many years to come."

He spoke at a convention attended by more than 700 persons who nominated Joe Young, a Regina salesman, as Liberal candidate for Regina constituency in the Nov. 8 federal election.

During the last Parliament, the Conservatives held all 17 Saskatchewan seats.

"It is a credit to the prime minister that he had the courage to call a clearly needed election despite the clamor of opposition parties and the press of Canada against an election," Mr. Sharp said.

He said it was necessary to call an election so that a clear mandate could be obtained for the government to be able to negotiate from closer strength.

He said that in a short time the greatest international trade negotiations in history — the Kennedy round—will reach a climax.

"As minister of trade I want to know I am negotiating from strength on a clear mandate from the people of Canada. The continuation of a minority government would weaken our position to bargain during these negotiations.

Mr. Sharp also told the meeting that within the next few months the federal government would negotiate with provincial governments the whole range of federal - provincial affairs. He said provincial governments all have a majority and speak from a position of strength.

"I don't want to see the federal government at a disadvantage. We also want that position."

At a press conference before the meeting, Mr. Sharp said it would be a great mistake for anyone to believe the Liberals will make massive gains on the Prairies. He said he would be happy to see "adequate" representation.

Mr. Sharp said he would not make a forecast about the Prairies, but thought the Liberals had a good chance of holding their own in Ontario and gaining in the Maritimes, Quebec and B.C.

Two Voters Will Decide Liquor Vote

OJIBWAY, Ont. (CP) — Anonymous telephone threats that harm would come to their children marked a fearful day for John Reid and his wife, Elizabeth, here Tuesday.

Mr. and Mrs. Reid, the only voters in this 2,200-acre township adjacent to Windsor, will be voting today on whether the township will go "wet" and allow the Windsor Raceway, located in the township, to seek a liquor licence in time for its Oct. 14 opening.

Mrs. Reid said all the calls were from men who said her children might "come to harm" if they didn't vote for the sale of liquor.

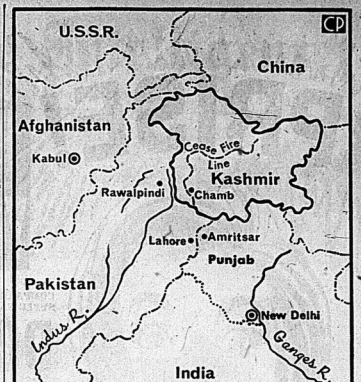
"We realized we were the only two voters months ago, but it seems that the public in this area has just discovered it," Mr. Reid said Tuesday night. "We have had dozens of calls throughout the day and will probably have them through the night."

He said he couldn't take his phone off the hook because of his job. "I am on call 24 hours a day," he said.

He is a maintenance supervisor for the Canadian Rock Salt Co., the township's sole owner, and from whom he rents his home. The racetrack, which has a 57-day season, bought its property from the company.

MAY BE UNIQUE

Believed unique in Canada, the township has a population of six—Mr. and Mrs. Reid, both 30, and their four children, ranging in age from 4½ to 12.



Mr. and Mrs. Reid will go to a nearby polling booth, which will be open for only one hour, to cast their votes.

"I'm not going to say which way we'll vote, but we are for progress and we like a drink," Mr. Reid said.

The plebiscite requires a two-third majority vote to become municipal law. Mrs. Reid said "you can bet your life this won't be a tie vote. We've stuck together 20 years —we're not going to separate now."

Ringo Starr Intends to Call His Son 'Zak'

LONDON (Reuters) — Beatles drummer Ringo Starr said Tuesday he intends to call his son "Zak." Arriving at the hospital here where the eight-pound baby was born Monday to his 19-year-old wife, Starr, 25, told waiting reporters:

"We had a look down a long list and decided on this one—not because it's a bit biblical, but it's a bit weefer."

The mop-haired drummer for the pop-singing Beatles added: "It's short, and you won't be able to shorten it."

The baby and his mother, the former Maureen Cox, are "doing very well indeed," a hospital spokesman said.

WOULD MEET PRESIDENT

VATICAN CITY (AP) — Vatican sources said Tuesday Pope Paul wants to meet President Johnson if possible when the pontiff visits New York Oct. 4. The president is to be in New York to see the U.S. ambassador to the United Nations, Arthur J. Goldberg, when the Pope arrives to make his peace at UN headquarters.

London Could Have Two Federal Ridings

LONDON, Ont. (CP) — The electoral redistribution commission said Tuesday it is prepared to support changes sought by London in the boundaries of the two new federal constituencies proposed for the city.

The boundary re-adjustments, drafted by a special council and endorsed by city council, were advocated at a public hearing on redistribution held here by the commission.

If adopted, London would gain two new federal ridings of London East and London West with populations of 81,578 and 81,462, respectively.

The commission has proposed creating new ridings of London North and London South from the present single city riding but council felt the division would perpetuate a population imbalance.

Commission Chairman Mr. Justice E. A. Richardson said that London was the first large municipality to take "much of a stand" on the redistribution of electoral boundaries.

The only other brief submitted at the hearing came from the Town of Tilbury which asked to be included in the proposed new riding of Essex Kent instead of Essex.

Mr. Justice Richardson said Tilbury's proposal also appeared reasonable and readily workable.

9 Acquanauts Spend 15 Days On Ocean Floor

LA JOLLA, Calif. (AP)—Nine aquanauts learned during 15 days on the ocean floor that it takes longer than anticipated to get things done. But their leader says the project shows that someday a mobile undersea lab will be able to cruise the seven seas.

Capt. George Bond, the chief investigator for the Sealab 2 project, said the experiment points toward the eventual development of a completely mobile laboratory with a crew of about 35.

Such a lab, he said, could go anywhere in the world, do any underwater job and return while decompressing on the way. Bond said such worldwide mobility could best be obtained by modification of a nuclear submarine.

The nine men who spent 15 days under the Pacific offshore from this southern California community came to the surface Sunday from the capsule lying 205 feet down on the ocean bottom. They spent 30 hours in a decompression chamber and talked with reporters aboard the staging vessel Berkone Tuesday.

The second team of nine men descended to Sealab 2 Sunday for 15 more days of research.

Presenting the shape of fall '63 as natural shoulder suits and sport coats like these. The suit, of British hopsacking, features slimmer lapels, slight narrowing of jacket at waist. Sport coat in English shetland is shaped at waist for easy elegance.

Suitings Appear With Eye Appeal

Restrained, refined fall fabrics make some of their most interesting appearances in suits. Novelty yarns and weaves-on-weave provide eye appeal for the flatter-surfaced suitings.

Double - faced fabrics give texture and body without weight.

Suits appear in tattersall, houndstooth or diamond checks, often broken by weave or color, often muted. Foulards, paisleys and calico types are done in soft light wools or other "suitable" fabrics.

Either the soft or the strict look of suits is carried out in such fabrics as twills, gabardines, challis, corsets, shetlands and stretches.

Wallpaper Sparks Decorative Rooms

A well - publicized line — "It's a decorative touch. . . ." takes wallpaper to bring a room to life" — is more often true than not. Colorful wallpaper patterns give rooms an uplift and fall refreshening plan. So many very basic rule-of-thumb decorating principles can give the home decorator like help she needs when selecting wallpapers.

To freshen wall areas, add color and easy maintenance, consider some of the choices in narrow or wide stripes in either two colors, multi-colors or tone-on-tone. These can be found in docile, in plastic-coated papers for washability, in factory trimmed and pasted papers, as well as untrimmed and unpasted papers.

If the room already has considerable pattern and color, take a look at grass cloths, tweeds and shiki silks; however don't rule out a colorful wallpaper to add vista and spaciousness.

In the same category as murals are individual panels featuring arch-ways, bamboo, tapestry trees and trompe l'oeil patterns that can be an excellent solution to a room with broken wall areas.

For starting an entirely new color scheme in a room, there are many lovely patterns to go with both modern and traditional furnishings. Many are available with matching fabrics and slipcovers and draperies.

Delicacy in Design Shows as New Handbags Strike the Feminine Note

Supple curves theme fall fashions in handbags, too, as seen in this roomy pouch of fawn grained leather with rope handle, fluted clasp, studded frame.

There's a new delicacy of line and styling in fall handbags. A comprehensive color span and striking lightweight leathers result in a softly feminine feeling for the new purses, notes Leather Industries of America.

The all-important daytime bag for everyday use comes in a variety of shapes. Available in many leathers are the pouch, satchel, tote, envelope and shoulder-strapper.

Bag proportions are trim but sizable, with wide bottoms and expandable sides. Used as fashion detailing are novel handle treatment, color and leather combinations and gold hardware.

In a more formal mood are daytime bags in a range of leathers, from highly polished smooth leather and fine-napped suede to unusual embossed leather textures.

Unique unto themselves are two special favorites, the "Chanel" handbag and the shoulder-strap bag. The Chanel-look bag is a quilted leather pouchy envelope with outside pocket and chain handle. The handy shoulder-strapper swings laundily from the shoulder or converts to handle-carrying style, quickly.

They're Colorful

Bathrooms are blossoming out all over, thanks to new shades of color now available in the applications and materials most often used in designing a bathroom.

Ceramic tile, for instance, now comes in more than 60 shades, to mix or match with colors in paint, wallpaper, shower curtains, fixtures and mats, reports the Tile Council of America.

Sleepwear Looks Wide Awake

There's the high - up fit in sleep smocks that mix cakes with pin dots and ruffles for the Mod look. Short, smocks take wildly striped tights. Long, they lead a semi-private life for lounging. For the total look, sleep smocks match boxers and kerchief.

Going soft and feminine in a favorite fashion mood, gowns are shifty and sleep shirts show long, quilted wrap skirts.

Pajamas become jumpsuits, with a sailor look, a shirty look, best low on the hip or take an eyelet ruffle trim. Shortened, pajamas become cute little knickers or brief panties with an oversized sweatshirt top.

Fabrics and prints tell the new fall bedtime story: tie silks, tattersall, kris, madras plaids, Op prints, "French ribbon" florals, and the warm, brushed flannels.

Soft. Strict. Shapely. Seamed. Swinging. Slim. Smocked. Sculptured. Subtle. Structural. For autumn, words like these sum up fashion significance — and "summed up" is the key to all. In every look; whether soft-strict or a subtle blending of both, totality spells fashion this fall.

A great deal of the wardrobe planning for the all-important total look has been done in advance, with designers offering an ever-greater variety of coordinated costumes — dresses with coats or jackets; suits with, all the very least, an accompanying blouse and, often, coat, too; separates in a seemingly endless array of ready-mix parts.

COMPLETE LOOK HAS AIR OF INDIVIDUALITY

Hats and accessories, in the soft or strict moods of fashion, provide both the correct accents to complete any costume and an air of individuality, too.

Fashion's two directions, soft and strict, are the result of several influences during which style have stranded, on the one hand, to a shapely, more feminine look and, on the other hand, to a smart, tailored, refined-classic look.

The soft silhouettes, with their smock-like looks, swinging fit and flare and dirndl gathered skirts, owe some of their inspiration to Paris and London. In Paris, St. Laurent and, in London, the Chelsea and Mod designers have given recent impetus to smock lines, high-waisted soft detailing and the in-motion skirt.

The strict silhouettes, with their emphasis on seaming, structural shaping, set-in sleeves, slotted belts, away-from-the-neck collars and double-breasted closings, stem from the "European look" now influencing designers everywhere.

TWO LOOKS COMBINE

American designers, however have put their own stamp on both looks. Bottoms, seen most often in suits, coats and dresses for dresses, blends frequently with a bit of the strict — smartly-seamed yokes, for example, high-placed on coats or a suit's most often means mixing, not matching. Fabrics, colors, patterns blend and contrast merrily, producing a new and refreshing fashion personality.

Soft or strict, the totality of the effect is youthful, pointing up what is really the greatest of all influences on fall styles.

The growing numbers of the "under 25" age groups have designers thinking young. Many of the strict fashions, for example, are strictly for this group.

And throughout fashion, everything from ruffles and bows to shorter skirts emphasizes an era of style intended "for the young from 16 to 80."

RAINBOW OF WOOD

Color is often seen in wood finishes for fall furniture — earthy red tones, rich olive and browny greens, ruddy and antique blues.

Heavily grained wood, varying in tone from very dark to almost white, appears often.

Hats, Accessories Bring Total Beauty to Two Views of Fall

Whether the look is soft or strict, fall hats and accessories are powered to make it complete.

Fall fashion does move in two ways — toward the softer, curvier silhouette and toward the "strict": architectural, shaping that stems from the Courreges influence. But the unifying theme for both silhouettes is total look and that's where hats and accessories come in.

For the costume complete, new millinery, handbags, shoes, stockings, gloves, scarves and fashion jewelry are at hand to carry out the soft or strict look.

HATS ARE SOFT, STRICT

Hats take the soft way in draped turbans and bloused berets. Brims, wide or narrow, cast a pretty, soft shadow. The scarf hat —in the form of a scarf that can be tied any way the wearer prefers, or as a pat that gives the soft effect of a casually tied scarf —continues strongly into fall.

For the strict silhouette, hats are tailored — jaunty fedoras, for instance. Hats that perch on the back of the head, with squared-off brims to frame the face, are another way to complete this look. Or, the strict silhouette might be softened a bit by a beret shape with a little cap brim.

Taking the total look down to the toes, shoes move softly toward fall with rounded toes, supple leathers, texture interest and feminine adornments such as buckles and bows. The open and airy effect appears in sling-backs and for evening, sandals of all sorts, including the elegantly bared stripping style.

BOOTS SET OFF FASHION

Boots, very much a part of the strict look, set off everything from short skirts to long pants. Polished smooth leather, dressy suede, nappy brushed leather, rugged grained, patent and glove leathers are some of the textures seen.

Handbags play it soft in draped, pleated, gathered and shirred pouches envelopes and satchels. The tailored bag is a natural for the strict look, and may take shape as a tote, envelope, box or shoulder-strapper. Luggage-like detailing is a factor here.

Size for either look in handbags may be small and neat or extra-large, but even the smallest styles are engineered for increased capacity.

Contrast piping printed linings, beading and embroidery strike the pretty note in gloves. Longer styles are appropriate for feminine-mood fashions; the shortie comes into its own as a complement for tailored clothes. Texture interest—pigskin, ostrich, lizard, crocodile, either the real thing or fabulous fakes — helps to total up a strict look.

TEXTURE TREND GROWS

Hosieryn in all sorts of patterns and textures for all sorts of fashions and occasions, moves into fall as big news getting bigger. It's a "total look" in itself, as patterned stockings or tights matched to tops are spotlighted in fashion.

"Real looking" jewelry, often with a heirloom effect, adds glowing color to the soft look. Chains and collars bring necklines into strict fashion focus, this season.

Sleeves Are Keynote Of Bridal Fashions

The smaller, slimmer look is the big news in fall bridal fashions. The entire silhouette indicates the return to the simple line with an accent on the sleeves.

The Goya sleeve, reminiscent of costumes in paintings by Francisco Goya, is still a favorite among fall brides. The length of the sleeve continues to vary between just above the elbow or to the wrist, depending upon the personal taste of the bride.

A marked preference is being shown for lace sleeves. The lace contrasts with and enhances the straight cut of the gown, giving an overall picture of "elegance."

Extremely popular this season is the detachable train, which the bride can remove at the wedding reception for ease in dancing and going from table to table to greet guests.

ACCENTING SIMPLICITY

The train is snapped on the gown in the back at the waistline a longer version is hooked in the back at the top of the gown.

Simplicity of shape may be complemented by fabrics with a "tailored" feeling— silk ottoman or silk and worsted, for example — or enhanced by touches of softness. A bridal gown in a cuisiere shape might take a sheer cape in the form of a floor-length veil, or a slim shaft of a gown may be softened by a "headdress" that becomes a cascading cape of lace. Back fullness and pretty bows add other soft notes.

The simplicity of the gown offers an excellent background for the bride's jewelry. A diamond pin or a pair of diamond clips set high on the neckline at the waistband complement the straight silhouette of the gown.

The traditional diamond engagement ring is the only other jewelry worn by the bride on her wedding day. The engagement ring will be switched from the bride's left hand to her right hand before the ceremony, leaving the left hand free to receive the wedding band.

SHOE SHADES RICH

The rich autumnal range of shoe shades — red fox, brown vanilla, squash, marsh grass green — balance the pale clear tones of goldenrod, pheasant and apricot jam. Always in focus for fall are nature's authentic leather colors and, of course beautiful black.

Spring Reigns Throughout Year

Increasingly used as an important part of decorating plans living plants evoke a spring-like atmosphere, throughout the year.

Massive wall units can benefit from clay-potted trailing plants which soften the lines of shelving. Plants can provide the decorative answer to difficult corner areas, or function as room dividers.

Leather in Favor

Part of this appeal is due to the fact that today's leathers boast lighter weights, truer colors, softer suedes, handsome grains and tougher finishes.

Full-length coats, pull-over vests, cardigan and pullover sweaters are all popular. There is even a new suede shirt, styled along the lines of a sport shirt.

Soft or Strict Lines Sum Up Fall

Young, snappy and very contemporary, sportswear captures the fanciful heart for fall. New proportions extend the line of fashion from neck to toe, giving feminine creations free rein to perfect a most complete sportswear look.

The predominating looks follow the strict shaping and welt seaming of Courreges, the soft or bet ylli young London look and the truly soft, f e m i n i n e look. Really rocking the waves is the latest conception of the total look: matching stockings.

To show off all the patterned and textured tops, skirts are shorter still, some rising all the way to kne level, usually bowing out in pleats or softened with front panels, slim shirring, A-line shaping.

For a difference, hemlines are cuffed, waistbands are trimmed in leather. There's a Western look to hipster skirts of leather with lace-tie backs, lots of welt seaming.

THERE'S ART IN SURFACE INTEREST TEXTURES

Suspender skirts, topless jumpers help broadcast all th e news in fall sweaters: Most especially, the sweater is skinny, less bulky, all female and closer to the body. Vacations on this theme extend the sweater to tunic length and belt it.

Heather, cables, argyles are back; so are stripes. There's textured art in the surface interest of embroidery, f r i n g e and crochet.

Knit tops and pullovers take the same direction as sweaters and have unusual turnoffs, such as doublets.

Blouses are soldered w i t h smock sleeves, scoops, ascots, softest fabrics. Skirts take on new partners in cashmere cardigans, lined to match.

Livelinoer counts in dresses for fall '65 and the casual little knot dress has all of that; soft, and swingy, strictly seamed, up and down waistline, the tota. look of matching stock i n g s, scarf, hat.

JEANS DRESS UP

Pants and pantsuits are f o r now, for everyone. Take them straight and narrow, tailored to the hipbone, with crisp l i t t l e battle and pea jackets, prefer them wide with longer jackets, add a bibbed front or a s m o c k jacket, cut them off above the knee for the flared leg of a pantalone.

The rugged blue jean is dressed up in wool, leather and fu look alikes. Really dressed, t becomes a jumpsuit with ittle stone buttons, dots and denim collar.

FABRICS MIX FASHIONABLY

Jackets and little coats are corduroy, tailored, semi-fitted, and tied to integrate a chosen look. And vests are c o m i n g back as little boardloator in the fabric mix.

The fabric choices are t h e important details of sportswear for fall. There's the mixing of leather, plaid, herringb o n e, tweed, leather, paisley; the young liveliness of melton, tattersall, flannel, argyle, textured and lean knits; the white, the pale colors.

Now furs such as mara, ge ette, mock seal and gray rabbit are ecstatic worked into hipriding skirts, jumpers, jeans and cardigan jackets.

More of the exotics is found in felt hats brimming w i t h bolmes, fabric matching spats.

KNITS COORDINATED

Fall's sweater collection has versatility of style and variety of textures. Two and three different types of knitz co-ordinated to make on sweater.

Courreges look leads in sportwear — example, this t h r e e-piece suit of "thick and thin" wale corduroy with paisley blouse, matching lining.

Leisurely Dressing Fun for Little Girls

Little girls love to lounge in lacy and feminine loungewear that pops right into bed when it's time.

What little girl could r e s i s t wanting to get ready for bed when she can wear home with contrasting tights and bootards of jump-suits in many different shapes and colors.

Nightgowns, the always feminine favorite of girls of a ge, now come in many different patterns. Many have their own matching scarfs, r o b es, sweaters and booties.

All in all, just more pleasant dressing for all little girls.

HIDDEN BEAUTY

Hiding behind a collar or cloth is quite the thing to do. Necklines of coats, suits move up for a muffled look.

Men's New Fall Hats Accent Casual 'Sportster' Styles

Men's hats for fall include both dressy and casual styles with an increasing emphasis on the sportsters. Among the smart fella keyed to business and dress-up wear are simple centre creases, pinch - front centre - dents, and some with built-in semi-telescope crowns.

Natural shoulder fans go for the English type "dolla brim" fella that have a pr eshocked narrow snap with the brim curling away at the side and back.

Dress hats for fall range from medium to dark in color with added interest in browns to complement the new brown suits and topcoats as well as the increasing camel color coats.

Casual headwear for the cold months really outdoes itself this year. Starting with the classic Tyrolean in rich velours, colorful mixtures and rough pebbly felts, the wide assortment of shapes, colors, patterns, fabrics furs and leathers is the greatest ever seen.

Leather and leather combined with fabric are news.

Tweeds, both plain and fancy are here in the familiar "Rex" model as well as the telescope crowns and — with corduroy — in a brand new soft r ound crown that is a tweedy expression of the smart a mmo nr "Campobello" hats worn for boating, tennis etc.

Fur hats make the scene as soon as winter moves in. These come in pre-shaped and shape-it-your-self styles, too, and include every type of skin from fabulously expensive sables and minks to popular prices sheardlings.

Fur makes the men's h at scene for fall. Here a modified pinch-front design in a winter-warm Canadian beaver.

SKIWEAR GOES SLIM

Skiwear on or off the slopes, looks trim and slender.

Under Fashions, the Slip Takes on Bold, New Ideas

The slip is now a fashionable in its own right. Keyed to the outer shape of fashion, slips are softer, barer, lighter and much more feminine.

Fleshtones are vying with the traditional white and black for color supremacy. Unusual prints like the "French ribbon" florals, skintone and Op prints; and the female detailing of ribbon, bow, lace and embroidery make for some of the prettiest slips seen for fall.

Keeping slips functional as well as lovely are the bra slips with their long line or natural bra tops and skirts of nylon or crepe tricot.

Strictly for the modern woman is the chemise — a mere sliver of a slip, thighhigh, feminine and flowery for fall — and the new, lacy thigh high halfslip with attached panties.

Up-to-this-minute fashionwise is the one shoulder slip that bares the other shoulder simply by turning it inside out, of transparent tricot.

For Old World enthusiasts, the camisole is back, in made tones with matching above-the-knee petticpants or slightly flare skirt and trimmed in ribbons and beading.

ACCENTING NEW DRESSES

Little Girls Belong to The Neat Generation

Every generation has something to distinguish it from all the others. Today's little girls belong to the "neat generation." And this fall's fashions show the neat generation how to look even neater, prettier and smarter.

The fashions are made with an eye to what growing-up little girls need. Slim, "strict"—look. leg shapes — and there are plenty of them, as young ladies join their elders in approving the Courreges influence — are artfully cut to provide ease and freedom of movement for active youngsters.

SMOCKS AND SUSPENDERS GET ATTENTION

Since the neat generation knows exactly what it wants and won't settle for less, variety sugars and spices the array of styles ready for little girls' wardrooes. The favored A-line continues strong, as does the look of fitted top plus natural waist and full or pleated skirt. New contenders for over - all popularity are suspender dresses and separates, smocks for the "older" girls as well as the toddlers, and the "young London look" with its fresh, pretty details and way high up or low, low waistlines.

The neat generation gets its share of the "Op art" look, in fashions that combine dots and wiggly stripes. Generally, colors and patterns are bolder and bright — witness the new larger plaids.

What to wear over new dresses and separates is a problem solved easily with new coats designed especially for the active life little girls lead. Military looks, double or single breasted chesterns, A lines, slim and shapely or slim and strictly shaped styles serve as special occasion and anytime coats.

Fakey furs, used as trims or entire coats, and grown - up fabrics such as shetlands, tweeds, worsteds, mohairs help to give a little girl that "special" feeling — neat and well-dressed, pretty and smart.

Ready to keep the neat generation looking that way — with less help from Mom — are fabrics with built-in neatness. Garments with "permanent press," for example, always "remember" their creases and pleats, so that no touch-up with an iron is required.

Washable woolens are present in greater abundance, and a wider use of stretch fabrics brings more ease to active young lives. Knits, too, are seen in more and more styles for girls — happily combining a lastingly-neat look with fashion importance.

Sprightly paisley print teams with demure gray flannel in this little girl's dress. The flannel is an easy-care blend of Celanese Arnel triacetate and rayon.

Teens Want Shoes With Originality

Too-age tastemakers are keeping an eye out for bright, fresh footwear this fall.

The "leggy look" was quickly picked up by the teen miss and adopted as her particular pet. A creature of comfort, she has now latched onto the incoming rounded toe.

The informal look afoot is either a low-cut, lo - heeled, sling or pump, or the boot. For bared beauty in young footwear, pumps are shelled out, cut away, foreshortened at the vamp. The open-backed sling is bigger than ever for camping and casual wear.

Teen gadabouts embrace the boot — perfect footwear to balance raising hemlines. At height from mid-calf to ankle boots and booties have such styling details as side goring, fringe.

Also abundant in the fall boot crop is the long, lean variety. To spotlight the leathers — smooth, grained, brushed waxy, embossed — styling is kept simple. Both boots and booties are lined in lightweight porous leather, or in snug shearling.

MOCCASINS IN THE NEWS

In class and out, colorful tieshoes are a quick click in brushed, smooth, grained and embossed leathers. These trim teen ties may be one or two eyelet, ghillie or kittle type.

Shanks are sometimes opened for an airier effect. The strap-flatties come with a tie atop a T or collared with plaiting or scallops.

The moccasin hits fashion headlines with a dozen delightful variations this fall. Purists will still find the classic handsewn moc in glove or waxy leathers.

DATE SHOES GO FEMININE

However, teens looking for the new in shoes may choose a rust buckle-strap moc in polished leather with antiqued finish, a brushed leather moccasin, instep-strapped and squareToed; or a moc in scored grained (a heavily pebbled texture) leather. Most moccasins generally present a broader, rounder view.

When dressing up teen feet, new ultra-feminine shoes make dating a double delight. Slingbacks and low-cut pumps in smooth, lustre, suede and patent leathers are set on slim low and mid-heels.

Pumps are cut down or away, many showing off rhinestone or cut-steel buckles. Stripping sandals are an airy network of lacing.

Teen shoe hues cover a wide palletie this fall. Color combination include green and pink, red and beige, blue and brown. Continuing in popularity are the browns and greens. Winter pastels and neutrals also are available.

Juniors Choose From All Autumn's Looks

Fashions newest and latest Total Look for juniors interprets the complete costume in the light of patterned and textured stockings, matched with a variety of tops. To suits and dresses are added matching and color coordinating tights, jackets or perhaps a poncho wrap-up, hat bag shoes—as many as the imagination allows.

For a more casual Total Look swingy skirts take sweaters, knitted tops, coats and jackets that match with stockings or socks. Fall's sweaters are mad for endless matching, some closely shaped and ribbed for tucking in, others in shetlands, cables, argyles and the crocheted looks. Knitted pullovers follow the long lean line.

Separates in suits are found in exciting new feather tones and weaves as well as corduroys, plaids and madras. Suede, leather and leather looks are new and becoming for juniors when made into mixing and matching separates.

COMPONENTS ADD UP FOR FALL

The big, industrial zipper has junior sportswear all zipped up in plaids and denims. But Sherlock Holmes has managed to capture some of the sportswear spotlight with sleuth-styled plaid suits.

Most fashions in the junior wardrobe for fall come in two or threes. The coat has a dress beneath, usually following the coat line for line, or-if-may be a suit or a skirt with ribbed sweater. The costume suit is now a junior staple.

Some coats for fall are slim with varied shoulder interest, high or low waistline. Fabric for these range widely, sometimes with two color combinations.

The easy, blissed, shaped coat of the 30's makes a comeback this fall as does the wrap coat. The strict signature of Courreges is ever present in leather and suede coats with welt seaming, yoke detailing. The popular convoy and double - breasted camel-hair coats are back, too.

Wildly furry coats are wildly popular and now range over the entire animal kingdom. These wild furs show up also in suits, capes and even dresses.

SKIRT SETS TONE

Storm coats in corduroy, suede and vinyl stand out with their pile linings, leather, knit and plastic trimmings. The raincoat is par as a rain suit and especially attractive with a cape and skirt in plaid.

The "foreign intrigue" look continues in the highly successful in capturing popularity for the all-weather coat fashions.

The skirt sets the tone of the junior suit for fall. The dirndl skirt has a very short jacket; pleated skirts have long jackets; A-line skirts take fingertip jackets.

The newest suit is cut from the Victorian mold and had cutaway jacket, ruffling, lots of little buttons and unusual handings of plaid and argyle.

Dresses move in closer to the body and end in a long, low flare that swings short, sometimes above the knee. Strict shapes are softened by the use of such fabrics as crepe.

JACKETS COME BACK

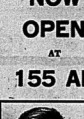
Single jackets are staging a comeback this srseon with the now-classic pea jacket, the London hip belted jacket and the "baby coat," a suit boked three-quarter jacket.



Three-Part Harmony takes on new dimensions with the lavish look of lace. Teal, Cherry and Black double knit woven into a fully lined slim skirt, short top and easy jacket. Goes absolutely everywhere with perfect aplomb.

Liberals Win Two Byelections In Province

By BOB EXELL
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Liberal Leader Andrew Thompson shrugged off his disbelieving flock to victory in two provincial byelections Wednesday, giving him his best moment since he beat Charles Templeton on the sixth ballot for the party leadership almost exactly one year ago.

The official Opposition, with 34 seats after the September, 1963, provincial election, had been cut to 23 seats in a by-election defeat last year and was further reduced to 21 by two deaths within the Liberal caucus earlier in 1965 that necessitated the byelections.

Faced with the need to regain these two seats or lose face, Mr. Thompson launched a vigorous personal campaign in both byelections—and saw it pay off Wednesday as lawyer George Ben won handily in Tucooto Bracondale while North Bay pharmacist Richard Smith narrowly captured Nipissing.

Afterwards, the 40 - year - old Liberal leader was elated. In a telephone conversation with Prime Minister Pearson, he said the victories were "just the start of a ride that is going to sweep the Conservative government out of office."

STANDINGS UNCHANGED

The byelections put the standing in the 108-seat legislature at 77 Conservatives, 21 Liberals and two New Democrats.

The victory of Mr. Ben in Toronto Bracondale, where a Liberal won unsuccessfully 10 years before, was a bitter one for New Democrat Stephen Lewis, son of Farina. About 600 NDP workers were out on the streets in the west-central Toronto riding

Religious Liberty Debated

From AP-Reuters

VATICAN CITY (CP)—Progressive prelates at the Vatican ecumenical council — spearheaded by American cardinals —today planned to continue their fight for the adoption of a controversial draft decree on religious liberty.

A major point in the arguments of those advocating the document is that people today, living in a modern society of easy communication and universal education, rightly expect the widest possible liberty in their lives.

This view was expressed by Bishop Emile-Joseph de Smedt of Belgium, who gave the introductory report on the document for the secretariat for Christian unity, which is sponsoring it.

The document itself expresses the same view, saying that modern times have brought a keener sense of personal and civil human dignity, requiring that no one be prevented from practising whatever religion he wants "within proper limits."

DEFINES AUTHORITY

The limits cited are moral and juridical. The document states that public authority has the right to forbid in the practice of a religion disturbing public peace, violating public morality or injuries on the rights of others.

The text of the proposed decree was strongly attacked by conservative churchmen when 2,200 prelates gathered in St. Peter's Basilica Wednesday for the opening debate of the fourth and final session of the council.

The conservative attack was led by three European cardinals, members of the minority which succeeded last year in postponing a vote on the draft decree.

The draft, since revised, broadens the church's position to include concern for the rights of non-Catholics.

Beniamino Cardinal de Arriva y Castro of Spain declared that only the Catholic Church had the right to preach the gospel.

Balcer Quits Politics

TROIS-RIVIERES, Que. (CP) Leon Balcer, the man who withdrew from the Progressive Conservative party early this year after having failed in a bid to topple party leader John Diefenbaker, cut himself off from politics entirely Wednesday.

Mr. Balcer, who once competed against Mr. Diefenbaker for the party leadership before retiring from the race in favor of Donald Fleming, said he has "come to the conclusion that there is no place for a French-Canadian in the Diefenbaker party."

The 48-year-old lawyer who once was Diefenbaker's Quebec lieutenant and transport minister, said he had no quarrel with the Conservative party but only with its leader and the "medieval" and "incomprehensible" policies he espoused.

Mr. Balcer, who had represented Trois-Rivieres in Parliament continuously since 1953, attacked the "unfriendly attitudes" and "incomprehensible stands" of his former chief, especially on the question of "national unity, the place of Quebec in Confederation, bilingualism, the flag and the equality of the country's two founding races."

THE ONLY ONE'

"This is the reason, and the only one, which forces me today to withdraw from politics."

Mr. Balcer's retirement announcement followed a Conservative nominating convention here, Tuesday night which named Jean Methot, Mr. Balcer's chief organizer, as the Conservative candidate.

Mr. Balcer, who has represented his constituency as an independent since his unsuccessful attempt to unseat Mr. Diefenbaker, said he could not run as an independent.

He worked within the party for 18 years and as an independent member one lives on the sidelines of the big political blocs, which doesn't interest me.'

Singapore Will Offer Russia Base If U.S. Backs Malaysia

SINGAPORE (AP) — Singapore's Prime Minister Lee Kuan Yew threatened today to offer Russia a Singapore military base if the United States takes over the defence of Malaysia.

Lee, in another bitter anti - American outburst, declared:

"If the Americans step into the shoes of the British, this place is lost."

He declared he could get the Russians into this newly independent island state "in a minute."

"I could make sure that the U.S. 7th Fleet could not use Singapore Straits," he added.

The strategic Singapore Straits are the gateway from the Pacific to the Indian Ocean.

Lee said the British withdrawal from Malaysia and Singapore and their replacement by the United States "would be a disaster."

Lee said he believes Malaysia's leaders are convinced that if the British withdrew from their bases here "the Americans would come in to protect them."

Lee said he is convinced powerful Malay extremist politicians would try to use American troops to support Malay communal interests against the local ethnic Chinese.

Lee said this is why Singapore now is rejecting any suggestion that the United States might eventually have to assume British defence commitments in Southeast Asia.

There has been no public offer by the United States to take over the defence of Malaysia from Britain.

Note Given to Drug Smuggler Said in Rivard's Handwriting

LAREDO, Tex. (CP) — A scrawled French note on a memorandum pad of paper provided a focal point of evidence today in the trial of Lucien Rivard and his three Canadian co - defendants on charges of conspiracy in a huge dope-running operation.

And an attractive young member of four went back into the shadows of protective anonymity after telling a federal jury that fears for herself led her to join her husband's final disastrous expedition to Mexico City and later to withhold information from U.S. authorities.

Mrs. Marie Ida Caron, 23, brought from some unknown spot in the U.S. where she lives while her former husband serves a 10-year penitentiary term, to the border town jury Wednesday:

"I was afraid to let them know the things I knew . . . I had four children . . . so I guess that's why I didn't identify them then . . . I was afraid."

The disjointed words came tumbling out as she identified for the jury a picture of an American—an alleged co - con-

India Says Pakistan Politicking

By CONRAD FINK

NEW DELHI (AP) — India said today it will listen to peace appeals from President Johnson and accused Pakistan of playing politics in asking Washington to end the war on the subcontinent.

"We have already made positive responses to the appeals by Johnson and others," a government spokesman said. "But Pakistan now is just engaged in political manoeuvring."

President Mohammed Ayub Khan of Pakistan told a press conference in Rawalpindi Wednesday: "The United States has a very definite role by telling India and Pakistan she will not stand for this struggle."

Ayub also for the first time showed some flexibility on the question of a plebiscite in the disputed state of Kashmir, saying "it's a matter that can be negotiated." Up to now Pakistan has insisted on a plebiscite in Kashmir within three months.

SHASTRI COMMENTS

Indian Prime Minister Shastri told Parliament today that Ayub is only trying to "beguile the world" with his talk of peace.

"The evidence is that Pakistan is intending to continue the fight," Shastri said.

He called on the Indian na-

Jobless Below 3 Per Cent For First Time in 8 Years

OTTAWA (CP) — Unemployment dipped to 211,000 at mid-August to set the lowest three per-cent mark for the first time in eight years, the bureau of statistics and the labor department said today in a joint report.

The unemployment figure, down 33,000 from July and 35,000 below August of last year, represented 2.8 per cent of the bumper labor force of 7,400,000 persons.

It was the lowest percentage of unemployment since mid-summer of 1957. The rate for August, 1964, was 3.4 per cent and a year earlier it was 3.9. In July of this year it stood at 3.3.

The report said the number of people at work increased by 198,000 between July and August, an unusually large advance for this period of the year.

At the same time, 30,000 teenagers withdrew from the labor force.

After adjustment to discount seasonal factors, the unemployment rate was four per cent, compared to 4.3 per cent in July, 4.5 in June and 4.9 in August of 1964.

| | Aug. | July | Aug. |
|---|---|---|---|
| | 1965 | 1965 | 1964 |
| Labor force | 7,400 | 7,405 | 7,217 |
| Employed | 7,279 | 7,251 | 6,971 |
| Unemployed | 211 | 244 | 246 |

Of the 211,000 unemployed, 65,000 were in the 14-19 age group. Although this was 27,000 below the July level of teen-aged unemployment, most of the drop was caused by jobless youngsters leaving the labor force.

The report said 155,000 of those out of work had been job-hunting for three months or less. The "hard core" of unemployment, those jobless for seven months or more, dropped to 81,000. This was 12,000 below the year-earlier figure.

One Man, One Policy His Stand

QUEBEC (CP) — Jean Marchand, newly appointed minister in charge of a royal commission on bilingualism and biculturalism, told members of the commission here that this tradition of regional politics is breaking the country into pieces.

Mr. Marchand, who recently resigned from the royal commission to run as a Liberal candidate in the Nov. 8 election, said politicians must rise themselves above petty interests and find a common denominator which all Canadians could support.

Auto Industry's Big Four Is Asked Where Does $50 Million Saving Go?

WASHINGTON (CP) — The United States auto industry was pressed today Wednesday on why immediate Canadian price cuts are held to be unlikely under the proposed integration of the North American car industry.

Spokesmen for the four main manufacturers, who support the Canadian - U.S. agreement signed July 16 by Prime Minister Pearson and President Johnson, said only that the higher tariff wall on the import of new vehicles and their original parts. The Senate finance committee completed its second day of public hearings but these now have been continued to Monday at least because of extensive questioning by a majority of the 17-man group.

Paul Douglas, noted Liberal Democratic senator from Illinois, led in the questioning of General Motors, Ford, Chrysler and American Motors, as well as of Labor Secretary Willard Wirtz, Commerce Secretary John Connor and Thomas Mann, undersecretary of state for economic affairs.

Douglas said the Canadian subsidiaries of the Big Four are getting $50,000,000 annual saving through tariff abolition and yet Canadian prices remain unchanged.

If that was to be the case, then the alleged goal of greater Canadian production would have to come from the U.S. slice of the market because Canadian volume could hardly rise without price cuts.

A companion critic of Douglas was another Democrat, Vance Hartke of Indiana, who berated the agreement. Hartke recalled that Studebaker had moved its operations to Hamilton from South Bend, creating unemployment from which Labor Secretary Wirtz agreed cost about $750,000 in income tax revenue.

Hartke said at one point that Canada, which he called part of the "United Kingdom," has had extensive trade with Communist countries, including Cuba.

Hartke asked David Kendall, vice-president for legal affairs for Chrysler Corporation, whether he thought American vehicles entering Canada under the agreement might not wind up in Communist countries.

"It might be possible but not likely," Kendall replied. He said he felt that wholly-controlled U.S. subsidiaries are responsible to American regulations about trading with the enemy.

Senator Douglas asked if Kendall felt Canadian subsidiaries of American companies are bound by the laws affecting the American parents.

"That's a highly debatable," said Kendall—taking a view directly at odds with the official Canadian line. He said that Canada's export control regulations bar readjustment of any American goods on the list restricted list.

President James Roche of General Motors Corporation said any price reduction now and he appeared to speak for two countries — would be difficult at this time.

The auto agreement requires major revisions in Canadian plants, he said, and the industry would be a lot better prepared to see its course if Congress approved the agreement before last January by cabinet decree.

"As far as the long pull is concerned," Roche said, "I think that in view of the economics of operation this may lead to, it is logical to expect at some future time that the price differential between Canada and the U.S. will narrow."

Estimates of this price differential vary from 10 per cent more in Canada to 17 per cent.

Said Roche: "It is not our intention to reduce prices until we know what our costs are going to be." The full cost picture rested on many aspects.

Hartke questioned Kendall about Chrysler's plan in the current model year — beginning Aug. 1—to ship 70,000 Valiant compacts into the U.S. from Windsor.

What compensating U.S. exports were planned? he asked. Kendall produced a list showing that Chrysler dealings with Canada for the last model year produced a U.S. surplus of $500,000 and that this surplus in the current year would still be $80,000,000 despite increased imports of Canadian cars and parts.

Hartke said Canada has virtual full employment, coupled with inflationary pressures and a tight - money policy, and hardly needs more auto-industry jobs.

Eaton's Has Quarter-billion Plan For 20-acre Toronto Development

TORONTO (CP)—With weekend ceremonies for Toronto's new city hall still under way, plans for continuing downtown redevelopment got what could be a $280,000,000 nudge from the T. Eaton Co. Ltd., Wednesday.

It would include a 50 - storey tower—tallest in the Commonwealth.

The three - block project as outlined would include:

—A department store of 1,200,000 square feet.

—Two two-storey landscaped arcades running for three blocks.

—Three towers: One 40 storeys high, which would include hotel, apartment and office space; another 40 storeys high containing 1,200,000 square feet of space; and a 50-storey tower containing 1,700,000 square feet of space near the new city hall.

The proposed centre would be bounded by Queen, Bay, Dundas and Yonge streets. The company told Toronto board of control and Metro Toronto's executive committee it would seek to acquire the old city hall, across Bay Street from the new city hall at Queen Street. The centre would retain the landmark clock tower of the old city hall.

Mr. Eaton said in a statement that only the general outlines of the plan had been decided on and stressed that the project would not compete with the next city hall and described it as coordinated downtown revitalization.

Eaton representatives conducting the negotiations include David Owen, formerly vice - president of Webb and Knapp (Canada) Ltd., who was connected with the Place Ville Marie development in Montreal and major shopping centre projects in Halifax and Vancouver.

Biggest Class in History Enrolls as Student Nurses

With Belleville General Hospital now selected as a regional school for nurses, the biggest ever class of student nurses has been enrolled this year at the local hospital.

The new classes of probationary nurses numbers 70 — 68 girls and two boys - up 14 from the previous high of 56 students class a few years ago. The new group of students commenced classes on Monday of this week.

But the 70 member student nurse class taxes classroom and laboratory space to a maximum while dormitory space in the nurses residences is also filled to capacity. To make room for the student nurses, rooms in the residences used as office space and for other purposes had to be returned to their original use.

Under the new regional nursing school set-up the Belleville hospital will serve co-operating hospitals at Picton, Trenton and Campbellford.

As a regional school the Belleville hospital will come in for special grants to assist in providing classroom and other accommodation.

tion to "cheerfully undergo the hardship", necessary to stop what he called Pakistan's "naked aggression."

UN Secretary - General U Thant's peace mission failed "through no fault of our own," Shastri said, blaming Pakistan's hinderance on a conditional ceasefire.

"As far as conditions) is acceptable to us," Shastri said.

A comparative lull was reported this morning along the front in most sectors. An Indian defence ministry spokesman said there was fighting in the far north sector of Sialkot but combat had slackened almost everywhere else.

All-India radio claimed that more than 100 civilians were killed up to Wednesday in the Indian states of Gujarat, Rajastan and the Punjab by Pakistani bombing.

ARRED CEASEFIRE

Shastri told Parliament Thant requested a ceasefire effective at 8:30 p.m. New Delhi time Tuesday and India agreed, but there was no response from Pakistan.

The secretary - general then set 6:30 a.m. Wednesday for a ceasefire and Shastri said he again agreed, provided Pakistan also agreed by 9 a.m.

But, Shastri said, Pakistan still has not replied and "the fight must continue."

Man Fined $50 For Shooting Canada Geese

A man who said he illegally shot two Canada geese because his children wanted them today was fined $50 by Magistrate T. Y. Wills.

Gerry Angelatos, Belleville restaurant owner, said he was picking apples north of Highway 2 near Point Anne when his children spotted the geese in a nearby pond and "wanted some birds."

Department of Lands and Forests conservation officer Ralph Moore produced two geese which he said the accused man shot with a double-barrelled shotgun.

Magistrate Wills rapped "this maudlin idea" that children should have everything they want.

"So," he told Mr. Angelatos, "the object of your story is that you took these birds because your children wanted them. Isn't that nice."

Imposing the fine he said he would not confiscate the man's shotgun described as "a very valuable weapon."

Santa Claus Parade Group Needs Help

It may seem a long way from Christmas, but the Santa Claus parade is in trouble.

Organizers of the parade are so short of workers and funds that there is a possibility the 1965 parade may be the last.

There will be a public meeting on Sept. 21 at the No. 3 Fire Hall on West Moira Street and anyone interested in helping out with the parade is asked to attend.

People are needed urgently to build floats, canvass, tag and to get the parade underway on Dec. 4 and keep it moving.

Treasurer George Rutledge noted that the 1964 parade lost a considerable amount of money, mainly because some persons who had asked for floats and had then placed in the parade by the parade committee, did not pay the rates when they were requested to do so.

Another problem came to light when it was learned that in past years persons have solicited funds on behalf of the Santa Claus Parade Committee without authorization.

The committee points out to all merchants that all canvassing for the Santa Claus Parade will have proper credentials to be shown upon request.

At the committee meeting, the election of officers for the 1965 committee was held. Elected were, Fire Chief Ted Poste, chairman; Stuart Martin, first vice-chairman; Mrs. George Grant, second vice-chairman; George Rutledge, treasurer and Gerry Brennan, secretary.

2 Men Enroll In Hospital Nursing Class

With women each year encroaching more and more into jobs which men have consisted of their sole domain eventually there had to be a turn in the road.

Now men are turning the tables and are entering fields which for years had been considered the women's role.

An instance is the new class of nursing students at the Belleville General Hospital School of Nursing which this year sees male registration up by exactly 100 per cent. Last spring the first male nurse ever at Belleville hospital graduated. This year two more were enrolled at the school of nursing — but they are still greatly outnumbered by the 68 fellahs probationers.

Junior 'B' Club to Play Exhibition

TRENTON — Local hockey fans can expect this year's Trenton Junior "B" OHA entry to make a pre-season showing at the Community Gardens September 24. Team manager Jack Boan says he is giving consideration to several enquiries seeking exhibition workouts. In the meantime coach Gene Poirier holds practice nightly before tryouts are finally selected for regular duty. The league usually starts late in October.

Fund Drive For Retarded Is Organized

TRENTON — Financial assistance is needed to provide additional facilities for retarded pupils 18 years old and over.

In this connection a drive for funds has been authorized to commence Monday, September 20 and run through to Wednesday, September 22. The canvass to include centres of Trenton, Brighton, Consecon, Carrying Place, Bayside, Glen Miller, Pine Acres, Smithfield, Frankford and Middleton Park is under the committee comprising Mrs. Alex Webb, (chairman), Mrs. Peter Charlesworth, Mrs. Marie Rose and Miss Margaret Jane Long.

At the present time the Trenton, Brighton and District School for Retarded Children located in the Northumberland county near Smithfield, accommodates 23 pupils of ages up to 18.

RCAF Rescue Unit Searching For 2 Airmen

TRENTON — The Rescue Co - ordination Centre, R.C.A.F. Station, Trenton, has dispatched a helicopter and an amphibious Albatross rescue plane to an area 73 miles from Goderich, Ont.

The planes are searching for two airmen, reported missing early today.

Officials fear the CF-101 Vodoo Jet may have crashed in the dense bush land around Bagotville. Under normal circumstances, the airmen would have parachuted out, but they have not been heard from.

The men were stationed at Bagotville. No names have been released yet.

At noon today the RCAF at Trenton reported that one of the two missing men had been spotted and would be picked up by the Trenton based helicopter.

Assault Count Enlarged to December 21

TRENTON — It would be difficult to forecast what might have happened to John Bailey, 19, of Trenton if a marksman dispatched his way had connected. As a matter of fact no one will ever know since the round-house swing missed its target and hostilities ceased soon afterwards.

The one casualty, however, went to the aid of the underdog who in this instance happened to be his brother-in-law, Ronald Rigby of Trenton.

Rigby told police he was pounced on and struck by Bailey after he'd towed his car from 401 highway to Rigby's father's garage on Crown Street. While Bailey apparently had the upper hand an onlooker decided the situation called for intervention. He bounded out of a house close by and aimed a punch that was wide of its mark but not wild enough to miss the side of the Rigby truck. Examination later revealed Rigby's brother-in-law suffered a fractured hand.

Either two fights or one prolonged one the worse for combat appeared in court this week.

Charges laid by Wills hearing the charge of assault against Bailey enlarged the case for sentence December 21.

No Charges Will Be Laid Says Mayor

STRATFORD (CP) — Municipal authorities say they do not plan to lay charges in connection with a $3,356 discrepancy in the city's treasury department's books.

Following reports that a money shortage had been discussed at a council meeting, Mayor C. H. Meier called a press conference Wednesday. He later issued a statement said:

"There has been a discrepancy uncovered by city auditors in a routine check. It has now been resolved and everything is back in balance."

Representatives of council, the treasury department and the city's legal relationship, Robert Mountain, who attended the press conference, said the "books now balance."

Bad Weather Causing Drop In Grain Crop

OTTAWA (CP)—Bad weather is causing some deterioration in the quality of the Prairie grain crop, but yield prospects generally remain favorable, the bureau of statistics reported Wednesday.

In its last telegraphic crop report of the year, the federal agency said wet weather is delaying the Prairie grain harvest. Little threshing has been done for the past two weeks.

The crop survey was based on reports up to Tuesday from field correspondents. Warm, dry weather is needed to complete the harvest.

Grade losses are being reported from all Prairie areas, the bureau said, but the deterioration is more pronounced than in Saskatchewan and Manitoba.

Wet weather has delayed harvesting of small grains in Ontario and only favorable weather can prevent rapid deterioration. Harvested grain, however, is producing good yields. Dull, wet weather has prevented corn and soybeans from maturing and some frost damage has occurred in the west.

Diefenbaker Seeks Aid From Past Members

By KEN KELLY

OTTAWA (CP) — Progressive Conservative Leader Diefenbaker has called for the support of all Conservatives who split with him in the 1963 cabinet crisis.

And in his unusual appeal Wednesday for party unity in the forthcoming federal election, he pointedly said there is a role in the party for former trade minister George Hees, once his heir-apparent as party leader.

Mr. Hees, who hasn't been active in the party since resigning from the Diefenbaker cabinet before the 1963 election, replied that "I will do whatever I can to help the party in this election within the limitations placed upon me by my job as president of the Montreal and Canadian stock exchanges."

There was no immediate indication whether those limitations would rule out Mr. Hees' contesting a seat in Montreal. He moved to Montreal from Toronto after declining to run in 1963 in his former seat of Toronto Broadview.

However, twice since the start of the month he was quoted as saying he will not be a candidate. Some statement was issued before Prime Minister Pearson called an election Sept. 8 and the second was made the day after the election writs were issued.

Despite this, a number of Conservatives here persisted in the belief that on election day Nov. 8 Mr. Hees will be contesting a seat. They based this view on the theory that if Mr. Diefenbaker's ambitions to return actively to the party to run for the party's top spot participation in this campaign will be essential.

Mr. Hees quit the cabinet partly over the issue of nuclear weapons and partly because, he said, he feared the party would wage an anti-American election campaign in 1963.

His resignation was submitted the same day as that of Associate Defence Minister Gervigny. However, Mr. Sevigny contested his Montreal Longueuil riding in the subsequent election, losing to a Liberal.

Mr. Sevigny announced earlier this week that he will campaign in this election for his old chief. So will Egan Chambers, Progressive Conservative national president in 1963-64 and former parliamentary secretary to Defence Minister Harkness.

Mr. Chambers said he offered Mr. Diefenbaker his services in any capacity in the coming campaign. He declined to comment on suggestions he will seek a Montreal area seat, possibly Notre-Dame-de-Grace.

Mr. Harkness, first of the Diefenbaker ministers to resign, is seeking re-election in Calgary North. He quit on grounds the Conservative government was slow to keep commitments to arm weapons systems with nuclear warheads. He was re-elected in the 1963 election.

Mr. Diefenbaker directed his appeal to "those who weren't with us in 1963," making it plain in that way that it was not aimed at former Quebec leader Leon Balcer.

Mr. Balcer, who retired from politics Wednesday, quit the party earlier this year after a dispute over the Conservatives' opposition to the Fulton-Favreau constitutional amending formula.

Mr. Balcer commented on Mr. Diefenbaker's appeal for party unity:

"The record of the last year shows the insincerity of such an appeal."

Mr. Diefenbaker said "my appeal is for party unity in the interests of the nation."

"The Conservative party made Confederation possible and now it has the mission of strengthening and even preserving Confederation."

He noted that Premier John Robarts of Ontario has promised that the Ontario Conservatives will do all they can to help the federal wing in the election.

Regional Library Workshop Staged Here by 8 Counties

The Lake Ontario Region, formed over a year ago, is composed of Belleville, Peterborough and Kingston, as reserve libraries, and all the surrounding area among three centres.

Purpose of the day - long workshop was to stress the co - operation and co - ordination between various libraries within the region.

The workshop, having representation from 80 per cent of the libraries in the region, was attended by the Chief Librarians of the three reserve branches, Miss Dixie Delaney, Belleville, Robert Porter, Peterborough, and Miss Verna Wilson, Kingston. Mrs. Gordon Thaxton, Director of the Lake Ontario Regional Library Co - operative, was in charge of the Workshop.

Also attending was Miss Francis Whiteway, Middlesex County Library, Mrs. Estelle Reynolds, Middlesex and Miss Mildred Cloe, representing the regional board.

W. G. Anderson, Chairman of the Belleville Library Board, welcomed the guests to the workshop. The delegates discussed book selection in the morning session. In the afternoon library routines were discussed, and the guest speaker, Mrs. Whiteway, head of the first County Public Library in Middlesex County near London, addressed the gathering on the advantages of County Public Libraries.

Mrs. Thaxton, outlining the purposes and usefulness of county libraries, said, "Small libraries are not worthwhile today.

"We want to convince the various County councils that only little libraries into one County library.

"A small library today is like driving around in a Model - T. You've just got to have a Barracuda now. The small libraries can not supply enough books to be suitable because they just don't have the money, the facilities or the staff available.

"People's range of interest today is so wide they aren't satisfied with a library which contains only a few books. They want something bigger. Yet, a small community can not afford to have a library of the size and quality of say the one in Belleville, so they must co - operate and form county libraries."

In order to set up a county library, 75 per cent of the municipalities in the county must vote in favor of it.

CPR Advances Arguments to Cancel Train

OTTAWA (CP) — The CPR told the board of transport commissioners Thursday it will not have enough diesel locomotives to meet its grain traffic requirements unless it is allowed to abandon the Dominion passenger train and divert its diesels to grain trains.

It also reported that the Dominion, the CPR's second-largest transcontinental passenger train, lost $9,673,932 last year and $5,023,504 in the first seven months of 1965.

The privately-owned railway filed an eight-page statement with the board outlining the basic reasons for its decision to cancel the Dominion as of Sept. 7.

This decision was over-ruled by the board after a flood of protests had been received, mostly from Western Canada. A series of public hearings will open in Winnipeg Sept. 27 to hear views for and against the abandonment plan.

On the grain traffic issue, the CPR said it is already "thousands of cars" behind the quota set for it by the Canadian wheat board. A record 600,000,000 bushels of wheat must be moved to export points before the end of the current crop year next July 31.

EDMONTON (CP) — Regulations governing railway operations are "manifestly unfair," H. Crumm, president of the Canadian Pacific Railways said Wednesday.

He said in an interview it is unfair that federal regulations, set in the 1890s when railways had a transportation monopoly, must govern rail operations while competitors are not restricted.

Canadian railways are facing strong competition in passenger service and may encounter serious problems in meeting freight competition in the latter, he said.

The CPR's chief executive predicted travellers will continue to abandon the rails for other forms of transportation.

REDS WOULD BUILD

MOSCOW (Reuters)—The Soviet Union has offered to build a giant $200,000,000 dam on Brazil's River Parana, but laid down tough credit terms, informed sources said here Wednesday. The dam is planned to be bigger than Egypt's Aswan project, which was largely built with Soviet aid.

Electoral Officer Bound By Rule He Can't Change

OTTAWA (CP)—Nelson Castonguay, chief electoral officer, has ruled out any possibility of a legal loophole through which otherwise disfranchised university students could get to vote in the Canada Elections Act and vote in the Nov. 8 federal election.

It was suggested by student representatives in Vancouver and Edmonton this week that despite plans to establish universities by students during the summer to reserve accommodation for the fall term might constitute a legal claim to be in residence when the election writs were issued Sept. 8.

"Placing of deposits for accommodation does not fulfil the requirements of rule 9 section 18 of the Canada Elections Act," Mr. Castonguay said Wednesday.

Under the rule, students of voting age studying away from home and unable to vote Nov. 8 is what is ordinarily their home constituency must have established residence in another riding by Sept. 8—date the election writs were issued—if they are to get on the voting lists in their university-term constituency.

When the writs were issued for this election most universities had not yet started their terms. This meant many students—their representatives estimate the number at 20,000 to 30,000—were not residing Sept. 8 where they will be Nov. 8.

"The rule is explicit," Mr. Castonguay said. "The Canada Elections Act can be amended only by Parliament, which now is dissolved."

The chief electoral officer has received direct representations from 21,000-strong National Canadian Union of Students, the Students' General Association of Laurentian University at Sudbury and the Alma Mater Society of the University of British Columbia. Some individual students and politicians also have written him.

The Alma Mater Society of UBC and student officials at the University of Alberta suggested the possibility of the loophole.

In some cases, students have told Mr. Castonguay to devise a solution and have even suggested "extreme measures," but he is bound by an act he cannot change.

Head of Firm That Caused Storm, Is Buried

NEW YORK (CP)—Max Sefkind, 57, whose furniture-store operations in Montreal once brought on a storm in the House of Commons, was buried Wednesday in Union, N.J.

The office of Dr. Milton Halpern, Liberal member for Toronto Eglinton, was bombed Sept. 27 by what Halpern called a "well-organized, anti-Semitic campaign."

Sefkind resided in East Orange, N.J.

Max and his brother, Adolph Sefkind, left Montreal late in 1963 after at least two of their furniture companies went into bankruptcy, with debts totalling about $2,000,000.

INTERRED SPOTLIGHT

They vaulted into prominence last December when State Secretary Lamontagne and then immigration minister Rene Tremblay, informed the Commons that they had purchased thousands of dollars worth of furniture from the Sefkind companies without making down payments and with indefinite time to pay.

Both ministers denied rumors they had received gifts from the Sefkinds. Conservative MPs tried repeatedly and vainly to obtain the publication of government records on the transactions from Crone Corp. and Futurama, both headed by Max Sefkind.

Mr. Lamontagne said he had been a personal friend of Max Sefkind for many years. He had begun to purchase $6,000 worth of furniture from the Sefkinds' Montreal store in 1961 while Mr. Sefkind was still general supervisor when a promotion leader of Exster Pearson.

He said he received the bill in January, 1964, from the bank that had taken over the bankrupt firms. He had paid $1,000 then and offered to repay the balance in monthly instalments in the 1964 year.

Mr. Tremblay said he bought furniture worth $3,361 from the Sefkinds in 1963 and paid the bank in February and March of 1964.

Talks With Soviet Premier

Soviet Premier Alexei N. Kosygin, as we have noted on more than one occasion, is as different to his predecessor, Mr. Khrushchev, as can be. Whereas Mr. Khrushchev browbeat and threatened his way across the east-west stage, Mr. Kosygin is scarcely heard at all.

Indeed, if it were not for personalities like Cyrus Eaton and Lord Thomson and the Press it would be difficult to know just what was going on in the Soviet leader's mind.

And sometimes the public is misinformed, as when Mr. Eaton returned from a visit about three months ago and said that both Russia and China were about to "attack with all they had got" in Vietnam. This was clearly a preposterous statement and naturally, nothing of the kind came about.

Lord Thomson, however, and Henry Brandon, Washington correspondent of The Sunday Times of London, have had conversations with Mr. Kosygin which throw some light on Soviet thinking.

Mr. Kosygin made it clear his country supported the communist side in the Vietnam conflict. He said North Vietnam had not declined negotiations but was ready to negotiate "the four conditions they put forward are met." This, of course, is unacceptable to the Americans, for one of the conditions is withdrawal of U.S. forces from Vietnam.

Naturally, Kosygin sees only the communist side of the argument. He conceded nothing to the American viewpoint nor to the fact the Americans time and again have offered to negotiate a settlement.

Mr. Kosygin was vague in other observations on east-west relations. He disagreed with a suggestion by Brandon that Soviet diplomacy and policy in Europe, and east-west relations generally, were "lying low" in order not to feed flames of discussions by China that Russia is co-operating with the west.

When Brandon further suggested the east-west "dialogue" should be resumed because it seemed somewhat important "the limited situation in Vietnam," Kosygin replied: "I think it would not be correct to say that east-west relations are more important than the situation in Vietnam."

The Soviet premier said his country had always maintained that peace was indivisible and that war in Vietnam today could lead to war elsewhere tomorrow.

All in all Mr. Kosygin was not very helpful. It would appear that while Russia itself is, indeed, "lying low," where its relations with the west are concerned, it is quite content to let the Vietnam situation drag on indefinitely.

Oh God, Oh Montreal!

According to The Montreal Gazette there was this beautiful blonde in a tailored silver lame coat and she walked down St. Catharines Street to the accompaniment of a thousand stares.

She was wearing a snug-fitting lavender cashmere dress, black nylons, black alligator pumps and carrying a matching purse.

So far so good . . . but read on "she was escorted" the Gazette adds, "by a gangling, hatless young man in unpressed green-and-yellow check Bermudas, tattered sneakers and a faded red and blue football jacket, 1958 - vintage. His shoes were expensive, but unpolished. His hair style, though probably unintended, was imitation Ringo Starr".

This, lamented The Gazette, "is the everyday scene which for years has contributed more to the suicide rate of local men's clothiers than any other single factor".

"But as men's fashions are concerned", moaned one Montreal men's wear manager, "this town is Hicksville. In women's clothing styles we lead Canada. We're right up there with any city in the world. But as far as men's fashions go we're in Hicksville."

He said Montreal had only 175 men's wear stores at the most, while Toronto, with half a million fewer people had 703.

But we are to believe the Montreal clothier the males of that city are a more abandoned, more Bohemian species than are the Torontonians. But the women must see something in their hapless appearance, otherwise superbly-groomed blondes would scarcely want to be seen with their like. As Samuel Butler observed in an earlier time, "Oh God, Oh Montreal!"

For me, the most exhilarating moment in climbing a mountain is when you get down again. You can then look up and say, "I have been there", with the nice knowledge that you have come down safely. Very often at the top of a peak, after a very difficult climb and the necessity to go down by the same route again, there is a very considerable nagging anxiety as to whether you are going to get down or be benighted on the way.—Sir John Hunt, leader of the 1953 Mount Everest Expedition.

All the time a person is a child he is both a child and learning to be a parent. After he becomes a parent he becomes predominantly a parent reliving childhood.—Dr. Benjamin Spock.

Good News From the West! Bill Studer Will Run Again

By RICHARD JACKSON
From The Intelligencer's Ottawa Bureau

OTTAWA — Best news to come out of the West since last month's bonanza, $450,000,000 wheat sale to the Russians is word from Lac Pelletier, Saskatchewan, that the one and only William Irvin Studer is still very much in Federal politics, and even after three successive defeats, remains determined as ever to be next MP for Swift Current - Maple Creek.

"I'm running," he's happily quoted as saying, "and of course, I'm winning, come the election when it may."

He was Liberal MP through five memorably amusing years, and then was buried, like so many other Liberals, in the 1958 Diefenbaker landslide of those record 208 Conservative seats he buried so deep he hasn't been able to claw his way up and out of second running place in the two elections since.

It isn't that those who have been around Parliament Hill for some years love his Conservative successor, Jack McIntosh, less — it's just that Grit or Tory, they simply can't seem to help loving Liberal William Irvin Studer-more.

A stocky, arm-waving, face-pulling, voice-cracking, Irishman, fondly remembered as the fastest, bluntest-talking MP to come down the Parliamentary pike in years.

ONWARD AND UPWARD

When things showed signs of becoming dull in Commons moments — which often happens, even now as then — he could be counted on to leap to his feet in a paper - flying shower of notes to sprinkle the often dry-as-dust Hansard Parliamentary record with some usually unparliamentary "Studer-isms". As he says now, being a

Samples herewith, so if Bill Studer makes it back to Parliament Hill, you'll know what to expect:

Studer on the pioneer life: "I was born in a log cabin, cried or sod but, but my parents moved into one as soon as they could afford it."

Studer on Lester B. Pearson: "As a family man-he was busy raising babies while Mackenzie King entered politics and became Liberal Leader and then Prime Minister."

Studer on the Liberal Party: "We want to extend the works of mercy, feed the hungry, clothe the naked, shelter the homeless, nurse the sick and make 'em all vote Liberal."

Studer on NDP Whip Stanley Knowles: "He's standing up talking so much — at his fast more than 700 times my count last Session — that he's suffering from 'athletes' foot' — one - throughout - fallen - arches division."

Studer on John Diefenbaker: "Such a waltz-me-around-again-Johnny sort of a gent he's got the whole House dizzy."

HEAR HEAR:

Studer on Parliamentary debate: "A damn-fool discussion that goes on for ten days without changing the opinion of a single participant, or without convincing one voting taxpayer."

Studer on the Opposition: "Those who tell you there is nothing wrong with the Government that a good election upset won't cure."

Studer on the Government: "Those who believe that things are pretty good in Ottawa but could always be improved by more of the same."

Studer on a Budget, surplus: "A pleasantly accidental state of financial affairs for which everybody but the poor taxpayer takes credit."

Studer on fiscal policy: "Something only the Bank of Canada says it understands . . . and sometimes even that."

Studer on Party Platforms: "A political promissory note never really intended for presentation for payment."

Studer on objective news: "The straight facts when they reflect unfavorably on your Opposition."

Studer on voters: "People who always exercise their franchise with extreme wisdom and foresight with consequences which all wrong candidates invariably are prepared to accept with humility."

Studer on Studer: "There should be qualifications for MPs, and if there were, I guess I would not be here."

Vote for Bill Studer.

None But The Brave

Stratford Beacon - Herald

No more worlds to conquer?

Maybe not, but the old one has been serving nicely for a few adventuresome souls in recent days.

First there was the lady who used her life savings to buy a boat and sail it across the Pacific from California to Hawaii—alone.

Then the young Englishman, who made a leisurely odyssey from his homeland to the United States via the Azores and Bermuda in a 12-foot cockleshell—alone.

Then the day after he landed, the middle-aged Cleveland newsman, who completed a 78 - day voyage from Falmouth, Mass., to Falmouth, England, in a 13½-foot craft ever to make the transatlantic crossing non - stop. Also alone.

In a day when the emphasis is on conformity, on togetherness, on playing it safe, on being a smooth cog in the social machine, and when discontent too often takes the form of destructiveness, it is refreshing to find that there are still some quiet dissentients with self-confidence enough to risk not only danger, but ridicule, and to follow private dreams of their own.

Swedes Find Life Dull

Kitchener - Waterloo Record

Youth guidance experts blame boredom with middle-class conformity and the dullness of life in the welfare state for sporadic rioting by hundreds of Swedish young people.

Stockholm has been the scene of most of the disorders but the outbreak spread to Oslo, Norway, and Vasa, Finland.

The Scandinavian countries represent the mixt - lized free-enterprise welfare states. Observers, literally, are protected from cradle to grave.

The may sustain the body but the dissatisfaction indicates that some sustenance and inspiration for the spirit has been left behind in the companion of the welfare program.

As Canada advances steadily into the welfare state world, the lesson of Scandinavia should be heeded. We need to find something beyond security if we are to enjoy the opportunity for fuller living in a society where our needs are largely provided by external agencies.

New Flag Looks Tired

Winnipeg Tribune

The only element the new Canadian flag took from the Red Ensign was its shade of red. At the time the new flag was approved, Ottawa declared that the maple leaf and two end panels would be the same shade of admiralty red as that used in the Red Ensign.

Judging by many of the flags fluttering in this area, even that seems to be fading. For some reason or other, the sun and the rain have changed the red in the flag to a kind of orange and have given the white background a pinkish tinge. The result is a tired, jaundiced pennant that looks like a leftover from a summer fair.

Color experts say that red is a difficult color to keep from fading. But the flag-makers should be able to find ways to keep the red in the Union Jack, the Red Ensign and the Stars and Stripes. They might use this know-how to keep the new flag bright. The next specimens displayed, on many flagpoles around town do little to earn respect for Canada's new emblem.

Aneurysm Is Weak Spot In Any Blood Vessel

By JOSEPH G. MOLNER, M.D.

Dear Dr. Molner: What is an aneurysm and what causes it? Is there any cure? — Mrs. J.H.

An aneurysm is a weak or bulgy spot in a blood vessel. A small aneurysm may be of scant consequence. A large one, however, can be extremely serious, depending on its location. If it were to perforate or rupture, and if it happened to be in an important artery, then the bleeding could be disastrous.

Therefore the primary questions have to be: Where it is? How extensive is it?

What causes it? Sometimes an injury, but more likely a flaw or weak spot that finally has begun to give way. Answerwhy these weak spots are present is as difficult as to say exactly why some people have weak arches and others don't, why some have varicose veins and others don't; why some others don't have diabetes. We all have our strong and weak points, and a weak spot in a blood vessel is something that some of us have. Arteriosclerosis or arterial hardening is a common cause.

Aneurysm may occur in any of the blood vessels. It may be relatively little importance in many spots. In other areas — such as in the brain's base — it may be nothing to do about it except to control one's blood pressure. It is to expect the weak spot to as little extra stress as possible.

In other areas, accessible for surgery, a plastic tube may be inserted to replace the aneurysm. There is also surgical operation with other methods of strengthening the bulgy plates.

A dissecting aneurysm is another type. It explain. Since an artery consists of an inner and outer layer, if blood seeps through the inner lining the two layers are gradually forced apart. This is separation of the layers spreads along the artery, increasing the extent of the aneurysm.

With such as aneurysm, gradually growing, the ideal goal is to repair it surgically before it has become too large.

Dear Dr. Molner: Can a rectal fistula be cured without surgery? — Mrs. A. R.

For all practical purposes the answer is no. I don't say that a non-surgical cure is impossible, but it rarely happens. And if it does it is usually a combination of extremely good luck plus more time and effort and money than would be required by surgery. For a discussion of this subject, you may booklet, "The Real Cure For Hemorrhoids," which includes the basic facts about fistulas and fissures, as well as hemorrhoids. ### Fear, Sex Exploited To Rule Us

By SYDNEY J. HARRIS

Speaking of Ely Culbertson, as I was yesterday, reminisced me of a book I read some time ago, in which the bridge masters set forth their systems, protected by a few paragraphs of biographical interest.

In the chapter of Culbertson, I ran across a fascinatingly frank exposition of the way in which this strange genius promoted bridge into a million-dollar fortune in the 1930s.

"I have formed the greatest advertising and publicity organization in the world," Culbertson told the Sales Executive Club of New York. "I have sold bridge by appealing to the instincts of fear and sex."

To sell the Culbertson system, he said, "we appealed to women, to their natural inferiority complex. Bridge was an opportunity for them to gain intellectual parity with their husbands. We worked on their fear instincts. We made it almost tantamount to shame not to play contract.

"I have sold bridge through — to the game brought men and women together, I used the words 'forcing bid' and 'approach bid' because they had a connotation of sex to them."

This candid statement, it seems to me, sums up admirably the two drives that have been most shrewdly stimulated, in the mass culture of modern men and women — fear of not being good enough, and the excessive desire to please members of the opposite sex.

The average person today is simply a bundle of anxieties and flexes induced by the almost irresistible pressures of rival publicity. The late Walter Lippmann, biosophy of "Keeping up with the Joneses" in wrecking whatever chances for happiness and security we still might salvage in the "private sphere."

In addition, and even worse, is the barrage of sexual propaganda which would make the out of the bra or the glean of the tooth the decisive factor in human relationships. And, ultimately, love. By the cunning exploitation of these twin fanatisms, our advertisers could succeed only in turning out a generation of shallow, self-engrossed, anxiety-ridden and sicologically sustained men and women, who would merely be pathetic caricatures of the characters in the magazine illustrations.

Although local department of agriculture officials report a good coursging yields of potatoes in the district to the west of Belleville, the average yield of 140 bushels to the Hastings acre is expected to be between 30 and 35 bushels to the acre.

At Orono in the Bowmanville area, one farmer reported to local seed inspection officials picked 70 bushels to the acre, while tops i nthe Bay of Quinte district is stated to be between 40 and 45 bushels. One or two farmers attending Belleville market Saturday stated their wheat is have short heads and when threshed the kernels appeared shrunken. Department officials pointed out, however, that although the quality may not be of the best, the heavy straw will tend to increase the yield per acre.

30 YEARS AGO

September 16th, 1935 . . .

The "Rookery" baseball match between local newspaper staffs, members of the police department and the fire department against members of the 38th Belleville men's Club, which was played at the Athletic Park recently, floodlights, attracted about 1800 fans and they certainly enjoyed the unusual game. The game was highly amusing. The result of the game was a score of 5 to 1 in favor of the policemen and firemen. Bill Evans took no chance in the donkey he was riding taking the ball in the wrong direction after making a good hit; so he picked up the small animal and ran for home, thus scoring a run. One of the Kiwanis's team saw the success of Bill Evans and he picked up a donkey he drove and got as far as third base where he stopped to get his breath; finally he made off and he and the small donkey tangled in the baseball game plate, much to the amusement of the spectators.

Many prizes were donated by sponsors of the attraction, the Kinsmen, will be played this evening when the winners meet the players of the Kiwanis Club.

The present bridge is 90 years old and is one of the oldest structures existing in the province. It will seem strange to walk or drive across a bridge instead of the open. A recent McGill study says that during 1960 to 1964 medical professionals who emigrate south each year equal a dollar value of $50 to $60 million and that's just the cost of their training, not their possible contribution to the economy. Yet the Economic Council, balancing immigration of professionals against other factors to attract and keep the best trained people, the swap might not always remain favorable.

Ann Landers
Tells of Deplorable State of Mental Home

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I'll wager you have never received a letter like this. I'm betting it will never appear in print.

Three weeks ago we committed our 15-year-old son to a state mental hospital because we didn't have the money to give him the special treatment he needs.

ANN LANDERS

On his 11th day the boy's father and I went to visit him. He told us he had been put in solitary for three days because he tried to escape. Three days later he did escape, along with five others. That same evening he telephoned us and asked us to come and get him. He begged us not to send him back to the hospital but we did anyway. We thought it would be best for him. Now we're not sure we did the right thing.

The boy's room is bare of all furniture. It has a concrete floor and he sleeps on a mattress. I know mental patients used to be treated like animals but I thought that was back in the Dark Ages.

I'd have to be sicker than he is to believe this is proper treatment for a boy with a sick mind. What can you do about it, Ann Landers? — FAITH SHATTERED.

DEAR FAITH SHATTERED: I can print your letter — and here it is.

I am not printing the name of your state, however. Instead I am asking every person with a social conscience to ask himself, "Could this happen in my state?"

Kansas readers don't need to check. Thanks to the Menningers you have the finest state mental hospital in the U.S. Many other states should hang their heads in shame. How about yours?

DEAR ANN LANDERS: My husband always had a pretty hot temper. Recently he seemed to be getting better and I was very pleased with the way things were going — until last night. We got home from a party and he started to criticize me for helping the hostess serve the refreshments. He said I was no maid and I should have remained seated with the guests.

All of a sudden he yelled, "Pack my suitcase," so I did. The next thing I knew he took the suitcase, hit me over the head with it and yelled, "So you want me to leave, do you? Well, I'm staying right here!"

If a wife does as she's told she gets clobbered. If she doesn't she gets clobbered. Either way it's no good. I need advice. — CAN'T WIN.

DEAR CAN'T: Tell your husband a bit over the head is called assault and battery and if he doesn't lay off he may be called upon to explain his extraordinary behavior to a judge.

Advanced Technical Classes May Be Given in City Schools

Grade 12 graduates from the Belleville area wishing to take advanced mechanical training but for some reason or other find themselves unable to attend Ryerson may yet have that opportunity without leaving the city or possibly giving up present jobs.

If plans of the Bay of Quinte District High School Board are carried out, such graduates will be able to get the equivalent of Ryerson training right at home throught Advanced Technical Evening Classes.

The advanced technical evening classes would be given in conjunction with regular night school classes either at Moira Secondary School or Belleville Collegiate.

COULD REVIEW TOPICS

The purpose of the course would be to enable persons who did not have the opportunity of going to Ryerson to become qualified technologists or technicians; to enable people to upgrade themselves in their employment or to enable technological graduates to review topics not used in their present employment.

Whether or not the program gets underway, however, is dependent upon sufficient numbers of students being interested with an initial enrolment of 20 being asked.

Three hour evening sessions would be held, probably Tuesdays and Thursdays, from October 5th to the end of March.

The program will be divided into three levels for which certificates 1, 11, and 111 would be awarded.

The course for grade 1 certificate would be for three years, and for grade 11 and 111, for two years each, or a total of seven years.

Certificate 1 is accepted as the educational requirement for certification as an engineering technician while a grade 111 certificate is similarly recognized as an engineering technologist.

Subjects to be taken in the grade 1 certificate courses are: First year - English 1 Mathematics 1; and Physics 1. Second year - Mathematics 11; Mechanics 1 and Electrical Fundamentals. Third year - General Chemistry, Electrical Fundamentals and Technical Drawing.

Enquiries regarding the course are asked to be directed to W. J. Musgrove, Bay of Quinte District High School Board, 52 College St., West.

Liberals

Wednesday trying to solidify what they thought was a likely victory for the University of Toronto sociology professor.

About 64 per cent of the 36,196 eligible voters in Bracondale gave Mr. Ben an unofficial 1,545-vote plurality over Mr. Farina, both all up polls faced from, these were the standings: Ben 4,940, Farina 3,495, Conservative Lawrence Odete 2,393.

The late Joseph Gould, a Toronto lawyer, had captured the riding from the Conservatives in 1958 with a plurality of 301, which diminished to just 69 as he won re-election in 1963.

In Nipissing, Mr. Smith went ahead immediately and stayed there throughout as returns came in from 169 polls, but at the end was awarded an unofficial plurality of 473 over the Conservative runner-up, Jack Gorman, making his second attempt at winning the riding for the government.

The standings were: Smith 10,734, Gorman 10,261, New Democrat Ray Finamore 3,230. About 71 per cent of the 34,326 eligible voters in the 7,000-square-mile riding turned out despite bad roads.

LOST TO LEO TROY

Mr. Gorman, 42, had lost by 929 votes to the late Leo Troy in the 1962 election. Mr. Troy, a retired teacher, captured the riding for the Liberals in 1958.

Premier John Roberts said both Conservative candidates were good ones who did everything in their power to win. The Liberal victories left the standings in the legislature unchanged, he said, but "it's a contest and I'm a contestant and I don't particularly like to lose."

In both ridings, the Conservatives hammered at the theme that the constituents would be better represented by government members who could get action on local problems, than by opposition critics who could do nothing but sound off.

Asked whether this might have backfired, Mr. Roberts said: "I don't really know. My own opinion is that the government is for all of the province." It was natural, however, that a Conservative member would be closer to the ear of the cabinet.

DEFEAT 'NO BIG DEAL'

Mr. Smith, 34, a former North Bay alderman, said he thought his Nipissing victory was a defeat for the "Go government" slogan used by the Conservatives. But Mr. Ben was more pleased at putting down the NDP challenge than at beating the conservatives.

"This is more than just a victory for George Ben," he said. "It's a memorable night not just because we beat the NDP but because we beat a system. The NDP didn't deal with issues —all they did was cast aspersions against candidates."

The 30-year-old lawyer, who has an office in Bracondale but lives outside the riding, sat on Toronto city council until last year when he was defeated in an attempt to move up to board of control. A provincial redistribution commission has proposed the abolition of Bracondale, merging it with bordering ridings including Dovercourt, the seat held by Liberal Leader Thompson.

TASTY COMBINATION SOUP

His name is Bongo Bongo. It rings the bell. It is a soup that was heralded by our Vancouver hosts when they invited us to dinner at Trader Vic's.

While I was taking my first sip I was wondering how I could get the recipe. Edna Raynor, consumer consultant for the Department of Fisheries of Vancouver, was my dinner companion, and said she had the recipe planned for Trader Vic. I could not have had a more authentic source! Now I am home and the first request is Bongo Bongo Soup -for our dinner. I'm settling down early today to pass this delicious recipe on to my column friends. It is an unusual but happy combination of oysters, spinach, cream and seasonings.

BONGO BONGO SOUP:

2½ cup whole milk, ½ pint raw oysters and liquid, (or 8 oz. can whole oysters or purée — see below), ¼ cup spinach puree (or 1 6-oz. jar creamed spinach puree — baby food), 1 teaspoon MSG (Accent), ½ teaspoon salt, small shake pepper, small shake garlic salt, ½ teaspoon Worcestershire sauce, 2 tablespoons butter, 2 tablespoons cornstarch, about ¼ pint whipping cream.

Gently cook oysters in top of double boiler until firm. Drain off liquid and reserve it. Grind or blender-buzz oysters to a pulp. Push through sieve to make them into a smooth puree. (Note: I used fancy whole canned oysters because raw oysters were not quite in season — an 8-oz. can — and drained them, saving the liquid, and blender-buzzed oysters to mash them then forced them through sieve.) In top of double boiler add oyster liquid puree, mix well, then add milk, spinach puree, MSG, salt, pepper, garlic salt, Worcestershire sauce. Heat all over boiling water until very hot. Melt the butter and stir in the cornstarch. Stir this paste into the soup until thick. Beat with rotary beater to be sure you have a smooth blend. Cook 5 minutes longer, stirring occasionally, to cook cornstarch. Turn into 4 ovenproof individual casseroles. Top each with a large puff of whipped cream. Slide under hot broiler to lightly brown the whipped cream a golden brown, watching it every second. Serve at once to appreciative guests.

Susanna's Family Fare

BETTER BULLETIN BUREAU

Dear Susanna: My next door neighbor sold his electric lawn mower in two days by tacking all the information to the bulletin board in the local supermarket, and I think the reason he received such quick action was the smart idea he had for making it so easy for prospective buyers to contact him.

He made about ten neat cuts sideways, about half an inch apart along the edge of the bottom half of the notice sheet (one above the other so that they looked like a fringe). Between each cut he printed his phone number. All the interested party had to do was tear one off and make the call — didn't need to scrounge around for a pencil or paper or anything to jot the number down. — Jim Langley

TIP SAVER

Dear Susanna: Some of your readers may find my idea appealing. I clip and save your articles Susanna, along with other items that I fancy in the newspaper such as recipes, little cartoons and even contests. Then on a day when I'm not feeling well, or a rainy day, I spread my clippings, glue and all on the kitchen table and assemble my scrapbook.

After an hour or two of pasting, the mind is filled with new ideas — and what an interesting book to look through when one has other spare moments. Thank you for the many clippings I have of your wonderful column. — A. M. Grechowski

CHANGE THE SHAPE

Dear Susanna: Don't get in a rut when making cookies! If you use various shapes and sizes for cutting, the results will not only be more interesting, but you will obtain several extra cookies and there will be less "dough rolling."

Apply spray starch when turning a hem and everything will fall into place much more easily. — Mother of Three.

ST. JOSEPH'S C.W.I.

The fall season of St. Joseph's C.W.I. opened on Monday evening with a Mass in the Parish celebrated by Rev. Fr. Ganley, followed by a pot-luck supper in the Parish Hall, which was attended by the spiritual director Msgr. Carley and Fr. Ganley and by some of the Sisters of St. Joseph's Parish.

A short business meeting followed this event with Msgr. Carley present and Mrs. D. Duminie, St. Joseph's C.W.I. president in the chair.

Mrs. Duminie spoke of the regional meeting taking place this year in St. Joseph's on Sunday September 26th. Rev. Fr. W. B. Hamilton of Read will be the guest speaker. Fr. Hamilton has taken over as Diocesan Director in place of Fr. Pickett who has had to give up this position due to ill health. It is hoped all ladies of the Parish will attend.

Plans are going ahead for monthly bridge and euchre games in the Parish Hall and a rummage sale and home made apphant table is arranged for October. The bazaar in November is under the convenorship of Mrs. Ellard and all is being done to make this a big success. Msgr. Carley addressed the meeting and said it seemed like a short time since he had been wishing everyone a happy holiday. Now the children were back to school and work had to get underway once more. The 12th of October will be the first anniversary of the death of Rev. Fr. Buckley, Parish Priest of St. Joseph's, and a Mass will be celebrated in the evening. It is hoped at this time to have a plaque unveiled to his memory and appreciation of his invaluable work in the Parish.

Officials of the I.O.D.E. stand beside the St. Julien Chapter Charter at Holloway Street United Church last night on the occasion of the 50th Anniversary of the granting of the charter to the St. Julien Chapter. From left, Mrs. Ralph Ellis, Regent of St. Julien Chapter, Mrs. J. Neil Gordon, National President of the I.O.D.E. and guest Speaker, Mrs. M. Clarke of Peterborough, Provincial Councillor, Mrs. J. O. Benor of Campbellford, Provincial Councillor, and Mrs. J. McBride of Peterborough, Provincial Councillor.

I.O.D.E. National President Outlines Activities at District Dinner Meet

In the minds of members of the Imperial Order Daughters of the Empire, the good their organization stands for far outweighs the good-hammered ribbing they take from the public.

Mrs. J. Neil Gordon, National President of the I.O.D.E. made this statement as she spoke to guests at a district dinner, held Wednesday night to celebrate the 50th anniversary of the founding of Belleville's St. Julien Chapter.

Approximately 150 members of the order from the city and surrounding district gathered in Education Hall at Holloway Street United Church to hear Mrs. Gordon outline I.O.D.E. activities of the past and present and plans for the future.

The emphasis in the order's work is shifting from aid to ex-servicemen and their families to educational projects, Mrs. Gordon said. Three post-graduate students from Commonwealth countries undertaking post-graduate studies in Canada will be financed by the order this year.

"If you live near a university, befriend, rather than entertain, Commonwealth students," Mrs. Gordon urged. "We can accomplish more for Commonwealth relations by offering our friendship to these students, than by any other means. They will return to their countries to become leaders, and their impressions of democracy and the western world will be based on their experiences while in Canada."

NEW JUNIOR CHAPTERS

While the number of primary chapters remains the same and some older chapters have had to disband because of the advanced age of their members, the new junior chapters are growing in number, Mrs. Gordon reported. Eleven junior chapters were formed last year to bring the national total to 36.

Chapters that adopt schools and hospitals in the far north, Newfoundland, Labrador and the West Indies, must have infinite patience, Mrs. Gordon said.

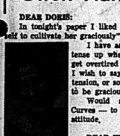
"Replies to letters and donations of books and toys are slow to arrive, but we must realize the problems of teachers with a minimum of 50 pupils in a class," she said. "The need is urgent and the help appreciated, even though it is not always acknowledged promptly."

Mrs. Gordon concluded her talk with her wish for all I.O.D.E. members: "May you derive pleasure, joy and fun from your I.O.D.E. work."

The speaker was introduced by Mrs. G. Hume, 1st. Vice-Regent, St. Julien Chapter, and thanked by Mrs. J. S. Reynolds, secretary.

Other speakers at the dinner were Mayor Jack Ellis, who brought greetings from the Corporation of the City of Belleville, and Judge J. C. Anderson, who thanked the ...ouncil Caapters for their assistance at Citizenship Court.

Following the dinner, St. Julien Chapter's four life members for the specially decorated anniversary cake.



Mrs. Eva Doolittle read a history of the Chapter. Chapter members enacted skits to illustrate the events outlined in narrative poems composed and read by Mrs. E. Hickey, a long time friend of the Chapter. Mrs. John Parrott played appropriate background music on the piano.

HEAD TABLE GUESTS

Life members, charter members and past Regents were seated at a table of honor. Head table guests were Mrs. J. Neil Gordon; Judge J. C. Anderson and Mrs. Anderson; Mayor Jack Ellis; Rev. O. Wagar, minister of Holloway Street Church and Mrs. Wagar; Mrs. M. Clarke, Provincial Councillor, Peterborough; Mrs. K. D. E. Willcocks, Regent of Argyll Chapter, Belleville; Mrs. Kingston, Regent of Bemersyde Chapter, Campbellford; Mrs. F. C. Sanders, Municipal Regent, Peterborough; Mrs. S. M. McBride, Provincial Councillor, Peterborough; Mrs. Ralph Ellis, Regent of St. Julien Chapter; Mrs. J. Neil Gordon, National President; Mrs. G. J. Meikle-John, Regent of Marmora Chapter; Mrs. J. O. Benor, Provincial Councillor, Campbellford; Mrs. D. H. Keeler, Regent of Picton Chapter; Mrs. W. Morton, Regent of Hon. J. R. Cooke Chapter, Stirling, and Mrs. George Hume, First Vice-Regent, St. Julien Chapter.

Successful Living

Thinness, Tenseness Often Hand in Hand

DEAR DORIS:

In tonight's paper I liked your line "Thou you free yourself to cultivate her graciously".

I have an achey hip which causes me to tense up when standing to talk to anyone. I get overtired and cannot concentrate on what I wish to say. Have you any pamphlets on tension, or some way I can try to "free myself to be gracious" when visiting?

Would also appreciate your Chart for Curves — to do mild exercises in a "relaxed" attitude.

Tense.

DORIS CLARK

DEAR TENSE:

The Thin Ones are often the Tense Ones. So the Chart for Curves stresses frequent rest pauses; times to "unlax" those busy, taut muscles. It's a vicious circle; the more you worry, the more you tense up; the tenser you get the busier you feel, and the more you fume!

There's a whole philosophy of living in an undertaking to become relaxed. Cultivating a spirit of optimism, a belief in people and things, and in the future; learning to be hopeful; coming down off that pedestal of perfectionism, sometimes; getting religion, other times; letting go of all the concerns that keep you from functioning at your best; these are the ways to make a new, more serene start.

Physical health also plays a part; so the person who would won peace of mind should be sure his constitution is running on all cylinders by having regular medical checkups (as in the case of that achey hip).

For ten cents I'm sending you the Chart for Curves and the names of some books which can get you in the mood.

DEAR DORIS

Kindly tell me the proper thing to do when drinking a toast to a graduate or a bride. Is the glass to touch the other person's glass or not?

And what does it mean?

Touchy About Toasting.

DEAR TOUCHY: You don't clink glasses when you toast a graduate, or a bride, or the Queen.

If you attend a banquet given by one country to another or one city to another, or one service club to another, and the host group toasts the country or club being hosted, you clink your glass with that of the guest beside you, as a sort of handshake in his country or organization.

A personal and reciprocal toast between two people — "Here's your health" — calls for a clink. We're not as likely to break their stems or toss the glasses in the fireplace as they did in Henry the Eighth's time!

Confidential to ICEBERG: The fault is not all yours. You say your husband is a taskmaster about many things. He expects perfection. To try to respond with affection to a critical mate puts you in an attitude of tension and makes the whole thing impossible.

Criticism has an element of harshness in it, and you cannot give softness in response. This is human. I'm sending a list of literature on sex in marriage; if both you and your husband would read some of these fine books and pamphlets, and discuss them, you might get somewhere.

(There are Canadian resources to help solve your problem. Write to Doris for direction, enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope for private reply.)

ST. MICHAEL'S C.W.L.

On Monday evening the Catholic Women's League program for the year began with Mass in the Church at six o'clock followed by a pot-luck supper and meeting in the junior school.

After the director, Monsignor Sullivan opened the meeting. The president, Mrs. G. F. O'Brien thanked everyone for their co-operation in making the supper a success. Mrs. D. Moran thanked the Monsignor for his sermon, and the president read a humorous tribute.

Many interesting reports were read. Mrs. D. Moran, treasurer, informed members that the garden tea was a financial success, for which all are grateful to the hostess, Mrs. L. F. Radonicich and to the convener, Mr. R. E. Barrett and her committee.

The C.W.L. membership has reached an all time high of 588, an increase of 140 over last year, and much credit goes to the convener, Mrs. J. Sheridan, the councillors and assistants who have worked to make this total possible. Mrs. H. Brown, first vice-president of the Diocesan Council, reported on the Provincial convention, which she attended in Fort William.

This quotation was taken from one of the papers read at the convention, "The contribution every woman has to give to society is the gift of love, which spurs our efforts on behalf of others." Mrs. Brown also attended a Diocesan meeting recently, in Kingston. Mrs. O'Brien welcomed the new members and introduced them to the assembly. Six ladies volunteered to help at the Cancer Clinic next Monday afternoon. The new convener for the Sunday Nursery is Mrs. T. C. Young, and several ladies have volunteered to assist her. Some of the members will attend the Regional meeting in St. Joseph's Parish.

Mrs. Leo Buckley has been appointed Civic Action president for the city of Belleville, and Mrs. O. Griffiths, secretary-treasurer. Father Hamilton of Read Parish, has been appointed the new Diocesan Director, to replace Father Pickett.

The Separate School Board in catering to a dinner for the teachers, and Mrs. J. B. Rashotte has volunteered to convene the dinner.

Mrs. M. Lack is convener of the dessert bridge and euchre to be held in St. Michael's academy, the end of September.

The ladies were asked to attend a C.W.L. tea and bazaar at Marysville. The chairman of the United Appeal is asking for help to make up his share in the aforementioned terrace, in the former location of the Intelligencer on Front St.

The Catholic Women's League of St. Michael's parish will write a letter to the local Knights of Columbus, urging them to take part in a campaign against obscene literature.

The C.W.L. meetings will continue to be on the second Monday of the month, with the exception of the next one, which will be on Tuesday, October 14th, following Thanksgiving. It was decided to dispense with the December meeting.

Monsignor Sullivan closed the meeting with a prayer.

Students Build Computer to Introduce New Maths

FALCONBRIDGE, Ont. (CP) — A 15-stage electronic computer built entirely by students 11 to 13 years old is the means of introducing modern mathematics to the school at the RCAF station a few miles east of Sudbury.

Constructing the computer was the project assigned to Grade 7 and 8 students—five boys and 12 girls—a year ago by principal Henry Brown, a great believer in the idea of learning by doing.

During coming months the new Grade 7s and 8s will follow up by building a memory bank for the computer.

The job of building the computer was more than merely an exercise in mathematics — the students had to do research covering the fields of history, geography and applied sciences as well.

They began by doing research on the history of numbers and then made the transition to electronics, becoming aware that the electric switch and the binary system of counting are the basis of the simple computer.

It took the students 4½ months of concentrated work, most of it outside school hours, to complete the first two stages of the project. And it took them another 750 man-hours to build the computer, a huge pegboard of small electric lights operated by a maze of wires and switches.

RAISED $400

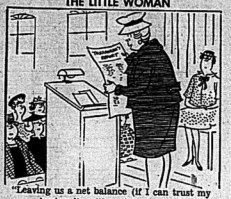
But before construction could begin there was the problem of money for parts and equipment that had to be bought. Through bottle drives and candy sales, the students raised $400. From friends and parents on the station they got broken radio sets from which they salvaged parts.



The next step was to learn the basics of electronics—how to read a wiring diagram, how to solder, the functions of transistors, condensers and resistors, and most important of all, how to put 110 volts across a diode bridge to give a 6.5-volt output with which to operate the computer.

Only on occasion did the computer-makers turn to an expert for advice and then it was found the trouble was usually nothing but a faulty transistor.

A major problem was how to feed information into the machine. The answer, if not immediately obvious, was simple —use a telephone dial with its 10 impulses.

Then came the big moment—the demonstration night for parents. It was a full-scale lecture on how and why a computer works—the children acting as teachers and the parents as pupils.

TINY TROUBLE SHOOTERS — While Principal Henry Brown (right) stands by to offer suggestions, students at the RCAF school at Falconbridge, Ont., run down trouble in a computer they built themselves. The project, carried out entirely by students 11 to 13 years old was suggested by the principal to introduce modern mathematics. It took the kids 4½ months to research their project and 750-man hours to build it. (CP Photo)

Cabs, Cabooses On CN Trains To Have Toilets

OTTAWA (CP)—Ever since the first Canadian railroad began operating years ago, train crews have complained about the lack of toilet facilities in cabs and cabooses.

The situation gave rise to a legend of jokes and tall tales about the staying power of railroaders. At various times the railroads experimented with toilet bowls, only to remove them because of technical problems and costs.

Now a major breakthrough in the problem has been reported by the publicly - owned CNR which plans to begin installing electric toilets and air-operated water coolers on its diesel locomotives early in 1966.

In a recent letter to the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers (BLE) CNR Vice-President T. A. Johnstone said the railway will spend $1,500,000 on the program and added that since the CNR made to the union in negotiations at Winnipeg 16 months ago.

The railway has also advised the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen (CLC) about the design of a new caboose which includes toilet equipment and cooled drinking water among its features.

Locomotives will start getting the new equipment late this winter as they are sent to shops for general repair work. The CNR hopes to proceed on the job at the rate of 250 toilets and 400 coolers each year. At this rate it will take about five years to put toilets in the railway's entire diesel fleet.

Three Escape With $15,000 In Bank Holdup

MOUNT BRYDGES, Ont. (CP)—Three men escaped with more than $15,000 Wednesday after holding up the Royal Bank of Canada branch in this village 20 miles west of London.

Police said the men, at least two of them armed, forced bank employees to lie face downward on the floor and four customers to line up against a wall.

The men were not masked. One of them was carrying a gun and one a pistol, police said.

London Free Press Focal Point of Bid for New Station in That Area

OTTAWA (CP) — The oldest established broadcaster in London, Ont., because the focal point Wednesday of a bid for a new station in the southwestern Ontario city.

The London Free Press Printing Co. Ltd. sparked some colorful descriptions during a public hearing of the Board of Broadcast Governors.

Much of the contention over a proposal by London businessman H. J. McManus for a new 10,000-watt (unlimited-time) radio station centred on the operations of The Free Press even though it is not directly involved in the application. The Free Press publishes a morning and evening newspaper and operates AM and FM (frequency modulation) radio stations and the city's only television station.

The McManus bid, his second appearance before the board for the same station, would put CHLO in nearby St. Thomas and CKSL the other London radio station heavily under The Free Press outlet.

But it was not until after the McManus appearance last fall that it would not hear another proposal for a London station for a year, giving CKSL a chance to become established after a change in management.

The applicant and his two opponents disagreed on the size of the advertising dollar theoretically available to any London broadcaster, agreeing only that CFPL-TV's dominance would continue to be the biggest slice of it.

Mr. McManus proposed to operate the new station on 1290 kilocycles, the frequency abandoned by CKSL when it moved to 1410.

O. W. Durdin, counsel for Mr. McManus and a vice-president of the proposed broadcasting company, painted a glowing picture of the potential advertising sales market in London.

Although the city is 13th in population in Canada, he said, it was second only to Metropolitan Toronto in the dollar value of annual sales per household. This was an "amazing market."

John L. Moore, president of Maclean-Hunter Broadcasters Ltd. operating CHLO, said his station depends on London for 30 per cent of its revenue. Thus there were actually three stations already in the market.

It was obvious that Mr. McManus and his associates were looking at the lucrative operation of The Free Press in London and seeing a "four-headed ogre ripe for plucking." He estimated gross Free Press revenues from all sources at $13,000,000 annually.

F. Vincent Regan, president of London Broadcasters Ltd. operating CKSL, said the London situation is almost unique because of "the dominant position" of the Free Press operations.

The BBG took the matter under advisement and will announce at recommendation on its later.

B-A Strike Closes Plant At Clarkson

BY THE CANADIAN PRESS

Some 400 oil refinery workers went on strike at Clarkson near Toronto early today as a country - wide walkout at British American Oil Co. plants and refineries spread into Ontario for the first time.

BA employees are already on strike in Saskatchewan and British Columbia.

They have demanded a wage increase of 35 cents an hour in a two-year contract, but officials of the Oil, Chemical and Atomic Workers Union (OLC) say the main issue is job security in the face of automation. The company has offered a 25-cent-an-hour wage increase in a 30-month contract.

Refinery workers now earn an average of $2.75 an hour.

On Wednesday, workers walked out of a Royalite refinery at Kamloops, B.C. Royalite is a subsidiary of BA. The union decided to take a strike vote today at Pacific Petroleum's McMahon plant in Taylor, B.C. In Fort Moody, near Vancouver, the Independent Gas and Oil Workers' Union served a 48-hour strike notice on BA's refinery there.

The Oil and Chemical Workers Union moved Wednesday to gain public support for its demands with a boycott campaign that included picketing of some BA retail outlets in the Vancouver area.

Government With Majority Said Big Need

LONDON, Ont. (CP) — External Affairs Minister Martin Wednesday night singled out the need for a strong majority government as the main issue of Canada's fifth federal election campaign in eight years.

"If it can't be a Liberal government with a majority, let it be some other government with a majority," said Mr. Martin, indicating quickly that he thought such a turn of events improbable.

Mr. Martin was speaking to a rally which selected Mrs. Margaret Fullerton, city council member here since 1954, as Liberal candidate for the London riding in the Nov. 8 election.

The seat was held in the last Parliament by Progressive Conservative J. A. Irvine, Mrs. Fullerton's former colleague on council who has indicated he will seek renomination by his party.

Mr. Martin cited federal-provincial fiscal relations as one area where the need for a central government which can act decisively is evident. He said minority government handicaps federal - provincial negotiations.

Blames Adults For Increase In Juvenile Crime

NIAGARA FALLS, Ont. (CP) Edmonton's deputy police chief says adults are responsible for much of the increase in juvenile crime.

Adults contribute heavily to a general failure in society to accept individual responsibility and, as a result, bolster teenage rebellion against constituted authority, Deputy Chief F. E. Sloan told the annual conference of the Canadian Association of Chiefs of Police Wednesday.

"People no longer have the guts to stand up and be counted . . . to set an example for our young people," he said during a panel discussion on the youthful offender.

No children are born delinquents, he said, "they get that way from what is around them."

Calgary Police Chief K. R. McIver said a major factor in the increased juvenile crime rate "is that we live in a day when there is no longer a clear line of demarcation between right and wrong, and no one is labelled for what he has done."

Discipline, he said, is something that has been relegated to the dark ages.

Millions are being spent on reforestration and combatting pollution, Chief McIver added, but "the nation's biggest resource, the country's youth, is being neglected."

Chief J. H. Carpenter of Lethbridge, Alta., set off a bomb shell when he suggested lowering the drinking age in Canada to either 18 or 19 from 21.

Describing the present liquor laws as outmoded and outdated, Chief Carpenter said: "I don't think there are many of those in this room today who didn't drink until they were 21 . . . we should be the first official body to notice an indication of public resentment toward our laws, especially those which control our social and moral habits."

Chief Arthur Cookson of Regina said keeping liquor away from minors only creates a craving for it. "Open it up wide and educate the people," he said.

"The drop from 21 to 18 is too much and I am definitely opposed," said Chief Mackay. "Lowering the drinking age "would encourage chaos," Chief Mitchell added.

Action on the controversial proposal was deferred until today.

Crown Witness Told to Watch Her Step

OTTAWA (CP)—A Crown witness in the capital murder trial of Azaire Touchette complained Wednesday she was threatened by an unknown man after leaving the court Tuesday.

Mrs. Giselle Helsler said a man in a car pulled up beside her just after she stepped from a bus and told her:

"You had better watch what you say tomorrow."

The alleged threat came to light Wednesday when Mrs. Helsler was testifying at the trial of Touchette, who is charged with the April 13 shooting of Mrs. Jeanette Lapointe. Touchette had been living with Mrs. Lapointe for 14 years.

Mrs. Helsler testified she had visited Touchette and Mrs. Lapointe three days before the slaying and arrived while the two were having a quarrel. She said Touchette was pointing a rifle at Mrs. Lapointe, and used obscene language when she tried to keep the peace.

In reply to defence questions, Mrs. Helsler said she had been a patient in the mental hospital at Brockville, but denied that she ever had suffered from hallucinations.

Expect Conference Will Hear Final Argument On Blame in Viet Nam

OTTAWA (CP) — The 36th inter - parliamentary conference is expected to hear its final argument today over who is to blame over the war in Viet Nam.

When the verbal smoke clears however, the meeting likely will steer clear of condemning anyone for the conflict.

The Viet Nam issue, one of the main talking points at the two-week conference of 600 legislators from 54 nations, comes before today's plenary session in the form of a military world resolution submitted by the French delegation.

It makes no attempt to assess blame for the war in Southeast Asia, but instead limits itself to a call for an end to the hostilities and negotiations towards a peaceful settlement.

The general conference concensus is that the French draft will win overwhelming approval. The verbal fireworks, however, may well erupt before that happens.

Several other nations have served notice that they may try to amend this resolution to give it more cold war punch. The Soviet Union and Yugoslavia have said they want a clause added to condemn United States bombing of North Viet Nam, while the U.S., in rebuttal, has suggested that the conference ask the Communists to task for "inhuman barbarian guerrilla attacks" on the south.

The Viet Nam move Wednesday the council tossed aside a bid to widen its membership to include Communist China and such other Communist countries as North Viet Nam, North Korea and East Germany.

A resolution submitted by Mongolia, charging "discriminations" against certain national parliaments and stressing the principal of universality, was defeated by a vote of 46 to 22 with 29 abstentions. The ballloting went along strict East-West lines.

The decision left the China issue where it has since 1936 with the Inter-parliamentary Union still awaiting some direction from the United Nations before making any move of its own.

UN in Pickle After Thant Can't Arrange Ceasefire

By HAROLD MORRISON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

U Thant's inability to arrange a ceasefire between India and Pakistan leaves the United Nations Security Council in a pickle. With its demands flouted, the Security Council may be forced to consider imposing sanctions, although these may prove embarrassing and difficult to enforce.

As seen by the experts, an embargo against the shipment of food to Pakistan and India would soon force both sides to halt their fighting, but the lives of millions of innocent civilians might be imperilled by malnutrition and starvation. A food minded embargo is therefore unlikely.

Probably the most acceptable proposal would be an arms and equipment embargo, particularly against tanks and planes which can do a great deal of damage but are being rapidly consumed in the savage and tenacious battles. The problem leaders for the Security Council is how to make such an embargo work.

Undoubtedly, the big Western powers and the Soviet Union would co-operate but the UN has no control over China. It has condemned India and Red assistance to Pakistan.

Aside from the UN's inability to influence China's decisions, the Security Council must consider Pakistan's argument that such an embargo would discriminate in favor of India. Pakistan maintains it depends heavily on imports for its arms, while India manufactures most of its weapons at home.

There also is the question of whether all UN members would heed an embargo proposal. Turkey and Iran have shown strong sympathy for Pakistan and have agreed to provide the Pakistanis with certain forms of military aid. It is unlikely that the Moslem world would stand by and watch Pakistan forced to retreat because of the lack of arms.

Other factors also impose practical limitations on the Security Council's actions. For example, no matter how friendly the United States main-tains it wants to see an end to the fighting, opinion in some British quarters suggests the U.S. may be privately hoping that Pakistan gets badly beaten as a result because of Pakistan's close association with China.

But the situation is by no means hopeless. The Common-wealth stands in the wings. Its leaders are moving quietly to bind the sceptre, making sure it does nothing to undermine the United Nations and giving full support to U Thant, the secretary-general. This support will continue.

But if the Security Council finally throws in the sponge, a Commonwealth peace mission will be ready to take up the challenge if it is requested to do so by the UN.

More difficult than a cease-fire will be finding a way to heal the battle wounds between these two Commonwealth giants, of restoring warmth and friendship between the two governments.

In London, this is considered a decisive role for the Commonwealth and one that is getting close attention.

Toronto Lawyer, Who Split With Diefenbaker in 1963, Is PC Campaign Manager

OTTAWA (CP) — Ed Goodman, a Toronto lawyer who resigned from a position in the Progressive Conservative party in 1963 over a disagreement with John Diefenbaker's nuclear arms policy, Wednesday was named national campaign chairman of the party.

He succeeds Richard Thrasher who is seeking the Conservative nomination in Essex South, the seat he held in the Commons from 1958 until 1962.

Mr. Goodman, 46, has been a vice-president for Ontario since 1959. He quit the party's Ontario campaign committee in 1963 after the nuclear arms dispute.

He told reporters Wednesday the nuclear question is no longer an issue and he hopes his decision to work for the party will encourage others who have had disagreements to campaign for the Conservatives in the Nov. 8 election.

His appointment followed a morning meeting with Mr. Diefenbaker at which the Progressive Conservative leader's campaigning plans were discussed.

"I really believe we can win this election," he said.

But, he said, anybody who thinks any firm predictions on the number of seats the various parties will get "is stupid."

OTTAWA (CP)—Alvin Hamilton, former Conservative agriculture minister, said Wednesday night that the Ontario Conservative government will put its full weight into the current federal campaign.

"The government of Ontario," he told an Ottawa West nominating convention, "is throwing its full weight behind getting rid of the Pearson gang."

Mr. Hamilton made the remark as he told the audience of 200 that urban development will be one of his party's main election planks.

Among things to be dealt with are housing, human rights, urban transport, recreation, education, metropolitan planning, the Canada Pension Plan, and a policy to give independent business men a chance to survive.

He said there would be statements made on a plan for cities similar to the Agriculture Rehabilitation and Redevelopment Act.

TORONTO (CP)—George Hees, Toronto Conservative leader who managed John Diefenbaker's election campaigns in 1957, 1958 and 1962, said Wednesday night he will support the Progressive Conservative leader in the Nov. 8 general election.

He will seek the Progressive Conservative nomination in his York West next Wednesday.

"Whether or not I receive the nomination, I will support the party and its leader fully," Mr. Hogan said.

Mr. Hees supported the party in 1963 but later had public disagreements with Party Leader Diefenbaker.

MONTREAL (CP) — Premier Robert Stanfield of Nova Scotia said Wednesday he will "actively support" the Conservative federal election campaign in his province.

SPORTS SLICES

By Geo. H. Carver
Sports Editor

It has been said "A little knowledge is a dangerous thing" but shackadoy; tis far more dangerous to the mental stability of the world when writers with a scintilla of the true facts take it upon themselves to challenge the erudition of their elders, men who move in the same sphere of life and who retain for the most part all the glory of early prophetic splendor.

It has also been said that "a cat may look at a queen." In this case it is literally a "Cat" looking at three kings, a tough combination to beat, even in a poker fiesta.

They are experienced men, elderly editorial guys whose long connection with the press has earned for them the news room cognomens of Lincoln in law; Disraeli in politics and Greatland Rice in sport.

Yet this refugee from the Hamilton Jungle has the audacity to question their wisdom and almost supernatural powers of forecasting the future. He doesn't know that they are the men who make the pictures yegg, seers and others see in their crystal balls.

He came to the news department a few months ago drenched in New York's familiar fog, and dragging a mental Tiger by its fangless jaws.

His crocodilian tears were held back by sheer force of will when the first great prophecy of the Big Three came true as they triumphantly approached the edge of the grave of pennant oblivion. You could almost hear creaking as his heart slowly splintered when his proud Bombers were given the final push.

His period of mourning now over he has sighted his aficionado howlitzers on a football team that gets its mail in Hamilton and thus far has survived the ignominious fate of being relegated to garbage tanks, detergent packages and breakfast food containers.

The cruellest blow of all came a little while ago when the Grey-Cup bound Ottawa Rough Riders became animal lumens and had his Tiger's ruling over, playing dog —and had the facilities been available — would have had them jumping through hoops of fire. It was that easy.

The knife was turned in the wound with the knowledge that the "Big Three" had once again proven their prophetic powers, But they were generous in victory. They did not gloat over the fallen. But they did wear for a day or so that Ottawa "canary-that-ate-the-cat" look.

The first shock of defeat and disappointment led him to seek another source of attack on the editorial upstarts who dared question the gridiron prowess of his beloved Bengals.

His typewriter clattered in what he thought was righteous assault. Muttering "Oaky-Wa-Wa" between clenched molars he staccato'd a frontal columnar attack on the tile whose wisdom he is gradually coming to acknowledge. He called it an "ode" (r).

They should have sprayed Page Five with Chanel of the same number. The miasma almost obliterated the eight-point type. You had to stare through sleet-stricken eyes to find what that guy in the "Off the Record" cartoon was up to.

Between their barrages of printed assault guns with their fires of "tire," you could almost discern a wishful-thinking attitude. It seems there is a hidden desire to become promoted to the ranks of "silent and indescribles" that has brought to the Big Three their storied position in the ranks of prophetic experts.

Crothers Eyes Mile, Half-mile

TORONTO (CP)—Bill Crothers, Canada's best half-miler, says he will attempt both the mile and half-mile in the British Empire Games in Jamaica next summer.

Crothers and coach Fred Foot have altered their training which now is aimed at developing the fleet pharmacist from Markham, Ont., into a miler.

The new program includes exercises will be designed in an effort to increase Crothers' strength for the mile.

"Fred and I have a theory," Crothers said Tuesday, "The day I run a mile in 3:56, I'll be ready for the half-mile record the following week."

Crothers' best time for the 880-yard distance is 1:46.3 compared with the world record of 1:44.3 held by Peter Snell of New Zealand.

Giants Reel Off 13th Straight Win

By JIM HACKLEMAN
Associated Press Sports Writer

Frank Linzy is a funny fellow. And he's helping San Francisco Giants laugh all the way to the National League pennant.

The laconic rookie with the snappy wit and the knack for the no match proved again Wednesday night that he's one of the best relief pitchers in the business when he nailed down the Giants' 13th straight victory—a 3-2 squeaker over Houston Astros.

Linzy replaced Bob Shaw in the eighth inning with one run in, one man on, none out and the score tied 2-2. He fanned five men, recorded six outs, and finished the night with his sixth victory in a row on Willie McCovey's game-winning single in the ninth.

The Giants' string of victories is their longest since 1951, when they stopped their little miracle of Coogan's Bluff and won the pennant on Bobby Thompson's historic playoff home run.

It also is the longest streak in the NL since Los Angeles Dodgers won 13 in 1962, and the longest in the majors this year. STAY 3½ AHEAD

And it kept San Francisco a comfortable 3½ games ahead in the race for the flag. Cincinnati Reds took over second place, beating New York Mets 3-1 behind Jim Maloney's fine pitching, while the Dodgers dropped to third with an 8-6 loss to Chicago Cubs.

Joe and Curt Flood repped out five hits and drove in five runs as St. Louis Cardinals whipped Pittsburgh Pirates 7-3.

Linzy, who quips that he made it as a baseball in his college and is too busy bunting and running to work in the off-season, has been anything but funny to the Giants' opposition. He's a 9-2 record and an earned-run average of 1.63, and has pitched four times in the current victory streak, winning twice.

Maloney, bringing his record to 18-7, also singled in the decisive run against the Mets in the second inning. Ed Kranepool hit a homer for New York.

HIT BY DRIVE

The Dodgers took a 3-0 lead in the first inning, but the Cubs drove Don Drysdale from the mound in the second inning when he was hit in the foot by a line drive off the bat of Ernie Banks. Then they made the most of three errors and singles by Ron Santo, Billy Williams and Dick Ellsworth for three runs and a 5-3 lead in the fifth inning.

Tony Cloninger brought his record to 22-9 for the Braves, striking out three runs in the seventh inning, two of them on Wine's throwing error. Wes Covington hit a homer for the Phillies.

Flood doubled in a run in the third inning for the Cardinals, singled home two more in the fourth, smacked a run - producing double in the sixth and singled home another run in a three-run ninth.

Pays Record $5,175,000

Cooke Buys LA Lakers

TORONTO (CP)—The Globe and Mail says that Jack Kent Cooke, former Toronto sportsman, has confirmed paying a record $5,175,000 for Los Angeles Lakers of the National Basketball Association.

Cooke, a publisher and radio station owner here and owner of the Toronto Maple Leafs basketball club in the International League until moving to Los Angeles in the 'mid-fifties ago, had planned a press conference for today announcing purchase of the Lakers.

But the news leaked and Cooke Wednesday night admitted he had making the deal.

He said in a telephone interview from Los Angeles that he will remain in the Toronto action, but placed a cheque for the entire amount in escrow Wednesday, the newspaper says.

He added the deal has been completed.

Cooke, part-owner of Washington Redskins of the National Football League, is also seeking a National Hockey League franchise for Los Angeles when the league expands.

"This doesn't diminish one jot my desire to obtain an NHL franchise for the city of Los Angeles," he said. "As a matter of fact, if anything, it increases my desire."

Cooke's greatest competition for the franchise is reported expected to come from Los Angeles Blades of the Western Hockey League, owners feel that as present tenants of the new Los Angeles Sports Arena they should have priority.

However, the Lakers also play in the Sports Arena and are considered more important tenants. Cooke's purchase of the basketball team could now give him the advantage.

Shannonville Defeats Latta 8-6

Shannonville went two up over Latta in their South Hastings Baseball League four out of seven series last night all by beating the northerners 8-6 at the Belleville fairgrounds.

Shannonville tied the series two games to none. The next game will be held Friday night at the grounds with a game at 8:30 and the fourth on Sunday afternoon, also at the fairgrounds, starting at two o'clock.

In a winning cause for the Shannonville nine Dave Lewis held Latta scoreless after the seventh, fanned 11 and walked but two. He helped his own cause by batting out a home run and a single.

With his homer and single Lewis led Shannonville batters at the plate. Bill Barberstock and Jace Fields got two singles, W. Brant a double and Bill Detlor and Larry Lewis a single each.

Larry Navety with a double and two singles topped the Latta hitters. Gene Yorks and H. Meeks got two singles each, while D. Rollins, Bob Smith and D. Chisholm lashed singles.

Shannonville went into the lead early getting a run in the first, four in the second, one in the seventh and two in the eighth. Latta's only runs in the scoresheet until the seventh when they bunched hits for four tallies, adding one each in the eighth and ninth.

Brooklin Ties Mann Cup Series

NEW WESTMINSTER, B.C. (CP)—Coach Bud Christie said Wednesday his Brooklin, Ont., Merchants are eating less and enjoying it more.

The team didn't look any slimmer, but it looked less sluggish in nipping New Westminster 6-5 here Wednesday to tie at one game each their seven-game Mann Cup senior lacrosse series.

Christie placed the Ontario champions on a strict diet after they took an 11-6 pasting Monday in the first game of the Canadian championships.

He said his boys have also gotten over their first - game shyness about slashing Ontario referees from on anything more than one light tap across an offensive player's gloves and exhibited western-style enthusiasm in defensive stickwork.

A jump to the B.C. league-play penalty average reflected this, as Brooklin players spent 32 minutes in the box Wednesday compared to Monday's 16, and New Westminster's penalty time went up to 20 minutes from eight.

Brooklin's play Wednesday was sharper than in the opener. New Westminster coach Doug McRory said his team played its worst game of the season.

The Brooklin victory rested largely on two things — Pat Baker's sterling netminding and the fact the merchants played slightly less mediocre lacrosse than New Westminster.

Brooklin ran out of steam in the second half and New Westminster never got rolling until late in the fourth when it got two quick goals past Baker.

A disgruntled McRory said he expected better things from his big-three scorers—Paul Parnell, Cliff Sepka, and Wayne Shuttleworth. They dropped from a blistering seven-goal pace Monday to one marker among them Wednesday.

Hotelmen Win Thriller

Doug Murray's seventh inning line smash broke up a Commercial League semi - finals thriller last night to give City Hotel a squeaker 1-0 victory over Stewart Warner.

The win gave the Hotelmen a 3-1 lead in the 4-7 series. The next game, it is reported, is slated for Sunday evening.

City Hotel's Gerry Genereaux and Lee Masters hooked up in a stirring mound duel, the former giving up five hits with Genereaux touched for seven.

It was a scoreless nip-and-tuck battle all the way with both teams threatening at times but yielding to fine clutch pitching and fielding.

Stewart Warner errored three times with the Hotelmen fielding being perfect. The winners stranded three runners, the losers five.

It was one of the best if not the best league tilt of the season and the victory could have gone either way.

The victory play came when Moreau filed out. Coolen walked and Ebbier sacrificed him to second. Murray smashed out his drive to right field to put the win in the bag.

Stewart Warners big threat came in the first frame when a double, single and fielders choice put runners aboard. Smart fielding nipping two runners at third squashed the rally.

Murray's two singles, Genereaux's triple and singles by Hull, Brooks, Moreau and Coolen rounded out the winners' attack.

Rowbotham with a double and Trendall, Crawford, Bryant and Gee with singles for the Warner hits.

The team:

Saturday Harness Meet Cancelled

The closing meet of the season will be held Saturday, Sept. 25.

Club president Gerald Vance said today the reason for the cancellation is for lack of horse entries.

Only 20 entries had been received and directors decided that this number was not sufficient nor fair to patrons.

The lack of entries, he said, was due to the fact the Kingston Driving Club is holding a three-day meet this week.

A full card of nine entries will be on hand Sept. 25 to mark the season's close.

The Trots

ST. CATHARINES (CP) — Flemington's Jane, owned and driven by Jack Reid of Oromocto, N.B., scored her third stakes victory in four attempts this season in the $3,370 Harness Horsemen's Association Stakes for two-year-old trotters at Garden City Raceway Wednesday night.

Flemington's Jane, winner of the first two races, combined with Marion Mohawk, winner of the second, for a daily double worth $128.30.

Ronnie Feagan of Goderich, Ont., ran his season total to 147 victories when he drove his H. A. Meadowand to first place in the sixth race. Feagan is Canada's top harness driver.

There will be no racing at Garden City tonight but racing will resume Friday night.

Flag-bound Twins Win 7 In Row

Six Magic Number

By MIKE RATHET
Associated Press Sports Writer

Rick Reichardt, who received the biggest bonus in baseball history when he signed with California for $200,000 last year, hit the first homer of his major league career Wednesday night and also collected three other hits as the Angels split with Chicago.

The White Sox won the opener but the Angels took the nightcap 3-2 in 14 innings.

The four hits lifted Reichardt's batting average to .321 since he was recalled from Seattle of the Pacific Coast League.

The Minnesota Twins, meanwhile, continued their lead-by-two rush to the American League pennant. Reeling off their seventh straight victory, the Twins reduced their magic pennant-clinching number to six by edging Kansas City Athletics 7-6.

Any combination of Minnesota victories and losses by Baltimore totaling six will bring the Twins their first American League pennant.

The Orioles rode Boog Powell's fifth homer in 15 games to a 3-2 victory over Detroit. Mel Stottlemyre posted his 12th victory as New York Yankees defeated Washington 5-3 and Cleveland snapped a four-game losing streak by belting Boston 8-4.

SCORES ONLY RUN

Reichardt scored the Angels' only run in the opener when he doubled in the fifth inning and scored on Allie Pearson's single. In the nightcap, he slugged his homer in the second inning and added two singles.

The White Sox won the opener behind John Buzhardt's six-hit pitching. Chicago's 11-hit attack that included three hits by Jimmy Piersall and two each by Bill Skowron and Pete Ward. The Angels scored the winning run in the nightcap when Willie Smith and Bob Rodgers singled in the 14th around a sacrifice.

Trailing 5-1, the A's stayed catch up with the Twins on homers by Ken Harrelson and Larry Stahl before tying it in the eighth inning on a homer by Bill Bryan and Mike Hershberger's run-scoring single. But the Twins came through in the bottom of the inning with rookie pinch hitters Ted Uhlaender and Joe Nossek stroking run-producing singles.

Powell hit a two-run homer in the first inning and the Orioles added single runs in the fourth and Norm Cash connected for the Tigers, who were held to six hits by Jim McAnlis.

Stottlemyre checked the Senators on five hits while the Yankees broke a 3-3 tie in the fourth inning on Clete Boyer's homer.

The Indians tied the score 4-4 on Gary Geiter's homer in the seventh inning, then won it with a four-run eighth on Fred Whitfield's tie-breaking single and a three-run homer by Chuck Hinton.

Series All Square 1-1

Gaels Nip New Westminster

OSHAWA (CP) — Gaylord Powless went on the warpath Wednesday night and spearheaded Oshawa Green Gaels with a spine-tingling 9-6 victory over New Westminster Salmonbellies in the Canadian junior lacrosse final.

He scored twice and set up many other goals as the Oshawa Gaels, defending champions, evened the best-of-seven series for the Minto Cup at one game each.

Third game will be played Friday with the fourth Saturday and the fifth Monday.

Powless, eldest son of Rosa Powless, one of the best known names in Ontario senior lacrosse, did double duty through out the game before 2,382 fans and was the key to the eastern champions' success.

"He really hurt us tonight," said Keith Jackson, New Westminster coach. "I don't know how many faceoffs he won and ball possession is vital. He's good enough right now to play senior ball and stand out."

The husky centre, a Mohawk Indian from Oshweken, is a Grade 12 student in Oshawa and has two years junior oldage eligibility remaining.

A year ago he was named the most valuable player in the junior final when the Green Gaels won their second consecutive title in five games against New Westminster.

"He had a great game tonight," said Jim Bishop, Oshawa coach and general manager. "But so did (Merv) Marshall in goal and (Jim) Higgs on defence."

Higgs scored twice, including the winner, while Ross Jones added three. Bill Armour, picked up by Oshawa for the series, and captain John Davis added the others.

Powless' display ruined a great two-way game by defenceman Ranjit Dillon, who scored four goals, assisted on another and was a tower of strength on defence for Salmonbellies.

Four Midgets At Arena Friday Night

The midgets, one of wrestling's most popular attractions will be at Memorial Arena tomorrow night.

For many years these miniature pachyderms have thrilled audiences all over the country. Tomorrow night sees four of them in tag-team action.

Roger Littlebrook, well-known to fans here teams up with Jim Dandy to take on Chico Santana and Frenchie LaMonte. There's a midget league of nations for the fans.

They'll go two-of-three falls in a 45-minute limit.

Headlining the card are the Garvin brothers, those platinum blondes whose aggressive actions brought them the wrath of the fans a week ago.

They will meet Cousin Bill Williams and Vic Rossetanni in another tag-team event, two-of-three with an hour limit.

Another topflight preliminary bout will round out the card.

Says WBA Won't OK Fight

PROVIDENCE, R.I. (AP)— An official of the World Boxing Association said Wednesday the organization could not sanction a world championship title fight between Charles Cary and Floyd Patterson in Las Vegas, Nev., or any other place.

Tony Mascetti, Rhode Island boxing commissioner and a member of the WBA executive committee, said:

"There is a real misunderstanding in Nevada when officials say the WBA may approve the fight."

"Cley was suspended by the WBA in September, 1956, when he and Sonny Liston violated a return-bout clause," Mascetti said. "Clay is still under suspension by the WBA and does not appear in our organization's rankings."

"Ernie Terrell is the only world heavyweight champion recognized by the WBA."

Mascetti was commenting on reports from Las Vegas that Terrell would fill the planned Clay-Patterson fight as a world title bout if it was approved by the WBA.

Tickets Orders Deluge

MINNEAPOLIS (AP) — A blizzard of some 32,400 World Series mail orders deluged Minnesota Twins Wednesday as the battle opened for Sally-sought tickets.

The Twins have not yet clinched the American League pennant, but there's no doubt they will in the minds of fans.

Wednesday was the first day for sending in mail orders and Twin Cities area fans got theirs in early. Long lines queued up at the main post office in Minneapolis and St. Paul for midnight deposits.

Metropolitan Stadium will seat 45,182 for the game, along with some 4,000 standing room.

HIRES NEGRO UMPIRE

BOSTON (AP) — The American Baseball League hired its first Negro umpire Wednesday with the engagement of Emmett L. Ashford, for three years, umpire-in-chief of the Pacific Coast League. Ashford will join a staff of 23 umpires at 1966 spring training.

Not Enough Attention

Nancy Drops Percival

BRAMPTON (CP) — Nancy McCredie, 20 - year - old Bethesda, Ont., lass and field star, said Wednesday Lloyd Percival of Toronto no longer is her trainer.

Miss McCredie, the Canadian women's discus and shot-put champion, said her father, Gordon, now is her trainer.

She said she left the Don Mills Track and Field Club in Toronto because she felt Percival was "concentrating on the all-round club and not giving enough attention to individual athletes."

In Toronto, Percival said he did not know Miss McCredie left the club.

RELEASE NOT ASKED FOR

"She hasn't asked for a release. In fact I haven't seen her since July 25. She refused to enter the Eastern Canadian championships July 27 and I told the club secretary George Arnold not to enter her in any other competitions."

Percival said Miss McCredie has lost some of her dedication because there is no competition available in North America and she was forced to compete against herself.

He denied trying to build up his own interest other than working with individuals.

TAKES DRAFT PHYSICAL

NEW YORK (AP) — Joe Namath, New York Jets' $400,000 rookie quarterback, took a pre - induction draft physical Wednesday and the army medics, as usual, made no announcement about the results. It was indicated that Namath's draft board probably will not receive a report for about two weeks. If Namath passes, there is no known induction date.

Want Leafs To Stay At Home

TORONTO (CP) — Officials of Toronto Maple Leafs, International League baseball playoff champions after their victory over Columbus Jets in the final Tuesday night, have requested a meeting with civic groups to assure the team will stay in Toronto.

Team president Bobby Hunter and vice - president Sammy Starr are asking financial assistance from city council and the Toronto Harbor Commission and want to meet with the two groups.

"We'll have baseball here next year if we can get some concessions," Hunter said Wednesday night as he prepared a victory celebration for his players after their four-games-to-one victory in the Governor's Cup series.

Hunter, Starr and seven other directors paid off a business debt of $168,000 in 1964 and estimate their losses this year at $90,000. The club will recover $50,000 from the loss from Toronto Rifles of the Continental Football League, who, like the baseball team, play home games at Maple Leaf Stadium here. The Rifles are paying $10,300 in rent with the baseball club holding the rights to concessions.

The Maple Leafs rent the stadium from the harbor commis-

Moore Hangs Up Skates

Leafs Head For Camp

TORONTO (CP) — Toronto Maple Leafs, dethroned last season after three years as Stanley Cup champions, opened for their Peterborough training camp today under notice that almost everyone good, has to fight for his job.

Punch Imlach, the Leafs' coach and general manager, exempted only Johnny Bower and Terry Sawchuk, his two veteran goaltenders, from the warning that the players will have to convince him they belong in the National Hockey League if they want to be in the lineup when the season opens Oct. 28.

The coach said he isn't worried about signing players.

"I've got the strongest contingent I ever had. If they don't sign their contracts, they won't play. We've got enough players to replace anybody and I mean anybody, a holdout only after the first league game."

One veteran won't be back. Dickie Moore, the 35-year-old left winger whom the Leafs obtained out of retirement last season, told Imlach he is hanging up his skates for keeps. Moore, who led the NHL in scoring twice in 12 years with the Canadiens, managed only nine goals in 38 games last year.

Three Tied At 3-1 By Bookies

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP)—The surging San Francisco Giants Wednesday moved into a better tie with Cincinnati Reds and Los Angeles Dodgers as favorites to win the National League baseball pennant.

Bookmakers are posting all three clubs at 3-1, but one cautioned:

"If the Giants keep this up, we'll take them off the board with no bets accepted in a few more days."

Minnesota Twins have been off the board for nearly three weeks as they lengthen their lead in the American League.

West Body Quits OLA

SARNIA (CP)—Joe Crouchman, president of the Senior B Western Ontario Lacrosse Association, says his association is getting out of the Ontario Lacrosse Association.

"We are definitely withdrawing . . . as a result of the OLA's unprofessional conduct," Crouchman said in an interview Wednesday.

He said playoff arrangements made by the OLA would force his association to go into a two-game total-point series on only 48 hours' notice. It would have been between Windsor of the WOLA and Fergus.

James Naish of Port Credit, Ont., president of the OLA, said Tuesday the OLA has decided to withdraw from the Canadian Lacrosse Association playoffs in 1966 because the CLA had not arranged playoffs in time for the provincial groups to prepare for them.

Other teams in WOLA Senior B are Sarnia-Port Huron Beavers and Wallaceburg Red Devils.

Bucs Draw Two Jets

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Pittsburgh Pirates of the National League announced Wednesday they have obtained two players from their Columbus farm club.

Outfielder George Spriggs, who led the International League with 66 stolen bases this year, was acquired in a trade for Pirate pitcher Phil Cumningham.

Catcher Jerry May, who played briefly with the Pirates at the end of last season, was recalled.

Mays Off Pace Of Ruth, Maris

NEW YORK (AP) — Willie Mays, with 48 home runs and 101 for his career, still is running behind the pace of Roger Maris and Babe Ruth in their big years.

Mays has hit 48 homers in 144 games. In 1961, when Maris hit his record 61, he had 56 in the first 144 games. In 1927, when Ruth hit 60, he had 53 in the first 144 games of a 154-game season.

Few Ideas About How To Plan Study Corner

By JACK HUTTON

It may be a card table. Perhaps the two bottom drawers of a bureau. Or it may be the rear corner of the attic where you can look through trees at the backyard.

But the important thing is that it's all yours — no one else's.

This is your weekend to carefully plan some corner at home where notes can be filed away, books stored and where you know you can concentrate in quiet.

It doesn't matter whether you live in a small apartment or a 20-room mansion. There is some nook or cranny that is just right for you. Or, if it isn't now, it can be with a little planning.

This column, based on the advice of several guidance teachers and friends who've been able to organize their studying well, is meant to give you a few ideas about how to plan your corner.

I've never forgotten a conversation with Dr. Hugh Saunderson, the tall, urbane president of the university of Manitoba. "Most students who fail here don't do it in the spring," he said. "They do it in the fall when they thought they had lots of time and didn't get organized."

That's not going to happen to us. Not if we do some planning right now.

MUST HAVE ROUTINE

A family conference (this all depends, after all, on co-operation) should attack the problem from two aspects: psychological and physical.

1 — Let's tackle the first. Nothing is as important as establishing a routine in which you can concentrate at the same time every night on the same place — free from distractions.

And what about distractions? The experts disagree about a radio. Some swear it harms studying. I've always found that it relaxed me. You suit yourself!

But there's no argument about telephones.

If there's a program you just can't miss, fit that into your schedule so that you can take a break. But don't try to do two things at the same time. That way lies disaster.

Try making a schedule for yourself during the next two weeks, marking off the hours for each evening. Be honest in filling in the blanks. If you plan up in your corner it will help you to stay organized.

2 — What about the physical makeup of your corner? Ideally it should be a little room or cubby hole that's removed from the other distractions of your home. If that's impossible the end of the dining room table can work — with planning.

Some people find that the best place to be tune to study is their own bedroom. There are too many distractions there — pennants, pictures of movie idols or singers.

Suit yourself, but stick to the same place.

What about a desk? By carefully scouting the classified advertisements you'll be amazed at how cheaply you can buy a used desk. Add a small book stand that needn't cost more than a few dollars and you're all set.

SHOULD USE TYPEWRITER

I bought my first typewriter on a time payment plan and still figure it was a smart investment. Regardless of what you eventually do, the knack of using a typewriter is invaluable.

Eventually you may want to add a small file. That's something that can wait, and don't spend a lot of money on this, either. By watching for your chance, you'll either scrounge an old one or buy one for a few dollars.

You've no space, you say? Then plugging is even more important for you because of the distractions. First, get a permanent place to store your material — a drawer, a shelf.

And have it understood that the dining room or the kitchen table is yours for a specific time each evening. Fit yourself into a routine and you've accomplished the most important thing you'll do this fall.

Remember. People don't fail in the spring. They plant the seeds of their own failure long before Christmas.

Many Grade 13 Grads Seek Higher Education

CAMPBELLFORD — An interesting feature of the results of the 1965 Grade XIII class in Campbellford and District High School is the large number out of a comparatively small class who have left to avail themselves of higher education.

Robert Palliser, Charles Pope, Janice Johnston and Ralph Wilkins have enrolled at Queen's University.

Jane Rutherford has enrolled in the Bachelor of Household Science course at Guelph University. Her application was accepted as one of the 100 students accepted out of 300 applicants.

Douglas Grant has also enrolled in Guelph in the Science Faculty.

Willie Jorgenson is in physical education at Guelph and Dick Thompson has entered a two year course at the same university.

Bernadette McEvoy has entered Toronto General Hospital to train as a laboratory technician.

Vicky Southern is in training as a nurse in the Hospital for Sick Children in Toronto and Fern Ingram has enrolled at Kingston General Hospital.

Ron Bednarian is at Waterloo University. Terry O'Sullivan is a student at St. Michael's College, Toronto.

Rudy Joss has enrolled at the University of Toronto.

Garry Thompson has accepted a position with the B-C Telephone Company in Toronto.

This number is approximately 50 per cent of the class and more university applications are pending.

FLANES COLLIDE

DETROIT (AP)—A Michigan Air National Guard photo reconnaissance jet crashed near Detroit's Metropolitan Airport Wednesday night, killing its pilot, after a collision in flight with a similar craft. The other plane made a safe emergency landing with about five feet of its nose sheared off from the collision, an air guard spokesman said.

Sewage Disposal Report Given to Town Council

CAMPBELLFORD — The Council held their regular meeting on Monday evening with all members present, with Mayor Tanner in the chair.

The main business of the meeting was receiving the report of Hisey and Barrington Consulting Engineers of Richmond Hill concerning various designs of sewage treatment and the most practical for the town of Campbellford.

Mr. Barrington opened his report with a showing of slides, of treatments in operation in other municipalities of comparable population.

Six alternate methods for treatment were evaluated in the report, and estimates of capital and operating costs together with total annual costs for each alternate were included in the comprehensive report.

In his remarks Mr. Barrington stated whatever form of treatment is decided upon, special attention should be given to the quantity and strength of wastes from the Campbellford cloth company, the Breithaupt Leather company and from Anderson's Dairy. Dyeing operations may be resumed at the Campbellford Cloth company and wastes from such operations and also wastes from leather treatment and cheese manufacturing would require pre-treatment before discharging to the town sewers.

Six treatments were suggested and explained in the following order of preference, the rotor Aeration, Contact Stabilization, Activated Sludge, Perforated and Field - Erected plant, Aerated ponds, and Sewage Stabilization ponds.

COSTS GIVEN

Costs of the various plants ranged from $554,000 with annual upkeep of $5,000 to $356,000 with annual upkeep of $17,000. The recommended rotor aeration plant would cost $396,000 with annual upkeep of $15,000. An available government financing plan would provide a forgiveness grant of 25 per cent of two thirds of the capital cost. The balance would be financed at five and three quarters per cent of the O.W.R.

The rotor aeration treatment of sewage takes place in endless aeration chambers where the sewage is circulated and aerated by means of cylindrical rotors similar to Kessener brushes which have been used in Europe for fourteen years time particularly in Holland. It has been used in the U.S. and now being started in Canada.

Only one acre of land would be required for the rotor aerated plant and the capacity could be doubled by the addition of one more acre.

To acquire a sewage lagoon type of treatment would require about 50 or 60 acres. Apparently only one site was found available in the immediate area.

The activated sludge plant

One of World's Biggest Dams Rising In Quebec's North Shore Wilderness

By BENOIT HOULE

MANICOUAGAN, Que. (CP) — In the remote wilderness stretching back from the north shore of the St. Lawrence River, a giant dam is rising as fast as 2,000 men can put it up.

The dam, called Manic 5, is already up to 385 feet, more than half the final height, and is growing at the rate of six feet a week.

Manic 5 is the fifth in a series of high dams for a hydro-electric power project on the Manicouagan and Outardes Rivers which run south, nearly parallel to each other, into the St. Lawrence close to Baie Comeau, 225 miles northeast of Quebec City.

When Manic 5 is completed, it will be 703 feet high and 4,200 feet across. It will be the seventh highest dam in the world, after the Grande Dixence in Switzerland, the Valont in Italy, the Mauvoisin, also in Switzerland, the Bhakra in India and two in the United States: The Hoover and the Glen Canyon.

The Manicouagan - Outardes project is the most expensive ever undertaken in Canada. Completed cost is estimated at $1,300,000,000. The St. Lawrence Seaway cost $1,000,000,000.

HUGE POWER RESERVOIR

Even in early times, it was plain that the Manicouagan and Outardes were mighty sources of energy, spilling 1,500,000,000 cubic feet of water into the St. Lawrence annually. But the distances from settled areas, the absence of roads and the immense investment necessary to harness the waters forbade any attempt at converting the run-off into electrical power until recently.

It was in 1955 that Hydro-Quebec undertook a survey of the Manicouagan - Outardes basin. The survey showed that it was possible to produce 53,000,000,000 kilowatt - hours of power a year.

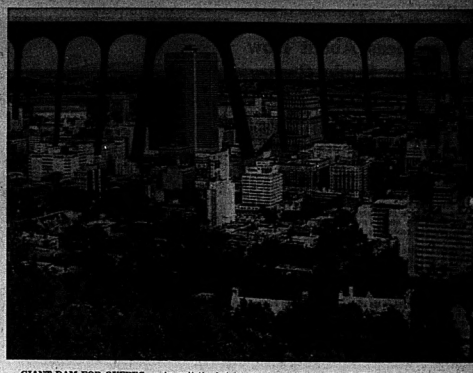
Quebec, which provides 45 per cent of the total power in Canada, is already in the first rank of production in the world. The province's power would raise it still closer to the top. But there was another challenge that was important too.

The Manic idea was conceived in French. It was planned and carried out in French. It represents the largest endeavor of its kind for Quebec whose people until now have limited themselves for the most part to political or artistic expression.

Before this, when the people of French Canada wanted to advance their economic way of life, they had to go to English-speaking Tirms, where the ideas, the planning and the direction were all in English.

To build Manic 5 it took more than ideas, more than planning and direction. It took men and families who had to make a place to live in the wilderness. Today, there is a town of trailer camps, with a school, a hospital, a hockey rink and a church.

Two doctors and a priest look after the physical and spiritual needs of the men who are building the dam.



On Lake Louise, near the airport, 300 families live in one trailer camp. Three nights a week there are movies. On Sundays, there is plenty of fishing and hunting, or organized recreation.

This sort of life will go on for another five years by which time the project should be finished.

For those who want to visit the outside world, the nearest place is Baie Comeau, 125 miles to the south, at the end of a road that winds through mountains and around lakes, past Manic 1, Manic 2, Manic 3, in various stages of preparation or completion.

Some lands, the poet said, are for children. Some are for men and others for giants.

Manic is the land for the giants.

GIANT DAM FOR QUEBEC — An artist's sketch superimposed on the skyline shows how the giant dam known as Manic 5 dwarfs the city of Montreal. Its finished height of 703 feet will make it the seventh highest in the world and third highest in North America. Manic 5 is part of power project by Hydro-Quebec on the Manicouagan and Outardes rivers 225 miles northeast of Quebec City. It is the most expensive project ever undertaken in Canada with completed cost estimated at $1,500,000,000.

Man and Wife Vote Town Wet, But Split on 'Men Only' Beerhall

OJIBWAY, Ont. (CP)—John A. Reid and his wife Elizabeth Wednesday voted their town "wet."

In Ontario's strangest municipal plebiscite, the Reids were the only voters in the five-point vote—and to all but one of the five questions they unanimously cleared the way for the sale of liquor in their town, with its total population of six persons.

The vote, probably the town's last in its 51-year history, was called to determine if the new Windsor Raceway, a harness race track, would be able to apply for a liquor licence in time for the opening of the track Oct. 14.

The vote by the couple ended a 24-hour period of threats they had received from anonymous telephone callers — "all men" — who warned that their children might be harmed if they did not vote "wet".

Mr. Reid, a maintenance superintendent for Canadian Rock Salt Co., the town's sole industry and major property owner, moved into the area eight years ago. In that time his family have been the only residents of the 2,200-acre town on the Detroit River.

The polling booth in the town was open for one hour only today—and the Reids arrived shortly after it opened.

Explained Mrs. Reid later: "You can bet your life this won't be a tie vote. We've stuck together 30 years—we're not going to separate now."

But when town clerk Cec Shortridge counted the votes, one of the five questions on the ballot form did end in a tie.

To the question should there be a men-only section to any beer parlor that might be established in the community, there was one vote for and one against.

Two Lively Action Shows Added to TV Fare for Fall

NEW YORK (AP)—The television tempo quickened Wednesday night with the addition of a couple of high-voltage action shows, two comedies that promise to provide an occasional chuckle, and a science - fiction hour that may delight—the younger audience.

The action shows are ABC's Big Valley and CBS' I Spy. You could hardly ask for greater diversity.

The Big Valley is a western, family-style like Bonanza, but in its first outing suggested that its storey lines promise to be made of sterner stuff.

The Barkley of old California's coastal of a widowed mother, a brave pioneer type, with three handsome sons for whom it's hard to like each other much except when the chips are down, and a pretty daughter who appears to be something of a problem. There were some fist fights and a big gun battle that drove off the ruthless land-grabbers.

SET IN HONG KONG

I Spy is one of those popular secret agent things set in Hong Kong. Co-stars are Robert Culp and Bill Cosby, the first Negro to be cast in a stellar role in an American TV series.

On the comedy front was CBS' Green Acres which takes a smooth Manhattan lawyer and his completely urbanized wife and deposits them in a crumbling farmhouse.

Gidget on ABC will be enjoyed by the people who made Gidget movies box office successes — girls and parents who want to understand teen - agers. A cute youngster named Sally Field plays the title role and Don Porter, once Ann Sothern's boss, is her widowed father.

Lost in Space is a companion piece to ABC's Voyage to the Bottom of the Sea. The first episode was dedicated to shipping a family to the year 1997 in a planet 5½ years of spaceship travel away.

Tonight's TV newcomers will be ABC, O.K. Crackerby and The Long Hot Summer, and NBC's Laredo, Mona McCluskey and The Dean Martin Show.

Madoc Junction

About 20 people attended a demonstration party held at the home of Mrs. Glenn Clarke on Thursday evening.

Several from the Eggleton appointment attended the anniversary service at Thomasburg United Church on Sunday.

GIANTS SIGN A PEPITONE

NEW YORK (AP)—Bill Peppelons, brother of New York Yankees' Joe Pepitone, signed with San Francisco Giants of the National League Wednesday. Both Pepitones are first basemen. Bill, 19, was assigned to the Lexington, N.C., club of the Class A Western Carolina League.

The Tracks

TORONTO (CP) — Brave Front, a two-year-old bay filly owned by John Hughes of Ardmore, Okla., won the $12,875 Shady Well Stakes at Woodbine here race Wednesday.

The filly, with Manuel Gonzales aboard, picked her way through a field of 13 other two-year-olds to return $5.30, $3.20 and $2.70.

Brave Front raced the seven furlongs in 1:24.4. The filly went through the lucky field down the backstretch, gained a position on the rail on the final turn and made her move at the head of the stretch.

TORONTO (CP)—More than $54,000 in wagers on the third race at Woodbine race track was refunded Wednesday when Count Fee became stuck in the starting gate, resulting in a no-contest ruling.

Count Fee, owned by Mr. and Mrs. Harry Lam of Toronto, fell as the gate was sprung. The other seven horses got away but the gate couldn't be moved off the track.

Jockey Mike Shoak of Laurel, Md., jumped off the horse as he was going down and was uninjured.

New Shopping Centre Will Be Discussed

Topic will be the proposed new shopping centre on Lake Street (on former Canada Cement property) and how it will effect the present Main Street business section.

Merchants are express ing concern at the changes on Main Street, leaving empty stores and a reduced flow of traffic to possible changes in the offing.

Lack of parking space may be one of the reasons for development of businesses outside the main business area and this is likely to be discussed at the same meeting.

WILL HOST SEMINAR

Picton Public School Board has accepted an invitation to host a one-day seminar for district school trustees. While all details were not given, it is understood that as many as 75 trustees might attend and it would be an honor for the town to have them visit here.

HASTY PEES TO MEET

Plans are being completed for the annual re-union of Hastings and Prince Edward Regiment in Picton, Thanksgiving week-end. The dinner will be held on Sunday, October 10, with Lt. Col. Angus Duffy, a former C.O. as guest speaker.

All members or ex-members of the Regiment may attend without invitation, George Swift, President of the H.P.E.R. Association stated. Meeting and banquet will be at the County Centre at the Fair grounds.

The Rural Scene

The Prince Edward County Junior Farmers' Association has made plans to sponsor the fifth annual Coaching Class and Junior Farmer Plowing Match on Saturday, September 16th. This event will be held at the farm of James Dick, R.R. 2, Bloomfield. The program will begin with a coaching class from 10 to 11 in the forenoon and plowing in the various classes will be done between 11 in the morning and 4 in the afternoon. The judge appointed by the Ontario Plowmen's Association will be on hand to give instruction in the morning and after the plowing has been completed he will place the lands and comment on the work that has been done.

There will be classes for boys 15 years of age and under, 20 years of age and under and 29 years of age and under. All contestants competing will be available and will qualify for prize money. Prizes will be 1st. $16; 2nd. $9; 3rd. $6. Also for each other contestant completing a land. In addition to the prize money the Massey-Ferguson plowman for the day will receive a trophy, which will be awarded by the Prince Edward Junior Farmers' Association. Anyone wishing a complete copy of the rules and regulations can obtain one at the Ontario Department of Agriculture office in Picton. There will be a very worthwhile day and as many Junior Farmers and 4-H club members as possible are urged to attend and take part.

FALL FERTILIZER

It is at this time of year that the legume plant is manufacturing a food reserve to store in its root system to withstand the winter conditions. To enable it to do this we would suggest two very important points. 1. Make sure there is adequate plant food available for the needs of the legume. 2. Provide a rest period from grazing or harvesting during the month of September. The fall management of legume - grass stands is important if they are more than at any other time of the year if we wish to maintain the legume in the stand. Research conducted by the Soil Science Dept. at the Ontario Agricultural College has shown that the response to fall fertilization and the importance of proper fertilization increases as the stand becomes older. Research results on a soil which had a high to medium soil test for potassium showed a return of $3 to $4 for each extra pound of potash applied. $6 worth of potash fertilizer increasing yields the following year by 1 ton of hay. The research also showed that where no potash fall fertilization was followed the amount of legume in the stand was reduced to less than 20% at the end of the second year. Of course the safest way to determine your fertilizer needs is by soil test, however where no soil test is available general recommendations can be obtained at your local Department of Agriculture Office.

PLANTS FOR SALE

The first certified red raspberry plants under the new Raspberry Certification Programme will be for sale this fall. This means that the people of Ontario will be able to buy plants that have been propagated from initially virus free plants and grown under isolated conditions with a specific spray program. It is expected that plants for this certified stock will produce marked increases in yields and have a longer life as a planting.

All bundles of Ontario Certified stock in the future will carry a certification tag.

Certified plants can be obtained from seven growers in 1965 and their names and addresses and the varieties they have are available from the Ontario Department of Agriculture Office in Picton.

LISTS BROKEN DOWN

To encourage wider participation in the Prince Edward Farmstead Improvement Competition the prize list has been broken down on the basis of the five divisions of the competition. This will enable participants to concentrate on one section only if they so desire. For example some might wish to place special emphasis on the entrance to the Farm while others would concentrate on the house, the yard around the house or on the barn. More than $600 is being offered in prizes and additional prizes will be given based on the amount of grants and donations received.

The prizes in each of the five divisions are $30; $20; and $15 and will be allotted as follows:

1. Attractive Approach (roadside and fences, entrances, mailbox, and farm name, lawns and to buildings) 1st. $30; 2nd. $20; 3rd $15. 2. Yard Area Around House (lawn, shade trees and windbreaks, flowers, vegetable garden, fencing, hedges, walks, steps etc.) 1st $30; 2nd $20; 3rd $15.

3. House (Condition and Paint) 1st $30; 2nd $20; 3rd $15. 4. Yard Area Around Barn (Fencing, grading, etc., freedom from weeds, removal of old scrap, rubbish, etc.); 1st $30; 2nd $20; 3rd $15. 5. Barn and Other Outbuildings (Condition and Painting) 1st $30; 2nd $20; 3rd $15.

Prizes for overall score 1st. $100; 2nd. $75; 3rd. $50. All other creditable entries at least $25.00.

The purpose of this competition is to encourage every people to clean, up, paint and generally improve their farm property. Instead of taken down much useful material could be used and they could be returned into an asset rather than a liability. Old fences that have fallen down could be repaired and are no longer needed could be removed and the land cleaned up. Some trees would be cut down and the wood used for fuel. A few shade trees and ornamentals could be planted in areas where they are needed. Annual and perennial flowers do much to brighten the yard around the home. These are only a few of the small jobs any one or several of which might be undertaken by a centennial project.

Entries in the farmstead improvement Competition should be forwarded to the Ontario Department of Agriculture Office 470, Picton by October 1st. Entry forms are available at the Agriculture Office.

Ronald Hotston New President Kiwanis Club

The new President received his pin and Past President Ken Fisher was presented with the P.P. pin. The annual Fall Conference was announced for Brockville, October 23.

National Convention is being changed from Quebec City, due to hotel strike, to Montreal.

The new Kin Bulletin was introduced and contributions and club activities sought. District items will be forwarded the national Kin magazine.

Paper Strike Threatened In New York

NEW YORK (AP) — The American Newspaper Guild (AFL-CIO) called a strike today against the New York Times, but contract talks were to resume at mid-morning.

All but one of the city's major newspapers were pledged to stop publishing if the strike closed the Times.

The dispute is over automation and job security.

A new grille, simulated magnesium wheel covers and new side ornamentations are among the styling changes in the 1968 Mustang. The styling changes are the first for the car since it was introduced as a 1965 model seventeen months ago. New standard equipment features include a five-dial instrument cluster and such safety features as emergency flashers, backup lights and outside rear-view mirror. Mustang options for 1968 include a new high-performance engine and automatic transmission combination and a new Stereosonic tape system.

Kiwanis Club Will Sponsor Group Concert

PICTON (Staff) — Of great local interest is the announcement by the Kiwanis Club of Picton, that they will sponsor the first appearance of the Eastern Ontario Concert Orchestra before a Prince Edward County audience on October 21st. After months of planning this orchestra will present a concert at Prince Edward Collegiate on that date.

As its name implies, the Eastern Ontario Concert Orchestra is composed of musicians from places of residence are to be found all over Eastern Ontario: Trenton, Belleville, Brighton, Colborne, Wellington, Campbellford, Frankford, Havelock, Bancroft and Madoc. All members of the orchestra are dedicated amateur musicians who spend their hours in practice preparing to bring good music to audiences in Eastern Ontario.

In the words of Stephen Choma, the orchestra director: "In order to bring music to people we have to dedicate ourselves to play to people and for people and not to play over their heads because we are not professional and should not have to be ensured." Expressing hims elf along the same trend, Joachim Reiman, chairman of the orchestra group says, "There is no need for one to go long hair to play or enjoy good music. There are bad musicians but all music is good."

The group, by dint of hard practice, each on his or her own instrument and then ensemble as a group, has rapidly come to the point where their music is very much in demand. They bring to their audiences music with feeling, music with humour and mostly music that anybody can enjoy and understand.

TICKETS IN DEMAND

Although tickets will not be on sale for another week, they are already in great dem a nd and may be obtained from any of wansans and their wives after Monday, September 20th. Any Kiwanis Club will be arranging special students' seats which music teachers may pur chase to students at a special student's price provided they in turn use this plan to attend and supervise their students.

The financial aim of the local Kiwanis Club and the Eastern Ontario Orchestra is to promote a symphonic concert and at the same time prove that good music can be enjoyed by everybody. It will be a unique opportunity for students and other interested persons to hear the various instruments. Elements of the concert hall being played and listening to leave the county to do so.

spiration due to be tried separately—as a man who took delivery of two shipments on which she accompanied his band Joseph Michel Caron, 36, into Connecticut from Montreal in 1965.

'INSISTED' ON TRIP

On the Mexican trip, she said, she was reluctant to go but defendant Julien Gagnon had insisted she go along to give the appearance of a honeymoon couple and had said "something might happen"—her and her children if she didn't.

Evidence about the note purported to provide a link between Bruno, 50, alleged key man in a drug ring, and the $2,000,000 — street worth of pure heroin Caron was ferrying when he and his wife were stopped by border guards beside the Rio Grande here Oct. 10, 1965.

Bruno's message was found on Caron and he has interpreted in court fragmentary fashion as an admission that he had courier trip. A government handwriting expert Wednesday said it was written by Bruno.

Late in the third day of the Montreelers' trial, the handwriting testimony was tendered by the government in an attempt to make the cryptic notation the first piece of physical evidence corroborating Caron's claim that Rivard maneuvered the shuffling around of huge quantities of heroin from Europe and over this continent.

He has testified that Rivard directed European heroin-importing trips in 1963 by Gagnon —alias Jerry Massey—and defendant Joseph Raymond Jones, following each of which he took loads to Frank Cappola at Montreal. He also has said the fourth defendant, Charles Emile Groleau, took part in payoffs.

GIVES NOTE DETAILS

Caron testified earlier this week the note was given him in Mexico City—as accomplices there loaded up his car—by two Montreal men who had come down from Montreal. In consisted of writing and printing crowded over what appeared to be a piece of envelope. It was unsigned.

A combination of Caron's partial translation and unofficial interpretation by officials seemed to indicate it gave instructions sor him to call someone at his office Oct. 14 at a number whose last two digits were 73—Caron has said he knew a Rivard number like that.

Across the top of the message was written "Stratford Connecticut"—evidently a reference to Stratford near the delivery point of his former shipments.

Caron was caught here Oct. 10. He was under orders to cross here with crowds during an Oct. 12 Mexican fiesta across the border but left the date by two days.

His wife, who on direct evidence Wednesday was not drawn into the question of whether she knew her husband was up to before they were arrested, later conceded under defence cross - examination that she had her suspicions.

MENTIONS 'POWDER'

At the hands of the prosecution, she said that while driving from Mexico City to Laredo the car had had a flat tire but her husband had got the tire repaired rather than use the spare because he thought the people in Mexico City might have put "some white powder" into it.

The government lawyers left it at that, but the defence asked whether she didn't think it was done.

"I couldn't swear so but I had an idea that's what was meant," she replied.

Later in the day, when she was asked whether she was aware there was heroin under the seat of her two sons by Bridgeport with her husband, she said: "I really didn't pay any attention to it."

She testified Gagnon—whom she "definitely" disliked—and Jones travelled with her and her husband about their trips to Europe in the summer of 1965 and that it was soon after each got back that she went to Bridgeport with Caron. She identified a picture of Cappola as that of the Bridgeport contact.

All questioners were careful not to ask where Mrs. Caron is living but it was brought out that the U.S. government has taken her children from Montreal to live with her somewhere in the U.S.

She said the government gave her some money and a promise of immunity, later providing her with a job. She said she has since been laid off her assembly line job and has been living recently on savings.

WILL KEEP SECRET

STOCKHOLM (Reuters) — The Swedish cabinet, presided over by King Gustaf Adolf, has decided to keep secret a wartime telegram which has led to allegations that Britain's Lord Butler talked of compromise peace moves with Germany in 1941. The telegram was sent by Bjorn Prytz, wartime Swedish minister in London, to the foreign ministry in June, 1940.

Find Club Entertaining Is Cut-throat Business

By LESLIE MILLIN

VANCOUVER (CP) — Donna Warner, Trevor Veitch and Brent Titcomb are three young people in a hurry to get rich.

They have chosen their path deliberately and none of them has any illusions about what they agree is a "cut-throat business."

They have made The Decision —as Brent calls it—and are committed to the entertainment world of smoke-filled clubs and constant moves at a relatively tender age.

Donna and Trevor are 19, Brent is 20, and as Three's a Crowd they have been quietly salting away money for a few months at a rate that seems to surprise them.

"But you have to be commercial to survive in this business," says Donna, a blonde who quit her job in Edmonton to head for the coast.

"I don't mean you have to prostitute your music, but you have to keep your eye on survival, and in this business that means making money.

"Making money is what we have in mind."

Brent is listed as the leader of the group, but he says their act—a mixture of songs and humor—"just sort of grows, as we work on it."

USE ODD INSTRUMENTS

Their show leans heavily on Donna's rich, strong voice, and the natural ad-libs cast of Brent's long face.

They pick up their songs anywhere they can get them, and a typical 20-minute set includes "pure" folk songs, show tunes, satire songs, and a few things pilfered from rock 'n' roll.

Using guitars for basic background, Brent and Trevor vary the sound with kazoos, a tin whistle and an old washboard.

"We had to make a decision just a little while ago, whether to go after the rock-folk thing or keep working on a lounge act," says Brent.

"We decided to go after the lounge act, where there's more money.

"It's too bad we didn't get this rolling five years ago, when we could have hit the folk thing at its most profitable, but Trevor and Donna would have been just 14, so I guess it's a silly thought.

"This is a strange business, and a real cut-throat one too.

"A thing starts for laughs, you do it as a hobby, fool around with it in your spare time, and then one day, boom, you have to make the decision to stay with it as a career, and then watch out.

"It's a tough business and you have to be with it every minute."

HEADING SOUTH

Donna met Trevor a year ago when she came to Vancouver, and he started accompanying her in her blues and spirituals act at Vancouver clubs.

She had done drama and television work in Edmonton. Trevor says he is a "university dropout. One month at the University of B.C.—I got in a lot of guitar playing that month."

They met Brent—"I used to do public relations for a resort and drive a gravel truck"—in Vancouver, formed Three's a Crowd, and began to roll.

Their path took them through the Western Canada circuit of coffee houses, television shows and club dates, and they played with Oscar Brand at the Calgary Stampede.

Their path now leads them south.

"It would be nice if there were enough clubs in Canada to support this kind of thing, but we have to head south," says Donna.

"That's where the lounges are and that's where the money is."

Keep CF-104s Flying Despite Crashes, Cost

G. Hees Back In Politics

By CF FOX

MONTREAL (CP) —George Hees, an ex-trade minister back in politics and raring to run, was to huddle today with Progressive Conservative organizers in Cobourg, Ont., where a move to make him the local Tory candidate was reported under way.

Mr. Hees, who fell out with then prime minister Diefenbaker in 1963, announced Thursday he is returning to the federal scene as a candidate in the Nov. 8 general election.

He didn't specify in his announcement where he would be running. But Northumberland, 80 miles east of Toronto, of which Cobourg is the chief community, was his immediate destination. There, he was to huddle with election-time organizers and address a service club.

At 58, he has stepped down from a $40,000-a-year post as president of the Montreal and Canadian stock exchanges to resume his political career.

ANSWERS APPEAL

Only the day before, Opposition Leader Diefenbaker had appealed for men like Mr. Hees to get behind the Tory party.

Two weeks ago, Mr. Hees said he would be hanging off on a business trip to Europe, starting Oct. 29.

"But that's all off now—and I don't ask me to explain my thought processes to you," he told a reporter at his Montreal town office.

His prepared statement spoke for itself, said the ex-minister, and that said:

"We need a government with a far higher sense of moral responsibility in its conduct of public affairs and with a much more practical and sensible approach to policies needed for our economic expansion."

For these reasons, said Mr. Hees, he had turned in his resignation as stock exchange chief, effective Thursday.

He would "join with my former colleagues to try to form such a government and, in this way, help to give our country the direction it needs and deserves."

His office has been flooded with telephone calls from politicians and journalists all week, especially after the Diefenbaker unity appeal.

Since coming to the exchange

OTTAWA (CP) — The RCAF lost its 30th CF-104 low-level nuclear bomber when one crashed in central France Thursday.

Officials said, however, there is no thought of giving up the CF-104 or its role in Europe until 1970 at the earliest though the maintenance costs in that period will amount to more than $300,000,000.

The government purchased a total of 238 CF-104s—200 operational planes and 38 trainers—and the first were shipped to the eight-squadron RCAF air division in Europe less than three years ago. The 30 crashes have cost 10 lives.

Informed sources said the CF-104's role has become militarily redundant because NATO has in Europe plenty of tactical nuclear weapons and the means to deliver them.

Why, then, does the government intend to spend at least $100,000,000 a year in the next five years to keep the CF-104 squadrons operating?

Informants said the chief reason is that Canada doesn't want to rock the NATO boat by withdrawing or dismantling the squadrons which form the fourth - largest nuclear strike force in the world.

GERMANS UPSET

West Germany, for instance, has recently complained about withdrawal of some battlefield nuclear missiles from the British Army of the Rhine. Germany is alive to any move which can be considered a lessening of NATO interest in its defence.

Another reason for staying with the CF-104 for another five years, sources say, is that an initial outlay of nearly $[illegible],000,000 has been made for the planes, ancillary equipment and training.

This is the same argument the defence department uses for maintaining the 56 Bomarc anti-aircraft missiles at North Bay, Ont., and La Macaza, Que.—they have already been paid for.

For the government, which accepted American nuclear warheads for the CF-104 two years ago, the nuclear role has changed drastically since July 16, 1963, when Defence Minister Hellyer was asked in the Commons defence committee: "Is there a lack of adequate tactical nuclear weapons and the equipment to deliver them in Europe?"

Mr. Hellyer replied: "In the opinion of the military leaders of the Western Alliance, there is."

See No Danger From Barge Now Located in Mississippi

BATON ROUGE, La. (AP) — Army engineers started making plans today to raise a barge containing lethal chlorine from the bottom of the muddy Mississippi River. It sank during killer hurricane Betsy a week ago.

"The barge is safe and there is no danger of any kind," said Col. Thomas J. Bowen, army district engineer in New Orleans.

The barge was located Thursday night after a five - day search. It is in 60 feet of water near the Louisiana State University campus south of Baton Rouge.

Meanwhile, the clean-up from Betsy, which unleashed death and destruction on Louisiana a week ago, went on throughout the stricken areas. A few sections remained under water. Two more bodies were found in New Orleans, raising the known dead to 76—plus 12 ill other states.

The barge, with its deadly cargo of 600 tons of chlorine, broke loose from its tow during the storm and went to the bottom.

The missing barge was located by underwater detection devices, which had earlier found many other sunken craft in the ponderous river. Navy divers checked the barge after dark and identified it as the one containing chlorine.

The U.S. Coast Guard immediately reopened the busy Mississippi to all vessels. It had been closed to shipping since Sunday. Ocean-going ships as well as barges and towboats were backed up on either side of Baton Rouge.

Authorities gave no indication when they would attempt to salvage the barge. Operations to raise a chlorine barge which sank in the river near Natchez, Miss., several years ago required months of plan-ning and weeks for execution.

THE WEATHER

Synopsis: Showers and scattered thunderstorms are expected to affect much of Ontario tonight and Saturday.

Sources said top Conservative campaign workers have been advised that Mr. Roblin informed Premiers Robarts of Ontario and Stanfield of Nova Scotia of his intention in the current campaign.

Mr. Fulton left the federal party in 1963 to take over the Conservative leadership in B.C. Feelings between Mr. Diefenbaker and Mr. Fulton were reported cool for the last few years.

Mr. Hees and Mr. Fulton have also been touted as possible successors to Mr. Diefenbaker.

But the man Mr. Diefenbaker appears to favor for the job—at least he gave this indication in 1963—is Mr. Roblin. Sharing a platform with the provincial premier, Mr. Diefenbaker paused to him and said he hoped Mr. Roblin, will "take your place in the federal Parliament of Canada as one of Canada's great leaders."

Mr. Roblin, like Mr. Hees and Mr. Fulton, is bilingual.

Many observers here feel that any successor to Mr. Diefenbaker would have a much better chance to attain office if he also could hold a seat in Parliament. And on the strength of this much greater implications were read into the recent decisions of prominent party figures to seek seats.

It is a party official said that Premier Robarts of Ontario would remain a strong contender even without showing any interest in a federal seat. "He's going to give us full support in Ontario," the official said, "and what could be better.

Another name associated with the eventual leadership race is Dalton Camp, president of the party's Ontario section, who announced his decision several weeks ago to fight Trade Minister Sharp in Toronto Eglinton. He was reported to have some differences with Mr. Diefenbaker in the last few years.

Another party official, Ed Goodman of Toronto, resigned from the federal executive in 1963 over Mr. Diefenbaker's refusal to accept nuclear arms, and Wednesday Mr. Goodman became national campaign chairman for the party. He said the old Toronto lawyer said nuclear weapons are "no longer an issue."

Pierre Sevigny, former associate defence minister who also resigned over the nuclear issue, has said he will campaign under Mr. Diefenbaker in this election.

While the cycle has gone a long way since the 1963 cabinet eruption, not all members of Mr. Diefenbaker's government have been heeded his call for unity. Former transport minister Leon Balcer, who left the Conservative party early the year to run as an independent, has announced his retirement from politics.

He said Wednesday there is no place for a French-Canadian in a party headed by Mr. Diefenbaker.

Former defence minister Douglas Harkness, who also left the cabinet over the nuclear issue, is running for the Calgary South seat he won in 1963, but there is no indication of any new contacts with his leader.

Mr. Diefenbaker issued his call for unity Wednesday, just one day before Mr. Hees announced his decision to seek a nomination.

A "wonderful response," was the way the Conservative leader described the reaction to his appeal, "it's reminiscent of 1957."

Party sources here said it had been known for at least two weeks that Mr. Hees was a likely candidate.

Shastri Is Ready To Fight Or Talk He Tells Chinese

By Conrad Fink

NEW DELHI (AP) — Prime Minister Shastri said today India would defend its "territorial integrity" but did not want to give China "any pretext" for aggression.

Shastri proposed a "joint investigation" of the disputed border between the two countries. He was replying in Parliament to an ultimatum from China giving India three days to pull out of a disputed Himalayan border area.

He said the investigation should take place as soon as possible to determine exactly where Indian border posts are. China claims they are on its territory.

The offer was similar to other Indian proposals for settling the

Thant Reports To UN Council

UNITED NATIONS (AP)— The UN Security Council was called into session today at noon, it head Secretary - General U Thant's reports on his efforts to halt the fighting between India and Pakistan.

Thant said reporters on returning from his nine - day mission to New Delhi and Rawalpindi that he did not consider his trip a failure.

He said there was a "basic desire on both sides to stop the fighting."

Thant's mission was overshadowed, however, by China's sudden ultimatum to India.

UN diplomats said they took China's threat seriously. They expressed belief China would cross the disputed Sikkim - Tibet border unless India complies with its demand to pull out of the area within three days.

border dispute which China has rejected in the past. China most recently turned down a suggestion that a neutral body check the border.

"The might of China will not deter us from defending our territorial integrity," Shastri said. "We shall fight for our freedom with determination."

Shastri said China clearly is trying to interfere in India's war with Pakistan and that recent public backing of Pakistan and its stand on Kashmir "is calculated to prolong and enlarge the conflict."

Eaton Redevelopment Plan Would Need Fifteen Years

TORONTO (CP) — It would take 15 years to complete the $280,000,000 redevelopment scheme for downtown Toronto proposed by the T. Eaton Co. Ltd., Walter Mathorpe, development commissioner, said Thursday.

It would be at least four years before construction could begin, he said. City council must approve.

The proposed project would contain a department store of 1,300,000 square feet, two shopping arcades, three towers—one 40 storeys high, and two of 40 storeys—with a total of 4,300,000 square feet of office, apartment and hotel space.

Chief Mathorpe's department would use the old city hall site, which would mean shifting Metro police and magistrates' courts scheduled to set up quarters there.

Metro Chairman William Allen called it a "blessing in disguise." It might "allow us to get separate buildings for each without dipping into our own finances."

No Stand Taken On Lie Tests

NIAGARA FALLS, Ont. (CP) — Canada's police chiefs have no stand on lie detector tests being used in the United States to help select police recruits.

And although they aren't being used in Canada for that purpose yet, Vancouver Police Chief Ralph Booth said Thursday he hoped to have one for recruit selection in his department within the year.

Chief K. R. McIver of Calgary said his force uses one in investigation of suspected staff offenders. "We just wouldn't be without it now," he said.

"I'm a little afraid of what it would do, however, if used on recruits. Honest men would resent it, and it would do our recruitment program harm."

Jet Wrecked On Island In West Indies

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—A jet passenger plane with 30 persons aboard disappeared in the Caribbean area today and a U.S. Civil Aeronautics Board spokesman said wreckage—with no sign of life—had been sighted on an island hilltop.

The plane was a Pan American Airways flight bound from Martinique to New York with stops in between. It was last heard from on a landing approach to Antigua Island in the British West Indies.

A C.A.B. spokesman in New York reported that the wreckage was spotted on a hill on Montserrat Island about 30 miles southwest of Antigua.

The plane's last radio transmission was at 7:25 a.m. EDT, 10 minutes before it was due to land at Antigua, an airline spokesman in New York said.

Pan American said the plane carried 21 passengers and a crew of nine. It was designated Flight 202, bound from Port de France, Martinique, for Kennedy Airport, New York, with scheduled stops at Antigua, St. Croix and San Juan.

Antigua is about 1,200 miles southeast of Miami, in the leeward islands.

Strayed Sheep Are Returning To Conservative Fold For November Election

OTTAWA (CP)—On the surface it appears the question of unity within the Conservative party is approaching a full cycle as more and more backsway members return to the fold.

And to some observers the Nov. 8 general election is seen as the launching pad for an eventual leadership convention —if and when John Diefenbaker decides to step down.

In any account of those who stomped out of the party during the 1957 internal struggles have decided to return to the Conservatives, under Mr. Diefenbaker, and that list includes his most talked - about successors.

The latest definite decision came Thursday from George Hees, the former Conservative trade minister who announced his resignation in February 1963 "as a man of honor." He couldn't, he said, accept Mr. Diefenbaker's stand on nuclear weapons.

The cabinet was divided at the time on whether Canada should acquire nuclear warheads for Bomarc missiles, Mr. Hees and some other ministers said the warheads had to be installed in Canada; it was "absolute nonsense" to store them in the U.S. Mr. Hees said he had to resign when Mr. Diefenbaker did not carry out a promise to modify government policy against allowing the warheads into Canada.

Announcing his decision Thursday to resign as president of the Montreal and Canadian stock exchanges, Mr. Hees said he would be a candidate because "we need a government with a far higher sense of responsibility."

About the same time, Conservative sources in Ottawa were saying that Premier Duff Roblin of Manitoba was confidently expected to resign from office to contest a federal seat.

In Winnipeg, Mr. Roblin appeared surprised when asked about the suggestion he would contest the nomination in Winnipeg South. The seat was held in the last Parliament by Liberal Margaret Konantz, who will be seeking re-election.

"Who the dickens have you been talking to?" the premier asked a reporter.

Pressed for an answer, he said: "I don't even want to comment on that."

The Conservative nominating convention for Winnipeg South is set for Sept. 23 with two men already in the running — TV commentator Bud Sherman and Winnipeg Alderman Leonard Claydon.

Informants in Ottawa said Mr. Roblin's "decision" to enter the federal field is based on aspirations to succeed Mr. Diefenbaker.

Sources said top Conservative campaign workers have been advised that Mr. Roblin informed Premiers Robarts of Ontario and Stanfield of Nova Scotia of his intention in the current campaign.

Mr. Fulton left the federal party in 1963 to take over the Conservative leadership in B.C. Feelings between Mr. Diefenbaker and Mr. Fulton were reported cool for the last few years.

Mr. Hees and Mr. Fulton have also been touted as possible successors to Mr. Diefenbaker.

But the man Mr. Diefenbaker appears to favor for the job—at least he gave this indication in 1963—is Mr. Roblin. Sharing a platform with the provincial premier, Mr. Diefenbaker paused to him and said he hoped Mr. Roblin, will "take your place in the federal Parliament of Canada as one of Canada's great leaders."

Mr. Roblin, like Mr. Hees and Mr. Fulton, is bilingual.

Many observers here feel that any successor to Mr. Diefenbaker would have a much better chance to attain office if he also could hold a seat in Parliament. And on the strength of this much greater implications were read into the recent decisions of prominent party figures to seek seats.

It is a party official said that Premier Robarts of Ontario would remain a strong contender even without showing any interest in a federal seat. "He's going to give us full support in Ontario," the official said, "and what could be bet-

Planning Bd. Recommends New Application to Rezone Dundas Clinic Be Refused

Dr. H. J. Williamson has re-applied for re-zoning of his clinic site at 282 Dundas Street East, members of Belleville and Suburban Planning Board were told at their regular meeting Thursday night. The Board still opposes the re-zoning.

Following a public hearing last April 15, Belleville City Council, acting on the Planning Board's recommendation, rejected Dr. Williamson's bid to have his Dundas Street East property re-zoned from an "A" to a "B" district. Dr. William son sought the zoning change to permit him to operate a medical clinic on the site.

The Board's refusal of the re-zoning application was based on the objections of Dufferin Street property owners who wanted to keep their district residential. A four - suite building erected by Dr. Williamson has remained empty since the hearing last April.

When it turned down the zoning change, City Council suggested Dr. Jacob would resubmit his application on different grounds and ask for re-zoning to permit his proposed clinic building. The previous application was for area re - zoning of Williamson's property and three adjacent lots.

After examining the new application, the Board's approval it found it so similar to the former application that it considered the application unto the matter would be pointless. The matter was returned to Council that Dr. Williamson's re-application be refused.

Legion Members Hear Talk On Eskimos

Branch 99 of the Royal Canadian Legion at their first monthly meeting had as their speaker Dr. Bruce Cronk, who had spent two summers and a winter in the Arctic with a team of military medical men. He gave a very inspirational talk on the hunting Eskimo He pointed out that the Eskimo is far more intelligent than they have been given credit by the rest of the world. These natives seem to have the instinct to take care of proper vitamin balance in the food they eat without any aid from books. They found one happy pretext while other people living in the same area experienced great difficulties.

He showed films on how they lived, their hunting habits for food and clothing. These films also showed how their medical team gave all the Eskimos a complete medical examination. The purpose of the expedition was to find out why the Eskimo could resist the colds and other ailments and how they could go for many as ten days without food which other nationalities couldn't do.

The guest speaker was introduced by Comrade Dr. Jacob Stock. This dinner meeting is planned for once a month. The speaker for October will be Brig. Tom deFaye, Area Commander for Eastern Ontario Command, Ottawa, speaking Kashmir as an observer in on his recent experiences in the United Nations. The meeting will be on Wednesday, October 6th at 7 p.m. in the Legion Hall, Pinnacle St.

Giant Sunflowers Displayed on Market

W. Ashby of R. R. 4, Stirling, holds one of nine giant sunflowers he grew on his farm. This one measures 17 inches across and was nine feet high before it dropped over.

Mr. W. Ashby's sunflowers at R. R. 4, Stirling, look like they're straight out of the valley of the jolly green giant.

He had one of his nine giant sunflowers on the market yesterday. It was 17 inches across, and before starting to droop it reached a height of nine feet. Some of the leaves are two feet across.

"I put the seeds in late last year," Mr. Ashby said. "I thought it was too late and the seed wasn't any good.

"But then when we cultivated this spring, nine of them came up and I decided to transplant them into the garden.

"I've never seen anything like them."

Railroader Fined $500 For Thefts

Hucker has been with the CNR since 1920 and was due for pension this month.

"This presents somewhat of a problem — I have given some thought as to what to do with this man," commented Magistrate T. Y. Wills. He noted Hucker was due for pension.

"However, this is a very serious offence — theft from an employer. It's more than an ordinary theft because the person is in a position of trust."

He agreed to a request by Hucker's lawyer, Robert Temple, that the man be given until the end of the year to pay the $500. The alternative is six months in jail.

No Stand

tion of the Canadian Association of Police Chiefs appeared to dislike the idea although the conference took no official stand on it.

S. J. Whitney of the Ontario Provincial Police personnel department said lie detectors are used extensively as part of the psychological testing of prospective police candidates in the U.S. He said U.S. police forces "believe in them 100 per cent."

Eric Silk, the OPP commissioner, said his force would never allow lie detectors to be used in this way.

The chiefs approved several major resolutions, including one to make breath tests for drinking drivers mandatory.

Delegates also called for revision of firearms legislation to make it more difficult for criminals to get handguns, and more severe penalties for offences in which firearms are used. There would be two categories for guns — restricted and unrestricted.

The chiefs asked that two sections of the Criminal Code dealing with drinking and driving be grouped under a single designation—impaired driving. The revoked sections would be 222 driving while intoxicated, and 223, having care or control of a motor vehicle while ability impaired.

The legal juvenile age limit should be uniform at 16 across the country, the association agreed.

British Columbia and New Brunswick have set the limit at 18.

The Criminal Code, a federal statute, sets the age at 16 for its offences.

Under the immunity, criminal records of juveniles are not held in camera. Names and addresses are not made public. Records of offending juvenile are confidential, and cannot be used against him in court after he has reached the juvenile age and becomes an adult under the law.

Chief Arthur G. G. Cookson of Regina said juvenile delinquents are being protected by the law while adults even-agers are associated with the stigma of delinquency.

"There is just too much protection for these delinquents and their families," Chief Cookson said.

He said press coverage of juvenile offences in the Helena, Mont., area has significantly reduced the incidence of delinquency there. Police Judge Hedges said his cases were down by 67 per cent from the pre-press-ban period, the chief said.

dor T. N. Kaul discussed the Chinese ultimatum with Soviet Premier Kosygin.

Kosygin is loyal, Informed sources said Kosygin told Kaul the Soviet Union was concerned by the gesture.

In a blunt note today, the Chinese threatened India with "grave consequences" unless India withdraws within three days from a Tibet-Sikkim border area claimed by China.

The note did not specify what the consequences would be. But China struck at India in a border war in 1962 and the Indian army suffered a setback in the heavy fighting.

U.S. state department spokesman said in Washington the United States is very concerned over the possible extension of the India-Pakistan war.

Last Monday, State Secretary Dean Rusk said China should stay out of the India-Pakistan conflict and let the UN Security Council settle it.

Two days later a direct warning against intervention was received from Moscow, the first by China at a meeting of U.S. and Chinese ambassadors in Warsaw.

Diplomats at United Nations headquarters in New York expressed belief that China would cross the border unless India backs down. One delegate explained that the Chinese, having announced a time limit, would lose face if they did not follow through on their ultimatum.

Two Colorful Stamps Mark Salvation Army Centenary

Two new, colorful postage stamps were issued recently in Britain to mark The Salvation Army's Centenary.

Both have been printed by the photogravure process in four colors: red, yellow, blue and brown. The Army flag is included in each design. In both cases the Dorothy Wilding portrait of the Queen wearing her diamond diadem is shown top right, with the denomination below.

The artist of the 1s. 6d. stamp, Geoffrey Treanman, has featured the Internationalism of the Army in his design, and includes a colored man, the first to appear on a stamp in the British Isles. It is the first R.M. stamp he has designed. Two men and a woman are grouped around the flag.

A freelance artist, M. C. Farrar-Bell, has designed the 3d. denomination. All the figures are symbolic, no living models were used.

Brigadier and Mrs. B. Bernat, officers in charge of the Salvation Army, Belleville, have also received first day issues of stamps, commemorating the Army's 100th anniversary from New York and Jamaica.

In 1958, Switzerland honored the 75th anniversary of the Army in that country by showing the Army Bonnet on a stamp in recognition of the important part that women Salvationists played in pioneering the work there. A stamp was also issued in 1922 by the Netherlands and East Indies — now Indonesia.

One of the Australian Salvationists, Captain Allan Gowlett, who attended the Centenary Celebrations in London, England, in June, had the rare honor of having been featured on a postage stamp. Three honors were given him as a result: a mountain was named after him, he was awarded the Plar Medal and he is shown on the 8d. blue Antarctic stamp recently issued by Australia.

Addition to Collegiate School Board Decision

PICTON (Staff) — Prince Edward Collegiate Board, Monday night, decided to proceed with plans for an addition to the Collegiate. Cost estimated is one-and-a-half million dollars.

Since April, cost for land and development for a playing field have gone up to $50,000. Board chairman Murray Parks said when tenders are called the lowest bid could easily be up to $500,000 over the present estimate.

Appointed to attend the county council meeting Monday night to make a submission and ask for approval of a debenture issue were: Chairman Parks, Dr. E. D. Fyffe, special building committee chairman J. H. Ward, administrator Gilbert Platt and principal J. H. Syrett. Mr. Platt noted that the Board is now bucking time as its chief obstacle. Unless things move quickly, the additional rooms will not be available anywhere near in time for next September.

The need for more space was touched on in the principal's report which showed present enrolment up 46 from last year, to 1,206.

It was revealed that already $14,000 has been spent in architects' fees.

Chiefly because Amelisburg Township is in Belleville (Quinte) school area, there are difficulties in establishing a collegiate institution, as number of students would be insufficient for anything but academic courses. Any students waiting to take technical courses would still have to be transferred to Belleville and would be only for an academic school.

Board member Hutton Martin felt "We should get the new school thing and build a new school at Wellington" (where the Board owns a 10-acre lot).

As a result of cost and grant figures and other recommendations from the Department of Education, it was decided an addition to the present school would be better. The Board then held a special meeting to which all interested elected representatives in the school area were invited and the situation and reasons for adding another addition instead of building a new school were fully explained.

Penny Miller Township Beauty Queen

PICTON (Staff)—Miss South Marysburgh was crowned before a large audience at Milford Fair last night. Miss Penny Miller, 16, achieved her title in a beauty contest with five other contestants. The selection of the new township beauty queen was the main highlight of the one day fair.

About 200 persons packed the fair grounds hall for the evening show to watch the crowning of the new queen by last year's winner, Mrs. Beverley Magee. When the judges' decision was announced all Miss Miller could say was, "I'm surprised. The "queen" also received a red sash, a bouquet of flowers and a prize of $15.00.

Master of ceremonies for the day was Carson Scott of Milford. Mr. Scott stated that this was the 19th annual Milford Fair and he has been present for every one of them.

The evening program included several musical selections by an orchestra from Long Point, and a tape recorded program by Jerry Tinlan of CKWS Kingston. Fair officials said the threatening rain and dense crowds for the early part of the day but none of the events was rained out. After a colorful parade at 1 p.m. there was a baby show, pet show and log sawing contest.

Sweepstake winner in the baby show was Kevin, son of Mr. and Mrs. Bill Jones of Black Creek.

Plan Action Against Hunters In Township

PICTON (Staff)—In the past couple of years, there has been considerable difficulty and complaints following the visits of hunting parties — usually from Toronto — in Amelisburg and Hillier Townships. While hunters may get permission to hunt on some farms, they often trespass on others.

Hillier Township plans to take action which may prevent future trouble. A meeting of ratepayers is being held in the township hall at Hillier next Tuesday night to discuss trespassing by hunters. "No trespassing" signs will be provided for those wishing to purchase them.

In addition to Camp Picton runners, units from Kingston represented will be 1 Ofn. Signals Regt., R.C.E.M.C. School Royal Canadian School of Signals.

TEST NEW CABLE

PARIS (AP)—A new transatlantic cable between France and the United States has been successfully tested, French officials said Thursday. The cable, which links Saint-Hilaire de Riez, France, and Tuckerton, N.J., has 128 circuits. The cable was a joint enterprise by France, West Germany and the United States.

CONTEST WINNER — Christopher Steenburg, Grade 8 student at Sir Mackenzie Bowell School, displays name which won him $25 in contest for naming the fourth Bay of Quinte District high school to be built in West Belleville. There were 372 entries received with 187 different names submitted. Ten students suggested the winning name "Centennial" but Christopher's entry was the first received. Congratulating the winner are James Musgrove, (left), principal of the new high school, and Robert Horwood, head of Sir Mackenzie Bowell School.

Jagged Paper Edges Soon To Disappear

The change in the page size of The Intelligencer is responsible for the jagged edges on recent editions of the newspaper.

The problem, expected to last another two weeks, is caused by the use of a supply of paper left over from the old press. The Intelligencer had a larger supply of paper rolls than could be used up before the change from the old to the new press. Once that supply is depleted, the correct size paper will be used and the jagged edges of the newspaper will disappear.

Theatre Guild Rehearses Play

"The Importance of Being Earnest," a play by Oscar Wilde, will be Belleville Theatre Guild's next production.

Jim Alexander, director, has started rehearsals. Since two roles remain to be filled, he has not released the names of the cast. Gordon Collins will be responsible for production and has selected several of the back-stage crew.

This play is one of the Guild's most ambitious productions. It will be presented at B.C.I.V.S. auditorium on December 2, 3 and 4. The Guild hopes sponsors can be found to present the play in Trenton and Picton at a later date.

U Thant's Task

Of all the political endeavors of our time the most thankless and certainly the most unique is that which is performed by the Secretary-General of the United Nations.

Virtually overshadowed by the petulant and wilful behavior of the United States and the Soviet Union, Burma's U Thant has an extremely difficult role in world affairs.

U Thant's mission to the capitals of India and Pakistan in an effort to bring about an end to the fighting in Kashmir has not enhanced his own personal prestige or that of the United Nations as an instrument of world order. Both countries rejected his appeals.

The Secretary-General said that in his talks with leaders of both countries he found evidence that the desire to stop the fighting had become stronger. Unfortunately, this does not seem to be in accordance with the facts. The two countries are still slogging away in a war neither can afford.

As we have noted before, this is not only a war over the disputed territory of Kashmir, but a war of two worlds, of two countries occupying the same land mass but professing opposite ideological and religious beliefs. Thus, it is a war also of prestige — and that, in a word, is what lies behind every conflict in the history of the world.

Albanian Visit

Of all the countries in the Communist bloc the least known and least accessible to Westerners is tiny Albania. While all the other iron curtain countries have opened their doors to Western tourists and journalists, very few have entered Albania.

One reason for this is Albania's adherence, together with China, to the rigid Stalinist policies of old. Dictator Enver Hoxha is at one with Peking in criticizing Moscow's policy of peaceful co-existence with the west.

Albania nevertheless is not such a grim place as might be imagined. That has been the experience of a Times of London writer, Leslie Gardiner, who was able to tour the country recently.

"The westerner hears so many strange tales of Albania, Gardiner writes, "that, when the aircraft touches down on the airstrip outside Tirana he would scarcely be surprised to find everyone wearing two heads apiece. The surprise is the normality of the scene.

He found Albania on an itinerary of my own choosing, meeting likeable people of all degrees; among them, non-communists, ex-collaborators, returned escapers and minority Greeks, who seem to suffer no victimization. What every Albanian appeared to have in common was reverence for the elderly, especially those who fought in the liberation struggle; modest pride in post-war achievements; and a simple faith in the party leaders; above all, personal courtesy and generosity."

Gardiner discovered a surprisingly advanced society as well as a people whose roots are in the past, in a land whose origins go back far in the stormy history of the Balkans.

Lost in Wilderness

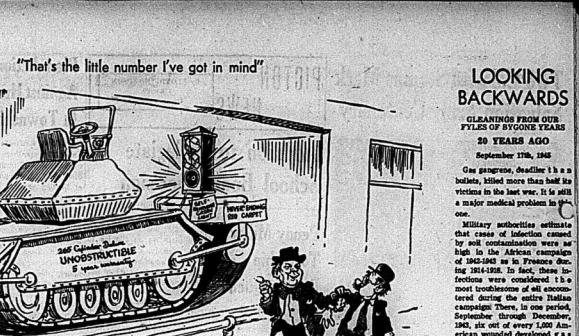
Tom Binderman, a Montreal pilot whose twin-engined Miles-Gemini went down in remote and inhospitable country southeast of Goose Bay August 14, has been given up for lost, presumed dead, after a lengthy search by planes and ground parties.



The search had been pressed beyond usual limits because of signs that Binderman had survived the crash. Cigaret butts were observed around the plane, but the pilot is believed to have perished in swampy terrain that almost swallowed rescue parties in this desolate region of Labrador.

The story was all the more poignant for the courage of the flyer's wife. When the search was suspended for a time Mrs. Gall Binderman, 27, who has a nine-month-old son, flew to Labrador to confer with search officials and a further brief sweep was made of the crash area.

But still there was no sign of the 33-year-old pilot. Once again the wilderness has kept its secrets and a wife has gone home to mourn her loss.

"It is foolish to assume that children do not want to learn. They all do, hence the universal juvenile appeal! "Why? Why?" Children who later on appear not to want to learn anything, are those whose questions have never been answered, and who have given up the one-sided battle on the logical grounds that adults do not wish to teach them anything which they want to know."
—Christopher Jarman, a school teacher, speaking in BBC "Woman's Hour".

There is hardly a situation in which the dignity of the person is more deeply violated than in the struggles for the liberation of conditions under which this dignity shall be guaranteed.—Paul Tillich, Protestant theologian.

To Your Good Health

Tumors of Many Kinds And Some Are Harmless

By JOSEPH G. MOLNER, M.D.

Dear Dr. Molner: What is a malignant tumor? — Mrs. I. F.

* * *

A tumor is a growth of some sort; that is, an abnormal growth. A wart, if you want to be technical is a tumor because it's a growth or swelling that is abnormal.

A corn or a callus isn't a tumor because it is a growth that occurs as a result of nature's response to a physiologically uncomfortable condition.

A corn develops because shoes or socks put too much pressure on a certain point. The skin thickens to protect it. The corn becomes painful only because we wear shoes. If we didn't wear shoes, the corn would merely be a thickened area of skin, protective and not a painful. Of course, if we went barefoot, we wouldn't have corns anyway. Calluses, to be sure, but not corns!

A tumor is excessive growth not intended by nature for some useful purpose.

Lipomas are growths of fatty tissue under the skin. They may remain small or may grow to considerable size. If they become big enough to be unsightly or uncomfortable or a nuisance, then they can be removed. But that's all there is to them. And there are other types of benign tumors.

So now let's go on to the malignant tumor, a growth which does not stop growing. If not removed or otherwise destroyed, such as by radiation, it will grow endlessly.

It can grow until it occupies some vital organ, causing death. Or, if that doesn't occur within a moderately short time, the malignant tumor, or cancer, will scatter cells which get into the blood and are carried to other parts of the body. Sooner — perhaps not many, but it doesn't take many — cause trouble — lodge elsewhere. Being malignant, they start new tumors (cancers). This is what we call metastatic cancer, or cancer which has spread from one part of the body to another.

Not all malignant diseases are tumors. Leukemia, which in certain types is called cancer of the blood, may not cause tumors, or lumps, except in certain enlargement of lymph nodes. Rather, it is a disease which essentially is an unrestrained growth of white blood cells. Too many such cells are created at the expense of other needs of the body. And, in addition, the white cells are not properly formed, and hence don't serve their intended purpose.

This, in fact, is another characteristic of cancer. Cells divide and multiply at excessive rates but they always are imperfect. Thus when cancer is suspected, a biopsy, or sample of the concerned tissue, is taken and then examined to see whether the cells in it are normal or are imperfect.

That is how to determine whether a lump, or bump, is benign or malignant. And, incidentally, that is how the so-called "Pap test" works. Gentle scraping of cells from a mucous surface, such as the cervix, will disclose the presence of imperfect cells long before their presence can be noted by other means.

Dear Dr. Molner: I have bladder trouble and want to get bottled water for drinking and cooking. Which water is best, spring or distilled? — Mrs. H. B.

There's no advantage, medically, in either. Spring water is usually high in mineral content; distilled water has no mineral content and no taste.

Except in most extraordinary circumstances, the water you drink has nothing to do with bladder disease.

Note to N. S.: No, glaucoma and conjunctivitis are not the same. The latter is an infection of part of the eye, and with appropriate treatment generally clears up well, but this may take time.

Oxen Popular In Maritimes

Yarmouth Herald

There is a growing conviction on the part of some people in Nova Scotia, particularly in the big centre of population, that we overdo things by promoting our oxen as tourist assets. About the worst thing they can say about the oxen is that they make us look old-fashioned.

What these critics probably do not know is that most of these so-called "old-fashioned" farmers, who annually participate in ox-pulling contests at exhibitions and elsewhere, are not as far behind the times as some people believe.

Most ox men — members of the ox-pulling fraternity — keep ox teams in the manner horse lovers keep race horses. In other words, they keep them largely from the viewpoint of sportsmen.

In addition, sentimental reasons also have a part in the ox retaining a foothold on many of our farms today.

Instead of being old fashioned, most of our ox men have thousands of dollars worth of machinery and household and farm appliances as do farmers who do not own a single ox.

On some small, rocky farms, it is a fact that the ox is very often more practical than modern machinery. Here the ox has a most useful place from which he cannot be dislodged by the most modern farm implements.

The ox is a prize tourist attraction. Those who speak about the ox making us look old-fashioned should stop to think that there are literally thousands of Canadians alive who have never even seen a real cow, let alone an ox. —enlocks

Wheat Sales

Des Moines Register

When Canada, Australia and other countries sell wheat to Russia and to China the United States derives indirect benefits. Their sales reduce the supply of wheat in the rest of the world market and tend to strengthen commercial demand for United States wheat elsewhere. However, direct selling to Russia would benefit American much more.

Parties' Election Responsibility

Ottawa Journal

In these days of lull before the election storm the leaders of all five political parties will be consulting their advisers and campaign managers.

It would be better for the country if they would also consult their conscience.

Campaign managers and political advisers tend to judge election manoeuvres on a basis of "what's in it for us."

The old saying "my party right or wrong" is not as old as we might think. Many party people practise it today, justifying it with the contention that in the long run only their party can be good for the country, "Let's stay in power (or get into power), by all means or any means, and we'll look after the country once we get there."

PREJUDICES

There are open to party leaders in this country today many paths to prejudice.

They can tell the voters in each area just what they think they want to hear and keep from them the truths and challenges they must accept if Canada is to be a united country.

They can say in French Canada that they support French Canada's aims but proclaim elsewhere that unity alone is their goal and only a strong government in Ottawa can keep all 10 provinces in line.

They can speak in well-to-do areas of the unbearable burden of taxation and next day in less fortunate areas of their plans for bigger spending with medicare, subsidized housing, increased baby bonuses and unemployment benefits.

They can cry "down with defence costs" in one place and elsewhere pledge support to still nobler and more efficient defence forces at home and abroad.

They can plead in the industrial cities for higher tariffs and for lower tariffs in the country areas; they can curse Washington's scheming tricks but a day later in different company swear that only the harness with the United States can Canada prosper.

Each leader can add another and another form of political two - facedness, as he witnesses fit.

DECEIT

But we have still one more — a vicious form of deceit of which we have seen an increasing amount in the last few years.

We refer to the politician who distorts and misquotes the speeches of his opponents. Cancels being what it is almost an intelligent and truly national statement of policy will hurt or annoy some group somewhere. The distorters watch for all such statements and by ways which are evil cut off with them the offended groups and thus new seed of prejudice and hate is sown. This is the lesser breed of politician, having not the courage to show his hand openly himself, spends his time trying to snare those who have.

Apologists will say that the men at the top cannot guarantee the integrity of those down through the party. This shop-worn excuse isn't good enough. When underlings foul the rules of democratic decency they should be publicly rebuked by their leaders. If offenders were thus rebuked this would be example enough to all and we could be rid of the shabby business. Also, the leaders themselves have toyed with misrepresentation. It is really unrealistic to plead with them to put away his cheapness?

Canadian politics have not been overly concerned in this coutnry. But the political and social structure of Canada cannot now afford such drains on its system. Too long have we comforted ourselves with Adam Smith's assertion that there is a lot of ruin in a nation. There may be, but we've had about enough.

The people of Canada are not to be blamed for these indecencies in politics. The public can't be sure who is telling the truth and who is playing with the truth, for the distorters and false promisers are canny enough to make each of their lies appear to be only the sum of them that is large.

THE CURE

The cure, if we are to have it, must come from the top, from the five leaders, from their campaign managers, their senior colleagues, from every candidate.

If there is no lessening of the disease, this country could be ravaged by it in this election and it will more in the one to follow it. The cancer so feeds on itself that it could bring down not just the body politic but the whole Canadian endeavor, ideal and future.

Today in History

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Sept. 17, 1953 . . .

James II, the last Catholic monarch of England, died 264 years ago today.

In 1701—after 13 years of exile and abortive attempts to regain the throne from which he had been deposed. Originally a popular king, James' disregard of English Protestant rights produced a revolution. When his wife produced a Catholic heir, the English parliament invited William of Orange to assume the throne. Rebellions failed and the descendants organized in Ireland in 1690 and in Scotland in 1745 were put down with heavy reprisals against Catholics and Stewart sympathizers.

1781—The first legislative assembly of Upper Canada was convened.

1939 — Russian forces occupied eastern Poland.

First World War

Fifty years ago today—in 1904—Winston Churchill rebuked "difficult makers" and people who believed rumors of a split in the British cabinet, and described a spirit of goodwill.

Second World War

Twenty-five years ago today—in 1940 — Hitler secretly cancelled "Operation Sealion," the invasion of England during 1940; 248 people, including 81 evacuated children, died when the liner City of Benares was torpedoed en route from Britain to Canada; Italian forces occupied Sidi Barrani, 60 miles inside Egypt. It was announced 2,000 people had been killed and 5,000 wounded in Britain in September's air attacks so far.

It is said by all leaders that this election campaign could split this country asunder. That is true but only if the leaders will it. If they and we all behave like civilized people, with integrity, understanding and tolerance, this election can be made not a dividing thing but a healing thing, a stimulating prelude to centenary and after. That is the real challenge of this election.

Extremes Not Only Choices

By SYDNEY J. HARRIS

A writer isn't often pleased when another writer uses the words right out of his mouth, but in this case I'm delighted that so distinguished a critic as Joseph Wood Krutch beat me to the punch on a topic I was just getting around to.

In a reprint of one of his earlier books of essays, he remarks: "The modern experience I have learned that you can't criticize anything without having it supposed that you favor some opposite extreme.

"If you say, for example, that automobiles should not be built to run 90 miles an hour, you are asked scornfully if you want to go back to the horse and buggy — as though nothing between 90 miles an hour and 5 miles an hour were possible."

To take an older example, in the past it was often supposed the 12 - hour working day. "It was assumed that he was advocating a life of slavery and interrupted leisure for labor."

And today, Krutch adds, "if one confines himself to urging a certain specific demand of a single union is unreasonable. Then you are accused of wanting to hand the muscled workingman over to exploiters."

It is obvious how everybody preaches moderation, but hardly anyone believes in it, except as an abstraction. We seem to be continually compelled to make choices between extremes neither of which is wholly desirable.

If I write a column against "strict" training of children, I receive dozens of letters wrathfully asking whether I believe children should be let to run wild.

And if I write a column against too much "permissive" parenthood, I receive as many equally wrathful letters describing to know if I think it is right to thwart the child's spirit," or to "cripple his self-confidence."

When I commented, some months ago, that I did not have many electrical gadgets in my home, because I do not want to become enslaved by a near-dependence on service men and such, many readers suggested that I go to a log cabin and use oil lamps. This was their idea of irony.

But these are never exclusive alternatives, as Mr. Krutch acutely points out. Some gadgets are convenient and desirable, and some are more trouble than they are worth. The horse and buggy is too slow for modern travel, but perhaps the 300-horsepower auto is too fast.

Must we perpetually oscillate between the extremes of yesterday and tomorrow? And does rejection of one extreme imply the other?

LOOKING BACKWARDS

GLEANINGS FROM OUR FYLES OF BYGONE YEARS

20 YEARS AGO

September 17th, 1934

Gas gangrene, deadlier than bullets, killed more than half its victims in the last war. It is still a major medical problem in the one.

Military authorities estimate that cases of infection caused by soil contamination were as high in the African campaign of 1942-1943 as in Province during 1914-1918. In fact, these infections were considered the most troublesome of all encountered during the entire Italian campaign. There, in one period, September through December, 1943, six out of every 1,000 American wounded developed gas gangrene.

30 YEARS AGO

September 17th, 1925

The second in the "donkey" baseball matches was played under floodlights at the Exhibition Park between the Kinsmen's Club and the Rivals, Club, the result being a score of 4 to 2 in favor of the Kiwanis team. The players were dressed "fit to kill" and it was a hard task even for the scorer to identify the players. As riders were changed the majority of the players were good "hitch hikers" it was a task for some of the players to stay on the donkeys when they were stationary. The donkeys certainly know their stuff and the players took many nose dives, Major Geo. O. Tice officiated. There was a large crowd present and all had a good time—the game was hilarious. The Kinsmen are to be congratulated on providing excellent entertainment and they were rewarded by obtaining a substantial sum of money to be used in their good work.

40 YEARS AGO

September 17th, 1925

Mr. and Mrs. George Connors have returned to the city.

Mr. Reginald Bowerman of Detroit, Mich., formerly of Belleville, accompanied by his wife, is visiting friends here.

Mrs. F. Allore and Mrs. W. Green have returned home following a trip to Toronto, Buffalo, and Rochester, N.Y.

Mr. R. J. Graham is spending today in Kingston.

Before the city had waterworks, at times water was at a premium, according to our file copy of this date in 1885, we find:

"Unless we have heavy rains in a short time the residents of this city will be suffering a water famine. In West Belleville nearly all the wells are dry and the inhabitants have to draw a drop of water to drink has never been seen here before. Those who have wells are in it and their wells are dividing it with those who have none."

50 YEARS AGO

50 YEARS AGO

September 17th, 1915

Dr. Harper, owner of Madoc Village, was in town today.

Mr. Robert McPherson of Sidney township threshed this week 738 bushels of barley, the yield of 30 acres.

Mr. Hoey Gould, Great North Western telegraph operator at Orillia has been transferred to the office in Napanee.

The Rev. A. R. Sanderson of Campbellford, formerly pastor of Bridge Street Methodist Church here, was among the acquaintances in town today.

Miss Alice Sinclair of Boston, Mass., is visiting her brother, Mr. D. V. Sinclair, in this city

Mr. and Mrs. J. G. Mitz and son, Ross, have returned to Ottawa after visiting friends in Stirling, Ivanhoe and Foxboro.

Unmarked Goods

Toronto Star

The owner of a New York pet shop may find it difficult to comply with the new by - law recently in the city and get a clearly marked price tag on his black panther by August 15. Particularly, since he is also required to show "the price per unit of weight, dry or liquid measure and numerical count."

But the new regulation is obviously welcomed by American housewives who have wasted hundreds of letters to the city administration complaining about the difficulty they are having to buy from shelves of goods without price markings.

Chances are that Toronto shoppers are just as dissatisfied with unmarked items and "50 per cent off" (of what ? signs as the New York housewives. And perhaps if they flooded Queen's Park with complaining mail, they might get a similar regulation passed here.

Milk Producers Support Boycott

PARKHILL, Ont. (CP)—Concentrated milk producers supported a boycott proposal Thursday night by a 57-4 vote to gain a 50-cent increase in the prices they receive for milk.

The strike vote was the first taken by a local since delegates at a provincial conference two weeks ago turned down a boycott of milk processors.

The dairymen are seeking $4 a hundredweight for their milk picked up at the farm.

Parliamentarians' Parley Successfully Dodges Issues

OTTAWA (CP) — Having dodged any declaration on Viet Nam, the 54th inter-parliamentary conference ends two weeks of talk today with a mild resolution on Kashmir.

Some last - minute fireworks may arise, however, over the perennial issue of Communist China's position in the world community.

The war between India and Pakistan is scheduled to come before the 600 legislators from 61 nations in the form of a one-sentence resolution sending the conference's "most sincere wishes" to United Nations Secretary-General U Thant in his mediation attempt.

The British draft already has won unanimous acceptance from the Inter - Parliamentary Council and the acquiescence of both Indian and Pakistani Delegations.

A Viet Nam resolution met a different fate Thursday in plenary session.

A draft proposed by French Senator Marius Moutet failed by 97 votes to obtain the two-thirds majority needed for de-

Toronto Stocks

TORONTO (CP)—Stocks ran into profit taking in morning trading of the Toronto Stock Exchange today.

In the industrial list, Inco fell 1 to 90⅛ while Oshawa-Wholesale A and Royal Bank were off ¼ each at 31⅛ and 75¾. Abitibi fell to a 1965 low of 11⅛ with a ⅛ loss.

The selling did not come as a surprise to Bay Street observers since price levels had moved higher in nine of the last 10 sessions.

Base metals were quiet and easier with recent favorites taking the losses. Pine Point, up more than $13 in the last week, climbed ¼ to a record 79¼, but then fell and near noon was off ¾ at 75¼.

On index, industrials were down .33 to 169.17, base metals .05 to 82.18 and the TSE Index .29 to 158.00. Golds were up .25 to 181.11 and western oils .06 to 100.70. Volume at 11 a.m. was 816,000 shares compared with 616,000 at the same time Thursday.

Prices had risen sharply Thursday, following the lead of a buoyant New York market.

Industrials gained 8.23 to 201.18 on the Toronto Exchange in New York, and in Toronto the industrial index climbed 1.10 to 169.32. In mid-September, Sept. 2 and ninth advance in 10 sessions.

In the main list, B.C. Telephone was ahead 1¼ to 70 and Canada Iron ¼ to 35¾. West-coast Transmission Gas 71 Willroy 125 Zenmac 240 Teck Corp. 400

Inco was up ½ at 97¾, Denison ¼ at 36¾, Noranda ¼ at 49 and Rio Algom 1 at 19¼.

Pine Point Mines, a North-west Territories lead-zinc producer, continued its active trading. It gained 2¾ to 72, bringing its gain in the last week to 8¼.

Cominco, which owns 78.2 per cent of Pine Point, was ahead 1 to 46¾ and CPR, which controls Cominco, gained ¾ to 89¾.

Hollinger jumped to 29¼ in leading golds higher. Preston was up 30 cents to $10.

Gains of ¼ went to Home A at 19, Home B at 19¼ and Husky at 13 as western oils surged ahead.

Late buying in speculatives gave the market a picture of complete strength. Most active issue was Silvermaque which advanced 2¼ to 39½ cents on turnover of 301,195 shares.

In golds, Wasa was up 31 to 100.96, base metals up two to 82.23, western oils .39 to 100.62 and the TSE index 1.07 to 159.20. Volume was 3,126,000 shares compared with 3,032,000 Wednesday.

Jim Coleman, Indeed

This column is ridiculous.

If you want a serious one — if you happen to be one of the lucky ones — do not read any further.

Now, for the rest of you who insist on reading this column, I would not let you do so without first giving you appropriate warning. What you do with the advice, whether you heed it or not, is up to you. I absolve myself of any responsibility.

Tuesday my column outlined the virtues of the Hamilton Tiger-Cats, while putting the Ottawa Roughless Rosipers in their proper perspective.

A certain—or uncertain—editor of this newspaper objected strongly to my sentiments, and though he is perhaps somewhat archaic in his thinking at times, I agreed to let him have use of this valuable space. After all, a man sometimes gets to feel very insignificant after years of slaving away in obscurity.

He doesn't really deserve this break, but the rest of the column is his.

There is nothing which delights the mature mind more than the bright sparkle of youthful talent. The wild enthusiasms and the audacious judgments to which the inexperienced are sometimes prone but serve to give the new insights on old subjects which the young so often spread as a welcome feast to whet the lagged appetites of their elders. These elders, if they be wise, will readily forgive a youth's excesses — and Hoy does qualify — but the young should be reminded that there are certain things which are sacred, subjects which are beyond the yet limited realm of their experience, and matters about which they should, in their youth, be content to read but not to write.

Three self-evident fields in which youth should be governed by the acquired wisdom of their elders, in years or in experience, are the art of dancing, the game of chess and the sport of football. (What no love?)

Our Mr. Hoy, encompassed about within the triangle of these restrictions, has hemmed himself two-thirds asnet. He does not drink — there are others in the editorial room who, while not actively demanding of him this supreme test of virility, are nevertheless quite prepared to bend their left elbows a little faster to make up for his restraint. He does not play chess — leaving that to our Mr. Sutfellis who, at 17, is wise beyond his years and would never confuse a Morphy with a Murphy or a Pfiddler's Legacy with a goldbrick.

But, alas and alack, Mr. Hoy has inhabited a city with the implacable name of Brantford, which is lucky enough to have found itself located in close proximity to the home of the Hamilton Tiger-Cats — Mr. Hoy, as you may have deduced from the length of this sentence, is not only the progenitor of love but also of understanding . . . of football.

Now, of all sports, there is none which can approach Canadian football as a spectacle for the cognoscenti, nor any which offers to the initiate such varied delights, both in the field of appreciating things done and of dreaming of the consequences of things left undone. Mr. Hoy, in the field of football, is there another team with a prouder name and a brighter record than that possessed by the Hamilton Tiger-Cats.

It does not stand alone in the record books for the past several seasons is but the result of a series of unhappy accidents. Last year, for instance, the Grey Cup winners, the British Columbia Lions were strictly a nothing club, a fact discerned and published abroad by two experts, the writer and Jim Coleman, though the latter had a completely incomprehensible lapse into senseless orthodoxy and recanted late in the season.

That this recantation was not later exposed as the temporary weakness of a fine mind easily overburdened by the unfounded criticism of the ignorant mob can be laid to the nimble feet of one Willie Fleming who, running for his life, just happened to get through a well-hundred laughing Tiger-Cats at a time when they were prematurely congratulating themselves on another well-earned victory.

Mr. Fleming's rightful place, of course, was clearly defined a year earlier by one Angelo Mosca, who proved beyond all doubt that Mr. Fleming is a weakling who dislikes the impact of a couple of hundred pounds of beef pushing a knee into his noggin. This disqualifies Mr. Fleming from participation in the game of football as played by the Tiger-Cats and this, we hasten to say, is the best vintage football from the best vineyard.

Perhaps our Mr. Hoy can be forgiven for failing to discern the sweeping difference between the B. C. Lions, with their flappy-arsed backfield of Rough Riders, with Jackie Stonewall ahead of Jackson. The Rough Riders suffer from the handicap of having to co-exist with a bunch of cultural fancy-pants, cocktail with art, politics and the science of wasting employment which is known as the Civil Service, while the Ti-Cats can refresh themselves, any night in any pub, with the authentic football atmosphere which is the native aroma of the steel-worker. Nevertheless, the two teams are of the same breed.

And, this year, the Rough Riders are more tigerish than the Tigers, that 27-1 upset in their first meeting at Hamilton notwithstanding. Having sat in the stands and watched the salad being tossed last Saturday, we beg to report that Mistress Mary quite contrary, how does she grow? Only the fact that Mr. Ted Watkins forgot to wipe his hands after greasing his car prevented the Roughies from running up a score not only the Hospital Research Council could have kept track of — they had a man on hand for the task, but he spent an idle afternoon on the seats from us while the rest of the fans kept track of things on the more primitive abacuses — or abaci, if you want to be a pedant.

Well, as we were saying, the Tiger-Cats, being what they are, will make it close. But if the Roughies don't appear in the Grey Cup this year — it will be a sorry day for wisdom and experience, we will be out ten bucks and Hoy's hoydenity will flourish unrebuked.

It can't happen here. Certainly not. Surely not. Well, we don't think so. Hardly seems likely. Coleman . . . where are you? Help!

High School Students Will Form Band

TRENTON — The Trenton High School is going to have a students' band since interest in forming a musical group was shown by 30 young people who turned out for the first practice held by 68D bandmaster Howard Kelly on Wednesday. High school principal John Garnet voiced delight in the enthusiasm students contributed to the project. Sgt. Kelly working on a time table for band lessons considers twice a week instruction is adequate providing student involvement does not interfere with the curriculum as it has been laid down. At the present time the school possesses 22 musical instruments, while principal Garnet figures will suffice.

MR. AND MRS. JOHN WILLIAM BAKKER

Bakker — Neill

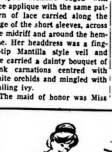
Maranatha Christian Reformed Church was the scene of a lovely wedding on Friday, September 10 at 7 p.m., when Jennifer Marilyn Neill, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Neill, Belleville, was united in marriage to John William Bakker, Belleville, son of Mr. and Mrs. John W. Bakker, of Hamilton. Rev. G. Ringnalda officiated and traditional wedding music was rendered by Mr. W. Hocksstra who also accompanied the soloist Miss Patricia Persons.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a floor length bridal gown of nylon taffeta designed in Princess style with the bodice featuring a scooped neckline edged with lace appliqué with the same pattern of lace carried along the edge of the short sleeves, across the midriff and around the hemline. Her headdress was a fingertip Mantilla style veil and she carried a dainty bouquet of pink carnations centred with white orchids and mingled with trailing ivy.



The maid of honor was Miss June Bakker of Hamilton, sister of the bridegroom who wore a floor length gown similar in style to that of the bride's but in pink with a wedding ring headdress. She carried a bouquet of pale green 'mums.

Mr. Bronwen Sikkema of Kingston attended the bridegroom, while Mr. Keith Barnett and Mr. William Dewberry, both of Belleville were the ushers.

Greeting the guests at the reception in the Belleville Shrine Club was the bride's mother dressed in a pink brocaded sheath with matching three-quarter duster, white accessories and a corsage of deep pink roses. Assisting was the bridegroom's mother who wore a two piece beige linen dress, brown accessories and a white gardenia corsage.

For the wedding trip to Montreal and south to the New England States the bride chose a yellow three-piece wool suit, black accessories and a white gardenia corsage.

Mr. and Mrs. Bakker will reside in Kingston.

Susanna's Family Fare

SALT, PEPPER, VINEGAR

Dear Susanna: From time to time, Mrs. You have mentioned interesting bonus uses for vinegar. There is one that greatly interests me about cleaning out old paint brushes in a few minutes, but for the life of me I don't remember how to go about it. Would you have a list of these uses? — Mae Gillis.

Couldn't say say to you Mae, so I'll start out with a partial list and send a more complete one to you in the mail.

To remove the smell of stale smoke, place a dish of vinegar in the room overnight.

A basin of vinegar left in a room will help to cut the strong odor of fresh paint.

To soften hard-as-a-rock paint filled brushes, soak them first in vinegar for about 15 minutes. Use an old can so as not to ruin a good pot. A painter friend has advised that we might run into trouble with the cheaper type synthetic bristles falling out, but so far I've given both a good paint brush and the full treatment without any ill effects.

To pickle eggs — use white vinegar . . . our dell of a home economist has given me a marvellous recipe for anyone who is interested . . . for a hint in return, if possible.

To remove whitewash, sponge with vinegar and water.

A dish of vinegar in the water will help to: prevent poached eggs from spreading as they cook; remove fish odor from skillet; preserve the bright red color of cooking beets; lure tiny insects from cauliflower in a pre-cook soaking.

A cloth dampened with vinegar will assist in removing grease stains on suede shoes. It also is an excellent agent to keep cheese moist and free from mold.

To remove the brown stains that form on the inside of flower vases, try filling them with hot vinegar and allowing it to stand a few hours. (Of course, place a metal knife or spoon in the vase before adding any hot liquid). Finally, rinse with warm water, and usually, every trace of the stain will be removed and you will have added sparkle as well. — SUSANNA

Our Grammar Reveals More Than We Think

DEAR DORIS: So often I notice what to me is poor grammar. To my thinking a person should be referred to as "who", viz: "The man who said" — not "The man that or which said" . . . and also these words will be used in referring to more than one person.

Our newspapers are often at fault. Do you agree we should be more correct? Enjoy your column. — ENQUIRER.

DEAR ENQUIRER: Indeed I do. I have my own pet peeves, such as "He spoke to Mary and I", instead of "me". "A certain person wants you to call them" instead of "him" or "her".

DORIS CLARK

A bright young hairdresser I know chats horribly as she works. Gaze in a while she betrays the fact that she left school too soon by addressing her customers as "youse" or saying "I seen". It's quite a shock to the listener, as she is a refined, poised young lady.

In such small ways we classify ourselves.

DEAR DORIS: My son is 24 and quite round shouldered. Is there any place where he could take corrective exercises; or anything he could get to help him develop a chest? He is quite hollow chested, — JUST PAW.

* * *

DEAR PAW: Rowing a boat, swimming, gym exercises, can all help. Seek out the athletic clubs or Y.M.C.A. near you and get him interested in joining in the fun. He may find some particluar sport challenging, once he tries it.

Send me your name and address on a stamped envelope, and ten cents, for my leaflet "Five Round Shoulders" which supplies some helpful routines he can do himself.

DEAR DORIS: My friend and I are going with two very nice boys who are good friends and we like them very much, but we can't seem to kid around or have as much fun with them as we do with two boys with whom we are only good friends. These other boys might change their minds if they thought we liked them.

When we are with the boys we have more fun and enjoy ourselves more even though we feel kind of guilty and so do the other boys.

We are all in our early teens. We can't decide who we like best and so we would appreciate your advice. — DOUBLY WORRIED.

DEAR DOUBLY: I cannot think of a better reason for having fun with all of them. You are all good friends and you are all very young. Forget about going with" anybody, exclusively.

DEAR DORIS: Your advice "Keep on seeking" to the young person who was uncertain as to the true God was good advice. The Holy Scriptures are given to us for our instruction, discipline, and doctrine and if we study them faithfully and sincerely we will find that "peace that passeth all understanding", and will no longer be in doubt as to Whom we should serve. — A BELIEVER.

* * *

DEAR BELIEVER: I say Amen!

DEAR DORIS: Since you have helped me in other problems I have another one.

When I get around little kids 10 to 12 I get crazy. They just seem to get on my nerves. When I get this way the kids will start calling me ugly and all this.

This seems strange though, because I baby sit an awful lot with toddlers and they seem to enjoy having me around. But I was at a camp and I, just couldn't stand being around the younger girls than I. — BOTHERED.

DEAR BOTHERED: It's two entirely different matters. With a baby, you are in charge. You know what to do. The baby knows you know, and enjoys you. And relaxes.

At age ten, a girl has ideas of her own. She has learned to express her ideas; to have her own way some of the time. When she sees that you are in a dither, she teases — especially if she and her friends can gang up on you.

She's really quite nice underneath; but needs the right handling. As a junior teen-ager, you aren't quite ready for

Bride-to-be Honored at Two Showers

STIRLING — On Tuesday evening a surprise linen and kitchen shower was held in honor of Miss Lois Morrow, bride-to-be, at the home of Mrs. Glen Floud, Frankford Road with co-hostesses the Misses Gail and Barbara Morrow.

Mrs. Edgar Morrow presented a corsage to Lois; also to her godmother, Mrs. J. B. Belshaw and the bridegroom's mother Mrs. Lorne Hagerman.

Thirty-five girl friends of the bride-to-be enjoyed an evening of games and contests after which Lois was seated at a special chair decorated with pink, white and blue streamers and bells.

Miss Barbara Morrow read an address on behalf of those present and the various gifts were presented in an attractive wishing well.

Lois expressed thanks and appreciation for the many gifts and invited everyone to visit her in her new home at Oshawa.

Flash pictures were taken and included Lois with her bonnet of bells which had been fashioned by the Misses Judy Cooney and Sharon Burkitt.

The hostesses served dainty refreshments at the close of the evening.

The rooms were decorated with pink and white streamers and bells and baskets of autumn blooms. Approximately 40 guests were in attendance from Tweed, Holloway, Stirling, Rawdon Township and the Rice Valley community.

All enjoyed bingo and Mrs. J. L. Donohoe conducted a game.

Piano selections were contributed by Mrs. Glenn Brooks and Miss Cheryl Uiman. Readings were given by Mrs. E. Carr and Mrs. Roy Bush. Miss Maria Heasman read an address to the guest of honor and Joyce Carr and Judy Donohoe presented her with a basket filled with miscellaneous gifts.

After opening and displaying the gift Lois thanked all present. Refreshments were served by the hostesses.

Cream of Fresh Corn Soup; Popcorn Garnish (Optional); Salmon Salad on Lettuce with Mayonnaise; Glazed Apple Dumplings (see Wednesday); Pouring Cream; Tea.

Turn on oven to 425 deg. Fahr. Bring 1 quart water to boil in a big pot. Add 1 teaspoon salt and 1 cup elbow macaroni (4 oz.) and boil 8 minutes. Chop 1 green pepper into 2" strips and add to the macaroni to parboil for the last 2 minutes. Meanwhile open one can button mushrooms. Drain off and measure liquid. Add enough milk to make it up to 2 cups. Melt 3 tablespoons butter or margarine, blend in 3 tablespoons flour, then stir in mushroom-liquid-milk mixture until thick. Remove from heat. Drain macaroni and green pepper through sieve or colander, and turn into medium-sized casserole. With your fingers break up the chipped beef from one 4-oz. glass jar and distribute it over macaroni and peppers. Add mushrooms. Pour hot sauce over and lift ingredients carefully with fork to bring sauce to run to bottom. Sprinkle with packaged breadcrumbs — about ½ to ¾ cup — dot generously with butter — about 2 tablespoons — and bake at 425 deg. Fahr. for 20 minutes.

I'm hoping the casserole looks 2" deep as I've clipped these repeated Casserole recipes.

QUESTION:

Would you please reprint the recipe for Aunt Janet's Soft Gingerbread? . . . D. Y.

ANSWER:

Yes I will, but would you please include your name and address next time? This recipe appeared here in May of this year.

AUNT JANET'S SOFT GINGERBREAD (courtesy Muriel B.):

1 teaspoon baking soda (slightly rounded) ½ cup boiling water, ½ cup soft butter, 1 cup light brown sugar, 1 cup molasses, ½ teaspoon salt, 1 tablespoon ginger, 2½ cups sifted all-purpose flour, 2 eggs.

Into a large mixing bowl measure the baking soda and pour boiling water over. Add the butter, brown sugar and molasses. Sift and measure the flour and sift it with the ginger and salt. Stir cooled liquid ingredients to mix in the butter, then add the sifted dry ingredients and unbeaten eggs and stir vigorously until smooth (in electric mixer 30 seconds). Have ready a square pan 8½ x 8½ x 2", lined with buttered wax paper and turn in batter. Bake at 350 deg. Fahr. 40 minutes, or until it tests done when touched with finger tips.

NOTE:

With its high sugar and molasses content this cake might burn easily. I put a cookie sheet on the shelf under it at half time.

Three Inches Above Knee

Ottawa Seems Best Place For Watching Girls Go By

By JEAN SHARP
CP Women's Editor

Where you wear your hem this fall depends on where you live in Canada and what your proportions are as much as on age and the shape of your legs.

In a cross-Canada survey of fall fashions, The Canadian Press found variations from slightly below the knee to three inches above.

Fashion experts in Saint John, N.B., and Halifax opted for slightly below the knee. Hemlines in St. John's, Nfld., will stay at the knee, an inch above it in Charlottetown.

Buyers in Vancouver and Winnipeg say skirts will be shorter but don't say how much.

One influential member of the Toronto Fashion Group has pronounced the really short hemlines unattractive and is working to hold the line at the knee.

In Ottawa, a buyer has given orders to her alterations staff to try to talk all customers into having hemlines at least one-half an inch shorter than usual.

Skirts should be at mid-knee for older women, she says, adding that younger women can wear them an inch to three inches above the knee.

They are. Mini-skirts are being worn by high school and college girls in many of the larger cities, notably Vancouver and Toronto, with wild Argyle knee socks and matching sweaters.

This is a youthful variation of the total look in which matching clothes and accessories take over from the mix-match fashions of recent years.

"We can't sell shoes if we can't match them with the material to make a handbag," says one Regina shoe buyer.

The range buyer says heels will be 2¼ inches compared with 2¾ and that three-quarter-inch stack heels are selling.

The Shoe Information Bureau reports that shoes have rounder toes and lower heels, but Winnipeg reports the rounded toes being accepted reluctantly while sling, strap and open-type sandals continue their warm-weather popularity.

Dress boots rising to slightly above the ankle will be popular almost everywhere, with high boots still in demand for casual wear.

Winter coats are being shown with fur linings, fur collars and fur-cuffs, even on camel hair which is having a resurgence. Charlottetown reports camel is being trimmed with fox, a boost for Prince Edward Island's fox-raising industry.

Both Regina and Montreal buyers say long-haired furs are most stylish. Winnipeg reports mink trim favored by older women, raccoon and fox by the younger ones.

MINK BLOUSES

An Edmonton retailer says he expects to feature mink blouses as part of the casually elegant look that is general for fall.

Furs are in light neutral colors, but some, along with dresses and suits, are in rich jade, a red that is variously called burgundy, cherry or wine. Teal blue is another choice.

Heather mixtures are reported widely popular in suits and coats, with only Newfoundland reporting black a favorite again this year.

Most fabrics are flat, in contrast to the nubby textures of the last few years. Two-piece knits in a smooth silk finish are coming in.

The Courreges look (named for the designer) is mentioned over and over—welted seams, geometric skimmer lines which one Charlottetown buyer describes as a "shifty silhouette."

Skirts have side pleats, kick pleats, gores, modified A-lines.

The trend to evening elegance is continuing. Edmonton reports luxurious beaded cocktail suits are fashionable. A Toronto department store buyer says she expects the biggest season ever for evening wear, ranging from the a-bone skirt and top to opulent gowns.

Almost everything goes, she says, including a sleek look in wool, brocades that are plain or with metallic threads, and such colors as reds and purples.

Vancouver reports chiffon a favorite, in blas cut and with pearls.

Evening coats to match dresses or cover them completely are also beginning to sell.

Two old styles are reported to have returned — the strapless dress, and ostrich trim for skirts, necklines and sleeve sorles.

Colorful feathers are reappearing on hats, say buyers in Winnipeg, Regina, Edmonton, Charlottetown, Saint John and Ottawa. And turbans and fez rets, some in velvet, are reported popular in many centres.

In sportswear a Montreal consultant says the wider pant leg is in. Hipster pants for the young continue to be stylish, some in a modified form that start just below the waist.

Ann Landers Writes Pointed Hints For Wistful Widows

DEAR ANN LANDERS — I wish you'd stop telling us married women to thank God our husbands are still alive and to pick up the phone and invite a widow to a party.

If you want to do the widows a favor, Ann Landers, please print these helpful hints on how to get along:

ANN LANDERS

1. Be self-sufficient, widows. Don't expect your brothers, neighbors, cousins and friends to drive you to the market, the cleaners, the doctor, the post office or to church like your husband did.

2. If you are invited to join another couple, please sit in the back seat. Don't plunk yourself in the front beside the husband.

3. When we invite you to dinner, please don't do all the talking. Our husbands are tired. They would rather read or listen to a ball game.

4. Please drop the phrase, "When Sidney was alive." It's depressing.

If you husbandless females would pay attention to some of these hints perhaps you wouldn't be so lonely. — OUTSPOKEN.

DEAR OUTSPOKEN — I expect I'll be hearing from a few widows as a result of your letter. Any comments, ladies?

DEAR ANN LANDERS — I used to think only a creep would write to Ann Landers but I guess everybody writes to you sooner or later when they need someone to talk to. Please tell me what to do about this certain girl. I'll call her Jane although that isn't her real name.

We went steady for four months. She was a real sweet kid but a little square, I thought. Very hipped on religion and like that.

Jane doesn't know too much about sports, which is what I am interested in, mainly, so we quietly broke up. She didn't put up much of an argument when we went from one thing to the next because I told her if a girl really cares about a fellow she should be willing to learn the ropes.

I'm ashamed to tell you I got her to go all the way two weeks ago. I felt like a heel when it was over and I still do. Since then because I don't know what to say. Frankly, I'd be happy if she moved out of town or at least switched schools so I wouldn't have to see her again.

Why do I feel so lousy about this? It wasn't Jane's fault. It was mine. But I keep telling myself if she was the right kind of girl she would have stopped me. Am I nuts or what? — TOM

DEAR TOM — You aren't nuts. You're a-boy with a guilty conscience. Jane allowed you to do something that made you think poorly of yourself and now you want nothing to do with her.

What you did was not only morally wrong and potentially dangerous but also inconsiderate and selfish. I hope you have learned from this experience that sex is not a plaything.

DEAR ANN LANDERS — My parents were born in Eastern Europe and I'm afraid some of their old country ideas will ruin my life.

I am 26 years old and have been going with a fine man for four years. We want to be married but my parents say I cannot marry until my older sister does. They insist that when a younger sister marries first, it spoils the older sister's chances.

I should tell you that my sister is 31. She has no interest in men and I suspect she never will have. Of course I can't tell my folks this and my sister can she. Please, give me some level headed advice. — PAYING.

DEAR PAYING — Set the date and get married. No explanations and no apologies are necessary.

Urges Parents' Aid With Music

"Are we fast becoming adolescents in our appreciation of creating music — or are we as parents, sitting back in a comfortable coma and listening to radio, television and movies to do it for us?"

That is Lisette Guerrero of the faculty of the Royal Conservatory of Toronto spoke on this subject to a conference audience of parents and teachers on Wednesday evening in the chapel of Mary Queen of Heaven. Mrs. Guerrero stressed the parent - teacher relationship which is so important these days.

Modern parents are becoming increasingly aware of the necessity of obtaining the best possible type of instruction for their children Mrs. Guerrero said. This applies not only to education in the academic sense, but also to the arts, among which music is one most frequently studied. Therefore parents should do their utmost to have their child instructed in music by teachers who are fully qualified and registered.

Parent-teacher cooperation is half the battle when it comes to attaining results. It is the duty of parents to see that a quiet time is set aside daily for practice. Parents should be progress in the musical field. The registered music teacher is devoted, assuring the parents of the best teaching standards in the musical world.

To those who have had the benefit of music lessons during their younger years, creating their own music in later life as part of their retirement will more than repay the efforts of growing old gracefully, the speaker concluded.

Well Received But Not Taken Seriously Says Member of Delegation

TORONTO (CP) — Some of Ontario's business and professional women are not satisfied that Premier John Robarts and his cabinet take them as seriously as they should.

The women, members ob Business and Professional Women's clubs of Ontario, expressed their dissatisfaction after meeting with Mr. Robarts and the cabinet Thursday to present 11 briefs, ranging from a request that women not be exempted from jury duty by virtue of their sex to a proposal for a commission on the status of women.

"We were well received, but we were not taken as seriously as we should have been," Mrs. Helen Colterjohn of Trenton said.

Eight of the briefs dealt with the Ontario Succession Duty Act, several suggested amendments to the Ontario human rights code and one asked for the establishment of remedial clinics.

Attorney - General Arthur Wishart said that preparedness, small children at home and other conditions make it hard for women to serve on juries on the same compulsory basis as men.

NOT ALWAYS

Mr. Wishart's statement drew this comment from Anne Frith of Dunnville:

"He mentions pregnancy all the time. We're not always pregnant, you nkow."

Margaret Hyndman, a lawyer, asked for a commission to study the education, employment and opportunities of women in Ontario.

She said: "It must be evident that there are many, many women's groups who are not satisfied with conditions as they are."

She also proposed that at least half the commissioners be women.

Mr. Robarts said it would be impossible to implement Miss Hyndman's second suggestion.

"If the commission were to be taken from the legislature it would be impossible because there is only one woman," he explained.

He said he would look into the matter.

One brief asked that brothers and sisters be considered in the preferred class of beneficiaries under the Succession Duties Act to enable them to inherit $30,000 tax free instead of $20,000.

Discount Reports of Power Struggle in Soviet Union

MOSCOW (AP) — Rumors persisted today of impending changes in the Soviet hierarchy, but top Western diplomatic sources discounted reports of a power struggle.

One persistent rumor, widely credited in Western diplomatic circles, was that Anastas Mikoyan will retire as president on his 70th birthday Nov. 25.

It was the earliest of the rumors to build up around the enigma of Premier Alexei Kosygin and Communist Party Chief Leonid Brezhnev which took over last Oct. 14 after the ouster of Premier Khrushchev.

The Communist party central committee is scheduled to meet Sept. 27 and presumably any changes will be announced after it starts.

Among the rumors is one that Alexander Shelepin, a bright and ambitious leader, has been trying to engineer a takeover with the intention of seizing both the premiership and the party leadership. Khrushchev held both posts.

If the present leaders, Kosygin and Brezhnev, feel the hot breath of Shelepin on their necks, they have shown no sign of it in public meetings nor in their attitude toward Shelepin.

NEW YORK (AP) — News commentator John Scali reported Wednesday night that high American officials in Washington believe a Soviet power struggle may be under way that could lead to deposing both Premier Kosygin and Communist Party Chief Brezhnev.

Scali, diplomatic correspondent for the American Broadcasting Co., reported on radio and television newscasts that "many reports predicting a shake-up in the Kremlin are flooding into Washington."

One report, Scali said, predicts that Kosygin and Brezhnev "will be booted out of office for failing to make a dent in Russia's economic and farm crisis.

"Their successors, according to this report," Scali continued, "would be Alexander Shelepin, the tough 47-year-old former chief of Russia's secret police, who would replace Kosygin, and Mikhail Suslov, top Communist theoretician, who would become party chief."

He Carried Dope to Rivard

By JOHN LeBLANC

LAREDO, Tex. (CP) — The U.S. government neared the end of its dope conspiracy case against Lucien Rivard today after four days of evidence alleging more than 300 pounds of heroin of astronomical value was controlled by the burly Montreal resort man.

Government prosecutors were expected to complete their testimony against Rivard and three Montreal co-defendants during the day, and the main defence submission was to start Monday with witnesses who were to be flown in from Canada.

The major case for the government was rounded out late Thursday with the evidence of Roger Beauchemin, 33, a chubby former waiter from Montreal, who said that in 1963 he transported about 84 pounds of dope into Mexico in a single automobile run for Rivard, dropping off some in the U.S. and delivering the remainder personally to the chief defendant.

WORTH $30,000,000

By the estimates of border officials here, the cargo that Beauchemin said he had driven away under the back seat of a car in plastic bags would be worth some $30,000,000 at the addict level.

Earlier evidence from another self - asserted Rivard runner, turned-informer, Joseph Michel Caron of Montreal, was that he knew of or participated in three other 1963 Rivard - directed shipments into the United States to the retail value of around $150,000,000. About one-third of this was earned here en route in from Mexico and forms a major exhibit in the government's case.

Despite the upper-bracket figures bouncing around the federal courtroom in this border town on the Rio Grande all week, Beauchemin told the jury Rivard wound up owing him between $350 and $400 to the $2,500 he was to be paid, besides docking him for an engine tune-up and a set of tires for the Montreal - Mexico city run.

AFTER FAST MONEY

Beauchemin, a natty dresser with expensive tastes—he and a woman companion from Montreal were jaking the sun at Acapulco, Mexico, when he first met Rivard —testified he got into narcotics by begging Rivard to give him a chance to make some fast money to get out of debt.

He left at least one mystery behind. He never did explain how he happened to be caught—though the RCMP appears somewhere in this background—and he was not tied in by the other major witness, Caron who however mentioned his name in testimony.

For his part, Beauchemin said he never knew Caron—though their testimony indicated they were dope runners at about the same times—and he gave no evidence implicating in any way the other three Canadians on trial with Rivard.

He said he recognized in court, but had had no dealings with Charles Emile Groleau, described by the prosecution as Rivard's right-hand man, and did not even know by sight Joseph Raymond Jones and Julien Gagnon, alleged to have brought in dope from Europe that Caron delivered into the U.S.

DIRECT WITH RIVARD

Beauchemin said all his dealings were directly with Rivard —for whom he had worked as a waiter in Rivard's Dominion Ideale resort—and he said that the one consignment he brought into Canada was turned over to Rivard with no one else present.

Like the transactions described by Caron, there was an aura of intriguing casualness about the whole Beauchemin operation, as he told it.

Rivard had installed a secret compartment under Beauchemin's car to hold the drug. When he asked Beauchemin if he knew how to open it, that operative said, he replied that he did, because he wanted to look like a "real professional." He let off with a woman companion.

It turned out that he didn't understand the strongbox, which proved collapsible anyway. When he went to work on it at Mexico City, it fell to pieces. Whereupon, Beauchemin and the Mexico City crew tucked the bags underneath the back seat.

DOPE BAG BURSTS

When he got to Flint, Mich., Beauchemin recounted, a more careful intermediary there was stunned to find that the Flint consigned part of the shipment had been tossed on the floor of the messenger's motel room. One of the plastic bags had burst open. The Flint man—mentioned only as Frankie—hurriedly heaved his 69 bags into a couple of valises and vanished.

Back in Canada with nine bags left, Beauchemin and his companion couldn't find a place to stay at Niagara Falls, Ont. So they got a policeman to direct them to a place 15 miles outside town.

On his arrival in Montreal, Beauchemin recounted, he met Rivard at a drive-in eatery and while the loot-laden car sat outside, they had three or four beers, Rivard paid. After that, the witness said, they went out to their cars and Rivard dropped the container into a big paper sack, tucked it in his trunk and drove off.

Before they parted, Beauchemin said, he advised Rivard that one of the Mexican operators should be replaced as he was "too nervous" for the type of work.

BECOMES AFRAID

Some time after this friendly interlude and after his arrest, Beauchemin said, he became afraid of Rivard to the extent that this was one of the reasons he told a different story under oath—omitting reference to heroin—to the Texas grand jury that indicted the Canadians.

"I was thinking," he said, "that if Lucien Rivard ever got arrested, he would probably. . . ."

The jury never did hear just what he was thinking because Judge Ben C. Connally stopped him in mid-sentence when the battery of defence lawyers leaped up protesting.

In any case, Beauchemin freely admitted he lied to the grand jury about various aspects of his story and did not have a change of heart until about three weeks ago. He decided to tell the truth, he said, when he developed a guilty conscience and his brother, a Roman Catholic missionary, visited him and told him to do so also.

SPORT SLICES

By Geo. H. Carver
Sports Editor

"What will they be?" asked the man, "flights, fiascos, fandangos or flops?"

He was referring to the upcoming twin world championship bouts between George Chuvalo and Ernie Terrell and Cassius Clay and Floyd Patterson.

I will settle for the first. I think the bouts will come under the heading of "fights".

Clay is the only clown in this two-ring boxing circus. The other three, I believe, are deadly serious. Prestige, gold and glory are up for grabs. I'm not limb-crawling but don't be surprised to see Chuvalo and Patterson the next top dogs in the heavyweight breakbusting fraternity.

Patterson, despite his ignominous one-round defeats at the hands of Sonny Liston, is the only battler of the four who can claim anything like an impressive record.

Clay's unreasonable facsimiles of fights with Liston—claimed since to be "a tired old man"—brought out the truth about the Philadelphia negro. They didn't add a thing to the "imposing record" of Mohamed Ali.

Chuvalo's chief claim to some sort of fame is his impressive showing against Patterson in Madison Square Garden. Aided as one of the "best fights" in years, the bout brought confidence back to Patterson and ambition to Chuvalo. And it helped raise the status of professional boxing to a gutter-level plateau.

Toronto, where the Chuvalo-Terrell fight will be held, has been the sucker centre for gold-grabbing fighters and managers from south of the border.

The Archie Moore-James J. Parker comedy of errors and the Patterson-McNeeley waltz of the flowers proved that the Barnum cliche, "There's one born every minute and the woods are full of 'em" was right.

But this fight has a different appeal. For the first time in years a Canadian fighter worthy of his steel is involved. Terrell's record is not written in words of gold and glory but he did have sufficient to win some sort of a world championship.

Chuvalo's performance against Patterson should supply a lot of grease for the turnstiles. He seemed to be quietly confident at the Tuxedo sports dinner when we talked with him, but his confidence fell short of cockiness.

In the other circus ring, as was noted, Patterson regained a lot of personal prestige in the Chuvalo fight and restored a lot of lost faith to his erstwhile fans.

But John Fan does not forget easily and the shadow of those two quick kills at the hands of Liston still hovers over the head of the likable Floyd.

Jersey Joe Walcott's recent mental meanderings wasnt the class and ability of Clay as a heavyweight champion was not worth much. His two quick knockouts of Liston were attributed by the experts to the deterioration of Liston rather than to Clay's ability.

He is far from being the superman he believes himself to be and what his backers and camp-followers maintain he is. He can be hit and hit hard. The British heavyweight Cooper proved that.

As one columnist puts it, "For all that, the bout holds considerable appeal. Whether it is justified remains to be seen, but Patterson is exposed to a different type in Clay. It has the good-guy and bad-guy element with Patterson back in the public's good graces and Clay playing smartly the bad guy role for all it's worth — and it's been worth a chunk of money so far."

Red Sox' Morehead Tosses No-Hitter

★★★★★ Steals Show

BOSTON (AP)—Herbert Hoover High School in San Diego, Calif., produces some pretty fair baseball players. It sent Ted Williams to Boston Red Sox and now Dave Morehead.

Morehead, 22, fired the first American League no-hitter in three years Thursday as he allowed only one man to reach base in Boston's 2-0 victory over Cleveland Indians.

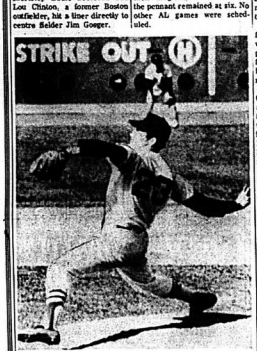
The right-hander, who earned a job with the Red Sox in 1963 though only two years out of high school, barely failed to match Sandy Koufax's perfect game for Los Angeles Dodgers in the National League last week.

Morehead walked Rocky Colavito on a 3-and-2 pitch at the start of the record inning. Then he struck out Fred Whitfield, Chuck Hinton and Pedro Gonzales.

"I can't believe it," More head said: "Look, I threw only 105 pitches. That's my all-time low. And I don't think I have to say it's my all-time thrill."

There was little doubt that Morehead was nervous as he took the mound for the ninth inning. And Cleveland manager Birdie Tebbetts made sure the kid earned his no-hitter.

Morehead, who struck out eight, was called up to face three straight pinch hitters. Larry Brown lined to shortstop Eddie Bressoud and Lou Clinton, a former Boston outfielder, hit a liner directly to centre fielder Jim Gosger.



Tebbetts sent up speedy Vic Davillio. The Red Sox buddied at the mound and decided to try and get Davillio to hit to the right side, while being alert for a bunt.

Morehead fired two blazing strikes past the Cleveland pinch hitter, and Davillio barried from the dugout for a confernce with his batter. Unruffled, Morehead threw a fast curve which Davillio hit back to the mound. Morehead fumbled the ball, then threw into the dirt, but first baseman Lee Thomas scooped it up for the final out.

"Dave had everything going for him," said catcher Bob Tillman, who caught Earl Wilson in the last French Park no-hitter in 1962. "His fast ball was hard and his curve was big and sweeping down."

Morehead's no-hitter, the 10th for a Boston Red Sox pitcher, scarred him a new contract with a $1,000 raise. Owner Tom Yawkey congratulated his young pitcher and offered the contract, explaining baseball rules ban a bonus.

The no-hitter stole the show from the American League race. Minnesota Twins were rained out of a scheduled game with Kansas City Athletics and their magic number to clinch the pennant remained at six. No other AL games were scheduled.

Both Below Strength

Tiger Cats, Argos Clash Sunday

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Dick Shatto will be in Toronto Argonauts' starting lineup Sunday. And, for the first time in three years, that's news.

Shatto's status as Argonauts' first-string left halfback hung in the balance Thursday with the signing of Bob Curington, a speedster from Buffalo Bills of the American Football League. But coach Bob Shaw indicated he'll start Shatto against Hamilton Tiger-Cats while the newcomer learns the team's plays.

Hamilton's visit to Toronto offers the only Canadian Football League activity in the East this weekend. The other two Eastern Conference clubs are by Montreal Alouettes visiting British Columbia Lions at Vancouver Saturday and Ottawa Rough Riders tackle Winnipeg Blue Bombers Sunday.

Shatto's battle to retain full-time employment is part of an unusual trend. If Curington eventually beats him out of his job, he'll be the seventh member of the EFC's 1964 offensive All-Star team to disappear from his team's starting roster.

The Ticats reluctantly parted with two all-stars when veteran end Hal Patterson announced his retirement and centre Chet Mikasa was shelved for the season by an injury. Offensive guard Ed Harrington was cut by Argos after three games.

George Dixon, twice the EFC's rushing leader and backbone of the Alouette offence for five years, announced his retirement Thursday because of a knee injury that has limited his performance since last season. Both Tiger-Cats and Argonauts will be below strength for Sunday's game, which Hamilton needs to maintain a firstplace tie with Ottawa while Argonauts look for their first victory in eight starts and a possible tie with the third-place Alouettes.

Besides Mikasa, Hamilton will probably have to do without defensive tackle Angelo Mosca, who underwent minor surgery this week, and offensive end Stan Crisson, who has a leg injury.

Marty Martinello, a veteran dropped by Argonauts this year, and John Smith, recently cut by Detroit Lions of the National League, are possible replacements for Mosca. Dave Vill, shifted from defensive end last week, will probably fill in again for Crisson.

Rookie linebacker Pat Watson and defensive tackle Billy Shipp, both with ankle injuries, are doubtful starters for Argonauts but rookie tackle Dave Still is expected back after missing a game with a bad knee.

Fight Set For Las Vegas

Cassius Beats Drums, 'Gums'

NEW YORK (AP)—Cassius Clay has started beating the ballyhoo drums for his Nov. 22 title defence in Las Vegas against Floyd Patterson.

"It will be the greatest of all time," said Clay after he announced at a press conference Thursday that the 15-rounder had been set for Las Vegas and that the Nevada Athletic Commission had approved it as a title fight.

With his eye on the receipts from the gate and theatre-television, the undefeated champion praised his challenger, the former, two-time champion who has been blitzed twice in one round by Sonny Liston.

"Those people who think Patterson will fall in one minute are wrong," he said. "He won't fall that quick. He's fast, determined and it's do or die for him. This means new life to him. I look for a very tough fight and I think it will go six or seven rounds."

Clay said the bitches which had held up announcement of the fight at a giant press conference Tuesday, had been straightened out.

Bud Traynor, chairman of the Nevada commission, said earlier (and changed his position later) that the World Boxing Association did not recognize Clay as champion and Nevada, as a member of the WBA, would stick with the WBA's position.

In Las Vegas, Jim Deskin, president of the WBA, said Patterson and Clay will be asked to post bond to guarantee that the winner will defend within six months against the winner to be in Toronto Oct. 25 between Ernie Terrell, the WBA champion from Chicago, and Canadian champion George Chuvalo. He said both fights will be billed as title fights.

Cup Teams Work On Firepower

By BOB TRIMBEE

OSHAWA (CP) — With the country's top two lacrosse netminders in action, both Oshawa Green Gaels and New Westminster Salmonbellies worked overtime Thursday on ways to improve their firepower in the current Canadian Junior final.

Coach Keith Jackson worked his western champions 90 minutes during the afternoon on intricate patterns designed to bottle the Green Gaels' effective running game and provide his sharpshooters more room and time to test Oshawa's Merv Marshall.

At night, coach Jim Bishop and the Green Gaels, who seek a record - tying third consecutive junior crown, worked on shots Bishop believes will crack the acrobatic style of rookie netminder Don Wallace of New Westminster.

Marshall, 18, led eastern netminders with a regular season average of 5.4 goals a game, while the chunky Wallace, also 18, was the West's best with an eight-goals-against average.

They play in the first two games of the best-of-seven series, now tied at one game each, has been a factor in disappointing scoring records of the big games on both sides.

Wallace, a hockey goalie during the winter, robbed just about every Oshawa player in the opener, won by New Westminster 9-6. Marshall took his plaudits in the second game Wednesday when he turned back the Salmonbellies on seven breakaways, when the Green Gaels won 9-8.

A Lesson For Stick Swingers

BRANDON, Man. (CP)—A student who lost the sight of one eye in a hockey game was awarded $2,810 by a Manitoba Court of Queen's Bench Judge Thursday.

Kenneth Agar, 18, of Killarney, Man., sued Brian Canning, 25, in connection with an incident at a game at Hartney, Man., March 4, 1963.

In his decision, Mr. Justice F. M. Hasln said the conduct of a player is instinctive and not premeditated and should not be judged by standards suited to polite social relationships.

"But a little reflection will establish that some limit must be placed on a player's immunity from liability," he said.

He concluded: "The act of the defendant in striking the plaintiff in the face with a hockey stick, in retaliation for the blow he received, goes beyond the limit marking exemption from liability.

"Although provocation is not a defence, the law is clear that in assessing damages evidence of provocation should be considered in mitigation."

Evidence at the trial indicated Agar tried to hold back Canning and in doing so struck him on the back of the neck, Canning turned and hit Agar across the right eye and nose.

Czechs Stop Player

PETERBOROUGH (CP) — Vladimir Dzurilla, goaltender with the Czechoslovakian national team last year, has been refused permission to play professional hockey with Toronto Maple Leafs of the National Hockey League.

Dzurilla cabled Leaf general manager Punch Imlach, saying that neither the Czechoslovakian Hockey Federation nor his club, Slovan Bratislava, would give him permission to play in Canada.

Imlach's original invitation included a stipulation that if the goalie made either the Leafs or farm club, Rochester Americans of the American Hockey League, he would have to stay at least a season.

Pennant-Bound Giants Win Another

Whip Astros 5-1

By MIKE RATHET
Associated Press Sports Writer

The only thing Willie Mays ifid was get one on his shirt but San Francisco's hosts took another long stride toward the National League pennant.

Playing without Mays for only the sixth time this season, the Giants reeled off their 14th straight victory by beating Houston Astros 5-1 Thursday night and stretched their lead to 4½ games over Cincinnati Reds and Los Angeles Dodgers.

Mays took part in a pre-game Dick Farrell egg-throwing contest and finished out of the money after fly, then 16 each said for one of the eggs broke in his hand and splattered. Then he sat down on orders from manager Herman Franks, his day's work done.

It was the 13th time this season Franks had decided to give Mays a rest but only the sixth time he was not used at some point in the game.

The Giants, making the most of Cincinnati's 7-4 loss to New York Mets, tacked one full game on their lead and assumed a commanding position with time running out on the Reds and Dodgers.

The Giants over have 16 games left —including seven with the Reds and Los Angeles and Cincinnati, both with 15 remaining, meet three more times.

The Giants were on the Milwaukee tonight for the opener of a three-game series with the Braves. The Reds were at home for a three-game set against Houston and the Dodgers, who downed Chicago 5-0, open up a three-game series at St. Louis.

BRAVES, PIRATES LOSE

In other NL games Thursday, fourth-place Milwaukee slipped seven games back after an 8-6 loss to Philadelphia Phillies and the fifth-place Pittsburgh Pirates fell 9½ games behind, dropping a 2-1 decision to St. Louis Cardinals.

The Giants finished off the Astros with a four-run first-inning uprising, Willie McCovey's third-inning homer and the six-hit pitching of Bob Bolin.

Singles by Dick Schofield and Jesus Alou and a walk to McCovey loaded the bases with none out in the first against Dick Farrell. Jim Hart brought one run home with a sacrifice fly, then Ed Bailey scored on Hart's sacrifice fly.

Johnny Stephenson did most of the damage against the Reds. The Mets catcher, who had only one homer prior to the game, hit a three-run shot in the third inning and a solo homer in the eighth.

Ron Hunt also homered for the Mets while Deron Johnson and Vada Pinson for Reds' runs with his 30th homer.

Sandy Koufax, the Dodgers ace southpaw, made his only mound relief appearance of the season in the ninth inning Thursday night as Los Angeles down 1-2-3 after Claude Osteen had pitched a 5-0 shutout over Williams. Osteen, now 16-14, allowed only five hits before Koufax relieved him.

The Phillies downed the Braves with a three-run eighth inning rally in which Dick Stuart doubled in the tie-breaking run and then Rich Allen singled home the insurance tally.

The Cardinals snapped a 1-1 tie in the eighth-inning against the Pirates when Mike Tolan singled, moved up on a sacrifice and scored on Lou Brock's single.

Pointers Oust Lightfoots

A wild throw over third base by the catcher Don Wood, cost Lightfoots their first victory and swept Point Anne into the Commercial League finals last night. The score was 5-4.

Point Anne took the semi finals in four straight games and now meet the winners of the City Hotel - Stewart Warner series for the league title. Lightfoots were on their way to their first win going into the fateful seventh inning. They were leading 4-3 with runners on second and third when Wood heaved the ball half - way to Toronto.

The runner on third scored and a single brought home the winning run.

Lightfoots scored two runs in each of the first and fourth innings. Point Anne got singles in the second and third and Ron Macarthur's homer in the fifth cut the margin to 4-3.

Ron Macarthur tossed a six-hit pitch for the win walking seven and whiffing five.

Don Smith started for Lightfoots giving up four hits, three runs and giving way to George Young in the sixth. Smith walked nine and struck out one.

The winning run was scored when pinch - hitter Summers' grounder drove in Horwood who had stolen second and third after the catcher's blooper.

Dixon Retires From Als

MONTREAL (CP) — Montreal Alouettes of the Eastern Football Conference may have to do some shopping again—this time to replace speedy halfback George Dixon.

Dixon, the EFC rushing champion in 1962 and 1963, advised the Alouettes he was retiring following Thursday afternoon's practice.

The import, who will be 30 years old Oct. 19, said an old injury to his right knee did not respond to treatment.

The six-foot, one - inch 200-pounder, a graduate of the University of Bridgeport, Conn., but now a Canadian citizen, said he will concentrate on an outside work. He's area sales manager for a Vancouver printing company.

In 1962, Dixon set a conference rushing record of more than 1,000 yards.

He was the league's leading rusher again in 1963 and was voted an all-Canadian for the second straight season.

Man, Wife 'Mother' 9 Clubs

TORONTO (CP)—It might not be cheaper by the dozen for the Harpers of Agincourt, Ont., but it's certainly a lot more fun.

Mr. and Mrs. Jack Harper are in their fifth year as managers, cooks and clothes washers for nine hockey teams, ranging from seven-year-old tykes to 18-year-old Juveniles.

The nine teams are made up of the players—a little more than 15 dozen.

"Carmen and I started out with one team," said Mr. Harper, a part - time scout with Detroit Red Wings of the National Hockey League. "It just seemed to snowball, something like word-of-mouth advertising."

The costs for having a team range from $800 for tykes to $1,200 for juveniles, but they are all sponsored, said Mrs. Harper.

Washing and ironing the 180 sweaters, cleaning the pants and darning the socks aren't too much of a problem, she said.

"It's our hobby and we love it," she said.

Win Or... Says West Coach

NEW WESTMINSTER, B.C. Brooklin, Ont., Merchants spent Thursday on the Links—and as one observer put it, "As golfers, they make good lacrosse players."

But the golf scores—all reported in the 100s—weren't too important to the Ontario lacrosse champs who were relaxing in preparation for tonight's third Mann Cup game against the New Westminster.

The Merchants tied the seven-game series at 1-1 Wednesday by edging New Westminster 6-5 after taking an 11-5 drubbing in the opener.

Coach Bud Christie said his team is still on a strict diet—a regime designed to shake a sluggish first - game performance—and he plans no lineup changes for tonight.

New Westminster's Doug McRory made only one prediction about tonight's match: "We'll win or else." The glowering coach did not elaborate on the "or else."

He said earlier the loss Wednesday was the worst game New Westminster played all season.

Korelchuk has been out of action since suffering an eye injury in a British Columbia Senior final match against Coquitlam.

Yesterday's Stars

Pitching — Dave Morehead, Red Sox, pitched the first no-hitter in the American League since 1962, allowing only one walk in Boston's 2-0 victory over Cleveland Indians.

Batting—Johnny Stephenson, Mets, drove in four runs with a pair of homers and also singled and scored another run in New York's 7-3 triumph over Cincinnati Reds.

Fires 69 To Lead US Amateur

TULSA, Okla. (AP) — Bob Murphy, a 32-year-old University of Florida student, fired a two-under-par 69 for 142 and a two-stroke lead after two rounds of the U.S. national amateur golf championship Thursday as gusty winds sent scores soaring.

Defending champion Bill Campbell of Huntington, W.Va., carded a penalty on himself by moving the ball on the 10th green but finished with a 71 for 144.

He was tied for second place with Jimmy Grant, of the University of Houston, and with Walker Cup member Donald Adams of Rochester, N.Y.

Other contenders included half the British Walker Cup team which tied the U.S. last week.

Car Plunges From Overpass, Two Killed

WOODSTOCK (CP) — Two persons were killed late Thursday when their car plunged from a Highway 401 overpass and burst into flame on an embankment below.

Police said one of the occupants was Charles Junior Peter LaForce, of Kitchener. The other occupant was unidentified. The bodies were burned beyond recognition.

The accident happened at the Quarterdown Line Road, about 15 miles northeast of here.

Police said the car ran along the shoulder of the highway more than 500 feet. It was unable to get back on the highway when it reached the overpass, and shot nearly 100 feet through the air to the road bank below.

May Advance Debut of Color TV in Canada

OTTAWA (CP) — An announcement is expected shortly that will advance the debut of color television on Canadian channels to the fall of 1966.

The federal government earlier this year set Jan. 1, 1967, as the deadline.

It said it would be prepared to hear applications from broadcasters to use color on that date, and it authorized the CBC to install color TV facilities for the 1967 world's fair in Montreal.

However, an informed source said Thursday broadcasters have asked that the 1967 deadline be advanced to next fall, the start rather than the middle of the 1966-67 TV season.

The source said the cabinet has considered the matter and an announcement can be expected by the weekend.

Funnyman Lou Holtz at 72 Marking Out New Career

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—For Saginaw Lou Holtz, that two-week booking in Minneapolis a dozen years ago seemed like the end of the trail.

He had been a top comedian in vaudeville, Broadway shows and on radio and television but he didn't feel like making people laugh any more. His wife had just divorced him, and he was admittedly carrying a torch. As if that weren't enough for depress him, he had also lost half of his $700,000 fortune in the settlement.

Holtz had accepted the appearance, hoping to catch some baseball games that night, cheer him up. He gazed out his hotel window morosely. The month was May, and it was snowing.

"I came back to California figuring I could quit the business," he recalls, "and I did."

Today he is experiencing a burst of activity with his 72nd telling career. And at 72 he is the father of two sons, two years and five months. His wife is 34, and he says of his marriage: "Compared to us, Romeo and Juliet acted mad at each other."

Holtz is continuing a career that began when he was 16 and singing in a roadhouse at the beach near his native San Francisco.

By 1921 he was earning $1,000 a week in George White's Scandals. In 1931 he played the Palace for 13 weeks at $6,000 per. The next year he headed his own vaudeville show on Broadway, clearing $13,000 a week. Such earnings helped explain why the $1,000,000 he had lost in the Wall Street crash. Then came radio.

He continued as a big earner until that fateful fortnight in Minneapolis.

"And now people are discovering all over again that I'm an entertainer," Holtz said.

Most of Newcomers Have Familiar Look and Sound

By CYNTHIA LOWRY

NEW YORK — AP — Television's most recent entries in the ratings race Thursday night include:

A comedy about the richest man in the world, a western adaptation of the Three Musketeers, Juliet Prowse demonstrating why she and Mary Tyler Moore should be the only women allowed to wear slacks, Dean Martin laughing at Frank Sinatra and Bob Hope and what looks suspiciously like another evening soap opera.

That reads like a rather giddy evening for the home folks sampling the new shows. However, most of the newcomers have a familiar look and sound about them — particularly the comedies.

O. K. Crackerby, ABC's series starring Burl Ives as a 20 - carat diamond-in-the-rough, ought to count as one of the fantasy shows with wily old Crackerby waving a $1,000,000 cheque instead of a magic wand. Ives is a persuasive performer and may be able to convert this into a silk purse, although the opening show looked like pigskin.

Two RCAF Officers Escape With Injuries

BAGOTVILLE, Que. (CP)—Two RCAF officers escaped with injuries Thursday when their Voodoo jet aircraft crashed in woodland some 75 miles northeast of here.

FO Robert Olson of Matsqui, B.C.—the plane's pilot—and Flt. Lt. John Morris of Hamilton, parachuted into trees after the jet developed mechanical trouble.

Flt. Lt. Morris suffered a broken arm and leg on plunging into the trees. FO Olson suffered cuts. Both men were picked up by helicopter and were taken to hospital in nearby Chicoutimi.

West Indies Would Join Canada

By RONALD LEBEL

OTTAWA (CP) — While government leaders were getting ready to campaign across the 10 provinces, a West Indies politician quietly made the officials rounds Thursday discussing the possibility of an informal 11th province.

John Compton, chief minister of St. Lucia, proposed a treaty under which Canada would establish free trade with a new West Indies federation and look after the islands' diplomacy and defence.

Mr. Compton, a 43-year-old lawyer making his first trip to Ottawa, sounded out senior civil servants in the external affairs, defence and trade departments, but did not meet any cabinet ministers.

"I thought appointments at the political level would be inadvisable at this time because of your elections," he said in an interview.

"The officials were rather guarded, but they promised to study some aspects."

Mr. Compton, who heads the government of a Caribbean island of 100,000 population, said he will look forward to the Canadian government's reaction after the official studies and the Nov. 8 election are over.

He said the Windward Islands (St. Lucia, Granada, Domiqica and St. Vincent) are urgently seeking united government and Canadian support to replace the ill-fated West Indies federation and expiring colonial ties with Britain.

"Britain is determined to get out. I think the withdrawal will be completed in the next 18 months."

The West Indies would be left in a difficult position, with undeveloped economies, heavy reliance on exports to Britain in stiff competition with Europe, and a shortage of skilled workers and professionals.

"Canada has a duty to see that no dangerous political vacuum is created on her doorstep," he said.

The Windward Islands and possibly the Leeward Islands were anxious to develop close political and economic ties with Canada. They wanted to expand fruit and vegetable exports, attract Canadian tourists and investors and receive increased technical aid.

New Auto Pact Likely To Encourage Canadian Dumping, Board Told

By ARCH MacKENZIE

WASHINGTON (CP)—Spokesmen for American auto - parts interests asked the Senate finance committee Thursday to kill or delay a bill authorizing the Canadian - United States auto production agreement.

The agreement to integrate the North American car - and-parts industry, by abolishing tariffs for manufacturers, threatens small American firms and will encourage Canadian dumping, it was argued.

The agreement also represents an unfortunate departure from past American treaty-making and would be a bad precedent, some witnesses said.

The Senate committee originally had scheduled only two days of public hearings but completed its third Thursday and hopes to conclude Monday with final questioning of Labor Secretary Willard Wirtz and others.

Since the bill to implement the agreement is on President Johnson's priorities list for this session, there is little expectation it will be defeated, despite searching scrutiny by a minority of the 17-man committee.

Canada has implemented the agreement by cabinet decree and the plan is in effect on a retroactive basis, although congressional approval still is lacking.

Main purpose, from Canada's view, is to expand domestic production by increasing sales to the U.S.

Witnesses heard Thursday had appeared last April at House of Representatives public hearings. Chief committee critic again was Senator Albert Gore, Tennessee Democrat.

Alfred McCauley, representing the industrial committee of Paducah, Ky., said Canada is raiding the U.S. market under the agreement. He said Canadian subsidiaries of General Motors, Ford, Chrysler and American Motors in exporting cars to the U.S. would be guilty of dumping. Canadian prices are higher than U.S. prices—and Canadian cars entering under the agreement sell at U.S. prices.

"If it passes this bill," McCauley said, "the Senate will have approved a dumping arrangement which will make prior alleged instances of dumping seem like small potatoes indeed."

FEAR LOSSES

The Kentucky city is concerned because its third-largest firm, Modine Manufacturing Company, says its auto radiator business is threatened by the agreement with Canada.

The Automotive Service Industry Association, which opposed an earlier trade-expansion plan based on tariff cuts, said the agreement will encourage the big auto makers to step up their trend toward production of their own parts.

The association claims more than 500 manufacturers and about 3,000 wholesalers as members.

President Allan Levine said independent parts makers are anxious to maintain contracts with the big car makers, who all support the agreement with Canada.

Under questioning, Levine said he has no direct knowledge of any case where a parts firm has lost business because of criticising the auto agreement.

Will Attempt to Amend Curb on Migration

WASHINGTON (CP)—Moves may be made today in the United States Senate to soften or remove a proposed limit of 120,000 immigrants a year from the western hemisphere, including Canada.

The immigration measure, which was to have been debated Thursday, now is slated for today.

Senate sources said Thursday night it is unclear just how much opposition will shape up against the western-hemisphere restriction or how it will be executed.

The ceiling would take effect in mid-1968 for heads of households and apparently would not curtail Canadian migration since the hemisphere flow is well below the 120,000-person limit.

But the Canadian government has opposed the limit in representations to the state department as a step contrary to the spirit of hemisphere relations.

No limit has existed in the past.

Canadian migrants to the U.S. last year totalled 38,000 compared with 33,000 from Mexico, the other main source of hemisphere immigration.

There is little from Latin America.

Black Watchman Posted To Family Homestead

By NICK FILMORE

CAMP GAGETOWN, N.B. (CP) — Roland Chelsey came back to his old homestead this summer but it wasn't quite the same.

The friendly little village of Hubernia he knew as a child 15 years ago had been vacated by Militry folk. In their place were soldiers of the Black Watch of Canada. He was one of them.

Hubernia, a typical central New Brunswick farming village of 200 before the army built Camp Gagetown, Canada's largest in 1953, was being defended by the Black Watch in a military manoeuvre.

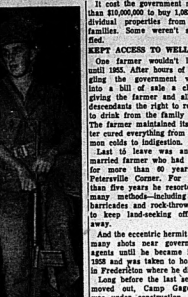
Roland, an 18-year-old private in B Company, 1st Battalion, Black Watch (Royal Highland Regiment), stood in the doorway of a building he once called home. By coincidence Roland was posted to his old home at Hubernia during an exercise called Keep Safe.

"My father used to go logging in the woods on that hill," said Roland, a rifle he held pointing to a sloping wood of fir and spruce trees. "We didn't have much money but with the logging and planting a few vegetables we made out all right.

Roland was born at uneventful little Hubernia. So were his parents and his only brother. He used to buy candy at a general store 100 yards down the road, now uninhabitable due to the ravages of mock war, played by men of the Canadian Army almost as hard as the real thing.

"When we knew the army was coming my father sold our land to the government and took us to Brown's Flat, in Kings County," he said. "I didn't care much then. I was only seven and too young to understand, but it makes me kind of sad now to come back and see the homes falling apart."

Like the Chelseys, most of the 2,000 persons living on the site of the 427-square-mile camp took expropriation money from the government and moved away. Some went to other areas of New Brunswick, others to Ontario and Nova Scotia.



Some didn't want to leave. Central New Brunswick had been the home of their ancestors for generations. They wouldn't go without a fight.

To 55-year-old Mrs. Elizabeth McCarthy, who came to her Petersville home as a bride 75 years before, no other place could be quite the same. When asked by the government what she thought was a fair price for her husband's farm, she replied: "What does the government pay for contentment?"

ARMY'S NEW BRUNSWICK EMPIRE — Camp Gagetown, in south-central New Brunswick, has been described by some army commanders as an empire. The 427-square-mile camp is the largest training area in the Commonwealth. Several small villages were absorbed by the camp but most of it is field, forest, streams and rolling hills. The camp was created by the Canadian government between 1953 and 1958 at a cost of about $40,000,000.

HOME SWEET HOME — Roland Chelsey, an 18-year-old private in the Canadian army stands in the doorway of his old home at Hybernia, N.B., but a few changes have been made. In 1953 Hybernia was a quiet farming village of 200. Now it is part of Camp Gagetown and Roland was defending his old home against guerillas in a mock war. — (CP Photo from National Defence).

It cost the government more than $10,000,000 to buy 1,083 industrial properties from 450 families. Some weren't satisfied.

KEPT ACCESS TO WELL

One farmer wouldn't leave until 1955. After hours of haggling the government wrote into a bill of sale a clause giving the farmer and all his descendants the right to return to drink from the family well. The farmer maintained its water cured everything from common colds to indigestion.

Last to leave was an unmarried farmer who had lived for more than 60 years at Petersville Corner. For more than five years he resorted to many methods—including fire barricades and rock-throwing—to keep land-seeking officials away.

And the eccentric hermit fired many shots near government agents until he became ill in 1958 and was taken to hospital in Fredericton where he died.

Long before the last settlers moved out, construction was under construction. More than 4,000 acres of bushland were cleared in 1954-55. Camp headquarters were set up and the first 2,700 troops invaded the area in June, 1954.

All over the spacious camp permanent quarters for 2,000 were built and more were under construction. A theatre and arena went up and—within five years—schools for 2,500 students.

IDEAL TERRAIN

The camp, situated on the west side of the St. John River, stretches from 12 miles south of Fredericton to within 25 miles of Saint John—now is the biggest army training area in the British Commonwealth. It can handle more than 15,000 troops.

About one-fifth the size of Prince Edward Island, Camp Gagetown offers almost every kind of training ground a military commander can imagine. There are hills rising to 1,500 feet; there are marshes, lakes and streams, open fields and dense woods. Temperatures soar to 90 degrees in summer and drop to 20 below in winter.

Brig. John Rockingham, Korean War commander of Canada's 25th Brigade, once said of Gagetown: "It's got mountains like Korea, tundra like the north German plains, mud like Italy. You could train men here to fight anywhere. It's an empire of its own."

And Roland Chelsey, a young soldier who doesn't like to see his old home fall apart, admits it's all part of progress. "It's a new camp," he said, "and we do have to train our soldiers."

FIND ODD BILLS

ST. JOHN'S, Nfld. (CP) — Three Canadian one-dollar bills with conflicting serial numbers have turned up here. George Hillier reported Thursday he found a bill with the number A-0683733 on one side and A-0783742 on the other. Two similar bills were found. RCMP are investigating.

I would immediately list the property for sale with a realtor. I would take the money and invest it. Perhaps, your nephew will appreciate what you did in the past when he is confronted by the new owner with a demand that he pay a fair rental or vacate.

Dear Mr. Meltzer: I am a new home owner — enthusiastic but inexperienced. I have been eagerly reading magazines and books about how to fit up my home. Salesmen have also been beating a path to my door.

Everyone recommends that I make improvements because by doing so I will increase the value of the property. But right now I am considering landscaping and shrubs for $1,200, a swimming pool for $1,000, a patio for $1,200, and a fence for $700. Am I on the right track?

— Dream House

ANSWER: Reluctantly I must bring our enthusiastic new home owner down to earth and at the same time disagree with some of my fellow writers.

A home has a basic value depending on the type of property, the neighborhood and other amenity factors. Improvements beyond the basics add to value but the increase in value is usually only a fraction of the improvement cost. This arises because buyers are reluctant to pay for their specialized field that they lose sight of the whole picture.

Improvements add to the enjoyment of the home. In this context they are desirable. However, under normal circumstances, it is unrealistic for a home owner to expect to recover fully the cost of the improvements when he sells.

Trade Minister Nominated In Eglinton

TORONTO (CP) — Mitchell Sharp, federal trade and commerce minister, accepted the Liberal nomination for Toronto Eglinton Thursday night by declaring that Opposition Leader Diefenbaker cannot bring unity to Canada.

Mr. Sharp's nomination to contest the riding in the Nov. 8 federal election was unopposed.

But the sharpest criticism of Mr. Diefenbaker's record came from guest speaker John Turner of Montreal, the MP for St. Lawrence-St. George who is also parliamentary secretary to Northern Affairs Minister Arthur Laing.

Mr. Turner said that if Mr. Diefenbaker were to become minister again it would mean one-man government, palace revolutions, economic jingoism, anti-Americanism and a new wave of French separatism.

Mr. Turner noted that some prominent Quebecers will be running as Liberal candidates in the November election, mentioning Jean Marchand, Gerald Pelletier, Pierre Trudeau, Privy Council President Guy Favreau, Forestry Minister Maurice Lamontagne and Jean Lesage, minister without portfolio.

"They will be a countervailing force to the strong provincial figures in the Lesage (Quebec cabinet," he said. "This is good news for Quebec. This is good news for Canada, and it is good news for Confederation."

Mr. Turner said Mr. Diefenbaker wants to be prime minister in 1967. "He's dreaming. His idol is Sir John A. Macdonald. But if Sir John A. started Confederation, John Diefenbaker will finish it."

Magistrate Rules Against Police Dept.

LEAMINGTON, Ont. (CP)—A magistrate here ruled Thursday that police have no right to tell private citizens to move off the street if they are not creating any trouble.

Joseph Rochette, 17, of Aylmer, Ont., was charged with obstructing police. He pleaded guilty but Magistrate Gordon R. Stewart dismissed the charge.

Acting Crown Attorney Gerry Tuck said Corporal Murray Wilson ordered a group of about 100 youths to move from a street corner here in the town, 25 miles east of Windsor.

The officer drove around the block and noticed that the youths were beginning to gather again. Cpl. Mellow again ordered them to move along.

Mr. Tuck said there had been a disturbance on the street and the officer was attempting to restore order.

He added that Rochette refused to move and therefore was obstructing police and enticing the others to come back and refused to fight again.

Magistrate Stewart said an officer has no right to order anyone from a public street because of something that happened there some time ago.

"It's like telling someone they'd better go because there was a fight here two days ago," the magistrate said.

Sunday School Lesson

Is Impatient Age

By CLARENCE W. CRANFORD

A sign in a factory during WWorld War II boasted: "We do the difficult right away; the impossible takes a little longer." This expresses the tempo of our impatient age. We are a people in a hurry though we may not always know where we're going. We fret if we miss the next turn at a revolving door. We beep our horn if the driver in front of us of a second slow getting started after the light turns green. We want success and are secretly overjoyed. We find it difficult to relish even in church. Instead of heeding the counsel, "Be still, and know I am God," we say "Sorry, God, I'm in a hurry," then get angry when God does not answer our prayers at once.

...A jet age does not train people to be patient. It leads them to expect man-made miracles overnight. The age of relaxing on the front porch in the evening, or on a Sunday afternoon, is gone. Today people live on the run. They dash about till a water spiders skipping on the surface of a lake. They speed to conferences for others. Before more miles per hour. They jet through the air at 600 miles per hour. They compose over night cures with new anti - biotics. They dial loved ones across the nation in a matter of seconds. They seek all kinds of short-cuts to happiness.

The Uniform Sunday School lesson for September 18: "Growing Christians in understanding and Patience." Galatians 5:22, 23; Philipians 4: Colossians 3:12-15.

* * *

People today want to build close their eyes to the world. But some things can't be bulldozed. There is no substitute for education, and that is a slow process. A dictator can often get results in a hurry. Democratic processes take time. But who wants to trade freedom for regimentation? There are no shortcuts to knowledge, nor bothouse methods of producing character without integrity and self-discipline.

DANGER OF IMPATIENCE

Strangely enough, the nature of our times demands patience not less, patience. It takes the patience of Job to deal with the hardships, the disasters that would be war. It takes patience to work through law, but not to overthrow law by bloody revolution. A major fear of our day is that insecurity and hatred will lack patience, and push the button that starts a nuclear war.

The Bible constantly counsels patience. It says, "Fret not yourself; it leads only to evil." (Psalm 37:8 RSV) Jesus commended those who "bearing the word, hold it in an honest and good heart, and bring forth fruit with patience." (Luke 8:15 RSV) In the last chapter of revision of the Bible we read, "In your patience possess ye your souls" (Luke 21:19). "Let us run with patience the race that is set before us" (Hebrews 12: 1): "The trying of your faith worketh patience" (James 1:3); "Add to . . . temperance patience" (II Peter 1:6), and the book of Revelation urges patient endurance when it says, "Be thou faithful unto death, and I will give thee a crown of life" (Revelation 2:10).

But patience is a positive, not a negative, virtue. It is not resignation or just being passive. It's true meaning is brought out in the Revised Standard Version of the Bible. Where the King James Version uses the word "patience" the RSV uses "endurance" (Luke 21 : 19; Revelation 13 : 10), "steadfastness" (James 1:3; II Thessalonians 1:4).

These are not negative virtues. They call for the will to endure. Patience is not giving up, but holding on. It is not a display of weakness, but of strength. Most of all, it calls for trust in God. Patience means doing our best, and leaving the result up to God. It calls for planting the seed, believing that God will give the harvest. It is the willingness to live one day at a time, confident God will enable us to face the future.

But patience alone is not enough. All the patience in the world will not feed the farmer who neglects to plant his crops. Patience can keep a person from getting discouraged, but it cannot take the place of honesty, justice, purity, beauty, or consideration for others. Because we have neglected to plead Justice, for example, the patience of the Negro in America is wearing thin. While a solid block together must match patience with persistence in striving for greater justice and understanding in this cause.

Because Paul had learned to be content within himself does not mean he was content with anything less than a Christian world. He could patiently accept adversity as well as prosperity so long as he felt he was accomplishing something for God and for his cause. (Philippians 4:11) His patience was borne of faith that Christ would strengthen him to all he tried to do. (Phil. 4:13)

COLLECTOR'S ITEMS — Dr. Jacques Lussier, dean of medicine at the University of Ottawa, shows some of the medals and decorations he has collected over the last 25 years. More hang in cases on the wall behind him. He has more than 240 pieces, some dating back to the naval battles of Britain's Lord Nelson. (CP Photo)

Ottawa University Dean Bitten by Medal Bug

By BENOIT HOULE

OTTAWA (CP) —Dr. Jean-Jacques Lussier, dean of the medical faculty at the University of Ottawa, diagnoses himself as having shown "clear symptoms of being a collector from when I was still young."

At eight he admired his gym instructor's medals on cadet inspection day. As a medical student in Montreal he wandered into a pawn shop and "discovered a mine—I still have the medals I came away with in my collection."

The medal-collecting bug continued to bite for 25 years and now 246 medals hang in 15 frames on Dr. Lussier's walls at the university.

Most of them are military. His rarest is an Order of St. Catherine struck for Czar Alexander II by the St. Petersburg goldsmith, Heinrich Wilhelm Kammerer.

The Russian prize is not his oldest, however. That is a 1700 Order of St. Louis he bought in France, its country of origin two centuries after it was minted.

Some of his medals commemorate specific combats—of the Poles at Montecassino, Italy, in 1944, or of the French at Suez in 1956.

SAILED UNDER BLIGH

He knows the histories of some of the particular examples which have come into his collection. One, bearing the inscription "Copenhagen 1801," was presented to a sailor named H. S. Ormond on the Glatton, a ship commanded by Captain William Bligh, aboard when the mutiny on the Bounty took place.

Another commemorates the Battle of Chateauguay, in which French-Canadians under Salaberry defeated American troops in the War of 1812, and was given to the good soldier C. C. Annance.

From a recent Soviet trip he brought back a Second World War medal.

How much are they all worth? "Prices vary so much in Canada and Britain that establishing the value of my collection is practically impossible," says Dr. Lussier. "But for me, seeing my 246 medals lined up under glass makes even the one which have millions of dupliates priceless."

There are medals commemorating campaigns in India, the Crimea and China. Others date from the United States Civil War.

They are carefully catalogued and classified, most bearing the names of the persons to whom they were awarded.

When Dr. Lussier goes on a trip, he heads for places he knows are medal-rich rather than for spots likely to attract the general run of tourists.

"Obviously I can't locate all the medals ever awarded," he says. "I limit myself to those that have the most historical importance."

Mouse Flying in to See Mice Get Fair Break for Mouser Title at Calgary

CALGARY (CP)—What's new pussycat? Well, Henry Hathaway—he's a mouse—is flying in from New York to see that the mice get a fair break in the 1965 world mouser championship.

And Ferdinand Leo and Summer Girl—they're cats—will be back for another crack at the championship.

Mouser championship? Well, it's the big highlight of the two-day, annual Calgary cat show that opens today. About 250 cats and 100 owners from all over North America are supposed to show up.

The mouser contest is Saturday night. Twenty-eight cats will take turns stalking through a 10-foot-long maze toward four or five mice placed in a protected wire cage at the end of the maze.

The cats will be timed with a stop watch. The cat with the best time wins a big trophy for his owner. The best mouse in the show gets a pound of cheese.

Henry Hathaway, a pet mouse owned by one of the show's judges, Margaret Lovett of New York, will sort of "referee" the mouser contest to see that the cats stay in line. WILL SIT AND WATCH

"Henry says show manager Ben Borrett of Calgary, "will sit at Mrs. Lovett's table, just sit there and watch—cats are pretty scared of mice, you know."

"When the cats see Henry they'll perk their ears up. It's a gimmick of course."

Summer Girl, a British manx cat from Calgary, captured last year's championship with a time of 54 and 54 seconds in two trials.

Ferdinand Leo, former world champ at the time, got bored with it all and wandered out of the maze.

Some of the cats were scared of the mice. A few pedigreed types showed distaste for the whole business.

But this year's pack of competitors may prove more ferocious. Among them are Timbers To Sea, Miss Snoop, Little Red, Silver Dawn, Walking Baby, Papoose Chinook, Pinky and Squibbly Prince.

The mouser championship was thought up by Borrett and his wife, Doug Johnson, manager of the Calgary Tourist and Convention Association, and other cat-fanciers in 1952. The cat show has been an annual event for nine years.

SEE ALL KINDS

"Sometimes we have about 20 mice in the cage. There's more smell that way I guess. There's pet mice, field mice, all kind sof mice," Mr. Borrett says.

The 250 cats entered in this year' show are "down from the number entered in some other years but we have a lot better cats this year," he says. "There are pedigreeds, tom cats, alley cats."

Other judges who'll oversee the awarding of more than $1,000 in cash, trophies, rosettes and ribbons are Mrs. Whitney Abt of Austin, Tex.; Gordon Lussier of Ohio and Mrs. Kay Penney of Vancouver.

Major judging events are the Calgary Cat Club all - breed show; the long and short hair special show; and the fancy all-breed, fancy short and fancy long hair classes of the Canadian national show.

Some 2,500 cat lovers attended last year's show in the agriculture building at the Stampede grounds.

Two U.S. Men Fail to Return From Fishing

MOONBEAM, Ont. (CP) — Two Akron, Ohio, men were reported missing Thursday when their small boat failed to return from a fishing trip on nearby Lake Remi.

Provincial police would not release their names but said the men were first reported missing at 10 p.m. Wednesday night. The village is about 70 miles northwest of Timmins.

Gross National Product Up Faster Than Estimated

TORONTO (CP) — Canada's Gross National Product may increase by as much as nine per cent this year, Finance Minister Gordon said Thursday night.

He told the Junior Investment Dealers' Association that the seven-per-cent increase he predicted in his budget speech was made before statistics for the first quarter of the present calendar year were available.

Subsequent events have done nothing to dispel our confidence in this. In fact, the developments of the summer months have led us to raise our sights.

"On the basis of present knowledge, I would expect a final GNP figure of about $51,000,000,000 for the year.

He said that in the case of real income per capita, this would mean an average gain of 4.5 per cent a year for the last two years, compared to a gain of less than one per cent a year for the period between 1958 and 1962, an increase that was "really quite remarkable."

He said the economic gains could not have taken place without buoyant conditions abroad, especially in the U.S., "but the success of our policies is shown by the fact that our Gross National Product has risen at a faster rate than that of the U.S., and our unemployment rate since 1963 has fallen more sharply than in the U.S."

"This could not have happened if our policies were wrong."

He said the government's recent decision to defer some new construction projects was confined to certain areas, "leaving unaffected those parts of the country still having idle capacity." This was because pressures on the construction industry were partial and regional.

Hees Back in PC Fold And Will Oppose Jewett In Northumberland

By HARRY MULHALL

COBOURG — For Cobourg Rotary Club it was a meeting just like any other meeting — except George Hees was there.

The former trade minister, as president of the Montreal and Canadian stock exchanges, had agreed weeks ago to address the Rotarians.

He delivered the non-political address as scheduled, but it was what he had to say later to his audience really wanted to hear — those the Rotarians didn't get to hear him say it.

Immediately following the Rotary meeting in the British Hotel dining room here, Mr. Hees went upstairs with local Conservative party organizers, returning in about 30 minutes.

Then he confirmed to reporters he was back in politics — and contesting Northumberland riding against Liberal Dr. Paul-line Jewett.

The announcement confirmed the hottest political news to date of the current election campaign.

Mr. Hees, who represented the Toronto riding of Broadview for 13 years, resigned his trade and commerce portfolio in the government in February 1963 over defence policy.

Yesterday he said the feud between himself and Mr. Diefenbaker had been cleared up.

WOULD ACCEPT POST

"There is no point of controversy remaining between us," he said, and he would be honored to accept a cabinet post if the Conservatives were returned to power under Mr. Diefenbaker.

He added he would also like the Conservative leader to campaign in the riding.

Mr. Hees resigned his stock exchange post in a surprise move Thursday. Earlier he had said he would not be a candidate in the November 8 federal election.

Local Conservatives officials were delighted with the political party reaction at Mr. Hees' return to the political arena.

"I'm very much thrilled about having Mr. Hees as a candidate, local Conservative association Douglas McMaster said.

Northumberland Conservatives in Winnipeg last Mr. Hees's on Monday on the possibility of

Lesage To Speak On Quebec

By GERARD ALARIE

QUEBEC (CP) — Premier Jean Lesage of Quebec Sunday starts a three-week tour of Western Canada. He says it's not intended as promotional trip for the federal Liberal party in the election campaign.

Neither, he says, is it a step towards eventual leadership of the national Liberal party.

Mr. Lesage, premier since 1960, decided several months ago to make a goodwill tour of the West "to show the true face of Quebec to the English-speaking people."

He said that during his tour, which will last until Oct. 8 and include some Ontario cities, every subject related even indirectly to politics will be regarded as taboo.

Mr. Lesage will start his tour at Saskatoon. From there he will go to Calgary, Victoria, Vancouver, Edmonton, Regina, Winnipeg, Fort William, Sudbury, Toronto and towns near these cities.

WILL MAKE 15 SPEECHES

The Quebec premier has prepared 15 speeches for his tour on the theme: "Quebec, stronghold of French Canada, its aspirations, its responsibilities, and its future."

In an interview, he said the theme is composed of four elements: Quebec as the stronghold of French-Canada understands the French-Canadian minorities in the English-speaking provinces; a statement of the aspirations of Quebec, its economic, social and political objectives; the responsibilities which result from these and the place of Quebec in a new-type confederation.

Originally, the premier's program included meetings with Liberal party officials.

"As soon as the federal elections were announced, I abandoned this part of my program," he said.

Dief's Plane Unable to Land Due to Fog

By KEN KELLY

OTTAWA CP — An Air Canada plane carrying Conservative leader John Diefenbaker and some 55 other passengers flew to Toronto today but had to return here after fog prevented a landing.

The plane circled Malton Airport at Toronto for more than an hour and made one excited landing attempt at a landing. Pilot F. D. Sherman of Winnipeg pulled the plane up suddenly when it was about 250 feet above the ground and flew back to Ottawa to refuel.

Mr. Diefenbaker is marking his 70th birthday and is scheduled to address a political pic-nic at Oakville later today.

He was four hours behind schedule when the Air Canada plane prepared to take off again for Toronto and a renewed attempt at landing.

Voter Swing Predicted By PCs

OTTAWA (CP) — Progressive Conservatives indicate their hope publicity being given to the parade of rebels returning to the party fold and possible big-name candidates will project a picture of a voter swing in their favor in the federal election.

The welcome-home statement by Conservative Leader Diefenbaker and the announcement by former trade minister Hees of his availability for nomination in the Ontario seat of Northumberland made headlines nationally.

This was followed up by top party people saying that Premier Duff Roblin of Manitoba has made up his mind to enter the Nov. 8 federal race, possibly in Winnipeg South.

But even before these big-

Chinese Move to Frontier, Accuse India of Intrusion; Thant Is Urging UN to Act

NEW DELHI (Reuters) — Chinese troops have moved to positions near the frontier of Sikkim, India's protectorate bordering Tibet, the Indian defence ministry announced today.

China made a new charge of border violations today, a day after it demanded that India pull out of a disputed area near Sikkim within three days. The Chinese ultimatum expires Sunday.

The new violations were said to have occurred in Sinkiang province, about 1,000 miles west of Sikkim, Sept. 11 and 16.

The official New China news agency said in a broadcast the Indian "intruded into China's territory of Sinkiang . . . for military provocations."

The mountainous border between the two Asian nations has never been officially marked. Peking does not recognize much of the border, claiming it was imposed by Britain when she ruled India and China was weak.

The news agency said Chinese authorities "have enhanced their vigilance" in the Sinkiang border area, located north of the disputed Kashmir region between India and Pakistan.

CHINESE MOVE IN

An Indian spokesman said the Chinese have moved into positions near the Sikkim frontier and into the Demchok area of Ladakh, at the western end of the Himalayan frontier.

Demchok, near the banks of the Indus River, separates western Ladakh, was the scene of bitter fighting in the China-India clash of 1962.

The current undeclared war between India and Pakistan has also stepped up attention on Kashmir dispute. Peking has voiced support for Pakistan in the war.

China's latest accusation followed its ultimatum for India to dismantle military installations in the Sikkim-Tibet border area within three days or face "grave consequences."

GEORGE HEES announces his decision at Cobourg to run for Northumberland riding. With the former trade minister is Wesley Downs, chairman of the constituency PC nominations committee.

Pearson 'Home'In Algoma

By STEWART MacLEOD

ESPANOLA, Ont. (CP) — Prime Minister Pearson was launching his personal campaign toward the Nov. 8 general election here today with a round of vote - gathering activities that included his own nominating convention and an evening rally.

It appeared to be a foregone conclusion that he would be unopposed when he stood before the Algoma East constituency for the nomination he first received in 1948. Even the convention's program included this succession when it said "other nominations" would be followed by an address by "our federal candidate, the Hon. L. B. Pearson."

Mr. Pearson has said he regards this as the beginning of his personal campaigning for the general election, although the party's official campaign won't be launched until candidates meet in Ottawa Tuesday.

Oil Workers' Strike Threatens to Spread

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

An oil workers strike which already has affected British American Oil Company operations in four Canadian centres threatened today to close down two more plants while spokesmen for both sides Friday added fuel to their dispute.

Officials of the Oil, Chemical and Atomic Workers International Union (CLC) in Moose Jaw, Sask., said workers would strike BA's Moose Jaw plant at noon Monday. And in Vancouver, the Independent Oil and Gas Workers Union gave 48 hours strike notice for 60 employees at the nearby Port Moody refinery.

Meanwhile, the already-tense situation at the Clarkson, Ont., refinery became more delicate when Refinery Manager S. C. Beal charged that workers there had tampered with the plant equipment before leaving their jobs Wednesday evening.

Mr. Beal said there was "attempted sabotage" on two units. The workers, he said, had also hampered operations by leaving insufficient oil in machines, jamming loading valves, plugging toilets and planting stinkbombs in the laboratory and temporary sleeping quarters.

Basic issues in all centres is wages and job security. Oil workers' average, $2.75 an hour, want 35 to 55 cents an hour more while the company is offering 10 to 25 cents over varying contracts.

Narcotic-peddling Is Carefree Trade When Plied French-Canadian Style

The first week of the narcotics trial of Lucien Rivard and three co-defendants brought out much fun in court—if true—that could make the underworld bosses rewrite the book on drug smuggling. In the following story John LeBlanc gives a detailed report of the informers' disclosures.

By JOHN LeBLANC

LAREDO, Tex. (CP)—A jury has the weekend to mull over stories of big-time dealings, and peanut stand operations in the international dope trade.

Informers' tales of careless amateur French-Canadian border runners, told at the smuggling conspiracy trial of Lucien Rivard and three Montreal co-defendants this week, are enough to make narcotics overlords rewrite the book on the heroin trade.

The United States government seeks to tie the four into the narcotics operations involving perhaps $200,000,000.

The government closed its case Friday. Defence evidence is not expected to take more than a day, with the case going to the jury Tuesday.

Judge Ben C. Connally Friday turned down a defence motion for directed acquittal verdicts after the prosecution brought in the last of its two dozen witnesses and 100-odd exhibits, including remnants of heroin seized here in 1963.

The defence faces the task of discrediting the stories of Roger Beauchemin, 33, a dapper former waiter who says he pleaded guilty because he was the only the big money to pay off his debts, and Joseph Michel Caron, a former truck driver who said he turned to thievery but couldn't make enough to support his big family.

Caron's story involved all four defendants including co-accused charles Eric Grosleau, described by the government as Rivard's executive officer; Julien Gagnon, who once was the name of Jerry Massey, and Joseph Raymond Jones. Beauchemin testified he dealt only with Rivard, had nothing to do with Groleau and didn't know the others.

Both claimed they got directions from Rivard, 50, former Montreal resort owner.

Caron was seized with his wife Yvonne Wednesday, who claimed she was pressured into making the trip so it would look like a honeymoon—in October, 1963, after making a series of contacts on a Mexico City expedition. His car carried 78 pounds.

Beauchemin said that, accompanied by a woman friend, he ran a load of around 85 pounds out of Mexico earlier that year, dropping most of it with a contact at Flint, Mich., and handing over the last 10 pounds to Rivard in Montreal. He claimed Rivard short-changed him of between $200 and $600 of his supposed $2,500 payoff.

Caron, who took his wife on three delivery trips and three of his four children on another, also testified he delivered loads of "Frenkie" at Bridgeport, Conn., after they had been brought into Montreal aboard a transatlantic liner from Europe by Gagnon-Massey and Jones in the mountainous car.

Frenk Cappola, operator of a beauty parlor in the Bridgeport area, was identified by Caron as identified him as the Bridgeport consignee.

The little courier told how he flirted with trouble at Bridgeport, first disobeying orders by cruising around the city with his car seats stuffed with $50,000,000 in dope and then by stealing some bed linen when he left the motel on his first trip.

He took another big chance the second time by going to the same motel, though he had his wife registered under another name this time. A motel clerk testified here she now recognized him as having been there earlier that year.

Caron also told of Gagnon—after his heroin-laden car had been damaged in a crash in Montreal and was sitting up on the dock—coolly going back aboard and helping the customs agents to make sure he'd be recompensed for a scratch on the car body. He told of subsequent operations, too. Groleau, he said, doled out amounts as small as $1,000 to Gagnon, a payoff total of $786 included $86 needed for a monthly payment on the car he bought in Mexico City under "first class." A hard-up Montreal welfare recipient with just five of the ten needles he testified he falsified passport papers for some of the group at $5 a head.

Beauchemin said he told Rivard, after a Mexico City trip, he knew how to operate a secret compart, pending a separate load of dope his car when he actually didn't. The gadget "flew apart" when he tried to open it in Montreal. So, the 78 bags of heroin were stuck under the back seat.

Arrived safely at Flint, Beauchemin transferred 60 bags of the load from a parking lot to his room, strictly an idea of his own. They were sitting on the floor—one plastic bag spilled open—when the Flint man came in, took one shocked

Parliamentary Parley's Achievement Was That It Was at Least Held

OTTAWA (CP)—From a political viewpoint, the spokesman said, a central achievement of the 54th conference of the Inter-Parliamentary Union was that the meeting took place.

There may have been a touch of irony in the remark by Andre du Bionay, the IPU's secretary-general, but there was little in the conference record to dispute his statement.

As a force in attempting to help or influence the course of world events, the meeting of 600 legislators from 61 nations was something less than dramatic.

It ran away completely from the debate on Viet Nam for fear of setting off a fight among its most interested delegates. After some hesitation, it passed a resolution on Kashmir, but only one which expressed its "most sincere wishes" for the mediation efforts of United Nations Secretary - General U Thant.

It talked a bit about the position of Communist China in the world community, but steered clear of a recorded consensus on it. It did speak out in blunt terms against South Africa's apartheid racial policies, but—then South Africa itself wasn't here to start an argument.

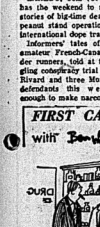
Straight - forward resolutions on the agenda—and from the shoulder speeches made — on such topics as the world economic problem, greater use of educational television, the need to improve international trade arrangements, and ways to strengthen the parliamentary system in general.

In fact, the conference, which ended its first Canadian sessions Friday, was not in any real sense a major reflection of the leading political issues facing today's world.

The question asked by many onlookers is whether it should have been.

The answer, from IPU officials at least, is a definite no.

"It is a mistake to look on the IPU as another United Nations, as a forum where the great political issues are debated and decided," said one official.



"Our main purpose always has been to promote contact and understanding among members of the various parliaments. If we tried to take a hand in one of the most sensitive political issues, the result would be not only no consensus but a real outpouring of gratitude for Canadien assistance.

"We also had no idea of the amount of goodwill Canada has with many of these countries," said one European delegate. "These people really seem to love you."

All this cost the Canadian taxpayer an official $300,000 sod, counting the expenses of host facilities such as the new Commons translation system, an unofficial $1,000,000.

"It was worth every dollar of it," commented a conference organizer.

Senior Noteholders to Get First Crack at Atlantic's Assets in New Proposal

By KEN SMITH
Canadian Press Business Editor

TORONTO (CP)—The haves and the have-nots left by the wreckage of Atlantic Acceptance Corp. started fighting in earnest Friday over dividing the remnants of the finance company.

Senior noteholders, who get first crack at Atlantic's assets, accepted a proposal from General Acceptance Corp. of Allentown, Pa., concerning a major share of Atlantic's receivable accounts.

J. G. Haxton of Montreal Trust Co., appointed receiver and manager of Atlantic after it defaulted on some debts in June, estimated the GAC proposal could mean $76,000,000 will be available for senior noteholders over the next five years.

With money that Montreal Trust estimates can be recovered in other areas of Atlantic's activities, Mr. Haxton said total realizable assets could amount to between $100,000,000 and $110,000,000.

MAY RECOVER ALL

That would assure senior noteholders — with claims against Atlantic totalling $106,000,000—of getting almost all their money back, and possibly leave a bit over.

Holders of subordinated notes, pleased, however, They noted meeting later, weren't so the GAC proposal would leave nothing for them and passed a resolution seeking to keep Atlantic operating and to oppose the GAC plan if necessary.

The subordinated and other creditors have claims totalling $29,000,000. When Atlantic went under June 17, it showed assets on paper of $145,800,000, although Montreal Trust estimated after two months checking the realizable value was only $103,000,000.

Montreal Trust now will take the proposal to the Supreme Court of Ontario for consideration.

REJECT OFFERS

The noteholders rejected two other formal offers—from the Walter Heller group of Chicago and Laurentide Financial Corp. of Vancouver. They were told before voting on the offers that the GAC plan could give them $2,000,000 more than the others.

Donald Tetzlaff of the National Life Insurance Co. of Vermont and chairman of a committee formed by the subordinated noteholders to try to protect their interests, said after the meeting his group will go to the courts if necessary to interrupt the GAC move.

Mr. Tetzlaff said the GAC plan offers no chance of recovering anything except to the senior noteholders.

"Our belief is that this company owes a lot of people a lot of money. It should be kept alive and sold as a going back and we believe it has the capacity to do this."

TORONTO (CP) — An employee - management dispute may end in the United Appeal over $100,000.

Hundreds of Toronto packinghouse workers Thursday cancelled their United Appeal payroll donations in protest of what some workers call unjustified suspensions and reprimands and over-strict supervision at Canada Packers' Ltd. plant here.

U.S.-controlled Flour Mills In Canada Obey U.S. Law, Will Not Ship to Cuba

By KEN CLARK

OTTAWA (CP) — U.S. - controlled flour milling firms in Canada have obeyed American law by declining to ship Russia-purchased flour to Cuba, officials here say.

However, from a purely economic point of view, they say Canadian firms and the domestic economy are not suffering because of this. In fact, Canadian flour millers could benefit.

Russia last month bought 300,000 tons of Canadian wheat flour as part of a two-stage 222,000,000-bushel wheat order.

John Taiam of Montreal, president of the Canadian Millers Association, said Friday the U.S. - controlled firms did not touch that portion of the flour order that Russia was diverting to Cuba.

The situation is exactly the same as in the last big wheat sale to the Soviet Union," he told an interviewer in reference to the 229,000,000 - bushel Russian purchase of Canadian wheat and flour equivalent in 1963.

"We knew from the start that U.S. law prevents the American firms from dealing with Cuba."

DIVERTED TO CUBA

Part of the 1963 sale was diverted to Cuba as have been subsequent smaller purchases of Canadian flour by Russia preceding last month's big buy.

Corn sold for 40 cents a dozen.

White turnips were 25 cents for a two-quart box, carrots were 25 cents a quart, yellow beans were 25 cents a quart basket picking onions, on silverskins, were 40 cents for a quart box.

Squash and turnips, depending upon the size, were priced from 10 cents each, green peppers were 10 cents each, the same price as red peppers, and red peppers were two for 15 cents.

TORONTO (CP) — Downtown Bathurst Street was completely shut off a foot of muddy water Friday after a 36-inch main burst during a thunderstorm and sent gushes of water up to 15 feet in the air. Dear brother, you have left your smile,

You have left your memory,
To live with us each day,
For you'll never know the heartache,
That we do,
Till you see his vacant chair,
Sadly missed by brother Thomas and family.

DEGENOVA — In loving memory of our dear brother John, who passed away September 18, 1964.

To see you dear brother,
Is all we do adore.

Where there is everlasting rest,
In Heaven, that happy life,

NEW PRESIDENT Gerald Joyce (right) is introduced to guest speaker Rod Webb, MP. Hastings-Frontenac, by Lee Grills (centre) at last night's Belleville PC Association annual meeting.

Gerald Joyce Is Chosen Belleville PC President

City real estate agent Gerald Joyce will head Belleville Conservatives in the upcoming election campaign.

Mr. Joyce last night was elected president of the city's Progressive Conservative Association, succeeding Dr. John Stock, at a meeting in the Kinawnis Centre.

Other members of the new executive are: Douglas Burr, Charles Keeble, Perce McWilliams, vice-presidents; Roy Jeffrey, secretary; K. Gus Porter, treasurer; Clarke Rollins MLA, Elmer Sandercock MLA, Lee Grills and Richard Arnott, honorary presidents.

Mr. Joyce and his executive officers were returned by acclamation.

SAYS COUNTRY SPLIT

Guest speaker Rodney Webb, MP Hastings-Frontenac, charged that the Pearson government was endangering national unity by viewing Canada as two separate nations.

Private Prime-Minister has called "one province the homeland of a nation without specifying what he thought the other provinces were," charged Mr. Webb.

"He has committed the unpardonable national crime of leading his party down the hysterical pathway of the two-nations theory".

The Conservative party at Confederation accepted the theory of two cultural nations but "it has never, will never, accord recognition to the theory of two political nations."

"It is to this theory that the Liberals under Mr. Pearson are tending with the inevitability of a snowslide into oblivion."

The majority of the people of Quebec do not want two separate and distinct political nations, said Mr. Webb, but they do want the recognition of two cultures.

"As far as separatism is concerned the danger must be over, otherwise, having tolerated it for three years, Mr. Lesage would not have attacked it. As far as Mr. Pearson goes, he never attacked."

Mr. Webb, also charged that the Liberal press continues painting Conservative leader John Diefenbaker "as negative and irreconcilable" and anti-Quebec.

"This is catastrophic, not only as a disservice to our party. This we can bear with. But it is a fundamental disservice to Canadians and the cause of unity, since it is a deliberate attempt to create the impression that there is no alternative to the muddle and mess of the Liberals.

CANADA UNEASY

He claimed a "wave of uneasiness" was sweeping Canada because of "two years of Pearson pussyfooting pettifogging and petty politics."

One of the most pronounced examples is Quebec, he said, "where thousands who want and are determined to be and remain Canadians, are under the impression that Pearson policies are cutting them off from the mainstream of Canadian economic and political life."

He charged the Liberal government with a "series of shabby surrenders" of national sovereignty.

"Today we face a great constitutional issue — the issue of whether Canada will continue as a nation, sovereign and independent or wind up as a series of petty states jostling for supreme power."

The government has tried to curb the powers of parliament because they grow impatient with it and "feel it stands in their way," he claimed.

The Liberals have sponsored constitutional changes, having the effect of reducing parliament to a mere rubber stamp, said Mr. Webb.

'POLITICAL' FLAG

The Maple Leaf flag was not so much a Canadian flag but "in my opinion the flag is a political flag."

When the Red Ensign was lowered for the last time on Parliament Hill the ceremony was performed by an English-speaking soldier while prayers were said in English. However, said Mr. Webb, the new flag was raised by a French-Canadian and "a French-Canadian priest said the prayers for the new flag and immediately "Oh Canada" was sung in French."

He noted the return of George Hees to politics and comment-ed on the new unity apparent in the party.

"We are all hoping and praying that Donald Fleming (finance minister in the Diefenbaker government) will rejoin our party," he told the meeting.

Conservatives Change Date And Speaker

South Hastings Progressive Conservative Association has announced a change in date of their forthcoming nomination convention. It was first announced that the meeting would be held on Thursday, Sept. 22nd with the speaker being Senator The Hon. David Walker. The meeting will now be held at the Belleville Collegiate on Wednesday, September 22nd with the speaker being Hon. George Hees, former Minister of Trade and Commerce.

PICKETS PROTEST

TORONTO (CP) — About 60 pickets of the Canadian Peace Congress marched before the Federal Government Building here Friday to protest Canada's decision to allow the West German Army to test weapons at Camp Shilo, Man.

Children's Aid Society's Deficit Sharply Reduced, New Building Is Proposed

The Children's Aid Society, which started the year with a deficit of $15,000, is likely to wipe out this deficit, Thomas R. Colden, treasurer, told the board of directors at their meeting this week. Mr. Colden presented a report of the Society's financial position at the end of August, showing receipts for the first eight months of the year as $137,275, while disbursements were only $127,181.

Bruce Kerr, director of the Society requested the Board to give consideration to the relocation of the Society's offices. He said the present building, which had served a useful and constructive purpose, was now outmoded, outdated and totally inadequate to the Society's needs.

"I am not suggesting that the property is either falling down or in need of extensive repair," said Mr. Kerr "Such is not the case. Over the years it has been maintained at a high level and is in good condition, but it simply is not adequate to the demands made upon it by the almost 700,000 persons the Society now serves. I suggest you begin your examination of the situation at once, for if you choose to build, I remind you that it will be, in all probability, five years before we occupy the premises".

He said he believed the sale of the existing office building and the grant by the Province of Ontario in support of new construction would meet about 50 per cent of the cost; that at least 25 per cent could be repaid as rent over a period of ten or more years, and that $25,000 would need to be raised from other sources. He estimated the cost at $100,000. Dr. S. C. Rose, the president, stated that the Society had been representative of the entire area served as possible, would be set up at once to explore the matter.

Dr. Rose, welcomed newly elected members, Thos. Burnside of Madoc and Bernard Hurley of Belleville.

Thomas R. Colden announced that the society had been allocated the sum of $10,000 from the forthcoming Belleville United Appeal for funds and that this would be used to supplement municipal grants for protection and other family service work.

REPORT RECEIVED

Dr. Rose read excerpts from a recently submitted report of survey of the society by Ontario Department of Public Welfare personnel. "Your records indicate a generally good standard of service to the children under your care. Meaningful work is done in preparing children for placement, preparation for wardship and in helping children cope with separation from their own families. Foster parents receive support and encouragement. We are pleased with your success in managing a special caseload of protection families for the purpose of preventing family breakdown, through intensive counselling. In our opinion, this work is being done with skill and imagination.

"In interviews with members of board and staff, our field supervisors noted concern about the lack of services in the northern part of the county. This is a sparsely settled, comparatively unproductive land, extending out from Bancroft into adjoining counties. You have considered opening an office in this area in order to give a more effective service, but have not yet found a means of doing so. We recommend you continue your efforts in this direction and reconsider the possibility of 'felling service to the societies in the adjacent jurisdiction who face problems. This possibility my appear more practical under the new child welfare legislation."

Mr. Bruce Kerr, the local director, reported that at the end of August there were one hundred and fifty-three children in the care of the Society, fifty-five of these having been admitted during the first eight months of the year. The Society has fifty children in public school, nineteen in high school, one attending business college and another taking nurses' training. He commented on the progress of the Society's adoption placement program and said that there was every indication that 1965 would be a record year; forty-three local children having been placed to date.

Mr. Kerr said that the Society had children for placement at the present time but, as usual, there was greater demand for infants and preschool age girls. He invited inquiries.

ARE SHORT-STAFFED

In talking about staff matters, he said, "We are presently short-staffed and with the introduction of the new child welfare legislation in January, we will be in an even worse position. Right now we have Mr. Dudley Doboo taking post graduate work at the University of Toronto and Mr. Paul Zakos at the Ryerson Polytechnical Institute in Toronto. Both will be absent for the next two years, apart from the between-the-academic-year in 1966." He announced that Mrs. Dorathea Wiens, B.A., B.S.W., and Mrs. Renee Webster, a nurse with a certificate in public health, had joined the staff on a part time basis. Both have had previous experience in the children's aid field. Mrs. Wiens will work in the adoption department and Mrs. Webster will carry a small caseload of handicapped children in foster home care.

Tribute was paid to Dr. Roger Billings, the director of the provincially sponsored Mental Health Clinic, which for so many years has served faithfully the citizens of the County. It was moved by Rev. W. T. Hedley of Marmora and seconded by Mr. George Wismer of Belleville that the Society offer to Dr. Billings a small years of service, co-operation token of appreciation of his and assistance to the Society. The motion was carried unanimously.

A Tiresome Process

Democracy, when all is said and done, is so tiresome. The paradox is that here is the fairest and most satisfactory political system that can be devised, yet it is the most tortuous.

Ask any parliamentarian, city councillor or newspaperman who has toiled through a day — and often the night as well — in the service of the democratic process.

To survive this sort of thing requires a sound constitution as well as some degree of interest in the proceedings, however prolonged or boring they may be. Not surprisingly, some fall by the wayside; they get ulcers or worse. And there is nothing unusual about members of the Commons having a quiet nap in the course of a long debate.

We were reminded of all this by an article in the Ottawa Journal on the development of Canada's northern regions. The writer, Bart Green, was describing the new town of Hay River, N.W.T., with its 150 families, hospital and other facilities.

He went on: "At every meeting of the town council applications are heard for lots at the new site (the townspeople were obliged to move after disastrous floods in 1963) and for permission to move home or build them.

"It was at one of these council meetings I began to realize what a burden democracy can be when one are trying to open up a new territory . . . It might have been in Courtney, B.C., Oshawa, Ont., or Middleton, N.S.; it was the same slow, slightly comic system that gets things done all across Canada."

The hall and mode of dress were different — councillors left their boots at the door because of the muddy streets — but the methods were the same.

"Some councillors were too anxious to get through business at hand, at the expense of prudence. Others, who could not immediately see the wisdom of motions, burdened the meeting with delays.

"The democratic system," Green concluded, "just was not devised for speed."

Link With the Past

The "little red schoolhouse" is still serving its turn in Ontario. Algonquin public school northeast of Brockville has been re-opened to admit an overflow of 19 grade five students of Maitland school. Built in 1833, the village school was closed last year on completion of a new building nearby.

The Brockville Recorder and Times points out that the school has been in use almost continuously for its 132-year existence. An old bell on the rooftop was formerly used to signal students into the one-room stone desk. Plumbing is still antiquated and the students' water supply comes from a pump about 50 feet from the school.

Nature study is popular with the youngsters. The rural scene just outside the door brings the subject alive, and in one project last year started to collect and mount plants found in the vicinity.

Mrs. Bradford Franklin of Brockville, who has taught in Scarborough and in Ottawa, is both teacher and principal at the school. One wonders if school in such interesting, if spartan, surroundings is not more beneficial to the students than it is in the modern buildings of today. The youngsters are acquiring the early fund of knowledge in unspoiled and uncrowded surroundings. They are luckier than they know.

Ontario Balaney

The other day the Ontario Government fed the Bar, the members of the respectable Bar, that is — the lawyers.

Such a fuss has resulted that, if the Government were doing it over again, it would probably bar the food.

Seems it was all labelled — Niagara fruit cocktail, Leamington tomatoes, York County beef, Prince Edward County string beans.

But nothing from Kent County. That has annoyed the Kent County Federation of Agriculture.

Since, at a rough count, there are some fifty counties and districts in Ontario, (even when making allowances for such pairings as Northumberland and Durham and Lennox and Addington), a banquet dragging in the names of every region where a spud is grown or a hen clucks would be a dragged-out affair.

But the Ontario Government deserves every brickBat it gets.

There may be some defence for a menu for a regional shindig calling attention to the fact that the table is laden with the produce of the district. But for Ontario to play the same game with lawyers from throughout the nation seems a little — ah, shall we say provincial?

What the Bar really got was a variety of Ontario baloney.

Pearson and Diefenbaker Backed by Small Armies

By RICHARD JACKSON
... From The Intelligencer's Ottawa Bureau

OTTAWA—Prime Minister Pearson and Conservative Leader Diefenbaker may be backed up on the Campaign Trail by what at times must look like a small army.

They are.

And it is — a small army of specialists.

There are the Backr o o m Boys.

The Personality Packagers from the advertising agencies and the public relations firms.

The Speech Writers and Idea Men who must always produce at high speed something new — or at least looking new — in gimmicks for every major platform appearance.

The Advance Men, Road Men, Transport Men, Accommodations Men and the Joe-Job Men.

And there are the Always - Faithful, Ever - Loving, Work-Their-Fingers - to - the - Bone-for-the-Boss Secretaries.

These and more, specialists all, backing up the Great Man hundreds - deep.

But you never see the Great Invisible Army.

The Ladies. God Bless 'em.

They're the real shock troops, the women's organizations.

They get out the crowds at the big rallies for the two Party Leaders.

CONSERVATIVES COPY

It was Prime Minister Pearson, when he was still Opposition Leader, who first discovered their potential, very probably on a tip from his wife who, like all women, knows the wonder a well-used phone can work.

Those who make a profession of being in the know of such things claim she initially got the idea from a Conservative newspaper advertisement in the 1962 election. This ad extended an eight-column, full - page "invitation" when the then Prime Minister Diefenbaker kicked off his campaign, to "Come One and All to Meet Olive and John and Please Bring the Kids."

The idea, in this type of election paper, is to "identify," as the ad-men and the PRO's put it, the Great Man with the Poor Voter.

And with lots of warmth, and if possible, a personal touch of we're-all-friends-together intimacy.

What's warmer, more personal or more intimate than a phone call, Marion Pearson is supposed to have asked.

And the very next week the Phone Blitz was born.

In politics, as in any business, when somebody tops with a blazing-bolt of a new and good idea, the competition immediately copies it.

So by the end of the '62 campaign, the Female Shock Troops of both Parties were busy phone blitzing the country — and doing their patriotic bit to preserve Canada's international honor as the world's phoningest-by-far nation.

By the '63 campaign, the Phone Blitz had become a key part of "Mama Number Nine" directed by Conservative National Headquarters here in the capital to constituency chairmen all across the land."

NOTHING LIKE A DAME

It read, to quote: "The Leader's visit to your area should be well advertised in advance in the dailies and weeklies; the copy taking the form of a warm invitation to come and hear John. And experience has shown that the sure and certain way to build a big audience is to have a good, hard - hitting committee of women phoning every single name in the book and issuing a warm personal invitation the week before the rally."

Operation Phone Blitz can start small. Then build. The trick is, in the days immediately prior to the meeting, to spot the enthusiasts — women who say, why yes, they'd love to come along — and ask them to phone their friends and bring them, too.

Kind of a chain letter (wired for sound) operation, this.

Like the song says: "There is nothing like a dame" . . . especially when you equip her with a phone and a cause.

So when either Dief or Mike say you a call, as pay they must, and most likely will, and you wonder about all the whoopde-do, remember that a couple of groups of dedicated whoop-te-doers have been whoop-te-doing.

And if they've done their phone Blitzing as Phone Blitzing should be done, they'll have Dief and Mike competing for attention and getting it for the night, over television shool-ing and who-dun-its, and, who knows, even out-box-officing the football players and maybe bisco, too.

With no door prizes, either.

Viet Nam--It's Way Out Man!

New Yorker

A friend of ours, while walking in Greenwich Village recently, overheard the following conversation between two eminently drafting dudes who were hiding their time as messenger boys:

First Youth: My brother says when you finish basic training, that's when you got to start worrying.

Second Youth: "Why's that."

First Youth: "Because then they send you out somewhere, like Viet Nam."

Second Youth: "Hey, where is that Viet Nam anyway?"

First Youth: "What's the matter—don't you ever read the papers? It's way out there—near Hawaii."

Second Youth: "Well, that's O.K. I mean, as long as it's not in Russia."

ELECTION HINTS

Ottawa Citizen

Hints, rumors, signs and portents continue to strengthen the impression that Prime Minister Pearson plans an election in November. There is not much doubt that this timing would be good for the Liberal party, and there is no doubt that this is the normal standard by which an incumbent Prime Minister chooses the moment of dissolution. But we continue to think that a November election would not be good for the country, and to hope that the Prime Minister may even now decide to put the country first and the party second.

Joey Lays It On the Nail

Fredericton Gleaner

Up in Labrador there was a housing shortage. A delegation of workers complained to Premier Smallwood that a mining company there refused to supply trailer space and placed "prohibitive prices" on building lots.

That sort of thing is anathema to Smallwood. He picked up the phone and called the company president who flew at once to St. John's with seven of his top executives. The time of day, of course, means nothing to the premier when his people are concerned. At a midnight meeting in his own home, an agreement was reached. The result: the company will drop the price of its building lots, will permit trailers in the town, and will service the trailer lots.

Now all is well.

The secret of Smallwood's success should be a secret no longer. He acts.

Sept. 18, 1965 . . .

George V of England signed the Irish Home Rule Act 51 years ago today—in 1914 — but-its implementation was suspended during the hostilities of the First World War. By the time of the Armistice, the Easter Rising of 1916 had helped to harden opinion on both sides and an orderly progression to dominion status for Ireland was impossible. There followed the repudiation of the British proposals and civil war, first between Irish and English and then between Irish moderates and Irish extremists.

Limiting Blood Seepage Only Way to 'Cure' Bruises

By JOSEPH G. MOLNER, M.D.

Dear Dr. Molner: How should you treat a black eye or a black and blue mark? I've read everything you write but don't recall anything about this. — Mrs. K. T.

I guess I haven't discussed it. Maybe nobody asked me.

As you correctly imply, a black eye is a black and blue spot, limited to a special area.

The body is full of blood vessels, ranging in size from large to microscopic. When you get whacked (or when your youngsters do) some of the small vessels close to the surface can be broken, even though the skin isn't.

The blood that escapes forms a sort of puddle; as it stays there and loses its oxygen it turns blue. That's a black and blue mark. Gradually the body removes it, molecule by molecule, and eventually the mark disappears.

Since the leakage or seepage of blood creates the black and blue mark, the best way to keep it small is to limit the bleeding.

What do you do if you nick your finger? Why, you wrap your handkerchief around it and hold it tight for a minute or two, until the blood clots. You can do the same with minor bleeding below the skin surface: Apply pressure for a short time.

Cold compresses (ice packs, or cold towels) against the area are the first line of defense. The problem is that when you get a punch in the eye, you don't always have an ice pack handy. But if a child gets a wheel in the eye, or elsewhere, and comes to the door crying, a wet, cold compress (wet towel or ice cube wrapped in a cloth) applied to the bruised spot will slow down the bleeding and be soothing.

Ten minutes later, the bleeding has stopped anyway, so for all ordinary purposes, this sort of first aid has to be applied at once or it doesn't do any good.

Second, speaking medically, certain enzymes can be taken by mouth, and they speed up the absorption of the blood that has leaked into the bruised area. This is a matter for a doctor, to handle. It should be done (preferably only) when the area is very large.

There isn't much else you can do to get rid of a black eye except to wait for Nature to absorb the blood.

There's the old idea about pressing raw beefsteak against the eye. This procedure is not much good, as a rule. Besides, raw beefsteak is too expensive these days to be used for that. If you get a punch in the eye and just happened to have some steak handy, and pressed it instantly against the bruised area the pressure itself would limit the bleeding. But your wadded-up handkerchief would do as well.

I've been asked about leeches ("Bloodsuckers") for this purpose. The idea, after many generations, is now dying out. I'm glad of it.

A leech, in its own slow time, will draw off blood. But it doubtless draws off more fresh blood than "bruised," and does not speed up the healing.

In short, pressure or a cold doces the bleeding and hence the size of the black eye.

Dear Dr. Molner: My friends say instant coffee is harmful due to sediment taken into the system via the kidneys, etc. I think otherwise. What is your opinion? — F. R. T.

Instant coffee is essentially no different from other coffee, except that the bean is finely ground.

To D. H. P.: Neither diet nor calcium in your food has anything to do with bursitis, which is an inflammatory problem.

Bare Breasts In Calgary

Vancouver Sun

What a pleasure it is to sit back and see Calgary — not Vancouver — make a fool of itself over the bare breasts in the African Ballet.

We were indeed growing up and our officials with us.

There is no corruption of the Dark Ones, tough ones and all men of the foothills, though.

The Calgary chief of police says he will lay charges of holding an indecent exhibition if the female African dancers appear without tops.

Perhaps we, in Vancouver, are not that far removed from such missionary zeal to poke fun.

But it seems this time around — barring a last minute attack of civic willies — the jungle maidens when they appear here will be allowed to do so by some clerk's interpretation of what's moral and what isn't. They will dance in the skin God gave them — the brazen hussies — with thrift of Mother Hubbards or pasties or any other shameful officialdom can dream up, and nobody will strike us blind by intermission.

Soon — who knows! — we will even read Calgary's Geographic without blushing.

Women's Vote Came in 1918

Saint John Telegraph Journal

Today it seems almost as if women voters have always been an important part of the Canadian political picture. But it was only a generation and a half ago that they first won the right to cast a ballot.

That was in 1918, following the passage of the women's suffrage movement in Great Britain. The enabling act in Canada followed in 1920, the same year as the United States passed its 19th amendment to the constitution bringing about the same reform.

It all seems a long time ago now, but many women inclined to treat their voting privilege lightly might like to be reminded that their sisters in other countries haven't been so lucky. For instance, women couldn't vote until 1944 in France, and in Mexico they waited until 1953. In some Moslem lands they can't even now. By contrast, New Zealand took this enlightened step as far back as 1893.

LOOKING BACKWARDS

GLEANINGS FROM OUR FILES OF BYGONE YEARS

20 YEARS AGO

September 18th, 1945

A long list of Canadian experts bearing testimony to the importance of research in the Dominion and how closely science in Canada is associated with scientific discoveries and inventions.

On Monday in Montreal the Hon. C. D. Howe told that the joint laboratory of United Kingdom and Canadian staff, established late in 1940 on the site of the National Research Council has grown to a staff of over 360 — by far the greatest organization in their country to concentrate on a single research undertaking. One of the results is a pilot plant for the production of atomic materials by Defence Industries Limited, and now under construction near Chalk River as part of the United Kingdom — United States — Canada program agreed by the three partner governments. The Montreal laboratory has been associated with the development in the atomic field in the United States and in a supervisory capacity in the work of the late Lord Rutherford at McGill University back in 1899.

30 YEARS AGO

September 18th, 1935

Mr. Charles Hamilton, Charles Street, member of the C. N. R. office staff, was cast in the lead in the comedy after noon last near Northport when he had a strike and commenced reeling it in sideways. The fish which was well hooked, was pulling a good fight and effected the seriosity of another fish which resulted in it being caught on a second hook on the spring. Both were bass and both succeeded in landing both.

The swimming season at the pool on Victoria Park is now closed and the Parks Board officials are busy drawing off the water which opened July 5, a total of 11,786 children and adults have enjoyed the facilities for swimming furnished at the park.

At a recent meeting of the members of the Victoria Avenue Baptist Church choir, a pleasing part of the meeting was the presentation of a traveling bag of excellent quality to Miss E. Forman as a slight token of appreciation of the faithful and highly valued services rendered by her as choir leader during the summer months. Much regret that she desires to be relieved of the choir duties.

40 YEARS AGO

September 18th, 1925

Miss Leslie, nurse, of Napanee, Ont., is visiting her aunt, Mrs. Dunning, in Canniffon.

Mrs. R. Orre and daughter, Miss Mary Orre, are spending a few days in Portland.

Mrs. Harry Gorham is visiting friends here.

Mrs. Jack Fred Thomas and children, College Street, have returned home after spending the summer at Crystal Beach.

Miss Anna M. Hurley, Queen Street, has returned home after a few days' visit to Kingston.

Miss M. E. Griffin has returned home from a visit to Toronto.

50 YEARS AGO

September 18th, 1915

A regular meeting of the Board of Education was held last evening and the following members were present: Dr. Ponton, chairman; Fred Deacon, A. E. Bailey, S. T. Harris, T. M. Dafoe, W. H. Mallory, Arthur McGie, S. S. Moore, C. Pascoe, W. C. Reid, F. C. Sharpe, R. F. Brewitt, P. J. Wims, Geo. T. Woodley, and John Elliott, Principal Macaulay reported that there are 1305 pupils enrolled in the city public schools, and an average of 1216 attending. Queen Alexandra 336; Queen Mary 307; Grier Street 184. Board made a grant of $25 to the High School Athletic Association.

China Benefits

Montreal Gazette

Communist China must take immense satisfaction that all round its territory, there are struggles going on which are weakening its neighbors, from Pakistan in the west to Indonesia in the east. Apart from increasing their common danger, and uniting to form a ring around expansionist China, these neighbors are busy fighting among themselves and weakening themselves.

A Lift for Living

How Man Spends His Money Tells One All About Him

By REV. HAROLD E. KOHN

When Philip Guedella was working on his biography of the Duke of Wellington, he researched led him to a packet of receipted bills which the Duke had kept. Mr. Guedella discovered that the bills provided a valuable source of information about the habits and character of the British war hero. The biographer later wrote: "Find out how a man spends his money, and you will find what kind of a man he is."

To many people the private use of money is too delicate a theme for discussion. Their spiritual sensibilities recoil at the mention of so sordid a subject as money, how it is made and how it is spent. But because the use of money is so closely related to man's spiritual life, Jesus talked a great deal about it.

A third of His parables and nearly a sixth of all the verses in the Gospels deal with the right use of money and the material possessions that money can buy. He warned against laying up treasures where moth and rust consume and where thieves break through and steal." Jesus cautioned His followers against being misled into thinking money could bring happiness and spoke out against "the care of the world and the deceitfulness of riches." Money, wrongfully gained and used, can be man's most treacherous enemy.

Yet the Master saw that money could be man's good friend, too. As dangerous as money can be if it is a goal to be sought, it serves men well as a means to noble ends. Money is a terrible tyrant when put on a throne, but it is a helpful servant when put to work there. If a person used money well, as an entrustment from God, Jesus joyfully congratulated him: "Well done, good and faithful servant!"

But when he beheld the rich putting token money into the offering chests at the temple, and saw a poor widow contributing all that she had, two mites, Jesus used the incident as an unforgettable lesson on how people gave of their surplus to God, the widow showed the meaning of devotion by giving her all—love for God and man is gloriously spendthrift!——.

So, again and again Jesus spoke about money, especially about owning and using it. The Master never objected to people owning money. But He did oppose money owning people. He rejoiced to see a man master money, and He was saddened when observing money using a man.

What is it about money that is so significant?

MONEY IS DRAMATIC

Money can play comedy parts or tragedy. It can be Christlike or Satanic. It can feed the starving, or buy alcohol instead of groceries and keep a poor man's home on the thin edge of starvation. Money glorifies or degrades, spreads joy or heartache. It plays whatever parts we assign to it in life's drama. The character of money depends upon the characters of those who use it.

Your use of money is one way you make your mind visible to others. They see what you are, what you greatly care about, what your true goals are, through the uses you make of money. You show the causes you believe in most by the way you invest money. If a person says he loves his family, but squanders his income without providing for their needs, we doubt his sincerity. So, if a person expresses good will for worthy causes, outdistancing wishes them well, but seldom opens his pocketbook or writes a cheque when the causes need support, his earnestness is rightfully questioned.

It is said, "Money talks." Of course it does. It is a tattletale, revealing our hidden standards of value and disclosing our secret concerns.

Money is also a portable expression of your compassion. It can go where you cannot go, lift burdens you cannot touch, speak words of comfort, encouragement, cheer and hope that your lips cannot utter in places you will never see.

LIVES AFTER US

Money is a continuing expression of an individual after the person himself is gone from the world. Money has durability the flesh does not possess. Long after we have gone, the causes we have supported continue to prosper because of the help we gave them. Money that we have left behind, wisely invested, will be working forever aiding the causes we believed in.

Earned money represents hours spent in some task, hours that are gone forever beyond reclaim. Money represents energies exhausted, breaths taken, heartbeats that have drifted into history and beyond recovery.

When we spend money we spend life in condensed form. Before our own life or someone else's. A farmer who worked desperately hard to keep his little family together and to supply them with mere necessities answered his son's request for money to go to the county fair. He reached into an old coffee can on the pantry shelf, brought out a silver dollar and gave it to the boy.

Then the father said, "Son, by using money, and He was saddened when observing money using a man.

Because money is always an expression of life, we should always handle it reverently, accepting and spending it with gratitude.

MR. AND MRS. GORDON RALPH ROWE

Rowe – McKeown

Marilyn Ann McKeown, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Melville McKeown of R. R. 3, Campbellford, and Gordon Ralph Rowe, son of Mr. and Mrs. Delbert Rowe of R. R. 1, Holloway, were united in marriage by Dr. D. M. Smith in Campbellford United Church on September 11, 1965, at 3.00 p.m.

Dwight Simpson organist played the wedding music and accompanied the soloist, Mrs. Earl Toft of Belleville.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a floor length gown of white peau de reine with A - line styling. Her chapel length train of tulle fell from a bow at the shoulders, and her elbow length veil of silk illusion was held with a circlet of small flowers studded with pearls. She carried a Bible crested with red Sweetheart roses, feathered carnations and trailing English ivy.

The bride's attendants were Miss Carleen Simpson of Kingston, maid of honor, Miss Elaine Storey of Belleville and Miss Donna Sysyra of Campbellford, bridesmaids, and Miss Bonnie Rowe of Holloway, junior bridesmaid. All wore floor length sleeveless dresses of gold peau de sole with A - line skirts, Empire waistlines and back panels. The headdresses were gold wedding ring hair bands and their bouquets were semi-cascades of bronze and yellow 'mums.

Garry Rowe of Campbellford was groomsman and Gerald McKeown of Marmora, Roscoe Morgan of West Huntingdon and Lorne McKeown of Campbellford ushered the guests.

The reception was held in the auditorium of Campbellford United Church. To receive the guests the bride's mother chose a gold peau de sole dress with lace applique on the skirt and a lace bodice. She wore gold and brown accessories and a corsage of bronze 'mums. The bridegroom's mother wore a jacket dress of gold brocade with gold accessories and a corsage of bronze and yellow 'mums.

For their wedding trip to western points, the bride chose a brown wool knit suit with brown and beige accessories and a corsage of yellow carnations.

On their return, the couple will live at 71 Stanley Street, Belleville.

WEDDING

LEE — HAGERMAN

Pink and white gladioli adorned the altar in Union United Church at Eldorado on Saturday, September 11, 1965, when Myrna W. Hagerman, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Hagerman, Eldorado, became the bride of Douglas Joseph David Lee, son of Mr. and Mrs. George T. Lee of Madoc. Rev. David Potter of Madoc officiated at the ceremony.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a full-length bridal gown of French faille with the bodice featuring a scoop neckline appliqued with Guipure lace, long lily-point sleeves and enhanced at the back of the waistline with two fabric roses. A four-tier veil of silk illusion flowed from a headpiece of silk organza petals and orange blossoms. She carried an arm bouquet of pink baby Sweetheart roses (which she presented to her grandmother Mrs. Milton Hagerman of Stirling, after the ceremony).

Miss Linda Hagerman as maid of honor and the bridesmaids the Misses Sheila and Lois Hagerman, all sisters of the bride, were identically attired in turquoise peau de soie street-length dresses enhanced with side draped skirts. Each carried a bouquet of white Shasta daisies.

A wedding reception was held in the church basement where guests were received by the bride's mother who wore a brown double knit suit, good velvet hat and a corsage of bronze baby 'mums. The bridegroom's mother assisted, wearing a royal blue textured crepe dress, white accessories and a corsage of white baby 'mums.

For the wedding trip to Lake Simcoe and other points in Southern Ontario, the bride donned a turquoise imported boucle knit suit, black velvet hat, black patent shoes and purse and a corsage of white gardenias.

QUESTION:

... would you please give your recipe for "Cream 'N' Sugar Twists"? I have mislaid my recipe and they were so delicious . . . M. S.

ANSWER:

They were given here just 3 years ago and so popular I am pleased to repeat:

CREAM 'N SUGAR TWISTS:

4 cups sifted but unsifted flour; 1 teaspoon salt, 1 cup (½ lb.) margarine, 1 package granular yeast, ¼ cup lukewarm water, 1 egg, 1 egg yolks, 1 cup sour cream, 1 teaspoon rum flavoring (or vanilla), 2 teaspoons lemon juice, ½ teaspoon grated lemon rind, 1 cup seedless raisins, ½ cup sugar (no more).

SATURDAY

Dinner Menu

by Mary Moore

Lightning Chipped Beef and Macaroni Casserole (see Friday); Sliced Zucchini; Cole Slaw with Chopped Parsley and Green Onion; Combined French and Mayonnaise Dressings; Chilled Cantaloupe Halves; Aunt Janet's Soft Gingerbread (see Friday); Coffee.

Sift the flour and salt into a large bowl. Cut in the margarine with a pastry blender or 2 knives. Soak the yeast in the lukewarm water. Beat the egg and yolks together until light. Combine with sour cream, yeast liquid, rum flavoring, lemon juice and rind and raisins. Stir into the pastry base and mix thoroughly. Let rise in refrigerator 4 hours or covered overnight. This dough has more the quality of pastry but it does rise in the refrigerator. Measure the sugar — you can use it all but should not use more. Sprinkle some of the sugar over some flour on floured bread board. Place dough on board and sprinkle some of the sugar very lightly over dough. Roll out into 12" square. Fold the dough from each side to make 3 layers. Roll out again and repeat folding, using a little more of the sugar on the floured board and on the dough to prevent sticking. Cut into strips 1" wide and 4" long. Twist each 2 or 4 times. Place them on ungreased baking sheets, 2 inches apart. No additional rising is needed. Bake at 375 deg. F. about 18 minutes, until light gold. Makes 3 dozen twists.

QUESTION::

Have you ever had pickled carrots? Mrs. Ethel Simpson's in London, England . . . hope you can help me . . . K. McV.

ANSWER:

Yes, and I can help you.

PICKLED CARROTS:

(Sometimes called "Cocktail Carrots").

1 quart small young carrots (uniform), 4 cups white vinegar, 3 tablespoons mixed pickling spices, 1 cup sugar, 2 cups sugar (or less if you want shorter tangy).

Wash carrots thoroughly and trim. Cover with boiling water and cook until "skins will slip off — no longer. Do not overcook. Boil together vinegar, sugar and spices 10 minutes. Remove spices. Pour hot syrup over skinned carrots, in porcelain bowl or enamel pan. Let stand overnight. Next morning bring to boil and boil 3 minutes. Skim out carrots into sterile jars, pour over boiling syrup to cover and seal.

NOTE:

If small carrots are not available, cut larger carrots into shoestring strips after cooking, but do not boil them in the syrup next day. Skim them from syrup, pack in jars, boil syrup and pour over.

Girl Guide Movement Gets New Look in B.C.

VANCOUVER (CP)—The Girl Guide movement in British Columbia gets a new look and a new leader this month.

Supervising the introduction of revised age classifications plus professionally - written handbooks for both guides and leaders is Mrs. J. S. Kendrick of Vancouver.

Wife of an engineer who helped shape the massive Kitimat project in northern B.C., Mrs. Kendrick is provincial commissioner for 20,000 guides.

"It's a wonderful year to begin a provincial commissioner," she says, "and I'm awfully excited."

The new age system means that girls can become brownies at seven instead of eight, guides at 10½ and rangers at 15. But the end of guiding now comes at 18 instead of 21.

Mrs. Kendrick has been active in guiding since her daughter, now 18, wanted to join the brownies and there was a shortage of leaders.

She started as a brown owl, became a division chairman, moved to the provincial executive in 1960 and has been deputy provincial commissioner for four years.

LEARN TO SERVE

"Many girls in a' daughter Christine has enrolled at the University of Victoria to study nursing and her mother feels this is typical of former guides.

"Guides tend to go into service work," she says. "It's the stress we put on them to learn to be of service to others."

Many of the girls and social workers were guides and I'd say 80 per cent of physiotherapists are former Girl Guides."

Looking forward to the movement's international meeting in Japan next year, Mrs. Kendrick says the emerging nations of the West Indies, Asia and Africa look to Canada for assistance in establishing Girl Guides "because of our leadership and service.

"We need more women, even if they have no leadership skills, for guiding. We need them to write books and histories, for typing, bookkeeping, shorthand, knitting, sewing and cooking.

"We're not tying knots any more you know. We're right up there with the most modern methods."

With electric heating the temperature you set is the temperature you get

"You set the thermostat in each room and get a nice even temperature which stays the same" says Mrs. R. D. Murray who lives in an electrically heated home near Trenton, Ontario. The Murrays are one of many families recently interviewed throughout Ontario to discover their personal opinions about electric heating. Mr. Murray has this to say:

"There are no hot or cold spots. There are no cold corners. It is an even heat right across the whole house. And I think it is a much healthier heat . . . the floors are warm and the air isn't dry. It is just right."

"If we were to build another house tomorrow, it would have electric heat in it," adds Mr. Murray, "because electric heat is so safe and so clean."

The Murrays are only one of many families who feel the same way. However, there's more to electric heating than its unmatched comfort. Electrically heated homes, insulated to Hydro standards, cost no more to heat than homes with other systems. Flameless electric heating is dependable, safe and completely clean. There is no combustion to produce dust, dirt, film or soot. No wonder so many people are turning to electric heating for the comfort, cleanliness and economy they want in a heating system.

Electric heating is one of the many features of the famous Medallion all-electric homes. For full information, consult a qualified electric heating contractor or your Hydro.

CHRIST CHURCH: 1865 - 1965
(Second of Two Parts)

"Of whom the whole family in heaven and earth is named." — Ephesians 3:15.

"Among those taking charge of services during Dr. Clarke's illness was the late Sir Gilbert Parker who preached on November 10, 1882," continues Mrs. Earl Hickey, 183 John Street, in her enlightening account of life story of Christ Church which celebrates its centennial this year.

"On July 3, 1887, The Rev. Samuel Daw came to succeed Rev. Sibbald. He found the congregation reduced in size and the finances in poor shape. Mr. Daw became very popular with members of his own church and also with the citizens of Belleville in general and soon gathered together a larger congregation. The choir was surpliced and moved down from the loft and in 1889 the organ was also moved down.

"Mr. Daw resigned in 1904 and his successor Rev. C. J. Hutton was rector until 1901 ending a period of recession and discouragement.

Into this unpromising and non-productive field came Mr. J. Heeney, 'a big, jolly Irish-Canadian' but graduated from McGill. The congregation guaranteed him $700.00 a year as only 33 families were contributing to church support at the time.

Thus another builder had arrived. He erected many churches of brick or stone, but built a congregation that was one of the most aggressive in the city.

On June 26, 1905, he received a call from St. George's Church, Newport, R.I., which he accepted.

While Mr. Heeney was in Belleville, he married Miss Eva Holland of Montreal. The Heeneys brought spiritual depth example and strong assistance families to Christ Church. Mrs. Heeney conducted the first Women's Bible Class and a succession of her teaching and influence still remain with older members. Mrs. Heeney's sincerity impressed this class. Their son, A. D. P. Heeney, was born in Belleville and lived on the corner of Victoria and John Streets. He has enjoyed an outstanding political career. He was Clerk of Privy Council and right hand man to Mackenzie King. Attache to Paris and twice Canadian Ambassador to the United States in Washington.

Marjorie, the daughter and second child of Rev. and Mrs. Heeney is married to the son of the late John R. Mott.

In October, 1905, the Rev. R. C. Blagrave accepted a call to become rector of Christ Church parish and remained for 23 years; the longest and most successful in many respects of Christ Church.

Dr. Blagrave more than doubled families on the church roll; burned the mortgage and under his inspiration and guidance the present west end of Christ Church Parish Hall was erected. The interior of the church was completely renovated and adequate lighting system installed.

A graduate of McGill, Dr. Blagrave secured his B.D. in 1907 and D.D. from the Ecclesiastical Board of Montreal in 1915 and Trinity College conferred the same degree a short time after.

While in Belleville, he was married to Eleanor, elder daughter of the late Lt. Col. W. P. Fonlon, K.C. They have two sons, Douglas, a retired RCAF officer now living in Victoria, B. C., while Pat, now the Rev. P. Blagrave, is rector of St. John's, Shediac. When the parents came to reside, upon Dr. Blagrave's completion of his ministry.

The Rev. W. G. Swayne came in June, 1918, to succeed Dr. Blagrave and so important for a ward step was taken in the purchase of a brick residence on the corner of Catherine and Everett Street as a rectory. Rev. Rural Dean Swayne at first declined the rectorship of Christ Church to accept that of Bath in April, 1923.

The Rev. Rural Dean C. E. Clarke, M.A., came to take charge of Christ Church parish on August 1, 1923. Under his capable leadership and belief that Christ Church would become a beacon to illuminate by its example a pathway of stability and Faith, his influence and guidance was far reaching. He left in 1931 to become rector of St. Michaels and All Angels, Toronto.

(Conclusion next week.)

Lines on Life

Learn to Live With Eternal Questions

By Dr. Stuart E. Rosenberg

The orthodoxy of Job's time, and perhaps the orthodoxies of our own, often lead men to believe in a self-rewarding religion — a faith in gifts repaid. But men need to understand that righteousness requires neither special prizes nor the approval of our fellow men; ultimately, it rests upon the witness of our own conscience.

Job is satisfied in the end, in spite of his suffering, because he realizes that God has not withdrawn from him, that suffering is not a punishment for unrighteousness; it is part of the mystery of life and no man is free from pain and hurt. Bitter and painful though it be, we must not flinch before this law of life; we must gird up our loins as men.

While we seek justice for ourselves, our suffering must lead us to contemplate the pain of the whole world — not only our own world, but the acute mystery of life itself. A tremendous gift comes to us when we are given life and even if we cannot fathom its deepest secrets, we need to be grateful for every breath: God is the Author of Life and in this truth lies His ultimate justification.

By what means might do we seek self-satisfactions? If there is an end to the desire of man, a boundary to his existence? If we are given ten years we want 20, 50 and we "demand" 70, that is not justice but folly, may not be justice in the eyes of Job's friends; what may be a reward to them is a curse to one individual or one nation, may contribute to the destruction of another. Who then can truly understand the complexity and the ends of life?

Is this a weak answer? Hardly. It is a tough answer, not a soft answer. The book of Job requires that man cultivate the ability to live without all the answers and still re-dedicate himself. The orthodoxies of his and of our day make the audacious claims: "We know." We know! Job teaches that high religion cannot purport to give the whole explanation of difficulties, for often God hides His face from us.

What it is more: the answers are not nearly as important, Job's author suggests, as the will to undertake to live with the problems. "Gird up thy loins like a man" — live with the paradox, transcend its confusion, its pain and its darkness, this is the lesson we need to learn.

It is, of course, much simpler for a clergyman to stand in the pulpit and pontificate: Ask me a question for I have got the answer. It is much more difficult to enter a house of mourning and offer "pie in the sky" to those who have lost their loved ones.

But, in truth, a mature belief does not expect God to give a universal answer, nor does it be ready to live with the eternal, unanswered questions: Where were you when the world was created? Have you taught Nature its mysteries? Do you know the deepest secrets of life?

When man attempts to play God he does the opposite: his clerical robes and speaks pontifically. He ends up speaking like God but acting like a fool. The Book of Job is a mature response to life for it gives an answer that is really a question.

This, in fact, is the ultimate wisdom, — the recognition that the questions and the way we live with them, is spiritually significant than the easy belief that we have found all the answers.

Going Places

Principality of Liechtenstein
A Tourist's Dream Come True

By SHIRLEY and BOB SLOANE

VADUZ, Liechtenstein — In 1806, the then head of the House of Liechtenstein, one of the petty princes who hung together in the complex Australs-German-Bavarian Empire, decided he would like to be his own position as the totem pole of electors.

He owned extensive lands in what are now Hungary and Liechtenstein, but he couldn't increase his prestige within the empire than under the control of the emperor. So he shared the heck with it, and bought a new country. And it's still in the family.

The Principality of Liechtenstein doesn't make much of a dent on the map of Europe; if you just have one of these world atlases on your wall, forget it. A mere 17-miles long and five miles wide — smaller than the original lands in Hungary and Czechoslovakia, which fell to the Communist governments a few years ago — it is the fulfilment of the American tourist's nightmarish dream. He can see all of it in one day, most of it in half a day, and there are scant country-colder, ers who had not yet gone for lunch.

Liechtenstein is tucked into a corner of northeast Switzerland, (with whom it has no border formalities), on the border of Austria (with whom it does).

It has 18,000 people (one-third of them foreigners) and three times as many tourists each year. About 4,000 live in the capital of Vaduz which, compared with the rest of the country's villages, is a veritable metropolis.

It has no army, no palace guard, only 32 policemen, and not a single traffic signal. Unlike Monaco and San Marino, Europe's other best-known principalities, light industry rather than tourism support most of the populace.

Coincidentally, Monaco and San Marino are two of the only three foreign governments in the Sunday School hall with Gen. H. Elvidge presiding.

Reports were given by the various secretaries and several notes of appreciation were read. Mrs. C. Hiuser gave a report on the Leadership Training School held in Albert College during July. Following the business period one minute's silence was observed in memory of five members who have passed away during recent weeks.

Mrs. Elvidge, assisted by Miss M. Mackintosh and Mrs. G. E. Miller, conducted a worship service taken from "The Glad Tidings".

Refreshments served by the group in charge brought the meeting to a close.

CANNIFTON-CORBYVILLE W.I.

The first fall meeting of Canniffton-Corbyville Women's Institute was held on Wednesday evening.

Standing committee reports were read by Mrs. Reid, Mrs. Bass, Mrs. Hall and Mrs. Milton. Mrs. Latchford gave a reading.

Main topic for the meeting was public relations. Mrs. Perry MacMullen of Stirling, gave public relations officer, explained publicity work for the Institute. She discussed "Northern Lights Bulletin," a magazine distributed to far north Institutes.

Mrs. Bowers gave a reading to close the meeting. Refreshments were served.

U.C.W. Meetings

EASTMINSTER U.C.W.

The members of Eastminster United Church Women held their opening meeting of the fall season last Monday, September 13th in the church auditorium.

The president, Mrs. A. Glover, was in the chair and called the meeting to order, by reading the devotional which she had little to do with making a cake, but all the ingredients in that cake are the successful running of a women's organization.

The minutes were read by the secretary, Mrs. I. McClure, following this the treasurer, Mrs. S. Armstrong gave her report. She noted at this time that the annual chicken barbecue held on the church lawn last June, netted a profit of $804.35.

An interesting business meeting followed. It was reported Mrs. J. R. Williams a U.C.W. representative to attend the Covenant College, Toronto, last June has been asked to be housemother for grade 11 girls at the Ontario Ladies' College, Whitby.

TO VISIT MANOR

During the week of October 3rd, ladies of Eastminster United Church will visit at Hastings Manor.

Three leaders for the C.G.I.T. group volunteered: Mrs. George Mayhew, Mrs. N. Meldrum and Mrs. Alex McDowell. Leaders for the Explorers group also volunteered: Mrs. E. Burnham and Mrs. F. Simpson.

It was agreed a coffee party and bake sale would be held this fall. All members were asked to attend the Study Group. These ladies meet every Tuesday afternoon in the church, and spend a pleasant few hours, sewing and knitting.

Four members, Mrs. R. Elliot, Mrs. E. Burnham, Mrs. J. Luscombe and Mrs. George Mayhew are planning to attend a course of instruction over the two of the new curriculum, being offered at Five Oaks, later in September.

NEW TERM

Eastminster United Church Women have decided to commence a new year this September, having terms of office to run through to next June. In this way, they hope to overcome the upheaval, which arises in January when leaders vacate their positions.

In accordance with this decision, nominations were held, and a slate of officers accepted. This new executive was installed by Rev. McIvedy.

The worship service for the evening was conducted by Mrs. E. Smith and Mrs. J. Kuntze, with Mrs. R. Graham at the piano. The theme was centred around the 23rd Psalm. An enjoyable sing-song of old Gospel hymns was led by Mrs. Graham.

The evening closed with a friendly social half hour.

LIGHTING THE WAY

By Walter S. Cross

WHY DO WE GET LOST?

The compass — from the time of its invention, has proved an invaluable asset to travelers on land and sea. Its needle, always pointing to the north, makes it relatively easy to find one's direction, and to stay on course. However, if we were to hold a magnet in our hand, moving it around the compass, we could make the needle point in any direction we desired. Travelers, relying on their compass, have been lost in highly magnetic areas of the earth's surface, because their compass was deflected.

Life is fraught with dangers. Keeping one's sense of direction is not always easy. The Holy Scriptures are given to us so that we may find our way to a glorious destiny. The Bible may be likened to a compass. The needle of its truth will lead us to God.

However, we must be careful about this needle. It can also be deflected. If we hold the magnet of self-will, moving it around the Bible-compass, we can change the truth to mean anything we want to believe. That's how we get lost.

70,000 Start Work Monday Enumerating Canada's Voters

OTTAWA (CP)—For six days starting Monday, 70,000 men and women will conduct a head count of the 10,700,000 persons eligible to vote in the Nov. 8 federal election.

The enumerators have until Saturday, Sept. 25, to complete the job, aimed at ensuring all qualified electors are on the lists of voters. With such a short period of time to work, mistakes and omissions are inevitable so the Canada Elections Act contains provisions to correct most of these.

Under the present system, introduced in 1938, two-member teams of enumerators canvass between 250 and 300 names in urban polling divisions.

The enumerators are chosen by the sitting member of Parliament and the runner-up candidate in the last election from among eligible voters in the constituency.

For election purposes, urban areas are generally cities and towns with populations of 5,000 or more.

A house-to-house canvass is required in urban areas. Enumerators are prohibited from using the telephone, but the law permits them to obtain information from janitors or neighbors. A card with the enumerator's telephone number is left at dwellings where nobody was at home and the information could not be obtained nearby.

In rural areas a house-to-house check is not required and collection of names by telephone is permitted.

TROUBLE FOR STUDENTS

Before your name goes on the voters' list the enumerator is supposed to make sure you will be 21 or over on polling day, Monday, Nov. 8, were living in the riding when the election writ was issued (Sept. 8 in this case) and are a Canadian, or a British subject with at least one year's residence in Canada.

The place-of-dwelling provision is causing problems in this election because on Sept. 8 many students were not living where they will be on Nov. 8. For example, a student might have been at home in one province when the election was announced but may be thousands of miles away at university on voting day.

A student who is otherwise qualified to vote is permitted to have his name on the voters' list at home or, if he is "duly registered and in attendance at a recognized educational institution" when the writ is issued, at the polling division at his school. But of course he cannot be on both lists and assuming he was living at home Sept. 8 he will lose his vote unless he can get back there on polling day.

Some enumeration problems arise in areas with a high concentration of ethnic groups because of the difficulty of determining whether the residents are Canadian citizens or British subjects. In large cities there are problems when persons change residence—and riding—after the writ is issued. They are eligible to vote only in the riding where their former home is located.

SOME WON'T VOTE

Some persons or groups—Sons of Freedom Doukhobors, Jehovah's Witnesses and certain Indian bands—refuse to be enumerated or to vote.

In the 1963 election two enumerators were convicted in Quebec-Montmorency riding of padding voters' lists. About 30 names of deceased or non-existent persons on the lists in this riding were reported to Chief Electoral Officer Nelson Castonguay who ordered an RCMP investigation.

Incidents in Montreal Cartier and Montreal Papineau also were investigated but there was insufficient evidence to lay charges.

If a pair of enumerators disagree about the eligibility of any person, they postpone their decision and ask the returning officer in the riding to make the decision.

Even if left off the voters' lists prepared by the enumerators, you may still have a chance to vote.

Urban residents may appear in person at the revising office—the court Oct. 21 to 23. Or, if this is inconvenient and they so notify the returning officer, revising agents will call on them between Oct. 15 and 23 to help them draft formal applications to have their names added.

LISTS POSTED

To find out whether you are on the list you should look for the hydro or telephone pole in your neighborhood where the typed lists will be posted by Sept. 27 or 28.

In urban areas only printed lists also are sent to each elector, and the deadline for mailing these is Oct. 16. Since the lists are sent only to persons on the lists, a check with neighbors is the best method for making sure.

The mailed lists contain information about whom to call if a name has been omitted, locations of polling stations for the advance poll and the Nov. 8 voting, and the name and address of the returning officer.

The returning officer's name and address can be obtained by looking for the election proclamation hanging in all post offices, or in the committee rooms of political parties.

The returning officer can supply details about the election mechanics if you cannot find out from a neighbor or printed material.

MAY SIGN OATH

In rural areas lists are tacked to hydro or telephone poles but printed lists are not mailed. This is because a qualified voter omitted from a rural list may still vote if he signs an oath at the polling station on Nov. 8 and has another elector take an oath vouching for him.

In rural areas, the enumerator holds his own revision and hears applications from unlisted persons on Oct. 21.

On Oct. 21 and 22, any elector is entitled to take the rarely-used step of objecting to the presence on the voters' list of another person's name.

The complainant must complete an affidavit spelling out the grounds for objecting. The person he is complaining about receives a copy. On Oct. 23 the revising officer deals with the matter if the complainant can produce preliminary evidence acceptable in court.

In urban areas, each enumerator receives a basic fee of $32 plus 10 cents for each name collected. In rural area, where there is only one enumerator for each polling division, the fee is $32 plus 11 cents a name.

The Canada Pension Plan and its benefits

Here is what the Canada Pension Plan will do for people like Joe Costello, a 52-year-old unmarried labourer who earns $50 a week.

If Joe continues to work full time until age 65 he can look forward to retiring with a monthly pension of $54.16 from the Canada Pension Plan and $75 from Old Age Security—a total of $129.16. That's almost 60% of what he was earning.

If he is ill or out of work for as long as two years, or if his earnings for a period of up to two years are below his regular wage, he will receive the same pension at age 65. This is because under the Plan a certain number of months of low or no earnings do not affect the amount of the pension.

If Joe wishes to continue working between 65 and 70 and earns higher wages than previously he can improve his pension. For example, if he works until age 69 and earns $3,600 a year, his pension will be $61.74 a month instead of $54.16.

If Joe becomes disabled after 1970, having contributed for at least 5 years, he will get a disability pension of $65.62 a month until he gets both his retirement and Old Age Security pensions at age 65.

All benefits under the Plan will maintain their value. The actual benefits payable will probably be higher than those given here since benefits will be adjusted to meet changes in living costs and in wage levels before they are paid and changes in living costs after they become payable.

What will the Plan cost you?

If you, like Joe Costello, are employed and have earnings of $2,600 spread evenly over the year, you will pay at the rate of 69¢ a week. Your employer will pay the same amount.

This advertisement is one of a series which relates some of the important benefits of the Canada Pension Plan to individual circumstances.

Issued by authority of the Minister of National Health and Welfare, Canada, The Honourable Judy LaMarsh.

Freighter Listed Repeatedly During Voyage to Montreal

MONTREAL (CP)—Fires still burned in the stricken freighter Fort William today as, on shore, the surviving members of her crew told of how she listed repeatedly during her voyage to Montreal.

Firemen at Pier 55, where the 3,000-ton vessel lies grounded on her starboard side, said the flames may have consumed the bodies of five crew-members who were presumed to have died in a Tuesday explosion.

The blast, followed by fire, hit the all - but - new vessel shortly after she arrived in Montreal from Hamilton, Ont., with a general cargo.

The surviving crew-members said Friday that a listing to starboard and port plagued the Fort William throughout the trip. They said the freighter had begun to capsize when the explosion occurred.

The statements were made in an interview by Peter Rank, 44, Toronto the Fort William's second engineer; William Brown, 29, Brockville, Ont., third engineer; Camille Poulin, 27, Quebec City, fourth engineer; Tony Keroauc, 43, Lorettieville, Que., chief cook; John Horton, 22, Owen Sound, Ont., able-bodied seaman, and James Strickland, Burnt Island, Nfld., ordinary seaman.

WAS NEW SHIP

The briefed trip for the Fort William, Canada Steamship Lines package freighter in service only since last March, began at the Lakehead Sept. 7. She loaded cargo there and at four other Ontario ports before arriving at Hamilton.

"She had a real starboard list when she sailed away from the dock" at Hamilton, said Hoxton. This list later was corrected but became a leaning to port, he added.

Pelletier told of events at the Iroquois lock in the St. Lawrence Seaway as follows:

"The third mate ordered me to pump water into the starboard tanks to correct the list to port. But the ship heeled over to starboard too fast. The captain called down for the engineer to shut down the pumps and to fill the ballast tanks by gravity (through sea cocks in the ship's bottom).

"The ship was steady for about half an hour and then she went over to starboard again. About five degrees I figure.

"The captain called down again to tell the chief to restart the pumps and to completely fill the ballast tanks on both sides in order to get the ship as low down in the water as possible for better stability.

"We did so and the ship was steady again for a while but when we went into the lock about 10 o'clock, the list developed again."

WARNED OF LIST

Strickland added:

"I was at deck. I heard the lockmaster tell the Old Man (the captain) about our list. The lockmaster said we'd be ordered to go to the anchorage below the lock if the list wasn't corrected at once.

"They seemed to get her straightened out again but before he had no trouble getting through the Eisenhower and Mall locks.

"At about 3 a.m. Tuesday, the Fort William cleared the St. Lambert lock, the last before before Montreal, and headed for pier 53.

The ship again heeled over to starboard during the crossing of a swift current in the St. Lawrence River at Montreal, but she quickly righted herself, said Brown.

Once docked, the cargo doors were opened but, said Brown, the ship was "very, very tender."

First she took a starboard list, then a port list as pumping was started to get her righted.

Finally "she got herself righted again and I was able to get both (starboard and port) pumps going at once," Brown related.

Rank said he told the mate it would be "very dangerous" to lighten the vessel "to raise her cargo doors high enough for a ramp from the dock."

SUGGESTED REMEDY

Rank continued:

"I said the ballast tanks should be left alone or that water should be pumped back into them rather than out of them."

He quoted the mate as shrugging his shoulders and saying: "well, Pete, orders are orders."

Brown, said Rank, looked "a little scared" and said, "Pete, I think I'm going to sleep with my life jacket on."

"It was scared too," Rank recalled.

Horton, going on watch at 4 a.m., said the ship was upright when he got on deck.

"I called to the engine room to re-start the starboard pump. Within minutes the ship went over to starboard.

"The second mate came down on to the deck but by then I'd phoned the engineers to shut off the port pump."

Then the mate shouted that water was starting to come in through the cargo doors, said Horton. The mate shouted orders to keep the port pump going, said Rank. "We're sinking." Rank quoted the mate as exclaiming.

The second mate ordered the starboard doors closed and, said Horton, "by now I was certain we'd lose the deck cargo.

"I ran down two sets of stairs to the deck crew's quarters."

Jean Claude Menard was there—asleep in his bunk by the sound. Followed Horton out of the room.

Then Strickland, another occupant of the room, got up, and dressed swiftly.

Said Strickland:

"The ship was listing terribly as I ran out into the hallway and I fell against the bulkhead."

Horton said:

"We climbed over the rail onto the gunwale bar (on the extreme outer edge of the deck). We looked back. Most of the deck cargo went over the side, . . . I shouted, 'let's get off this ship.' I figured she was gone.

"Menard was just a couple of feet ahead of me. I was looking at his back one second—and the next, he wasn't there at all. He just disappeared."

Menard is among the men now presumed dead.

COAT TORN OFF

"I'm not even sure I heard the explosion," said Horton. "It tore off a waist-length rubber jacket I was wearing and one leg of my pants.

"I went in to the water and swam away from the ship as quickly as I could. There was another ship astern and some men threw me a line."

Strickland said he was just coming on deck "when she blew."

"I landed under a lifeboat with my ankles in water. . . . A whole bunch of us made our way to the wheelhouse. Its port side was almost level with the deck. We got off that way."

Said Kerouac:

"My television set crashed against a bulkhead when the ship went over. That's what woke me in time to get out. Four of the men who died were in rooms next to mine."

Former Duplessis Govt. Cabinet Minister Named By Owner as 'Go-between'

QUEBEC (CP)—The former owner of a heavy machinery firm testified Friday that he paid unearned commissions between 1955 and 1960 to persons named by Joseph-Damase Begin, 65, then a Quebec cabinet minister.

Percy Levie, 62, owner of Citadel Equipment between 1955 and 1960, said that Mr. Begin, minister of colonization in the Duplessis government, had told him to his office and asked him to issue cheques to certain third persons drawn on part of the profits he made through sales of equipment to the government.

He made 15-per-cent profit on sales to the government, and five per cent of this percentage went in cheques to other persons," Mr. Levie said.

The names of the recipients and the amounts of the cheques were supplied by Mr. Begin.

Mr. Begin, who was defeated in politics in 1963 after 22 years in the Quebec legislature, is on trial on three charges of defrauding the government by arranging kickbacks for others. The three charges involve a total of $950,

WAS UN ORGANIZER

The former Union Nationale cabinet minister and chief organizer has already stood trial on a three-a charges, involving nine counts, of defrauding the government of $95,295. Judgment on these is pending.

Mr. Levie testified, however, that he made no sales to the government through Mr. Begin. His dealings had been with Antonio Barrette, then Quebec labor minister and now Canadian ambassador to Greece, and Gerald Martineau, Union Nationale party treasurer.

Under cross-examination by defence lawyer Rene Letarte, Mr. Levie said the cheques he issued were not linked to any individual sale to the government, but were taken from profits made on sales to all government departments.

Mr. Begin testified that he saw Mr. Levie on one occasion, said that the company owner had come to see him and had offered himself as a "politicotrophit" capable of contributing $3,000 a year to the underprivileged.

ACCEPTS OFFER

Several months after Mr. Levie came to see him, the cabinet minister accepted his offer.

"But there was no agreement on government sales or purchases between us," Mr. Begin said. "Mr. Levie's cheques were given without condition, or I would not have accepted them.

"It was not a question of machinery between Mr. Levie and me, but a question of good works."

Defence lawyer Letarte produced as an exhibit a letter dated 1948 to Mr. Martineau from Mr. Barrette, asking that Mr. Levie be put "on the government patronage list."

The document was accepted as an exhibit over the objections of the Crown.

Both Crown and defence now are to submit written arguments by Nov. 15.

Bank Debits Show Decrease In August

MONTREAL (CP) — Debits to Canadian bank accounts in August totalled $29,281,000,000, a decrease from July but a substantial increase over August of 1964, says the Canadian Bankers' Association.

The figure for July was $40,202,400,000 and in August of last year was $31,382,700,000.

VILLAGERS SLAIN

WASHINGTON (AP) — Assistance Defence Secretary John T. McNaughton testified Friday that more than 2,300 village officials and nearly 18,000 civilians have been slain, kidnapped or wounded by the Viet Cong guerrilla in South Viet Nam since early 1964.

Tomato Pickers Urgently Needed to Gather Crops

Wanted — some bright warm weather and a few more tomato pickers!

That's the wish of numbers of Prince Edward county farmers as the annual tomato harvest gets underway.

Already late because of late planting and a cool summer, tomatoes are slow in ripening due to rainy weather and lack of earth warming sun and with a big percentage of the crop still on the vines farmers are starting to fear about the possibility of early frosts.

The dull damp weather and a shortage of tomato pickers is slowing deliveries of tomatoes to the canning factory with result that the J. Sprague and Son plant at Mountain View is still operating only part time.

SOME GROUND ROT

Friday, for instance, by mid-afternoon only five or six loads of tomatoes had been delivered to the canning plant which normally at this time of year can expect long lines of wagons waiting to unload.

The dull damp weather is more than just slowing the ripening of tomatoes. It is also resulting in considerable ground rot of tomatoes with one district farmer estimating that at least one third of his crop has developed rot and will be left on the field.

Despite the fact that from 13 to 18 cents per bushel is paid, farmers have considerable difficulty in obtaining pickers to harvest their tomato crop. With reasonably good tomatoes a picker can pick up to 100 bushels a day — but still there are few takers.

This year's tomato crop is said to be about average, with a yield of around 100 bushels per acre expected, although some farmers are reporting slightly more.

Tomatoes being delivered to that factory are reported to be of good quality.

What many urbanites possibly fail to realize is that tomatoes ripen with ground heat rather than from the direct rays of the sun.

This year dull damp weather has resulted in lower ground tempersatures with result that there is insufficient ground heat to cause natural ripening, and the vines are still heavy with green tomatoes.

Peeling tomatoes is a busy job at the canning factory. Scene at Mountain View plant is typical of tomato canning plants in the Quinte district. Peelers are paid by the pail.

Filling tomato cans is a mechanized process as is shown above. Filled cans then go through capper and are then cooked for about an hour before going to the warehouse.

BBG Poses Tough Question To Operators of Stations That Oppose Applications

OTTAWA (CP)—It was the by the death sentence for the usual kind of presentation before the Board of Broadcast Governors, an applicant seeking a licence for a new radio station is faced by opposed by an existing operator.

The existing licence used a common argument. The economic resources of the area would not support another station.

Then Dr. Andrew Stewart, board chairman, stepped in.

Did E. A. Rawlinson, operator of a station at Prince Albert, Sask., opposing a bid for a new station nearby Melfort, know of any case where granting of a new licence had prejudiced the financial position of an existing station? Had any operating station gone broke because of the granting of a new licence?

"That's a tough one, Dr. Stewart," Rawlinson said after a pause. "I can't say I know of any that have gone broke."

Would he agree, Dr. Stewart asked, that bankruptcies in the broadcasting field were "abnormally low?" Mr. Rawlinson said he would.

Had the great number of new broadcasting licences granted in the past year — up to June 1965 resulted in-any deterioration in the broadcasting service to the public?

Mr. Rawlinson said he thought there had been "some confusion," with stations "jumping from one image to the other" as new outlets came on the air in an attempt to hold or increase their audience.

This exchange at a public hearing of the BBG in Ottawa this week typifies the natural difference in outlook between the private broadcaster and the board, government - appointed watchdog for the public in the broadcasting field.

The three days of hearings this week pointed up another area where private broadcasters and the board don't see eye to eye.

Broadcasters have been in a turmoil about the BBG's recommendation that concerned radio station CJOR be refused a broadcasting licence under its current management. The action came after the station stirred up a welter of criticism and lawsuits through its controversial programming.

The board's action in stating that CJOR under its present management should be put off the air after Oct. 31 was the severest it has ever taken. Private broadcasters were shocked by the death sentence for the station that went on the air in 1926.

Proposals for sale of CJOR shares and for the takeover of its 60 frequency were advanced at the hearing and the phrase "expropriation without compensation" was used several times.

'AIRWAVES ARE PUBLIC'

Board counsel W. C. Pearson suggested the airwaves are the property of the people, who should have a right to take them back in a case of misuse.

The Canadian Association of Broadcasters, grouping most of the private stations, issued a statement just before the hearing. Obviously sparked by the CJOR case, it said the BBG in recent months has "changed its procedures with respect to license renewal.

The BBG had "accepted the theory that the licences of long-established broadcasting stations are not renewable at expiry date but that (any one) station is applying for an entirely new licence."

The C.A.B. said it doubted this interpretation could be justified. It didn't represent "equitable tenure for broadcasters operating within the framework of the law and regulations who have built up a very considerable expenditure in physical assets and personnel. . . ."

Renewal of a licence "should be automatic upon good behavior of the licencee," an accepted practice in other areas, the C.A.B. said.

The Broadcasting Act allows the BBG to suspend a station's licence for up to three months when it has violated or failed to comply with a condition of licence, the statement said, "It is . . . our view that Parliament intended this to be the maximum penalty."

The board disagrees. "We never assumed that a renewal was automatic," he commented.

There has been no change in procedure by the BBG, he said. The board's position is that there never has been in broadcasting, strictly speaking, such a thing as a renewed licence.

Each licence, even the one granted to a long-operating station at the expiration of its previous one, is a new licence. It entitles the holder to operate for a certain period and carries no mention of renewal.

The C.A.B. and Dr. Stewart agree on one point of the association statement — clarifying broadcasting regulations "to spell out clearly the correct interpretation."

PETERBOROUGH — Irrepressible Eddie Shack, reported Rochester-bound, stormed across the plush Imperial Room of the Empress Hotel here last night, tousled what's left of Red Kelly's scrawl thatch, stopped this agent on the naked skull and inquired in a loud voice:

"Who's that with you, Red? Punch, the second."

Molson's (Ontario) Ltd. were the hosts to the annual "Meet the Leafs" press conference and if the Leafs can match this breweries hospitality with ability the Stanley Cup is a cinch.

This agent was crunching lobster claws and backs with Ed. Fitkin, Steve Douglas, "Red," and Doc Perdue of the Examiner when Shack made his auspicious exit.

The "Big Schnoz" was gaily garbed in a loud-colored blazer, a pair of striped shorts, golf socks and shoes. He was the first to eat and the first to leave the party.

Punch Imlach has the best training camp in four years, some 54, a lot of them Marlboro youngsters with the holdover veterans, George Gross of the Tely told me.

Red Kelly looking lean and fit told me that the upcoming season is definitely his last.

"I have no regrets in leaving politics. It was purely a family decision. Our two children, in starting school, and this season the three youngsters won't be asking Andra "Who is that man?" when I come home."

Red said that no pressure was put on him either political or hockey-wise. "It was my own decision." He has his tobacco farms down Simcoe way.

"When my hockey days are over and I still feel inclined, I go back to politics," Red said. "It was a tough experience riding two horses between parliament and pucks."

I mentioned Red's retirement from hockey this year to former Boston Bruin great, Dit Clapper, who holds the "endurance" record of 20 years.

"Red's right," mused big Dit, a tall lean picture of health. "When those guys you used to clobber start skating past you and around you with ease it's time to get out the slippers and rocking chair."

"How about the Stanley Cup this year? I asked Kelly.

Red smiled. "The door may not open, but we'll be in there knocking awful hard," the sorrel-top quipped.

Ray Miron, formerly manager of the Cornwall Colts in the halcyon McFarlands' senior "A" days and now general manager of the Tulsa, Oklahoma Leafs' farm club, was there.

"Hockey is going over big in the southern states. We had a tremendous year last year," he said, "Give my regards to Drury Denayes, Claude Tice and all my former Belleville friends.

There were no speeches and no predictions. Mr. P. J. Molson, Ontario vice-president, extended welcom and the effervescent King Clancy voiced Leaflan appreciation.

The actual highlight of the reception was the showing in brilliant color of the 1965 Stanley Cup playoffs. The scoring highlights of all the games were prescribed with unanimous enthusiasm. You could hear a pin drop as the plays reeled off.

It is a beautiful film and can be procured, without cost, by any organization, Jim Williamson, district representative, who proved a flawless chauffeur as well as personal host, can make the arrangements. Jim lives in Trenton.

Imlach and Clancy herded their puck-chasing flock out of the hotel shortly after 8:30.

"That's it," sighed "Red." "Ick-time at eight a.m. comes awful early."

Braves Clip Giants' 14 Win String

By MURRAY CHASS
Associated Press Sports Writer

San Francisco Giants were sorry to see their 14-game winning streak finish but Don Drysdale and Jimmy Ellis players were happy under their early showers.

Milwaukee Braves mapped the Giants' streak Friday night, battering the National League leaders and 22 game winner Juan Marichal 9 - 1. Besides handing the Giants their first loss since Sept. 3, the fourth-place Braves also cut San Francisco's lead to five games over Los Angeles Dodgers and Cincinnati Reds.

Drysdale and Ellis, meanwhile, joined the National League's growing circle of 20-game winners as their teams. Neither pitcher, however, was around at the finish.

Drysdale went only five innings in the Dodgers' 3-2 victory over St. Louis Cardinals while Ellis hung on for seven innings in Cincinnati's 4-2 triumph over Houston.

"Don looked awfully tired," said manager Walter Alston in explaining why he lifted Drysdale so early.

That marked the ninth straight time the 6-foot-6 lefty did right-hander has failed to finish.

Ellis has stayed around until the end only once in seven starts since Aug. 20.

RAN OUT OF GAS

"It was very humid and Ellis just ran out of gas," Reds' manager Dick Sisler explained.

Drysdale is 20-13 and Ellis is 20-9. In reaching the 20-game plateau, they joined Marichal, 22-11, Los Angeles, Sandy Koufax, 22-6 and Tony Cloninger, 20-8. There are 20 20-game winners in the American League, in the only other NL game, Pittsburgh Pirates stopped Philadelphia Phillies 4-0.

Marichal wasn't around to lose himself. The Braves battered him for five runs and seven hits in 3 1-3 innings, Hank Aaron driving in three runs with his 30th and 31st homers and Woody Woodward adding the other two with a double and a single.

While Drysdale was around, he sparked the Dodgers' offence, singling with the bases loaded for two runs in the second inning. Ron Perranoski finished for Los Angeles, holding St. Louis hitless.

Bill McCool preserved Ellis' victory, limiting Houston to two hits. Vada Pinson collected three hits for Cincinnati, singling in the eighth and scoring on Frank Robinson's double. Joh Edwards' seventh-inning sacrifice fly broke a tie for the Reds.

Don Cardwell allowed Philadelphia only six hits, only one after the second inning. At one stretch he retired 11 consecutive batters. Willie Stargell supported him with a run-scoring triple and his 27th homer.

Regular centre Dale Parsons is back off the operating table after removal of knee cartilage. Edmonton Eskimos tonight, in a game televised nationally by the CBC, British Columbia Lions play Montreal Alouettes.

Lions have had half a dozen players suffering flu and sinus trouble this week and nobody know Friday whether to count on flu-struck Pat Claridge as a starting pitcher.

For its Western swing, including a game Monday night in Saskatoon, Montreal will replay Pat Baiten, a new fullback obtained from Detroit at the National League. He is an emergency replacement for Ted Elson, the injury-plagued halfback who quit football Thursday.

Winnipeg Blue Bombers, host Sunday to Ottawa Rough Riders in a game nationally telecast by the CTV network, still have three men out with leg injuries and four other players listed as doubtful starters.

Winnipeg coach Bud Grant is juggling his defensive line to keep Bombers' losing streak at four games, and may play three players out by NFL clubs.

On the doubtful list is quarterback Kenny Ploen. If Ploen's sprained wrist doesn't allow him to throw the ball, he will give way to Dick Thornton and take a place in the defensive backfield.

Tiger Cats Meet Argos

Dick Shatto Plays Last Season

TORONTO (CP) — Hamilton be relegated to the bench Sun-Tiger-Cats take on the winless Toronto Argonauts in an Eastern Football Conference game here Sunday and the spotlight will be on Argo backfield star Dick Shatto.

Shatto announced Friday he intends to retire at the end of the season to spend more time with his family and business. But whether he'll be in the starting backfield Sunday when the teams kick off at 2 p.m. EDT is another matter.

Shatto's backfield status went unchallenged until this year when Bob Shaw moved from Regina to take over the Argonaut coaching job. Since then Shatto's position hasn't been as secure.

Shaw wouldn't say Friday if Shatto will start Sunday. He won't select his lineup until he studies medical reports on fullback Pat Watson and tackle Billy Shipp and Dave Sill, all nursing injuries of sorts.

Shatto has captained Argos for seven seasons, holds 16 Argonaut records, was twice out with the Jeff Russel Memorial Trophy as the EFC's most valuable player and holds the conference record for most career touchdowns, 90. He joined Toronto from the University of Kentucky in 1954.

HIGH NEW HALFBACK

When the Argos signed halfback Bob Curington this week, there were reports Shatto would be relegated to the bench Sunday. Shatto said he has been advised one way or other.

Earlier Friday, Shatto announced he had turned down an offer to run for the Progressive Conservative candidate in the Nov. 1 federal election in the Toronto riding of York Centre, now held by Liberal James Walker.

The 'Argos will be looking for their first victory in eight starts while Hamilton must win to assure itself a share of first place with Ottawa Rough Riders.

The Tiger-Cats face the game without centre Chet Mikrut, sidelined with injuries for the season, end Stan Crisson, out with a leg injury, and tackle Andre Mosca, who underwent minor surgery this week. Coach Ralph Sazio has no possible replacements except Ab Martinello, a Hamilton product back from Pittsburgh Steelers of the National Football League and tackle John Smith, recently cut by Detroit Lions of the NFL.

Monday's game is the only one in the East. Montreal Alouettes are at Vancouver against British Columbia Lions. It is game televised by the CBC. Ottawa is at Winnipeg against the Blue Bombers for a Sunday game telecast on the CTV network.

ST. CATHARINES (CP) — Chicago Black Hawks of the National Hockey League opened their amateur camp and attracted 65 players going after berths on their Junior A Ontario Hockey Association farm club, St. Catharines Black Hawks, and the club's Junior B affiliates.

They will be joined next week by nine holdovers from the St. Catharines Junior A team.

St. Catharines coach Chirp Brenchley feels the biggest problem his team must plug is in goal, since regular netminder Bob Grob and Jim Keough have both accepted scholarships to United States universities.

Browns Favored

NFL Season Opens Sunday

NEW YORK (CP)—Fourteen National Football League teams begin the 1965 season Sunday, joining eight American League clubs already in the fray.

In Sunday's NFL action, world champion Cleveland Browns are favored to defeat an improved Washington Redskin club despite the absence of ace flanker Gary Ballman.

Baltimore Colts, losers in the 1964 championship game, are matched against powerful Minnesota Vikings.

New York's struggling Giants with newly-acquired quarterback Earl Morrall are underdogs against Dallas Cowboys.

The formidable backfield duo of Paul Hornung and Jimmy Taylor is expected to lead Green Bay Packers to an easy victory over Pittsburgh Steelers.

Detroit Lions face Los Angeles Rams.

Bill Triplett's return after a year on the sidelines due to a knee operation is expected to help St. Louis Cardinals defeat Philadelphia Eagles.

The final encounter matches also-rans Chicago Bears and San Francisco 49ers.

Bill George, veteran linebacker, much of the interest in the Buffalo Bills-Denver Broncos encounter Sunday in a first-hand comparison of Denver fullback Cookie Gilchrist who spent his 1958-59-60 in Canadian football and Bills' Billie Joe. The two figured prominently in off-season trading between the two teams.

Gilchrist, the league's leading ground-gainer in 1964, nor Joe impressed in opening game last weekend. Defending champion Buffalo won, joining Houston Oilers at the top of the Eastern Division after one game while Denver fell below Oakland Raiders and San Diego Chargers in the West.

Two winless clubs, New York Jets and Kansas City Chiefs, tangle in New York with the Jets' $400,000 recruit, quarterback Joe Namath, on the sidelines.

In a duel for the Western Division lead, Oakland is favored to nip San Diego. Houston tangles with winless Boston Patriots in the weekend's other action.

Garvins Lose

Midgets Steal Mat Show

By ROBERT SNEFJELLA

The smallest wrestlers exhibited the greatest skill in Memorial Arena last night. A midget tag-team bout brought the roaring approval of a fat-cheated crowd down upon it during 45 minutes of fast-paced battling. And in the end the good pair of diminutive bare-foot gladiators stood victorious.

At the last minute mark Chico Santana drew first blood for the villains after running Jim Garvin into the referee's post. Jim revenged himself a little later when he busted Chico's head open with a head-breaker, and flopped down on him for the three count.

Roger Littlebrook, the other member of hero's united association, teamed with Dandy Boy Fleming to even the count.

In the main event of the evening Terry and Ron Garvin, two desperados who delight in conjuring up new tortures for old boys, fought our friend and yours, Cousin Bill Williams, and his partner from Rome, Italy, Williams toppled similarly seously on top of Garvin. He lay there long enough to be declared winner.

Brooklin Wins Mann Cup Squeaker

Score Was 15-14

NEW WESTMINSTER, B.C. (C.P.)—The Brooklin, Ont., Mets fortified themselves with Anderson Police sticks with a striking come - from - behind overtime victory over New Westminster in the finals for the J. Mann Cup.

The 15-14 victory—on a goal in the five seconds left in the overtime period—gave the visitors a 2-1 edge in the best-of-seven Canadian senior lacrosse final.

Coach Bud Christie said afterwards that conditions for the second game were ideal.

"The field was in good shape and played well," he said.

Doug McAvoy of New Westminster said he wasn't going to let the game beaten. He scored a third for a weekend workout—only to be a strenuous one—for in Monday's fourth game, New Westminster's players sagged as Brooklin's score rose.

Ernest Redford provided the touch, snatching the ball from Westminster's grasp and racing down the floor to fire a clean goal at 9:55 of the 10-minute overtime period.

Larry Ferguson was the workhorse for Brooklin, netting three goals and picking up an assist. Bobby Allan, Jack Madgett and Ken Lotton were double scorers. Bill Chestney, Glen Lotton, Don Craggs and Jim Hinkson supplied the others.

Cliff Sopka played his usual steady game for New Westminster, picking up four goals and an assist. Ed McDonald got three goals, Bill Wilkes and Ken Flavin two goals with Wayne Shuttleworth, Mac Tyler and Doug Wallsmith contributing one apiece.

Between periods late in the game a portion of the crowd of 3,500 and several members of the Brooklin team got involved in shouting matches that went no further.

Bill Vipond, manager of the team, said later he doubted his boys would have deliberately become involved in a shouting match but he said he would speak to members of his team.

The game drew here saw Brooklin of Brooklin spending 16 minutes in the penalty box for 8 infractions, five of which were assessed a 10-minute misconduct.

The Merchants were given a total of 9 minutes in penalties compared with 23 for New Westminster.

Pascual Back In Form

Twins Lose But Edge Closer To Flag

By MIKE RATHET

Associated Press Sports Writer

Minnesota Twins have reduced their magic number to five and now right-hander Camilo Pascual finally has lifted his to nine.

Despite a 2-1, 10-inning loss to Washington, the Twins reduced their pennant-clinching number to five Friday as Baltimore Orioles lost to California Angels by the same score.

But the Twins' biggest lift may have come from the performance of Pascual, who made his third start since recovering from arm surgery and pitched nine innings, for the first time in more than three months.

The veteran Cuban with the roundhouse curve won his first eight decisions this season but was forced to undergo surgery Aug. 2. Since rejoining the Twins on this month, he had failed to finish in two previous starts.

Against the Senators Pascual gave nine hits and issued a two-pitch hitter. He struck out 13—a season high for the Twins—walked none and permitted only five hits and one run.

Tye Senators scored the winning run in the 10th against Jim Merritt when Fred Valentine scored as Don Lock bounced a double play ball to the head of third baseman Rich Rollins.

Still, as a result of the Orioles' loss, any combination of Minnesota victories and Baltimore defeats totalling five will bring the Twins their first American League pennant.

OTHER GAMES CLOSE

The other games in the AL also were close. The Twins ran up with Chicago White Sox edging Cleveland Indians 5-4 in 11 innings, Detroit Tigers downing New York Yankees 4-3 in 10 innings and Kansas City Athletics outlasting Boston Red Sox 2-1.

Dean Chance, continuing his late-season mastery, took over for the Orioles, checking them on four hits as he brought his record to 14-10 with his eighth victory in the last 10 decisions. Chance did not allow a hit until Charles Lau singled with two out in the fifth.

Cleveland starter Tom Kelley, four-hit pitcher for Portland, struck out nine and allowed only five hits in seven innings but the Indians had to come from behind to tie it in the ninth on a two-run homer by pinch hitter Leon Wagner.

The White Sox pushed across the winning run in the 10th on J. C. Martin's single, an error by Pedro Gonzalez, a walk and a sacrifice fly.

Yankee starter Whitey Ford retired the first two batters in the 10th but Kerry Lisenge singled and then Norm Cash crashed a two-run homer that clinched it for the Tigers.

The Red Sox supplied most of the power as Tony Conigliaro hit his 29th and 30th homers—again grabbing the AL lead—and Mike Ryan connected once. But the Athletics picked away for seven hits in the sixth inning, scored seven runs, and put it out of reach.

Redskins Grab Argo Castoff

By ARCH MacKENZIE

WASHINGTON (CP)—If Toronto Argonauts have any more football rejects like George Hughley, Washington Redskins are interested.

Hughley showed up at the National Football League team's training camp as a free agent after Toronto cut him and he was waived from the Canadian Football League.

Sunday, the Californian may start for the Redskins against Cleveland Browns either at fullback or halfback and he's been named to the kickoff - return unit. He has been the leading Washington ground gainer in four exhibitions preceding the league opener this weekend.

Hughley's average after three games was more than eight yards a carry although against a tough Detroit defence last week he was held to 3.2 yards for the fourth game.

JOINED ARGOS IN '63

Big and quick—he's six feet, one inch and weighs 226 pounds—Hughley had joined the Argos in mid-season of 1963 and he had a rushing average of 6.2 yards. Last year, he was No. 2 on the Argonauts with an average of 4.6 and led the league kickoff-returns.

"But I never received a raise in Canada and this year I told Toronto I wanted to be released," says Hughley. "At first they wouldn't do it but later they put me on waivers. After five days, they finally told me I was a free agent and I left the country."

The word from Toronto, where coach Bob Shaw is still looking for his first victory after a turnover of more than 100 players, is that Shaw simply isn't Hughley didn't measure up.

Washington coach Bill McPeak obviously differs and Detroit coach Harry Gilmer, after losing to Washington, observed: "That Hughley is quick. He'll help them."

Green Gaels Lead Series 2-1

By BOB TRIMBEE

OSHAWA (CP) — Fears that Dave Davis was on his way down were swept aside Friday night as the 21-year-old centre blasted home four goals to set up another three in guiding Oshawa Green Gaels to a 17-12 triumph over New Westminster Salmonbellies in the Canadian Junior lacrosse final.

The victory gave the Green Gaels a 2-1 margin in the best-of-seven series for the Minto Cup with the next game scheduled for tonight and the fifth Monday.

A record crowd for lacrosse in Oshawa of 3,406 watched this epic ball game which produced the first signs of temper in the series and seven major penalties.

A year ago Davis scored 184 points, a national record, and this year his production dropped to 137. In the first two games of the series he was held to three points but his all-round play was even less impressive.

Coach Keith Jackson of New Westminster suggested Davis would have trouble scoring the points to the tough Inter-City Junior League in B.C. Trainer Syd Bellwood of the Salmonbellies also scoffed at the lack of aggressive checking unveiled by the Green Gaels up to Friday.

Today both were reconsidering their viz-ez.

DAVIS DRIVES FIREPOWER

Davis combined with Bill Armour, a recruit from Hastings, B.C., for the finals, to supply the early firepower needed to set the Green Gaels in motion. Armour finished with a goal and three assists.

Ron Lyons and Jim Higgs each fired three goals for Oshawa, Fred Stinson and Gaylord Powless added two while Brian Thompson and Phil Clayton got the others.

Ken Winzoski carried the brunt of the Salmonbellies' scoring with four goals. Roy Salt scored twice and Paul Shmyr, Ken Henry, Ron Pepper, Wayne Goss, Wayne Bellwood and Ranjit Dillon got one each.

Regina Steel Firm Workers Operate Wildlife Sanctuary

REGINA (CP) — A community wildlife sanctuary with an unusual history lies just a few hundred yards from the big steel and pipe mills of Interprovincial Pipe and Steel Corp. just north of Regina.

In four years IPSCO's wildlife club has issued more than 200 memberships, gained uncounted species of geese, ducks, pheasants, cranes, pigeons, doves, partridges, a few deer, all kinds of rabbits, a couple of peacocks, gophers, 30 rainbow trout, and an antelope. It has extended its original four acres to 12.

Conceived by company employees J. N. Turvey, executive vice - president, John Globisch and Jim Coleshaw, the wildlife club was formed to provide wildlife for the enjoyment of the employees and their children. Since then it has developed into something akin to a zoo and in fact holds a zoo license issued by the city.

The game haven, a few yards from the IPSCO office, has a large man-made pond for ducks, geese and fish surrounded by a large rolling lawn and game pens housing pheasants, rabbits and doves.

$2.50 TO JOIN

Membership is not limited to employees, and certificates are held by residents of Alaska, Newfoundland, Texas, California, Japan and New York. Membership fee is $2.50 the first year ($2 for renewals).

The constant noise and bustle of the factory doesn't upset the inhabitants. A common occurrence at lunch time is a scene in which Presidents—an original of the club and the goose from which IPSCO's flying goose trademark was sketched—honk handouts from the office staff.

A population explosion is forcing the club to expand facilities, and a tree-planting project east of the present menagerie is under way to attract still more species of bird life to the area.

"Our aims have changed somewhat now," says Mr. Coleshaw. "We are attempting to get all species of waterfowl and game birds native to Saskatchewan at the grounds, as well as those from outside that we already have."

Once at the site, birds have a comfortable time. There's plenty to eat during the summer, and when the harsh winters blow up to 150 bushels of grain are available for feed.

The club has become a community project.

TROUBLE WITH DOGS

When open house was held July 1, 1963, more than 10,000 showed up to see the plant and the wildlife. A short time ago, a motorist spotted a flock of newly - hatched ducks walking near a main street. He took them to the club where they were put in a box under heat lamps next to about 100 pheasant chicks.

"We had some problems in the beginning," Mr. Globisch says. "We started with about 200 pheasants and six ducks, gained 10,343 to 9,838 for Mr. but some dogs got into the area and killed them all. We sat up on the roof at night with rifles and finally got the dogs."

Other problems included how to raise deer.

"We had to buy books on how to raise them and on the care and feeding. Now we have a good library of such books."

Mr. Globisch also keeps a number of chickens at the site, used mainly to hatch eggs laid by other game birds and fowl.

Cold weather is being pumped into the pond so fish can spawn and hatch eggs under proper conditions.

Brighton lawyer; Ben Thompson, who represented the riding for five years from 1957, said he felt "that all those people of independent minds will welcome Mr. Hees coming into this riding as a Progressive Conservative candidate.

"I feel very strongly about doing everything we can to see that he is elected."

CAN LAY CLAIM

Mr. Hees can lay claim to being a resident in the riding since his family has had a farm a few miles northeast of here for the last 51 years.

"One of the things that prompted us was we felt that if we could bring Mr. Hees back we would be doing something for the party — and it was with that in mind that we approached him," said Wesley Downs, chairman of the constituency nominating committee.

"We were looking for candidates. We just asked him if he was interested and he said he was."

Mr. Downs added the association had no difficulty in finding local candidates.

He said that high school teacher, Harry Bradley, who had represented the riding for a year until defeated in 1963 by Miss Jewett, would nomination for Mr. Hees at a convention here Tuesday night.

WANTS CLEAN CAMPAIGN

Later yesterday the way to an unopposed nomination for Mr. Hees was further cleared when Toronto broadcaster Joel Aldred, who was considering seeking the nomination, met with local officials and announced he would not contest the convention.

However, Mr. Hees said he hoped the nomination will be challenged.

"I've always found that the best conventions are the ones that are contested," he said.

Northumberland was won by Miss Jewett, a political science professor, in the 1963 election by a plurality of 505 votes. She gained Mr. Bradley.

Mr. Hees said he was looking forward to a "good, clean campaign."

"I have heard nothing but good of Miss Jewett," he added. In Ottawa, Miss Jewett said she hopes her opponent would be Mr. Hees.

"It's terrific. I'd rather have to work to win than not," she told reporters).

In his local campaign, said Mr. Hees, he intends spending the "overwhelming amount of my time" in Northumberland.

He said he was a "tremendous believer" in personal contact with the people.

"My object will be to meet, if possible, all the people in this riding before election"

WILL SPEAK IN CITY

Nationally, he felt the chances of his party in defeating the Liberal government were excellent. Campaign issues would include national unity and higher moral standards in public affairs.

For his first week officially back in politics Mr. Hees has set himself a heavy schedule. He has to face his own nominating convention Tuesday. Wednesday he speaks in Belleville at the Hastings South convention and Thursday in Peterborough at the Peterborough riding nominations.

Among the Conservatives present yesterday here to hear him officially declare his return to the party fold were Leo Grills, who represented Hastings South from 1957 to 1963, and Rodney Webb, MP Hastings-Frontenac.

However, it was a life-long Northumberland Conservative who had the last word in the day's events.

As reporters asked Mr. Hees what he thought his chances were in the riding, Wilbert Davey interjected from the floor:

"We've got it in the bag right now," he chortled.

Narcotic

look and bustled them away to two suitcases.

Back safely in Canada, Beauchemin paused in Niagara Falls, Ont., to ask a policeman directions to a night's lodgings for himself and the girl friend.

In Montreal, he said, Rivard first bought him a few beers and then tossed the remaining white bags into a paper sack in a parking lot and drove off with them.

Caron's casual attitude to precautions eventually caught up with him here Oct. 10, 1963. He failed to give the bloodstained password on meeting the Mexico City delivery men but that was straightened out on the phone with Rivard, he said.

AROUSES SUSPICION

But then he discovered orders to cruise slowly over the 796 miles of twisting roads over the mountains to Nuevo Laredo—across the river from Laredo—and arrive Oct. 12 in time to join heavy traffic on a fiesta day. He hid the U.S. stainless steel, at a stack time and an agriculture inspector looking for pest-bearing plants spotted suspicious bulges under the back seat—again sloppily laded.

There has been no attempt made in open court to dig back beyond the men facing charges and into the origins of what was obviously a hemisphere operation.

However, events indicated some continental European influence was at work in the background. Paul Mondolosi, who appeared in charge at the Mexico City end, is a big wheel in the smuggling trade between the higher circles of Europe's international crookdom. He's from Sicily, the birthplace of the Mafia, generally assumed to be the overlord of the Marseilles segment of the dope traffic in Europe and America.

Another indication of the continental touch came when Beauchemin said the man he identified as Mondolosi spoke French with the accent of southern France in the Marseille area, a belief of the narcotics squad. Caron also thought one of his contacts language had the flavor of France.

CLAIM CONSPIRACY

Mondolosi and the other Mexico City operator whose identity is known—Jorge Edouardo Moreno Chauvet—are accused in the same indictment as the four Canadians of conspiracy with them. Mondolosi, Chauvet and Rivard are charged in a second indictment with "aiding and heroin to be smuggled into the U.S.

Each charge carries a minimum five years and maximum 20 years without probation or parole. Thus Rivard, if convicted, could get 40 years. However, time off for good behavior is liberal. Caron, who drew 10 years in 1964, calculated he will be out to between five and six years.

American officials have no great hope of ever bringing Mondoloni or Chauvet to trial unless they stray over the border. Chauvet is serving time in a Mexican prison, officials here said.

Stirling

STIRLING — Mrs. Floyd Armstrong, president of Stirling Horticultural Society, Mrs. Ashley Brooks and Mrs. Ivy Rose were delegates from the Stirling society to the judging school class at the headquarters of the Royal Botanical Gardens at Hamilton for four days last week. Over 25 people from the province attended the course.

Miss Mabel Sharp of Kingston spent last week with her cousins, Mr. and Mrs. Malcolm McMullen. They visited relatives at Marmora, Wellman, Mount Pleasant and Batawa during the week.

Mr. and Mrs. Harold Welsh of Detroit and Mrs. M. Welsh of Tweed spent the weekend with Mr. and Mrs. Ed Heasman and family.

Mr. and Mrs. John Ferguson, Todd and Tracy of Picton are moving to the Ridge Road.

Sam Kirkey is a patient in Kingston General Hospital.

Mrs. Sheldon McIntosh, Mill Street, will be hostess on Thursday, October 7, for the regular meeting of River Valley Women's Institute. The president of Hastings West District, Mrs. Lee Flood and Mr. and Mrs. Glen Flood were dinner guests at an anniversary party held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. John Schwass in Stockdale on the occasion of the 30th wedding anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. Lee Flood.

Mr. and Mrs. Bert Cole and Mr. and Mrs. Claire Craighead of Belleville were weekend guests of Mr. and Mrs. Percy Craighead and John.

Mrs. Percy MacMullen, public relations officer of the Frost Valley area Women's Institutes, accompanied Mrs. Roy Tucker to Canifton on Wednesday evening to attend the Bird Institute meeting. Mrs. MacMullen spoke on her work.

Mr. and Mrs. Reginald Irvine of Toronto visited his grandmother, Mrs. Ed Read, recently.

Grades 1, 2 and 3 of Glen Ross and River Valley are being taught in the Glen Ross public school. Grades 4, 5, 6, 7 and 8 from both schools are being taught at the River Valley School. Mr. and Mrs. Glenn Bush are transporting the pupils by bus.

The sticking point, it is explained, is that, as the law in Mexico is interpreted, it is virtually impossible for the U.S. to get a wanted Latin out of Mexico country. Mondoloni's Italian blood apparently qualifies him.

Pearson

After today, the prime minister will spend little time in his office as he flies into Ottawa for dozens of speaking engagements across the country.

TALK IS NON-POLITICAL

The prime minister and Mrs. Pearson's camp here Friday where Mr. Pearson addressed a long - standing engagement to speak to graduates of the Bayside High School. It was a non-political speech, in which he wandered far from his prepared text to talk to the students about his youth, his education and his views of occupational guidance.

Some samples:

"The source of my education was my home, my school and my church."

"I was dedicated to becoming the greatest all - round athlete Canada ever produced . . . I didn't."

"My father always told me that if you do the very best you can you'll never have anything to worry about."

"The last words of my mother when I went overseas in the First World War were: 'be a good boy and keep your feet dry.'"

"From my own experience I can say that in this country the top position is available for anybody."

FINDS SATISFACTION

"I can assure you that the pressures are unceasing, the work is unending, but there is great satisfaction in serving."

Politics is as high a form of public service as there is, along with education and the ministry of the church."

The prime minister, who has earlier applauded more than graduates as they individually received their diplomas, followed his prepared text in asking that "financial difficulties must not keep anyone in this country from getting more education."

It was up to all levels of government "to see that this is made possible."

Mr. Pearson also told his audience that the different viewpoints in Canada must be aired, but, hopefully, "bind us to each other through that common purpose that binds us to our country."

STARTED WITH SCOUTS

Wayne and Shuster's first collaboration was a play they wrote for their boy scout troop at the age of 14.

Strife-torn Kashmir Region Was Visited During Summer By Ornithologists From Canada

Editor's Note: The author of the following article on Kashmir, Lavonia Stockelbach, has been a frequent visitor to Belleville for many years. She has contributed many articles to The Intelligencer of her travels in the British Isles and on the Continent. Recently she completed a world tour by plane and while in India made a side trip to Kashmir. Her comments on life in this beautiful land that is now so much in the news will have added interest to our readers. This is the first of two articles.

By LAVONIA STOCKELBACH

Many an author and artist has tried to share with others his appreciation of some of nature's supreme beauties. It cannot be done; not when the scene is the Vale of Kashmir where I sat two months ago in the most perfect and happy peace, indeed the happiest week of my travelling life. You remember in the first part of the chapter describing the Creation everything was "good" but the last lines spoke of it as "very good."

After Delhi, which had greeted us warmly with a steady 100 degrees, I was decided to move northward. The Canadian Bird Watching Tour group did so and we arrived at Srinagar, a place you may perhaps find on your map of Kashmir if you have patience and a magnifying glass. It has been there since the days the Romans were in full swing in England, and is the capital of the state of Kashmir, and notwithstanding its many devastations by fire and flood, is of great interest archi-tecturally. It also has many industries. In these last days of June, 1965, it was like me in cities, good to get away from, though later fascinating to return to.

CANOE TRIP

This time we voyaged by a sort of canoe called Shikara, five of us in a boat with a housebeat where we were to spend a week, in this case a congenial group.

Bopt first we must get into and out of that precarious vessel, for I had foretold to my friend Oriental hands skilled for many generations in stilling the tilt founded on a curious mixture of ply and admiration — a ply that doesn't admire and a admiration that does. Very pleasant, very pleasant indeed — once you learn to hand over your belongings (all of them including your purse) and then do as you are bid while the other younger members of your party are told to move only which they had to do willingly or fall into the water.

Unfortunately a little trouble with my sight prevents me making a drawing of it, for the lines are neat and simple; but the long pointed bow is a little too neat, a little too simple, a little too narrow to place two feet side by side and their owner a little too scared to take a step. While two men steadied the boat a third carried your belongings and a dozen guards-ed your hand and you arrived to face another difficulty. Incidentally, in passing one may remark that a Canadian canoe is as steady as a war ship in comparison.

The difficulty was for me to decide where to sit, which I wanted to do as much as possible but there was a horror arranged for comfortable lolling and that is something you do not do in a Canadian canoe, so I would not, and that trouble was over with by the rest of the party walking around me, which they did enough and later on politely awaited my disembarking.

We had been paddled to our housebeat, of which there were many anchored on the lake-river. Ours was called the King's Rose, which we soon reached and climbed the five steps to a sort of verandah, down two steps to find oneself in a comfortable, English-type sitting-room of Victorian vintage, but instead of chintz-covered cushions, there were the lovely Indian brocades.

From there you enter the dining-room with a large round table for the five of us, then a door led to the corridor where the bedrooms and bathrooms were in line. On an upper deck we had breakfast with the birds accompanying our chatter, the Himalayas in the near distance, the water clear, clean, refreshing that "Home of the snows" and the passing traffic of never-ending interest, the boat filled high with flowers strongly scented, another with vegetables and fruits, others with all sorts of household necessities, though it was yet too early for the embroidery silks, metalwares and cashmeres that our eyes and pocket-books had never before encountered.

MOSLEM CREW

The men employed on the housebeat were Moslems and no women ever appeared. The cook, working in his tiny kitchen-space beside the charcoal-produced marvels that seemed even more wonderful when you saw his fire smoking and his little firewood stove, though the housebeat had electricity.

As their habit is, and as a result of my age and cane, I was called "Mother" by each and everyone in any way connected with the service. I smiled sometimes when I remembered that my amiable look called "Gentlemen Prefer Blondes." Color seems to have nothing to do with race. All these men of Islam were very dark, but their features were delicately beautiful with not the slightest trace of the Negroid. There must have been a family connection, but I never did get used to "Mother." Then I was taken to visit their real grandmother of 115 years. I could imagine the hundred easily enough, but after that what are 15 years! She was a smiling dear and with a grandson as interpreter we had a happy visit, I in a little boat and she in a large one that housed ten people. I hope the present trouble with Pakistan will do her no harm.

Then one day, when the others went off to the serious business of watching and listing birds, I decided to have my faithful Abdul paddle me over to Srinagar, to view the avenues of Chenar and Oriental plane trees, to visit a paper-mache shop where paper pulp is made into an exceedingly tough substance from which all sorts of strong and durable trays, boxes frames and countless little and big articles are made.

It was chiefly, however, to see what is now called the Museum, formerly the Residence of the political agent of Great Britain. It is hard to explain the term. 'Consul' is not enough and 'diplomat' is perhaps too much but the Government was represented-by him before India was freed and became a republic. His duties were to advise on all matters of government, legislature and executive. My English friend was there in the time of Youngbuband who in 1886 crossed the great mountain barrier between China and Kashmir. Later he was in Residence in Srinagar where my friend Sir Evelyn Howell and his wife spent several years.

He had described to me the corridor where his portrait and others could be found "if," said he, "we were not all burned at the time of the freeing of India." So with my faithful Abdul we entered the gorgeous edifice, but first I stopped at a cage of birds to see if I had been making a good guess or two. It was too dark to see, so I told the curator to take them out and put on a table near by. He did so.

"It is very dark here," said my gentle Abdul. But I gazed at the gorgeous tiles of the walls and ceiling, got a crick in my neck and a whirl in my head. I found the corridor where the portraits should have been and were not. My friend and all the staff were burned up, perhaps they were up in an attic, but neither the curator nor Abdul were sympathetic. We got out, spent a little time wandering in the avenues of Chenar trees with the everlasting Himalayas in the distance.

I am glad to report that from his last letter my English friend is in excellent health. His wife sent me a little list of her favorite birds while she was at Srinagar. She probably sat in the garden of the Residence and I sat on the upper deck of the housebeat with binoculars handy on the table and friends gone on a bird watching expedition.

VARIETY OF BIRDS

The golden Indian oriole was building nearby, quite out of reach, building a nest on a bush-railing, house-crows were plentiful, though I could never learn to distinguish between a house-crow and a jungle crow. Kites were always to be seen overhead, the Indian roller, Afrah kites and one very little bird, so tiny it was hardly to be seen, watched me for a few minutes from its wire perch overhead but said nothing. In the bushes of the floating islands within a stone's throw were some very busy birds that reminded me of our warblers but would not stay still long enough for me to identify.

I recalled that when I left my house June 6th to fly to Japan, there was a chorus of the house orioles, Cardinals, Wrens, Ovenbird, and of course Robins. It seemed rather foolish to go around the world to watch birds.

However, here on the house-boat the birds were a lovely background chorus to the flowers-by below, a boat heaped high with fragrant flowers. A more enchanting sight I may never again see, with the clear water reflecting the not-so-distant Himalayas and the ancient fort; a man punting a boat which he was filling with mud sediment gathered from below the water to add to the floating islands. He used a strong tree branch about ten feet long with a band on it one third of its length. He scoops up the mud and puts it between the centre of the boat and stops occasionally to bail out the surplus water, which nice cheap labor we'll use soon to be used to nourish the bushes and vegetables of the floating islands.

A very important person paddled by three swift shikar (I want to say canoes) adept, a woman well-covered by be cloth head scarf tied in a tri fashion as to hang down her back and so protect her neck.

The rest of her costume is old a sag green shade. She sits in the extreme front of her boat with legs crossed and from its high bow the crew paddles with great speed. (By the way, when you go to foreign parts it is wise to do as the natives have done for so many generations, and those "bamboos like swords.")

REEDS AND LILIES

"Don't go with those people to watch birds," said my faithful Abdul, "I know all the birds." That was quite true and I was paddled in and out of reeds and lilies and given plenty of time to watch the creatures going about their daily avocations. Naturally, he did not know the English names — they hadn't any — but with a good description he was good at letter to consult the authority of the Bird-books.

Then I would get spokes of the masses of embroidered cashmeres that were brought to our housebeat by the merchant agents. It hurts to think that I did not buy more, the reason for which you may see in poets. But always I shall carry with me a few late afternoon minutes, while listening to the calling singing, and watching down below in a tiny boat near a floating island, an embroidering with such speed as I could never have imagined human hands to accomplish. It was fascinating.

The Golden Years

Retirement Dignity, Status All From a Pile of Debris!

By THOMAS COLLINS

The rub of a retirement job, or any other kind of retirement activity, is that it doesn't have the dignity or the status people expect in their sixties.

What friends or fellow-workers back on the old job might think—or what the retired think they might think — has probably veered more people away from a productive retirement than any other one thing.

Mr. Willard J. Douglas has solved the problem. And he has done it in a pile of debris.

"I needed a little extra money when I retired," he says. "I also needed to get out from under my wife's feet and do a something with my time. I got the bright idea of capitalizing on all the wrecking that is now going on for urban renewal projects and for superhighways. I would start buying and selling the wreckage . . . not the junky stuff but the quite fine things that are coming out of some of the buildings now being torn down."

He got his idea from a story in the paper that told of a path that was to be cut through a section of his town for a highway. It was an old section, now largely slums but once an area of fashionable homes. The next day he drove over for a look.

TREASURES OF THE PAST

"The old homes," he says, "looked pretty sad, what with their years of decline and their slum tenants. But it seemed to me that surely they must still contain metalwork, handsome door and window frames, and other things that could be bought as wreckage and resold as treasures out of the past.

"But more intriguing than the homes were a couple of old churches that also were doomed. Both of them had magnificent bells and enough stained glass for a cathedral . . ."

Mr. Douglas visited the offices of the three wrecking firms involved in the demolition, learned how he could gain access to the buildings to make appraisals, and when he could get back to start work on his fancy.

"These wrecking companies," you see, want to sell most of the stuff they knock down. It's part of their profit, so they welcome buyers."

Mr. Douglas owned a three-year-old station wagon. He figured that in the beginning he could haul back home anything he bought. He got his wife's consent to tap their savings for $300 to start his buying.

"There were some confusing weeks after that," he explains. "I had our backyard looking like a dump heap. I was tagging each item with its purchase price, and I was hurrying all the time because I couldn't buy any item until the wrecking started so I had to be on hand as the bulldozer got to an interesting building . . ."

ON BUSINESS BASIS

He had invested about $400 of his budget when he put his operation on a business basis. He leased a long-vacant lot for $25 a month. He moved in all the things now stored in his yard and the additional things he bought. He formed a corner of the lot into his sales office, and hung a large painted sign out front: "Treasures for Sale."

"Here is where I got away from being a second-hand merchant," Mr. Douglas says, "I was salvaging some really beautiful treasures from the old buildings. I was saving them from destruction. I was making them available to discerning people who could appreciate them.

"I was an art collector, or a preserver of history, or a culture merchant. This bad status meant to tap their savings for $200 to start his buying.

"There were some confusing weeks after that," he explains. "I had our backyard looking like a dump heap. # Waterfowl Flights Equal '64

WINNIPEG (CP)—Ducks Unlimited (Canada) predicts the fall waterfowl flight from the Canadian Parklands will be about equal to that of 1964, largely because of increased production in Alberta. Declines are expected in Saskatchewan and Manitoba.

The private conservation organization reported Friday on its August aerial survey. Exceptionally good production was noted from the late nesters—widgeon, gadwall, shoveller and blue-winged teal.

Slavery in the World Today Subject of Film Opening Sunday

A documentary film on present day human slavery — a subject that somehow seems out of the context in time — opens Monday at the Park Theatre for its first showing. Entitled "Slave Trade In The World Today," the film, produced by Malmo Malmcotti and directed by Roberto Malacotti, is being presented for the first time in this country by the Walter Reade-Sterling organization.

Article 4 of the United Nations Declaration of Human Rights reads: "No one shall be held in slavery or servitude; slavery and the slave trade shall be prohibited in all their forms."

But, as "Slave Trade In The World Today" dramatically proves, slavery and the slave trade — far from being abolished — are flourishing in certain parts of the world — and in their most crude and vicious forms.

Where? As the film documents, principally in the Middle East and adjacent regions of Africa. The film shows, how and why slaves are procured, who the slave traders are, and what eventually happens to the unfortunate victims.

"Slave Trade In The World Today" points directly at those responsible for the existence of slavery in this the seventh decade of the 20th Century. The film states, that vast profits from the oil-rich deserts of the Arabian peninsula have created an enormously wealthy elite of Arab princes and sheiks, most of whom hold slaves as an index of their wealth and the degree of position they enjoy among their peers.

Filmed in Eastmancolor the show times are at 7.00 and 9.00 p.m.

MC Ends Lengthy Service On Truth or Consequences

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — The truth is that Bob Barker will have in face the consequences next Friday.

That's the day that Truth or Consequences goes off daytime television, leaving Barker unemployed for the first time in nine years. His reaction?

"I'm exhilarated," says the lanky emcee. "I'm making new plans and talking to new people about new careers. In the future I may look back on Truth or Consequences as the high point of my career. But right now I'm feeling great."

Ralph Edwards, the originator and custodian of T or C, isn't convinced that this is the end of the line for the show, either. Edwards may have good reason for his hope. After all, the show survived 26 years in broadcasting, moving from radio to night-time television to the daytime spot it occupied for 18 years.

CLOSES WAY OF LIFE

For Barker, the end of T or C will mark the close of what had become a way of life. Every week of the year, minus vacations, found him hosting the show. He missed none of the 2,400 programs—"I even managed to be sick on the weekends only."

That amounts to a lot of stunts, a lot of frivolity. What does he remember out of all of it?

"The people," he says. "Putting a man in a studio isn't important. The impressions that remain with me concern the people we had on the show. Some of them were pretty damned amazing."

AT THE BELLE — John Wayne and Dean Martin in "The Sons of Katie Elder", with Earl Holliman, Martha Hyer, Michael Anderson Jr. and Dennis Hopper. From the story of how four brothers try to overcome the legacy of their family name.

Tweedsmuir Tried in Vain To Prevent War Says Book

By CARL MOLLINS

LONDON (CP) — John Buchan, the first Baron Tweedsmuir, played a little-known but important role while governor-general of Canada in a fair effort to prevent war in 1939, a new biography discloses.

Writer Janet Adam Smith tells of Lord Tweedsmuir's private encouragement of Franklin D. Roosevelt in a plan for a summit conference of world leaders. Neville Chamberlain, prime minister of Britain, provoked Tweedsmuir for meddling in politics and later doused the summit plan with a cool reply to Roosevelt.

John Buchan, a 300-page biography published Friday by Rupert Hart-Davis Ltd., is an exhaustive study of the Scottish patriot's many roles as soldier, lawyer, diplomat, politician, journalist, novelist, historian, adventurer and Canada's governor-general from 1935 until his death in Montreal in 1940.

Miss Smith, who had access to hitherto private correspondence and studied the Buchan Library and papers at Queen's University, Kingston, Ont., concludes that while Tweedsmuir played many parts with success, his final role as governor-general was "the most rewarding" — despite a sometimes prickly relationship with the late Mackenzie King, then Canadian prime minister.

Tweedsmuir's book reveals, encouraged Roosevelt at private meetings and in correspondence during 1936 and 1937 to take the initiative in calling a meeting with the heads of European governments "to break the vicious circle of fear among the nations of the world."

He wrote as a "private friend" to Stanley Baldwin, prime minister of Britain, urging the British government to be ready to "meet any proposals (by Roosevelt) half-way."

Tweedsmuir repeated his plea to the new prime minister when Chamberlain took over from Baldwin in the spring of 1937. Chamberlain sent a lukewarm reply.

In the fall of 1937 Tweedsmuir again wrote to Chamberlain about the peace plan.

Chamberlain's reply was cool, and he added that Tweedsmuir must be careful as governor-general "not to lay yourself open to the charge (in Canada or elsewhere) that you are writing outside your provinces and are seeking to influence "politics."

In January, 1938, Roosevelt informed the British government formally of his plan for a summit meeting and asked for British support before announcing it.

Chamberlain effectively rejected the proposal in what Sir Winston Churchill later described as "loss of the last frail chance to save the world from tyranny otherwise than by war." Churchill's criticism provoked the resignation of his foreign secretary, Anthony Eden.

DISLIKED KING

Tweedsmuir's relations with King were marred by the governor - general's distaste for King's "spiritualism, the general sentiment" and by "an undercurrent of uneasiness and resentment on Mackenzie King's part," in Miss Smith's words.

King was jealous of Tweedsmuir's fame and would take offence when the governor-general's speeches received fuller press coverage than King's own, the biographer writes. But Tweedsmuir hid any irritation and "had never the slightest doubt that Mackenzie King was one of the ablest politicians Canada had ever produced."

Questions and Answers On Highway Travel

Ontario Motor League
Eastern Ontario Club

QUESTION: We are considering spending our holidays in Mexico and we would be most grateful if you could give us any general information about driving conditions. — S. A., Belleville.

ANSWER: The following are a few tips which you might find helpful:

Motorists will find that most highways throughout Mexico are not marked as clearly as those in Canada. While the highways in Mexico are generally good, they should definitely not be compared to the superhighways found in Canada and the United States. In some areas, the road surface has a sand-paper texture which, although it is a little wearing on the tires is good for holding cars on the numerous curves. Because of the mountainous terrain throughout most of the country, highways are winding and rolling much of the time, but in the northern section there are many straight fast sections. Driving lane width and shoulders are rather narrow.

If you plan to do much driving over unpaved roads, it is advisable to carry a blanket or other protective covering for your luggage carried in the car trunk. This will help keep out dust from these roads.

Driving in Mexico is very much like driving here but several simple precautions should be observed. As a rule, it is a good idea to confine highway driving to daylight hours.

Livestock — especially cattle, horses and burros — constitute the greatest danger to motorists along most Mexican highways. Since most highways are not fenced, the actions of the livestock are quite unpredictable and they may appear unexpectedly on the road. It is wise to treat them with profound respect — slow down and give them a wide berth. They are capable of causing tremendous property and physical damage.

The maximum speed limit is generally 100 kilometers (about 62 miles) an hour on highways in towns and villages the limit is 40 kilometers (25 miles) per hour; in some cities 20 kilometers (18 miles) per hour. Most cities have one-way streets. Signs on each corner indicate traffic direction by the arrows — two streets never have an arrow with two points. Green arrows facing you mean you have the right of way; red arrows have the effect of a stop sign.

Road signs are in Spanish; if not understood, check the speed of your car in anticipation of something ahead which requires attention. Slow down and use horn, particularly when approaching pedestrians. In the vicinity of congested areas, such as schools, one may encounter a sign saying Bordos, Topes or Tumulos, meaning that a sharp bump or series of bumps have been built into the road to make certain traffic slow down.

Don't drive at night and, if possible, get off the pavement entirely when driving even for a short time. Driving after dark is extremely dangerous and extra care is advisable if this is necessary.

Motorists are cautioned to be particularly careful when approaching bridges along Mexican Highways. Those marked Puente indicate one narrow, one-way bridges. When two cars approach from opposite directions, the first driver will flick his headlights has the right-of-way. The other must pull to the side of the road, allowing the first to proceed across the bridge.

Note: A periodic brushing of your car radiator will help keep the motor cooler. Rubber hoses which are found in great numbers during the summer, may block the air passage for radiators.

SERVICE IS GOOD

Wherever there is a motor road in Mexico, there are service stations. When touring the main highways, it is not necessary to carry emergency supplies of gas and oil if the manufacturer will guarantee before leaving town to fill his tank when supply is low. On second try roads it is advisable to carry a 5-gallon reserve.

Gasoline credit cards are not acceptable in Mexico for the purchase of gasoline, oil, automotive supplies or any other automobile services.

Do not leave valuables in your car. The carelessness of tourists, who leave fur coats, cameras and other possessions in plain sight on the seat of unlocked and unattended cars, often encourages thievery. Always lock your car and do not leave anything in sight which may tempt someone to break your windows.

It is also important that motorists do not leave their cars parked on the street overnight even when locked.

It is strongly urged that motorists arrange for full coverage, including property damage and public liability, with a reliable Mexican company that has complete adjusting facilities throughout Mexico. Your Canadian automobile insurance is probably not valid in Mexico.

In case of an accident, a motorist's car keys are usually held, whether guilty or not, until payment of the damages or bail is posted. Insurance policy is recognized by the authorities as a guarantee of proper payment for damages incurred according to the terms of the policy and when presenting it relieves him bringing an early release. If assistance is needed in a claim, it should be available only from an authorized agent or adjustor of the insurance company.

You may obtain Mexican insurance through authorized agents located in the AA building. At Brownsville, El Paso, McAllen and Laredo, Tex., this insurance is through the Automobile Club Agency and at Nogales, Ariz., from Border Insurance Agency.

The cost of a policy is determined by the value of the car, the length and amount of coverage desired and the length of time of the coverage. Short term policies are written on a daily basis.

Mr. Garnet Brooks, master of ceremony, introduced the head table guests' Mrs. K. Reid of Kingston, National Conference Chairman of the Canadian Association and Mr. Reid; Mrs. E. Kleinsteuber; Mr. and Mrs. P. VanDalen; and Mr. E. Moses Kingston, regional director. Each of the guests spoke briefly on their work.

Mrs. E. Kleinsteuber was speaker for the evening and gave an interesting and informative message to the newly formed association. She instructed them to always keep a good public image, and not to walk rough-shod over other organizations. She also spoke on the many ways the mentally retarded can be helped through home care programs for children of two to the typical pre-school programs for children from five to ten and adult shelters for those over age 16. She stressed the importance of a good recreational program and residential care.

Mrs. G. Kimmett thanked the speakers. .

Mr. Garnet Brooks brought the evening to a close with the prayer for the mentally retarded.

PC Head Spends Birthday At Political Meeting With His Wife at His Side

OTTAWA (CP)—John Diefenbaker's 70th birthday today finds him in a setting that is the symbolic of his entire adult life.

He's spending it in a crowd at a political meeting at the start of an election campaign.

Yet this campaign, leading to voting day Nov. 8, is perhaps unlike any in his 40 years of active political warfare spanning 11 federal elections.

His future as Progressive Conservative leader hinges on the outcome.

Hardly a Conservative believes he will long remain at the party's helm if the voters do not elect a Conservative government.

And even if John Diefenbaker should succeed Lester Pearson as prime minister, a good many Conservatives expect he would retire within a couple of years.

Not that he has ever given anything publicly about when he intends to quit.

For while he no longer reminds people, as he did for months before the election was announced, that British Prime Minister William Ewart Gladstone was his last election at 84, it's not necessarily a clue to his present thinking.

He may have abandoned the Gladstone reference only because many of his critics in the party rapidly closed ranks behind him as an election became a certainty. He no longer needed to tell them that he intended to stay as leader through another campaign.

BURIES DIFFERENCES

George Hogan, the Toronto auto dealer who managed Mr. Diefenbaker's campaigns in 1957, 1958 and 1962 but later became a critic of the leader, may have summed up their attitude when he said:

"Despite serious disagreements, there can no longer be any doubt that John Diefenbaker was a far better prime minister than Lester Pearson is, or ever will be."

Mr. Diefenbaker never gives any sign that he doubted his ability to lead the party back to power. Last summer he was saying: "It's 1957 all over again."

He has repeated this theme since the election was called. He says he sees the makings of another grass - roots upsurge such as that of eight years ago which ended 22 years of Liberal government and lifted him ultimately to unprecedented electoral popularity, followed by almost unprecedented defeat.

As the election campaign opened, he switched to saying the current political atmosphere resembles 1958.

The significance of the two election years is great. In 1957, he emerged as leader of a minority government. In 1958, his party collected a record 208 members to the 265-seat Commons.

PREFERS TRAIN

After election reverses in 1962, when he held office with another minority, and 1963, when the Liberals took power with a minority, Mr. Diefenbaker battled several party efforts to ditch him. He beat down the last one in February and the Conservatives declared that a succeeding meeting after his Quebec lieutenant, Leon Balcer, former transport minister, quit the party to sit as an independent.

Since then he has mixed his favorite relaxation — fishing — with preliminary political skirmishes with the Liberals in the Commons and on tours of Western Canada, Ontario and Southwestern Quebec.

The tall prairie lawyer with the piercing blue eyes shows most of his old bounce and vigor. He scents once again the election fray in which his opponents regard him as a formidable foe.

He prefers campaigning by train, believing "you get closer to the people by train than by flying over them." He naps between stops and rarely tires. His day usually begins before 7 a.m. with a brisk walk—lope in the way one reporter described the pace.

If he's at home here, his golden labrador puppy is his companion on these expeditions.

Mrs. Diefenbaker accompanies him "if possible, whether it's to the open-air market to do the weekly shopping or to high-level political meetings or on his campaign trips.

Pinpointing Valve Leakage Is Easy Matter

By EUGENE B. HILMOE

Frequent stalling, rough idle, loss of pep and power, poor gas and oil mileage — each in many cases, backfire — are the symptoms of an engine suffering from valve leakage.

But none of these conditions are peculiar to valve leakage alone. In fact, car owners will often try various adjustments and tune-ups of innocent parts before discovering they are on the wrong track.

If engine troubles point to a leaky valve condition, a vacuum gauge or compression test can confirm — or erase — your fears. A low compression reading, however, should be checked a second time after injecting a little heavy oil into the cylinder(s) to seal against piston leakage. Then, if the reading remains low, valve leakage is evident. You can have this test made at your local service station in a matter of minutes.

From W. N.: "Unless I pump the gas pedal repeatedly, my '64 engine will die after starting. After a while however, this trouble disappears."

Automatic choke operation is probably faulty. Either the valve isn't closing, or it's opening too quickly.

N. G. asks: "Is it really true that the engine should be allowed to warm up, even in hot summer weather?"

Yes . . . you'll minimize wear and gas waste by taking it easy for the first several miles, or until engine temperature reaches 140 degrees or more.

S. C. writes: "I had a belt tension.

From L. G.: "Isn't it unusual for spark plugs to show oil fouling in a new car driven just 1,186 miles?"

Not really. Until piston rings in a new engine become well seated, you can usually expect abnormal oil leakage past them to foul plugs.

C of C Hears Reports of Projects

MARMORA — Mr. Ronald Stephens, vice-president of the Marmora Chamber of Commerce welcomed the 31 members present at their dinner meeting held on Monday evening in the Royal Hotel.

Mr. Vincent Lynch reported that the new issue of brochures covering Marmora and district had been received from the printer and will be distributed. It was felt these would be helpful in directing tourists in this area.

Mr. Glen Wentworth, treasurer, reported that the Chamber of Commerce had paid expenses for a high school student to attend the United Nations seminar at Queen's University and for a student to spend a week at Camp Couchiching. These projects were formerly looked after by the Kiwanis Club.

Mr. Vaughan Glover introduced the guest speaker, Mr. Gordon W. Bennett, who was stationed in Europe for four years with the R.C.A.F. He has travelled extensively and members enjoyed his colorful slides shown.

Ann Landers

Giving Life to Child Does Not Earn Love

ANN LANDERS

DEAR ANN LANDERS — I am the 21-year-old mother of a 2-year-old son. About 18 months ago my young sister moved in with us. I love having Jill here. She is a great help to me, but she is causing a problem I can't handle. I'm afraid she is taking my child's love from me.

At first I was happy to let Jill take Roy for walks, and feed and dress him, but now whenever I try to do anything for him he runs to his aunt and says, "No, let Auntie Jill do."

I mentioned this to my sister in a "joking" way and she laughed it off as "silly." But it really does bother me, Ann. Please tell me if you feel I should have a serious talk with her, or should I just grin and hope my child grows to love me more? — UNHAPPY MOTHER.

* * *

DEAR UNHAPPY — A child does not love his mother, just because she gave him life. If you want Roy to love you as a mother you'd better start doing the things for him that a mother should do. Because it was easier to turn these chores over to your sister you ducked your responsibility and now Roy looks to Auntie Jill for his needs.

Get off your back porch and you won't have to worry about Auntie Jill depriving you of the boy's love.

DEAR ANN LANDERS — I know a girl who is 13 years old and a real pain in the neck. She is always complaining about her mother. She says her hair it's her clothes, if it isn't her mother it's her father.

It seems that every single day this girl has a headache or her stomach or a toe ache. I am sick of it. I can't get rid of her. She is always with me because I am the girl.

I am sick of listening to myself gripe. Sometimes I get so disgusted with myself I don't know what to do. I would appreciate it a whole lot if you would give me some advice that will help me stand myself better. Thank you. — FED UP AT 13.

DEAR 13 — Dissatisfaction with one's self is often a healthy sign. The first step toward self-improvement is realizing you need it. The second step is to get to work.

Everybody gets fed up with himself at one time or another. The next time your person doesn't pick on others and take out his feelings of self-dissatisfaction on them. So, Miss 13, learn this lesson now and you'll be miles ahead of the pack.

* * *

DEAR ANN LANDERS — In your column recently a girl wrote about a couple who steal kisses in the school corridors between classes. I agree this is a sad but at the same time a kiss does have a place in a classroom where English is taught, because

A kiss is a noun because it is both common and proper.

A kiss is a pronoun because she stands for it.

A kiss is a verb because it's either active or passive.

A kiss is an adverb if modified by how.

A kiss is an interjection because it shows strong and sudden feeling.

A kiss is a conjunction because it connects.

EXTEND SUBWAY?

TORONTO (CP)—The Metropolitan Toronto planning board recommended Friday that the Yonge Street subway be extended 3¼ miles from Eglinton avenue north to Sheppard Avenue as the area's next major rapid transit project. The extension, which would allow subway passengers to ride ... just miles north from Union Station, at the foot of the city, would cost an estimated $57,000,000, Eli Comey, planning commissioner, said Friday.

Says Diefenbaker Fell From Power Because He Lost Backing of Elite

By RONALD LEBEL

OTTAWA (CP)—A blunt and penetrating book about Canadian politicians and politics burst on the scene today just as the election campaign was returning to life.

The Diefenbaker Interlude: Parties and voting in Canada (Longmans, $5.50) examines the last four federal elections and forecasts broad trends that could affect the outcome of future votes.

Author Peter Regenstreif, 29-year-old economist and political scientists, completed his manuscript last March but his comments may provide candidates in the Nov. 8 election with helpful hints and quotes.

His main conclusion is that Conservative Leader John Diefenbaker fell from power in 1963 largely because he lost the support of Canada's small elite or "establishment."

The title is derived from Mr. Regenstreif's contention that Mr. Diefenbaker, although personally popular as Prime Minister Pearson, alienated the elite and failed to end the "interlude" of "sovereign-ency" dating back to 1935.

CRUCIAL LESSON

The elite's crucial lesson of the Diefenbaker interlude:

"If any party coming to office does not work closely and with the support of elite opinion it must gain that support immediately and if it fails to do so if it wishes to remain in office.

"Diefenbaker did just the opposite, and his failure as a great political success story was terminated rather abruptly by a few short years."

The author says the elite consists of the top men in business, labor, the professions and politics. A heavy proportion is Protestant, and of British origin with university education and drawn from wealthy families.

This elite is more influential than the voting public, and in advanced countries, he argues. Its opinions filter down through the rest of the population, with the help of press, television and radio, and largely determine the election outcome in city constituencies.

EFFECTIVE RESULTS

Mr. Regenstreif interviewed voters across Canada in the 1958, 1962 and 1963 election campaigns and wrote newspaper articles predicting the results with consistent accuracy. He is a high Tory himself.

Mr. Regenstreif found that Canadian voters are highly volatile and becoming even more so. They switched parties in unprecedented numbers and about one-quarter of the 265 seats in the Commons could be considered safe for any one party. This led to instability in politics and in government.

Canada's ethnic and racial groups remained loyal to a particular party because of its policies in the past. But these groups were swayed by momentary issues, the personalities of party leaders and the short-term effects of the prevalent view in their particular area.

The author says the Diefenbaker government enraged "big business" by pushing "welfare state" measures, running up a string of six big budgetary deficits and displaying indecision in the face of economic dislocation.

"Diefenbaker's background-Baptist, Prairie, lawyer, self-servener, small-town lawyer—authority" made him suspect to the upper levels of the business society, whose orients are heavily Protestant and either Anglican or United Church, and whose orientations are central Canadian, cosmopolitan."

ALL NOT ROSY

He says Jhe liberals do not enjoy the same degree of support of the electorate but between 1945 and 1963 they had progressed an image as the only party that could form a government with managerial competence.

But all was not rosy for the Liberals.

"The Liberals were seriously handicapped by Pearson's . . . failure to project a personality appeal that matched Diefenbaker's. . . . The Liberals (on the Prairies and British Columbia) had become the party of the rich and the well-born."

STRESSES DISCIPLINE

STE. ADELE, Que. (CP)—Guy Favreau, president of the Privy Council, has called on newspaper people to "help consolidate equilibrium between freedom of expression and the dignity of the individual." "It is not up to the state, but up to the press to discipline itself and to carry out its own reforms," he said in an address to the annual meeting of the French-language Weekly Newspapers Association of Canada.

Napanee News

Deputy Reeve Named After Resignation

NAPANEE — The Council met Monday evening and the resignation of Deputy-Reeve Wightman was accepted with regrets. Mr. Wightman has left to take a position in Ottawa with the Bureau of Statistics. Mr. R. Douglas was appointed to be the deputy-reeve for the balance of the two-year term. Mr. E. Marshall was nominated for the position, but declined and then nominated Mr. Douglas, who accepted the position and thanked the members of council for bestowing this honor upon him. Mayor L. Smart congratulated the council on the manner in which they filled this vacancy, openly and without haggling.

Mr. R. D. Davy has been appointed to fill the vacancy on council. A discussion took place on how to solve the problem of the traffic holdups on Dundas St., on Friday and also on Saturday. Mayor Smart and Councillor Douglas after spending an hour on Dundas St. at rush -hours have suggested that "no left turn" signs be placed at the intersections which now have traffic lights or perhaps, one way streets. Council will simply wait and Councillor Reid suggested that notices be stationed at these busy intersections as a guide to traffic flowing smoothly. This would necessitate the appointment of an adapter for manual control of the traffic lights.

Suggestions will be welcome from anyone and it is hoped the residents of Napanee will give some thought to the problem.

Tenders were opened for a the town hall. The tenders ranged from $1,700 to $182. These figures are about twice the estimated cost. Council have decided to wait until such time as the hall would be renovated to install new equipment, and will obtain a estimate on the repairs needed to prevent heating system.

Three by-laws were passed authorizing, the purchase of a refuse burner, the extension of the sewage works of the town by installation of a chlorinator at the sewage disposal plant at an estimted cost of $25,000, and the purchase of a building for the storing of public works equipment and supplies at a cost of $15,400.

Business Briefs

BY THE CANADIAN PRESS

EXPECT FIRM PRICES

Feeder and slaughter cattle prices in Canada and the United States are expected to remain firm for the balance of 1958, the federal agriculture department reports. The late-year seasonal drop is expected to be "somewhat smaller" than the last few years.

NO SUCCESSOR YET

A replacement for George Hees as president of the Canadian and Canadian stock exchanges will not be named immediately, J. Trevor Thompson, chairman of the Canadian exchange, indicated Friday.

MAY MERGE

The motor firms Rootes and Chrysler have started talks on amalgamation of their Australian interests in Melbourne. The board of Rootes Australia Ltd., said it appears probable an agreement would be reached with Chrysler. An announcement of discussions are taking place between Rootes Motors, Ltd., of Britain and Chrysler International of Geneva.

SET RECORD

Consumption of 357,000,000 pounds of butter by Canadians in 1964 was "the highest in history," says a report of the National Dairy Council of Canada. The report was presented this week at the annual meeting of the council in Banff, Alta.

Two Former PC Members Quit Politics

LOUISEVILLE, Que. (CP)—Remi Paul, a Quebec MP who left the Progressive Conservative party last February to become a Social Credit supporter announced Friday he is leaving federal politics. Mr. Paul, who has represented Berthier-Maskinonge-Delanaudiere since 1958, said:

"I want to be logical with myself. I realize it is not normal to be in politics alone. You have to work with a party and it is impossible for me to be in the Conservative party."

Mr. Paul, 44, left the Tories to become independent Feb. 18, almost two months before Leon Balcer, former leader of the Quebec Conservative MPs.

Both expressed extreme dissatisfaction with th party leadership of John Diefenbaker.

Mr. Balcer subsequently Wednesday from federal politics, and criticized Mr. Diefenbaker's policies as "personal" and "incomprehensible."

Wheat-state U.S. Senators Openly Envious of Canada

WASHINGTON (CP)—Wheat-state senators, openly envious of Canada's booming wheat sales to Russia and other Communist lands, pressed Friday for removal of shipping requirements they say restrict shipments of U.S. grain.

They got support from a senior state department witness before the Senate finance committee.

President Johnson has been reviewing the situation that half of any U.S. wheat shipments to eastern European countries be carried in U.S. vessels — a requirement which sharply raises costs.

Most committee members including chairman J. W. Fulbright seemed to take the view the restriction, imposed in July last year in 1963 and to make room for the American merchant marine, must go.

The purpose of the committee sessions is to examine the legality of the 50-per-cent requirement. George McGovern, Democrat from South Dakota, said there is no sense paying millions of dollars to curtail wheat sales to Russia, "when Canada and other exporters are moving up in the Communist market.

Canada, Australia, Argentina and France are rivals in these markets for all the wheat they can sell," McGovern said. He quoted Assistant Secretary of State Stuart Symington, Missouri, that every "Canadian farm has been cultivated to capacity because of the big cash market."

Not only were they planting fence to fence, said McGovern, but Canadians are getting the benefit of higher railway, port and general economic activity. Canada's wheat sales—about 222,000,000 bushels from Canada north some $450,000,000 — are triggering greater output by U.S. competitors such as Canada, said the South Dakota senator.

"The real issue is whether we are going to get that business or the Canadians are going to get it."

The U.S. paid a good chunk of wheat to Russia in 1963 after Russia's first huge purchase from Canada. But that has not been repeated because of the shipping restriction which drives the price up to the competitive range despite a U.S. wheat export subsidy totalling $97,000,000 for the fiscal year of 1964.

CONSIDERS MATTER

Thomas Mann, undersecretary of state for economic affairs, emphasized that Johnson is mulling over the situation and considering the effect of the U.S. economy—the farmer and the merchant sailor — have to be considered.

Mann said sale of wheat to Russia would be a favorable development and that these other ways to subsidize the shipping industry.

Coupled with Mann's evidence was a legal opinion by the state department. Richard Rosing, Russia can side-step the shipping restriction if it asks for U.S. ships in the first place.

The evidence was that the 1963 restriction, protected by a reservation in Canada's commercial treaties with the U.S. was regarded as legal for that sale only. If Russia made a normal commercial approach to Canada for wheat sales as she did in 1963, the shipping restriction might not be valid, it was suggested.

Democratic Senator Joseph Clark of Pennsylvania called the restriction illegal, unfair to U.S. farmers, unsound economically, futile and unwise at a time when the U.S. should be working toward better relations with Russia.

Border War in Asia Could Soon Rage Out of Control

By HAROLD MORRISON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Mainly because some world leaders are failing to provide forceful direction or are indecisive, the dangerous war on the border war in Asia has been allowed to deteriorate to the point where it is threatening to rage out of control and involve the world in a new holocaust.

China's ultimatum to India handed out in flinter fashion in the early hours of the night, unless it is withdrawn from China has demanded joint Sino-Indian investigation of recent military installations which Peking alleges are on the Chinese side of New Delhi has agreed to such joint inspection.

IDLE THREAT

The ultimatum also has demanded immediate dismantling of Indian installations on the border and has made the threat—as saying it will meet force with force. On some previous occasions, China made similar threats but did not carry them out, such as the threestened invasion of Quemoy and Matsu islands when the military situation have changed.

China is well aware there is a limit to the amount of war India can wage without outside help. The United States has stressed China not to interfere in the India-Pakistan fight but this warning has been ignored. China long has maintained that the U.S. is a paper tiger. The U.S. is engaged heavily in South Viet Nam and there is a question whether it would be willing to become bogged down on two fronts in Asia.

At the risk of antagonizing Pakistan, the United States began to help India but Britain's coffers have been diminished by economic troubles and the upheaval in Malaysia, another British responsibility demands constant attention.

SOVIET ACTIVITY

The Soviet Union has called on both India and Pakistan to end their conflict but there is grave doubt in the West whether in spite of India's pleas, the Soviet leadership would be willing to play any active role against a Chinese attack. The Soviet leadership is immersed in its Liberal Club,

Liberal Club Arranging Transportation

HAMILTON (CP) — The Liberal Club here is offering free transportation to university students from Hamilton to four Ontario cities so they can exercise their right to advance federal election polls Oct. 30 and Nov. 1.

Hundreds of students will be unable to vote on their campuses in the Nov. 8 election unless they have been registered and attending university when the election writs were issued.

Most Canadian universities declined to begin classes at that date.

Ronald Keast, second vice-president of the club, said Friday the transportation offer is being made to students from Hamilton attending universities in Toronto, St. Catharines, Waterloo and London.

He said students may arrange for the free transportation through the Liberal candidate in their riding or through the presidents of their University Liberal Clubs.

Douglas Says Election Call Is Invalid

VANCOUVER (CP) — T. C. Douglas, New Democratic Party leader, said Friday night the prime minister's reason for calling an election is invalid because the NDP told Mr. Pearson it would support his longdelayed legislation.

Mr. Douglas was speaking at a meeting which nominated Mrs. Grace MacInnis, 60, former MLA and daughter of CCF party founder J. S. Woodsworth, to contest the Vancouver-Kingsway riding for the party in the Nov. 8 federal election.

Mr. Douglas said the NDP had indicated it would support legislation promised by the Liberal party on a pension plan, medicare, collective bargaining for civil servants and other labor legislation.

He said the Liberals first promised a medical plan 45 years ago. The Liberals had taken NDP proposals and used them for their own platform.

"We don't mind them borrowing our clothes if they'd only wear them," he said. "But you can't borrow a man's pyjamas and only wear the top half. It's indecent."

The NDP leader also attacked the Canada-U.S. auto agreement as a "handout to the Big Three of the automobile industry." He said the legislation was never submitted to Parliament because the government wanted to pass it by order-in-council. Otherwise, he added, it would notice that an annual giveaway of $30,000,000 was being presented to the Big Three."

Mr. Douglas will officially launch the NDP campaign for the election at his nomination meeting in his B.C. riding of Burnaby-Coquitlam Sept. 24.

German Police Arrest Airman

KAISERLAUTERN (CP-AP) West German police Friday arrested a member of the RCAF, Edward Ziesmann, 28, whose wife and two small daughters earlier were found dead in the family's apartment.

Police said Ziesmann of Emerson, Man., was taken into custody at a hotel where he had been registered under a false name. He called to check it and if necessary charges will be laid.

New Ready Reading Series Found Much Superior

DESERONTO — At a meeting of the School Board Principal P Roach reported an attendance of 353 this term. In June enrolment was 351. He reported that the new mathematics course is being taken throughout the school, it is compulsory in grades 7 and 8 and 1 and 2 but the schools are taking it all the way. The primary division is taking the new reading series which seems much superior to former systems.

The truant officer reported that the perfect attendance record for last year and these pupils should be commended for their efforts and they were Donna Brooks. Marion Roebuck, Steven Knapp, Christopher Reid, Raymond Herman, Jeff Salder, Dennis Hyrtsak, Glen Law, Jimmie Gardner, Rosemary Edwards, Larry Roebuck, Kathy Caron, Earl Keith and Dick Reid.

A letter was received from the solicitor for the school board enclosing the registered deed for the former high school property, which will be transferred to the new school property on the new year, also to notify the board there will have to be a collection for six members in Public School Board effective January 1st. At present the board is paying the Education acting on High School and Public school matters.

A letter of resignation was received from the school nurse Mrs. T. Hawkins who was employed two days a week and applications are being accepted for the position.

NEED MORE ROOM

The board is calling for a meeting with the school trustees or to discuss the need for more room at the school. If an additional room is not constructed would likely pay for approximately 85% based on last year's financial statement.

The property committee reported that the town tractor and truck levelled and terraced out the back part of the property and added eight loads of gravel and topped with 15 loads of crushed stone, relieving a considerable amount of water and dirty ground. The building was painted on the exterior and two classrooms inside. There was a very bad rotting condition in the woodwork around the windows. Plaster boards by Allan Williams; Royal Flush by Rex Stout.

Plaster boards by Allan were replaced in part and there will have to be a study to decide what else will have to be done to replace more in the next year. The drainage system at the school is to have some corrections made immediately and a study as to what to do with the surface water.

It was reported that the High School was broken into by way of the basement window and some equipment broken and strewn about. The policeman was called to check it and if necessary charges will be laid.

Ice, 3, and Donna, 5, were found suffocated in their home. Police said a blanket had been used to smother them and no external injuries of any kind were found on the bodies.

Britain Copies Tiny States, Making Money From New Stamps

LONDON (Reuters) — Britain has learned a trick or two from such pocket handkerchief European states as Andorra, Monaco and San Marino.

Prime Minister Wilson's Labor government has issued more postage stamps than any previous British government.

But the move, though money-making, has also led to controversy—not about the issue of commemorative stamps as such, but about their designs. Both the Churchill issue and the Battle of Britain series have met with sharp criticism.

Postmaster - General Anthony Wedgwood Benn explained that he is trying "to escape altogether from the idea that stamps are simply convenient adhesive money labels for postal purposes, in some way linked with heraldry."

The bitterest criticism voiced both in Parliament and in the press, has been directed at the stamps designed to commemorate the 25th anniversary of the air Battle of Britain. One design shows the swastika-marked tail of a shot-down German fighter. Another shows a German cross on the wingtip of a Messerschmitt-109, overlapping the wingtip of a British Hawker Hurricane fighter.

In both cases, the German symbols seem to dominate the stamp—a feature much deprecated by many Britons who took part in the battle or suffered the misery of nightly wartime bombing.

One of the top British fighter pilots of the Second World War, Air Vice - Marshal "Johnnie" Johnson, described the new stamps as a "jolly good advertisement for the Luftwaffe."

And the legless fighter ace, Douglas Bader, commented: "Swastikas on British stamps? Nonsense. You can't have swastikas—and unless they are being shattered by a burst of machine-gun fire."

To critics, the government retorted that if looked at properly, the stamps correctly depict the Battle of Britain.

Erhard Scores Easy Win

BONN (Reuters) — Chancellor Ludwig Erhard's Christian Democrats today emerged unexpectedly easy victors from a federal election and prepared to continue their coalition rule with the minority Free Democrats.

Erhard, a 68-year-old former economics professor, not only defeated his Social Democratic opponents, led by West Berlin Mayor Willy Brandt, but also inflicted a telling reverse on powerful elements in his own party who were dissatisfied with his leadership.

Among them was Konrad Adenauer, the party's 89-year-old chairman and the man whom Erhard succeeded only two years ago.

The election results gave Erhard's party 15,202,974 votes to 12,711,776 for the Social Democrats. The turnout was 86.9 per cent of the eligible voters.

INCREASE EDGE

The Christian Democrats, in assuming their fifth successive four-year term of office, increased their share of the vote to 47.6 per cent compared with 45.3 per cent four years ago.

The Christian Democrats won 245 seats, the socialists 202 and the Free Democrats 49.

Political observers said that although the Social Democrats increased their share of the vote 3.1 per cent to 39.3 per cent, and despite the highest poll in their century-old history, there could be no more talk of a "grand coalition" between them and the Christian Democrats.

This was a possibility if the two major parties had tied in the election. But Erhard's defence minister Franz - Josef Strauss, one of the unknown factors in the coalition negotiations opening today, said the result made a grand coalition impossible.

The question now was whether Strauss, brilliant but widely feared as a potential exploiter of nationalist feelings, could impose his will and exploit his bloc of 48 Bavarian deputies to insist on a cabinet post over the objections of the Free Democrats.

U.S. May Direct Anti-missile System At China

OTTAWA (CP) — It now is taken for granted by defence planners here that the United States will not build a multi-billion-dollar system designed to destroy Russian missiles in space.

But the U.S. may go ahead with a less expensive anti-missile system designed to cope with rudimentary long - range rockets launched from Communist China.

In such a case, Canada, as a partner in North American Air Defence Command, may participate with research and money in construction of the system, informed sources say.

This kind of thinking on defence strategy indicates to what extent Red China instead of Russia now is being regarded as teh main threat to the West.

Defence officials say Russia is well aware of what the consequences would be of a nuclear exchange with the U.S. and is therefore highly unlikely to take any deliberate action which would result in such a calamity.

But Communist China had no such experience as the Russians in the 1962 Cuba missile crisis—and might ignore it even if it had. Consequently, some defence against a Chinese nuclear attack might have to be built in the next decade.

China has detonated two nuclear devices but as far as is known does not yet have the means to deliver nuclear bombs over long distances.

It seems now that External Affairs Minister Martin was prophetic when he made a speech in May calling on the nuclear powers to provide a guarantee against atomic attack for non-nuclear states. He was referring chiefly to India.

In present circumstances Russia now might be willing to join the U.S., Britain and

House Speaker Will Retire

OTTAWA (CP)—Alan McNaughton, Speaker of the House of Commons for the last 2½ years and M.P. for Montreal Mount Royal since 1949, announced today he will not seek re-election.

Mr. Macnaughton, 62, who was suggested earlier this year by Opposition leader Diefenbaker for the post of permanent Speaker of the House, cited family responsibilities, pressure of his private law practice and the physical strain of presiding over the last minority Parliament as reasons for not running.

Bloody Encounter In Viet Nam

From Reuters-AP

SAIGON (CP)—An American army officer today told how 250 of his men fought a pitched battle with 300 Viet Cong and killed 152 of them when the U.S. troops were set down mistakenly in the midst of a guerrilla battalion.

Lt.-Col. Wilfrid Smith told of the two-day encounter—the first one of the bloodiest encounters in the war—in the central highlands.

The 1½ companies of the 101st Airborne Division's Second Battalion 502nd Infantry—of which Col. Smith is commander — landed in mountainous terrain

Rivard Near End Of Trial

By JOHN LARLANC

LAREDO, Tex. (CP)—Lucien Rivard's fast and splashy ride through the worlds of crime and politics came to a critical point today in a small courtroom in this Texas town 1,800 miles from his Montreal home.

Lawyers for the alleged dope-ring mastermind and three Montreal co - defendants on smuggling conspiracy charges faced the task of breaking down four days of prosecution evidence—including that of two self-styled accomplices—purporting to link the accused to a network distributing heroin in huge quantities.

The United States government completed its case against the group Friday and today five defence lawyers were to open a presentation expected to last not more than a day.

Indications were the Canadian's fate would be placed in the hands of an all-male jury from Texas' Webb County some time Tuesday.

MAXIMUM 20 YEARS

Rivard, 50, central figure of Canada's influence - peddling scandal and a dramatic escape from Montreal's Bordeau jail last winter, faces penitentiary terms of a minimum five and maximum 20 years on each of two accusations.

His co-defendants — Charles Emile Gros leau, Julien Gagnon and Joseph Raymond Jones — are on trial on the single charge of conspiracy. The second charge against Rivard involves "causing" the smuggling of heroin. His co-defendants in this are two Mexican City operatives, who have not been brought.

According to evidence of two confessed dope couriers—Montreal waiters Roger Lapchance and Joseph Emile Caron—Rivard directed a crew that shipped dope in multi-million-dollar quantities into the United States by way of Cuba and Mexico.

Virtually all the basic evidence was in the word-of-mouth testimony of the two informers — both under tight

Chinese Troops Fire Across Indian Border In Sikkim and Ladakh

From AP-Reuters

NEW DELHI (CP) — Prime Minister Shastri said today Chinese troops are firing across the Sikkim frontier in two sectors.

The Chinese have started firing in the Sikkim area on the eastern front and in the Ladakh region of Kashmir state on the western front, Shastri said.

China's "basic objective," Shastri said, "is to attain a position of dominance in Asia."

The prime minister declared that notes and protests from Peking made it clear that:

"What China is looking for is not the redress of grievances, real or imaginary, but some excuse to start its aggressive activities again, this time in collusion with its ally Pakistan."

If China persists, Shastri said, "we shall defend ourselves by all the means at our disposal."

Socialist Leader Nath Pai honored in his first and demanded to know whether Indian units on the China frontier had been ordered to fire back. Shastri replied:

"I would merely wish to say we will resist them; we will fight them."

Shastri made no reply to the resolution passed earlier today by the UN Security Council in New York, demanding that India and Pakistan end their war within 48 hours.

REPLIES TUESDAY

The resolution deserves the Indian government's "most sacred consideration," Shastri said, adding he might make a statement on the UN move in Parliament today.

Shastri, addressing Parliament, then touched on China's charge that India constructed illegally 56 military posts on the Sikkim border or in neighboring Chinese territory.

If the posts stand in Chinese territory, he said, why can't the Chinese tear them down? If India sent troops to do the job as China demands, it would mean violating Chinese territory, he said.

Shastri today followed up the extension of its three-day bor-

Sikkim Exposed to War of Nerves As Chinese Troops Mass at Border

NATHU LA PASS, Sikkim (Reuters) — A tense war of nerves was being waged today at this key Himalayan mountain pass, with Indian troops in Sikkim and Chinese troops in Tibet only shouting distance apart.

Peking, in an extension of its original ultimatum last week, has given India until midnight Wednesday to dismantle military installations on the Chinese side of the border with the Indian - protected kingdom of Sikkim.

India, in a reply blending defiance and conciliation, has denied there are any Indian installations on the Chinese side of the border, offered to let an international inspection team visit the area, and warned the Chinese that India will fight with "grim determination" if attacked.

From the Indian observation post at the 14,000-foot pass, a group of newspaper men Sunday night heard Chinese soldiers shouting to each other, making no attempt at concealment.

The Indians, who estimate there are 1,900 Chinese troops in the area, said the Chinese started moving up toward the pass Saturday from their usual post about 4½ miles back.

Watching their movements in the Chumbi valley below, the Indian commanding general said: "If they cross the border we fire."

Some Chinese were only about 200 yards away in the valley, resting on a ledge or scaling cliffs leading to the border.

Nathu La, Pass is the key to the 25-mile road to the Sikkim capital of Gantok from the "dagger" of Tibet between Sikkim and Bhutan, another Himalayan territory.

Reports from other sectors said Chinese troops were "milling around" on their side of the border at four other passes in east Sikkim.

The swooping, corkscrew mountain road from Gangtok was built in 1958 to replace a mule track to Lhasa, capital of Tibet.

But in these same twisting valleys that China's army could find a mountain highway to the throat of India.

Major Party Leaders Make Early Plans to Electorate

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

A plea for a strong majority government by Prime Minister Pearson and a pledge of more federal aid to education by Opposition Leader Diefenbaker highlighted election campaign speeches by the two major party leaders during the weekend.

Despite delays when fogbound airports grounded their aircrafts landing, the prime minister was nominated in his Algoma East riding and returned to Ottawa Sunday, and Mr. Diefenbaker fulfilled his Ontario campaign tour with visit to Prince Albert, Sask., for his nomination meeting today.

In Espanola Saturday Mr. Pearson told 250 persons at his nomination that important negotiations with the provinces are in the offing and "these important federal-provincial negotiations can best be handled by a strong majority government."

He said "we will work in cooperation with the provinces but we want a strong central government to keep Canada strong and united."

At a picnic in Halton County, which police said drew between 1,000 and 2,000 persons, Mr. Diefenbaker asked voters to join in a crusade to "maintain, preserve and conserve by upholding principles of Confederation."

He said the Liberal party

Vatican Council Nears Religious Freedom Vote

VATICAN CITY (AP) — The Vatican ecumenical council moved today toward a vote of approval for the thesis that every man has the right to practice his religion openly, whatever it may be.

The vote was expected to take place later today or Tuesday.

The last speakers lined up their arguments for and against the declaration on religious liberty, one of the most hard-fought issues of the council.

An approval vote doesn't mean the religious liberty declaration is finished and decreed. Instead, the text becomes another item for major changes while a subcommittee of the Vatican's Christian unity secretariat looks over suggested amendments made in council speeches or in writing.

No suggestion that runs counter to the spirit and basic principles of the declaration can be accepted, however, under council rules. Later in this session the final council session, the declaration will go back to the bishops for chapter - by - chapter voting and a final overall vote before Pope Paul and the entire assembly can make their decree.

Quebec PC's Beg Roblin 'Join Conservatives Now'

ST. HYACINTHE, Que. (CP) — A band of 200 Quebec Conservative organizers huddled in a closed-door all-day meeting Monday to map strategy for the Nov. 8 election.

A resolution was passed unanimously at the meeting describing Marcel Faribault of Montreal, president of Trust General du Canada, as a "great Canadian" who could serve Canada and a Conservative government well after Nov. 8.

Mr. Faribault, who said on the weekend that the question of his seeking nomination as a Conservative was "hypothetical," was not present.

The meeting also sent a terse telegram to Manitoba Premier Duff Roblin which read: "We beg you to join the Conservative party now, repeat now."

Mr. Roblin leads the Manitoba Conservative party.

Theogene Ricard, MP for St. Hyacinthe - Bagot in the last Parliament and leader of eight Quebec conservative members in the Commons, spoke later of the "determination" of the party to "win this election."

"Everyone has lost confidence in the Pearson government. The Canadian people are an honest people."

Girls Faint, Youth Stabbed, Toronto Go-Go Cut Short

TORONTO (CP)—Toronto A-Go-Go — the cuisine teen - age rook'n'roll celebration of the opening of Toronto's new city hall—got out of hand Saturday night and the final night of the city's week-long celebration was marred by:

—The stabbing of a youth who was taken to hospital in critical condition;

—Struggles for nearly two hours between more than 200 police and unruly crowds;

—Near - hysteria among the nearly 60,000 teenagers that forced Mayor Phillips to plead several times for order and finally resulted in his stopping the show early.

In the course of the show, during which several girls fainted, Mayor Givens joined popular singer Bobby Curtola in a chorus of When the Saints Going Marching In.

But at other times he and Dennis Flynn, city supervisor of public information, went on the stage set up on the square four or five times each to plead for order — without success. Mr. Flynn asked the entertainers to keep their body movements to a minimum.

Finally, as grimed-faced police struggled to keep hysterical girls from the stage where Jon Lee and The Checkmates were performing, Mr. Flynn advised the mayor to stop the show.

Lee was carried moaning and writhing from the platform as the major pressed a button for the finale of fireworks.

A go-go is a catch-all name for a dance craze of the 1960s and includes the frug, watusi, the dog, scrubwoman, back stroke and other new dances which succeeded the twist.

Toronto disc jockey Brian Skinner suggested this definition: "Any dance-like go, go, go, continuous action; like people people on the go."

Robert Batt, 19, of Toronto, was stabbed in the chest by one of four youths in view of hundreds of spectators.

A hospital official said Sunday his condition was "improved but still serious."

The four youths disappeared into the crowd. Police said the attack may have occurred after remarks about the assailants' clothes. The victim was said to have been dressed like Beatles.

THE LEADER AND POSSIBLE SUCCESSOR — Progressive Conservative leader Diefenbaker and Conservative Premier Roblin of Manitoba walked and chatted their way through crowds gathered at the Winnipg airport Saturday night. It was the 70th birthday for Mr. Diefenbaker, en route to his home riding of Prince Albert. There was no word during the airport stopover, however, about whether Mr. Roblin will enter federal politics. He is considered a possible successor to Mr. Diefenbaker as national leader, once Mr. Diefenbaker steps down.

Air Drops of Rattle Snakes Suggested to Beat Viet Cong

WASHINGTON AP) — Air drops of rattlesnakes, itching powder and carpet tacks . . . one-way mirrors to make U.S. soldiers invisible . . . a chain link fence to keep Communist reinforcements out of South Viet Nam. .

These are some of the hundreds of suggestions sent to the defence of how to win in Viet Nam.

Such letters arrive at the office of Defence Secretary Robert S. McNamara at the rate of about 40 or 50 a week. Others go directly to the various armed services.

No matter how odd an idea may seem, the author gets a thank you letter from the defence department.

POINTED SUGGESTION

A San Diego, Calif., man wrote:

"Where it is impossible to see the Viet Cong, would it be a good idea to drop tons of extra sharp carpet tacks . . . saturate the ground with these tacks?"

Another man, from Huntington, Calif., thought of collecting rattlesnakes from areas where the Viet Cong are most likely to hide."

A resident of Charleston, Ill., sat down and sketched out his concept of pumping soapsuds into caves where the Viet Cong might be hiding, thus cutting off air and either smothering the enemy or forcing him into the open.

There was a Chicago man who wrote that, to combat detection, "I propose that each helicopter have a set of 'diapers' of various colors, to match each of the more common-sky colors as they vary with the seasons. They could be snapped, pinned, or tied onto the underside of the helicopter."

Car Dealer's Safe Rifled Over Weekend

Thieves looted the office of a Belleville car dealer over the weekend — staging the city's first safe robbery in a year.

However, police say company officials at Kennedy Chrysler on Plymouth Ltd., North Front Street, believe there was not too much ready cash in the safe.

The burglary was staged after thieves used a ladder at the rear of the premises to climb on the roof and enter through a skylight. Police said the window showed no signs of being forced.

Armed with an acetylene torch taken from the motor workshop, the thieves then went to the offices on the second floor and wheeled the safe into the adjacent furnace room.

Police were called when a cleaning woman found the safe cut open and rifled yesterday afternoon.

15½-pound Pike Hooked In North Waters

In an unnamed lake near Mountain Grove north of No. 7 Highway, John Fair, 16, of R. R. 4 Belleville, had the thrill of his life over the weekend. Trolling with a silver spinner with three hooks the boat was jerked with a heavy strike and after a long tussle the youth boated a 15½-pound pike. The fish was forty inches long and had a girth of 15 inches.

In the same water and nearly at the same time a United States tourist picked up a 13½-pound beauty.

Manila Family In Midst Of Scandal

MANILA (AP)—The grandniece of former president Elpidio Quirino Laurel was accused Sunday as a wife-killer and the controversial Philippine family found itself in the midst of scandal.

The grandson, Jaime (Dado) Laurel, 27, was in Hong Kong when police named him as the slayer of his estranged wife, Estelita, and a man, Armando Silva.

Laurel surrounded by body guards and friends at the airport, flew off Saturday as a force of police entered the airport in what they said was a last-minute effort to arrest him.

Later, Lt.-Col. Enrique Morales announced:

"On the strength of evidence on hand young Laurel is now wanted by the police for parricide and murder."

TALKS TO INTERPOL

He said he would approach Interpol (the international police organization) to try to arrange the arrest of Laurel.

Laurel's grandfather, Jose Laurel Jr., is a congressman from Batangas. His grandfather served as president under the Japanese occupation and came close to winning the second post of presidential election.

His service under the Japanese is viewed by most Filipinos as a betrayal of loyalty which saved the country much grief.

After Laurel left the country Saturday, police arrested Nonie Stevens Tayag, 27, a bit player in Philippine movies. Police said he was the lookout on the murder night.

CN Machinist Dies Instantly In Car Crash

A 51-year-old Belleville man died early Sunday morning when his car drove across a highway intersection and crashed in a ditch outside Foxboro.

Belleville instantly killed was Foster Ian Twiddy, 78 Benjamin Street.

Mr. Twiddy was driving south along the old section of Highway 2 when the accident occurred. Police say his car did not stop at the intersection with the new stretch of highway, which now bypasses Foxboro. It continued across the road and into the ditch. There were no skidmarks.

The wreck was first noticed by a passing motorist, who called the provincial police in Belleville at 2 a.m.

Born at Madoc, Mr. Twiddy was the son of Mrs. Mabel Twiddy and the late Mason Twiddy and had lived in the city for the past 24 years, where he was a machinist with the Canadian National Railways.

Mauled by Grizzly Bear

HINTON, Alta. (CP) — Two men were badly mauled by a grizzly bear this week in the Rocky Mountain foothills 180 miles west of Edmonton and are recovering in hospital.

An RCMP constable here told of how the 300-pound prizly attacked an experienced game warden and a hunter, in a three hour shot and killed by the constable Friday.

Conservation Hart of Hinton was severely mauled Thursday after he and a group of hunters encountered the bear while bush for an elk they had shot earlier in the day.

Hart, 37, and two cubs had been feasting on the carcass. The hunters apparently were attempting to remove the meat when Mr. Hart turned and saw the bear lunging at him. He shot and wounded it.

The attack put Mr. Hart in hospital with a badly lacerated lung, torn liver and a badly chewed arm.

Game Warden Don Crawford set out to find the bear. The wounded animal attacked him about five minutes from where it had mauled Mr. Hart, stashing his arm and leg.

Const. R. M. Bjornson and the assistant game warden, Wilson, took aim and out to find the bear shortly after Mr. Crawford and killed the animal moments after it attacked the game warden.

Const. Bjornson said Mr. Crawford would probably need "about 300 stitches" in his face as the result of the attack.

Sales and Ad Club to Open 17th Season

The Belleville Sales and Advertising Club will open its 17th season tomorrow evening (Tuesday) at the Knights of Columbus Hall on Front Street.

In keeping with a program aimed at giving special attention to the area of retail sales and consumer relations this year, the guest speaker for the opening meeting will be Professor Carl A. Lawrence, Assistant Professor of Marketing, School of Business, Queen's University, Kingston.

Professor Lawrence had chosen as his topic, the changes taking place in the Downtown section of modern cities, and how these changes are affecting the independent merchant and his customers.

Although now pursuing an academic career, Professor Lawrence has not always led the ivy covered walled life. Following his early education, which included a B.Sc. degree from McGill University in Montreal, and an M.B.A. graduate status from Wharton School of Finance at the University of Pennsylvania, Professor Lawrence joined the Dominion Steel Company Stainless at Kitchener and acted as a sales representative for that firm during the early years. Later he carried out market research activities for the Dow Chemical Company of Canada.

Frogmen Take Body From Burning Ship

MONTREAL (CP) — Frogmen recovered a body from the burning freighter Fort William Sunday night, bringing to four the number recovered from the explosion-battered vessel.

Three other victims were recovered by divers earlier on the weekend. The body of a fifth man is believed still trapped aboard the Canada Steamship Lines 8,000-ton ship.

The identity of the four recovered men has not yet been established but the five killed in Tuesday morning's blast were identified earlier by CSL.

They are: Claude Laroche, 22, of Quebec; Denis Beaudoin, 22, Cap de la Madeleine, Que.; Jean-Charles Menard, 32, L'Islet, Que.; Arnold Urstadt, 43, Desborough, Ont.; and George Barber of Toronto.

The Fort William, which was launched only last April, had just arrived in Montreal from Hamilton when the blast occurred.

Survivors said she had listed from one side to the other throughout the voyage.

The freighter is lying on her side at Pier 65 in Montreal Harbor.

At least 60 persons died in traffic mishaps, including seven in a two-car collision in Quebec, as Canada's accidental death toll mounted to 73 during the weekend.

A Canadian Press survey from 6 p.m. Friday to midnight Sunday local times included, in addition to the road deaths, seven drownings, two fire deaths and four unclassified fatalities.

Ontario reported a total of 26 deaths—21 traffic, two drownings, two in fires and one when a man fell from a roof.

Quebec's two-car crash occurred 30 miles west of Quebec City and the seven dead were from one family, bringing the province's road death total to 18. There was also one drowning and a baby smothered in blankets.

Nova Scotia reported five traffic fatalities and a drowning; Newfoundland had a traffic death and a drowning; and New Brunswick had two traffic deaths. Prince Edward Island remained fatality free.

HELICOPTER CRASHES

In the West, British Columbia reported three traffic deaths, two drownings and one person killed in a helicopter crash. Alberta had six road fatalities and Saskatchewan three. In Manitoba, a woman died when she stumbled into the path of a train.

B-A Refinery In Moose Jaw Strike-bound

BY THE CANADIAN PRESS

All 186 union workers went on strike early Monday at the British - American Oil Co. refinery in Moose Jaw.

Other BA workers have gone on strike at Clarkson, Ont., Saskatoon, Kamloops, B.C., and Port Moody, B.C.

Workers at the Brandon BA refinery were considering strike action. The three other BA refineries at Calgary, Edmonton and Montreal—have independent bargaining units.

The unions, seeking higher pay and job security, have said the settlement with BA will be a pacesetter for the entire industry.

Gates were locked at 12:01 a.m. today as 186 members of Local 9665, Oil, Chemical and Atomic Workers International Union (CLC), struck BA's Moose Jaw refinery.

S. W. Simmons, Moose Jaw representative of the OCAW, said the union entered with no union workers attempting to cross a picket line manned by 60 workmen.

Rene Levesque Will Not Cross Picket Lines

MONTREAL (CP)—Rene Levesque, Quebec natural resources minister, said Sunday he will not cross Hydro-Quebec office workers' picket lines to enter his offices in Hydro-Quebec headquarters in downtown Montreal.

The 1,525 white-collar workers throughout Quebec struck at midnight Saturday after unsuccessful last-minute negotiations over demands for job security. The largest concentration of office workers is at the Hydro-Quebec Building on Dorchester Boulevard at the centre of the city.

Jean-Claude Dion, president of the independent union, said the strike would not affect electrical service but only such office functions as the sending out of electricity bills and the processing of customers' accounts.

Mr. Levesque said in an interview that "by instinct and conviction" he would not cross the picket lines, but added that his refusal to cross the lines did not mean he supported the strike. He said he would use his offices in his Laurier constituency.

Talks have stalled on the issue of seniority rights for workers in Hydro Quebec's subsidiary power companies, including Shawinigan, Quebec Power and Southern Canada Power.

Mayor Ellis Signs Scroll As Centennial Cavalcade For S.A. Visits City

The Salvation Army — the church with the keen social conscience—is celebrating its 100th anniversary.

In connection with the centenary celebrations, the Army's Trans-Canada Centenary Cavalcade was in Belleville Saturday.

The two officers from the cavalcade, Capt. Bruce Robertson and Major William Leslie, visited the city hall, where Mayor Jack Ellis signed the official cavalcade scroll.

The scroll, emphasizing the idea of the Army's centennial has been signed wherever the cavalcade went, including the signatures of Prime Minister Lester B. Pearson, Premier Joey Smallwood and Governor-General Vanier, plus the signatures of mayors and other dignitaries from St. John, Newfoundland, where the cavalcade started, to Belleville.

Capt. Robertson explained, "The cavalcade is just one of the many ways the Army is emphasizing its centenary year. It is a purely Canadian idea.

"We travel from municipality to municipality and have the mayor or other dignitaries sign the scroll.

"The cavalcade will be in Ontario for the next month before going west. We expect to complete the trip in Vancouver on November 19."

Capt. Robertson and Major Leslie will not be with the cavalcade all the way to Vancouver. The cavalcade's crew changes every couple of weeks.

WELCOMED BY MAYOR

Capt. Robertson, whose home is in Victoria, has been in Bermuda for the past three years. He is now stationed in Toronto, where he is in the Territorial Music Department.

Major Leslie is stationed in his home of Vancouver. He works in the Army's Home Light Service, a service for the rehabilitation of alcoholics.

The scroll-signing ceremonies were held at the City Hall, with Mayor Jack Ellis and City Manager, J. R. Reynolds in attendance along with Army officials, the Army band and a large number of Salvationists.

Brig. B. Bernat of Belleville offered a word of welcome to the cavalcade and the gathered dignitaries, "It is indeed a pleasure to welcome you here today," he said, "this being the 100th year of the Salvation Army. It is the hope of the cavalcade that they will reach as many people as possible with the word of our Lord, Jesus Christ.

"The cavalcade will stop in over 100 communities before reaching Vancouver."

Mayor Jack Ellis said, "I am very proud to be here today. The city has many things in common with the Salvation Army, such as the Army's welfare services and so many other things that the Army is so well known for in this community.

"I feel very honored signing the scroll with so many other famous personages on it, and with the many others that will be on it.

"I wish to welcome the cavalcade to Belleville and wish it God speed on its travels."

OFFICIALS SIGN BOOK

Divisional Commander Brig W. Hawkes said, "This cavalcade brings together the Salvationists in a commemorative atmosphere and also in a challenging atmosphere.

"It reminds us of what has been done and challenges us about what can be. We can do very little about what has been done, but we are responsible for what can be done in the future."

Speaking for the cavalcade, Major Leslie said, "We are very happy to be here on this memorable occasion and grateful to the Lord for His blessing that has rested on us so far.

"We can only trust that this cavalcade will help to spread the word of God across Canada."

After Mayor Ellis signed the scroll, acknowledging the meritorious service rendered by the Army in this community, the Salvationist officials signed the Official Guest Book of the City of Belleville. Signing the book were, Brig. Hawkes, Brig. Bernat, Major Leslie and Capt. Robertson.

Major Leslie offered a vocal message after the signing was complete. After the City Hall ceremonies the gathering held open air services at the Hastings Manor and the Rite-way Plaza.

Mayor Ellis will be sent a reproduction of the scroll when all the names have been signed to it. The scroll itself, will hang in the Territorial museum in Toronto.

The scroll was designed by Professor Steffan of the University of Toronto. It is beautifully hand painted in Old English script, and contains all the provincial shields.

The Salvation Army started in 1865 in the east end of London. William and Catherine Booth, Methodist Church preachers, saw the destitution of the people living around them and decided to form a local mission.

The Salvation Army evolved from this humble beginning to what is now a world-wide organization, active in over 60 countries and colonies.

Father Goes To Assistance Of Daughter

COOKSVILLE, Ont. (CP)—Joseph Gladman left his home in this suburban Toronto community Saturday night for Forest City, Ark., where his daughter was to be tried today on a charge of contributing to juvenile delinquency.

Patricia Gladman, 22, telephoned her mother shortly after Mr. Gladman's departure to say she was free on $1,000 bail, put up by local people.

Patricia, an honors undergraduate at the University of Western Ontario, London, is a volunteer worker with the Student Non-violent Co-ordinating Committee in Forest City.

She was charged after a protest march against segregated schools by more than 200 students from the all-Negro high school there Friday.

Most of the marchers, ranging in age from 13 to 19, were charged with disturbing the peace and during trials Friday and Saturday were given fines of $20 to $200 and jail terms of 20 to 60 days.

Millard Lowe, 22, of El Campo, Tex., publicity agent for the Arkansas project of the Student Non-violent Co-ordinating Committee, was fined $500 and given one year in jail on a charge similar to that against Miss Gladman.

Commonwealth Contacts

Dr. D. P. Kent of Oxford University points out that there is a "steady number of applications from Canada for admission to Oxford, generally in the fields of economics and history."

Visiting Windsor's Canterbury College recently, Dr. Kent said: "Having Canadians come to Oxford to do post-graduate work is one way of building the Commonwealth together."

The Oxford educationist has made a good point. There is so much emphasis today on cultural exchanges between east and west, and the sending of various experts to assist the people of under-developed countries that it is easy to overlook the need for effecting contacts between our own widely-scattered peoples.

Commonwealth contacts are at best infrequent and mostly on an official level. There is little communication between the people themselves. The result is that just as there are some young American conscripts who wonder where an earth is this place Vietnam that they are being sent to, so there are Canadians who could not tell an Australian from a New Zealander or an aborigine from a Maori.

Similar ignorance prevails in other countries about Canada. The Mountie image is the one uppermost in the minds of most people overseas, and it was revealing to witness some of the delegates to the Inter-parliamentary conference in Ottawa having themselves photographed beside the Mounties on Parliament Hill, just like any other tourist.

Certainly, the legendary status the force has built up is a powerful one, and when an overseas visitor sees a Mountie in the flesh it is as if a life's ambition has been fulfilled and the visitor can return to his homeland and say the men in scarlet really exist.

At the same time the visitor absorbs other facets of the Canadian scene and that is all to the good. May such exchanges continue, between all nations, Commonwealth and others, but let us not neglect those between our own kith and kin across the world.

Varsity Men Rough It

Members of the faculty of Lakehead University, Northwestern Ontario's fledgling institution of higher learning, must be tough as befits the spirit and traditions of the north country.

According to Andrew Oiler, the Toronto Star's education writer, survival kits will be issued to the university's professors this winter. "Almost to a man," says Oiler, they volunteer free evenings and weekends to take higher education wherever there is a demand for it in small communities up to 200 miles from the Lakehead — isolated places like Marathon and Manitouwadge, Geraldton and Nipigon.

They take with them blankets, pimius stoves and food — just in case. "I should have insisted on survival kits last year," Dr. Tom Miller, the university's director of extension, told Oiler. Luckily we got into serious trouble, but one member of the staff wrote off two cars during the winter, once when he collided with a moose. He killed it, but its mate attacked him and he had to fight it off with a shovel.

There is still something of the frontier up there on the fringe of Lake Superior. It is not so long since the days of the fur traders and the settlers pushed west with the railroad. A department of northern studies is planned and the university may eventually develop a degree course in pulp and paper technology. This could scarcely be more appropriate in an area whose economy depends to a large extent on forestry. Alone among Ontario's universities, Lakehead also offers non-degree courses in engineering, mining, architecture, business and nursing.

Hurricane's Aftermath

Canadians may count themselves fortunate they are not subjected to the kind of ordeal the people of the Bahamas and the southern United States underwent recently. The Bahamas, Florida and Louisiana suffered extensive damage from Hurricane Betsy and at least 50 people lost their lives.

No sooner had the hurricane subsided than a series of late summer storms and tornadoes hit the mid-west. The Peoria, Ill., region took the brunt of the disturbances as vicious winds, pounding rain and hail slashed across the lush central Illinois-cropland. The entire roof of Peoria's Norwood School was torn off by a tornado as 50 students and teachers took refuge in the basement.

Originating in Iowa, the storms moved across Illinois into Indiana. Tornado warnings were posted as far east of the storm system as Toledo and Windsor. Winds up to 50 m.p.h. and lightning hit the Ontario city.

Such is the awesome power built up by the pressure systems in the flat expanses of the mid-west. Up here the weather is tame by comparison.

When my sonnet was rejected, I exclaimed, "Damn the age; I will write for Antiquity!"
Charles Lamb.

Kids 'Killed' by Jargon

St. Catharines Standard

There's a booklet out about how to get children to do simple things, comments The Observation Post, the monthly magazine of the Ontario Paper Company Limited and its affiliates. But, continues The Post, do you think that it has come out and says so? No, sir. It tells you how to get the child to "effectuate this activity."

And a little further along there is this gem: "Correlation between mental ability and reading corroborate the findings of other investigations on these factors and, in general, indicate that more capable students are more successful in reading than less able students." This probably means that smarter children read better than those not so smart. And who would have thought it was necessary to have a high-powered study to find that out!

It also means that it's old-fashioned to "talk" anything these days nowadays we "carry on a dialogue," and we "exercise our communication skills." Even "talking back" is now "horizontal" communication, which probably means that you can talk to somebody either while you are standing up or lying down.

One more before this "dialogue" ends: "The male students showed a low level of subject involvement with female counterparts insofar as playground activities were concerned." Or, the boys didn't want to play with the girls.

There are many more, but perhaps it might help us all if there was a high level of subjective involvement in calling a spade a spade, and in recognizing a mishmash a mishmash, not creating a mountain out of it.

Rebels Make Their Point

Regina Leader-Post

A great deal of nonsense as well as much sense has been heard in recent years from those who have views on the subject of the younger generation. Nearly everyone has views of some sort — parents, teachers, magistrates and policemen, psychiatrists, and sociologists. And, of course, the tees-agers, themselves.

It is a very rash person who presumes to be dogmatic on so complex a subject, but even by way of a paralysis of analysis in respect to causes on the one hand or an overweight of cure on the other. Certainly, there is a good deal of rebelliousness in many of today's young people, and rebels — particularly in groups — have a way of making themselves heard and causing embarrassment all around. That is not to say they are always wrong.

Sometimes one meets, singly or in groups, rebels without a cause — who just like to be rebels. Sometimes they have a cause and a just one. As in many other areas of protest, extremists attract the most attention.

Children Crossing

St. Mary's Journal - Argus

On the first morning of school we watched as a couple of little tow-headed girls tried to cross Queen Street bound on a new adventure.

An older person was helping to see that they did not try to cross the street at a dangerous time, but even then they had quite a bit of difficulty in finding just the right moment to cross.

Why do the people who rushed past them in cars and trucks find it so necessary to overlook these little tots? Our police can only patrol one or two intersections at most, and the school crossing guards are only on duty at the most vital spots.

What we need is more cooperation from the common every-day motorist. We it is perfectly obvious that small children are waiting to cross the street should they not only and allow them to do so in perfect safety?

Experience Can Blur Our Minds

BY SYDNEY J. HARRIS

What has four legs, a tail, eats hay, and sees equally well in both ends?

The answer, dear friends, is "a blind horse." It took me half a trip from coast to coast in Wisconsin to Chicago to guess it. My daughter said that all her friends at school got it in a few minutes — and harder ones than this.

A child's agility in answering riddles that confound his more intelligent elders (myself) is a good deal of light, I think, on the "childishness" that has so often been condemned in genius.

Experience teaches most grown-ups to look for the expected, but the what-has-happened-before to happen again. We are creatures of logic and order — which is to say, we are victims of rigid patterns of thinking and observing.

The true genius seems to be simple, almost babyish, because he has never relinquished his sense of wonder. Like the child, he is not satisfied with the glib answer, but keeps on questions. It takes a stubborn and persevering mind to keep asking, like Newton, why the apple falls down from a tree, and not up. It is precisely the question a child asks.

Einstein's simplicity of character (and his utter naivete of the world's incessant politics for instance) is another classic example of the grown man and child combined, the habit of asking persistent questions about "self-evident" facts.

Everybody knows that space and time were — except Einstein, who determined to find out.

Freud's research into the unconscious — despite his clinical and sophisticated approach — also resembled the child's unwillingness to accept perhaps the greatest of earthly compositors — a Titan wrestling nobly with the problem of human fate. But Mozart's music, to me, is more than human; it is almost divine, because his creator relished a childish wonder and exaltation not to be found in any other composer.

When the Bible tells us that a little child shall lead us, I think it means exactly this: that only those whose eyes have not become burned by experience and whose minds have not become corrupted by conformity can take us into the divine where we glimpse, however dimly, the glory of the universe.

Ontario Impresses With Its Size

Ottawa Journal

One of the biggest impressions to be gained by a drive west on the Trans-Canada Highway is the sheer size of Ontario. Leaving from the Ottawa Valley around sun-up, a traveller is happy to make 500 miles and reach Sault St. Marie by supper-time. About halfway through the next day while he is pushing hard to make a still distant Port Arthur by evening, he begins to feel Ontario is never going to end. Soon after the third day brings Kenora, of weather forecast fame, and the traveller finds it hard to believe that Manitoba is only an hour away. But Manitoba is there and, surprisingly a steady afternoon of driving can carry the traveller clear into Saskatchewan from Kenora.

The road through Northern Ontario winds and rolls, of course, along with the often spectacular terrain around the Great Lakes. This makes the province seem wider than it is, but so do the too numerous stretches of rough road on the Trans-Canada route through Ontario.

Many, but not all, of these are under construction, offering hope for future Trans-Canada motorists.

Some of the best stretches of the highway in Ontario are through the barely habitated area between the Sault and Kenora. Some of the worst stretches are there too, and even a driver who understands Manitoba's problem will so much territory can't help urging an increase in temps of the road building. Among the low points of the cross-Ontario trip are the painful crawls through the bears of places such as Pembroke and Sudbury on clogged streets not worthy of a trans-Canada route. Far from encouraging a traveller to stop and perhaps shop a while these bottlenecks only make him yearn for the open road. The sooner the concert bypassed, should be hurried.

After 3,200 miles of Trans-Canada driving a motorist is reassured to have seen only four or five cars of drivers taking foolish risks. There are annoying slow-downs when underpowered cars pulling large trailers creep up hills, and the slow driver who pulls over to the road shoulder to let a line of traffic pass never seems to be welcome. The "civilians" should learn from professional truck drivers who regularly wave faster traffic by them in hilly terrain.

But for all the annoyances the experience of driving this road is an educational one. Not the least of an Ontario driver's surprises is the odd feeling of being a foreigner in his own province, so numerous are out-of-province licence plates along the route around the lakes.

Latin Takes A Back Seat

E. Zolla

In Corriere della Sera, Milan

The elimination of the classics from the lower school curriculum in the United States has been touted as a great democratic victory. Now the forces of darkness threaten to suppress the study of Greek and Latin in European schools, but the conservatives react with the unusual charge that such suppression is anti-democratic.

"The first argument in favor of suppressing Latin goes: 'Latin is a class privilege.' Although common sense would lead us to conclude that it should therefore be made available to all, the liberal conclusion is: 'Let us therefore take it away from the few who have it.'

"The second argument goes: 'Since students no longer learn their Latin well, let us therefore eliminate it altogether' — which is like saying 'If Chinese laborers are content with a bowl of rice, one might just as well take that away from them.'

"The third and silliest argument runs: 'Let's leave Latin to the specialists in dead 'languages'' — which is tantamount to saying that only porters should be in good physical condition; only waiters should learn discretion and that only actors should enunciate clearly.

To Your Good Health
Spinal Taps Provide Variety of Information

By JOSEPH G. MOLNER, M.D.

Dear Dr. Molner: What is meant when a doctor says spinal taps are "running a little high"?

Can these leave a person with backaches for months to come? What do spinal taps actually reveal to a doctor? — E. J. A.

A little fluid is taken (by means of a fine needle) from the spinal column. And so, spinal taps don't leave a person with backaches for months, any more than you are left with a permanent pain after a little blood has been drawn for tests, or you have had a vaccination or inoculation.

Once the tap has been made, a microscopic cell count will tell whether infection or bleeding exists in the brain, since this spinal canal connects with the brain. In short, taps tests brain fluids without the necessity of gaining access to that organ itself.

In some cases, the color of the liquid is sufficient to show whether there has been bleeding. In others, special tests are used.

Laboratory cultures of the fluid may yield germs, such as the tuberculosis organism, or those responsible for meningitis.

Chemical tests will show whether the sugar or protein levels are higher than they should be.

Pressure as the fluid is being obtained gives a clue involving its circulation.

Serological tests reveal the presence of syphilis in the central nervous system. And so on.

Thus when your doctor says "taps are running a little high," his exact meaning depends on which of these or other tests he may be using.

If laboratory tests can become very complicated and they reveal a great deal of information, but taking the taps is a relatively uncomplicated procedure.

Dear Dr. Molner: Is there a difference between duodenal ulcer and peptic ulcers? Like the lady wrote to you, I never had any idea that I had an ulcer, at the age of 85, until I had an upset stomach." Kenneth Cockeel. "duodenal ulcer.

By following the doctor's instructions I am better but I feel that any good information will help, so please send me your booklet on "How to Heal Peptic Ulcers and Keep Them Healed." I enclose the required stamped, self-addressed envelope and 20 cents in coin. — O. A. F.

This goes to show that there is no special age for ulcers. Even infants sometimes develop them.

A duodenal ulcer is one kind of peptic ulcer. A gastric ulcer is another kind. The difference is in the location — in the stomach (gastric) or at the duodenum, which is the dividing area between stomach and small intestine.

The latter type is the more common, and less dangerous.

Most duodenal ulcers can be cured in bed for a week or two (on your doctor's instructions, but it often helps if you understand why his orders are important.

Dear Dr. Molner: Can you settle a disagreement? When my husband's sister was about 10, her elder cousin hypnotized her. They claim he touched her arm with a pencil, telling her it was a hot poker. Result: She jumped from the "pain", which I can accept, but they say she left a blister. Can a pencil do this be so? This happened about a dozen years ago, and as they were young, I think imagination has a little bit to do with the blister. — Mrs. M. L.

* * *

Hypnosis, a curiously powerful force, can do strange things but not the impossible. (And very often it won't do anything, because a lot of people can't or won't let anyone hypnotize them.)

A trick like the one you describe can result in a rash or skin eruption under the spell of hypnosis. It might look like a blister. But a real blister, No, I don't think so.

A Dour Lot!

Peterborough Examiner

John Kenneth Galbraith, former United States Ambassador to India, now a Harvard professor and a Canadian by birth himself, says he observes a deeply pessimistic note in the Canadian character. Although the veracity of this often heard criticism is open to question, there is little doubt that there will be many Canadians who will hasten to agree with the professor. Canadians are notoriously amenable to suggestion when it comes to accepting all forms of criticism.

GLEANINGS FROM OUR FYLES OF BYGONE YEARS

20 YEARS AGO

September 30th, 1943

Motorists did not have to wait at all for the lifting of the rationing system on the purchase of gasoline. When Washington removed this restriction Canada followed immediately.

The early ending of the 27 zones war which was long ahead of general expectations will thus make possible a resumption, to a considerable amount of motoring, depending of course on the condition of cars and tires. Increase in motoring will be one of the factors bringing the public to a full realization that the war is over, the proof being in the unlimited use of gas.

From the standpoint of the tourist trade, the lifting of restraints will mean an increased type of Canadian and American automobiles in both countries and will be travel to a neighbor country, more guests at hotels, more visitors to restaurants and a general revival of the freedom from restriction which comes as a result of the ending of hostilities.

Bemersyde Chapter IODE Considers Revision of Order

CAMPBELLFORD — Bemersyde Chapter I.O.D.E. held a dinner meeting at the cottage home of Mrs. J. O. Benor on Thursday evening with about 40 members present.

A letter was read from National headquarters saying in part "The national executive has received over the past few years requests from several provinces that the I.O.D.E. present a more modern look. With this in view a questionnaire is being presented to all primary chapters simply, to obtain an expression of opinion from the members.

If a change is evident from replies it would take the minimum of a year working with a legal adviser to redraft the charter before it would be presented to a national annual meeting for a delegated vote."

Should the majority vote in favor of redrafting the charter it would then have to be sent to the House of Commons. Although the order was founded in 1900 and incorporated by an Act of Parliament in 1917 any revision of the charter requires a further Act of Parliament of Canada.

REASONS FOR REVISIONS

The following are some of the reasons for consideration of a revision of the Order; first to have a more concise charter to simplify the Order's method of operation e.g. the advantages economically of amalgamating or holding biennial rather than annual meetings; secondly of eliminating the necessity of primary chapters necessary to form a municipal chapter, and to consider a change of name which has been requested". Other reasons were also stated. The questionnaire was then filled in.

The results of the vote on the above questionnaire will be forwarded to headquarters. The matter of organizing a Junior Chapter in conjunction with Bemersyde Chapter was considered not feasible at the present time.

An invitation was received from Otonabee Chapter in Peterborough to attend their 50th anniversary dinner on September 29. A letter of appreciation was read from Mrs. Patricia Thompson, whose son won the Bemersyde scholarship at the Northumberland music festival. Danny had attended a two weeks' course at a choral school held at Trinity College, Port Hope. One resignation was received from a member who is moving to Preston.

SEND 200 BOOKS

Mrs. E. Cryderman, education secretary, reported that about 200 text books not now in use had been packed by Principal William Bardwell of Bridge Street Public School and had been donated to Bemersyde Chapter for the Indian Centre in Toronto. Some payment had been received on a previous loan and a contact had applied for a loan to attend Kemptville Agricultural College which was approved.

Mrs. J. Trimble reporting for services at home and abroad, said that 84 articles and 16 pounds of used clothing had been sent to headquarters. Some children's aid work had been supplied to a recently burned out family. Another shipment to headquarters would be made in November.

BABY SITTERS' COURSE

Mrs. A. Whitfield announced a ten weeks' baby sitting course, sponsored by the T. B. Association would be held in the Parish Hall beginning September 22. This is for children 11 years of age and over. At the end of the weekly lectures an examination is held and successful students 14 years of age or over will receive a certified baby sitter card and diploma. Some lecturers will come from Cobourg; local lecturers include Rev. E. A. Toombs, Dr. T. Hackett and Mrs. Marvin Bird.

Mrs. Whitfield received a number of volunteers to help in this course, in organization and later supervision.

Mrs. Percy Grant thanked the hostess Mrs. J. O. Benor on behalf of the chapter. Next meeting will be under the Grade 1 group with Mrs. C. Irwin, convener.

Later in the afternoon, returning to the club they were joined in singing, dancing and cards.

Before leaving for home the visitors were entertained again at the Legion hall and were served doughnuts and coffee, leaving for home about 7.45 p.m.

Calgary Cats Sweep Field In Derby

CALGARY (CP) — Bloodlines told the tale at the eighth annual world mouser championships Saturday as Calgary cats swept the field.

Walking Baby demonstrated he was a true grandson of the 1961 mouser champion Pucky Cat as he whipped after some of Alberta's finest grain-fed mice.

The brown tabby domestic shorthair shot down a two-foot glass maze towards the caged mice in a two-trial time of 61 seconds to nose out a Siamese rival.

However, the mouse built didn't appeal to most of the 16 cat competitors who failed to qualify for the final round. The mouser title is the featured event of the International Champion ship Cat Show.

Catrina, a blue-point Siamese 4year champion from Calgary, completed her first run in 23¼ seconds, a half-second short of the record time held by Ferdi, another Siamese. But Catrina slowed to 40 seconds in the second run.

Walking Baby's individual trial times were 25 and 36 seconds.

Last year's champion, Summer Girl, a British shorthair Manx, and Ferdi failed to qualify.

French Canada Does Not Stop At Borders

- - Lesage

SASKATOON (CP) — Quebec Premier Jean Lesage said Sunday night that Canada has been formed by "two majorities" and that Quebecers find "unacceptable" the point of view that French Canada stops at Quebec's borders.

Mr. Lesage made his first stop here at the beginning of a three-week tour of Western Canada.

He said the "total development of all French Canada is one of the primary objectives" of Quebec. The fact that Canada has two founding peoples was more important than its political division into 10 provinces.

Those who place emphasis on the political divisions are being short-sighted and "make a mistake of overlooking the historic role of the French-speaking element in Canada," he said.

"Just as we have an English-speaking minority in Quebec which is an extension in our territory of the English majority in the rest of Canada, so there are in the other provinces French - speaking minorities which are extensions of Quebec's French-speaking majority. Canada, therefore, is made up of two majorities whose geographical distribution is uneven."

Jaycee Week To Be Observed In Community

TRENTON — In a proclamation from the municipal office Mayor James MacDonald has called on the residents of Trenton to observe September 20 to September 28 as Jaycee Week.

Two annual events in Trenton particularly bring the Jaycees to public attention. They are the Soap Box Derby held in May and the 'Meet the Candidate Night' held in November before the municipal elections. In the latter function an effort is made to interest young men in community progress, and emphasize their responsibilities as young citizens to contribute of their time and talent to civic leadership.

Since receiving their charter a year ago the Junior Chamber of Commerce members have made their presence felt in the community.

CHILDREN SAFE

A frantic mother caused concern for firemen summoned to 19 Joseph Street during the weekend.

Mrs. Doris Valyear told first firemen to arrive her children were somewhere in the smoke-filled house. However, a search of the premises ruled out the possibility and later enquiries located them safe elsewhere.

A cigarette dropped on a chesterfield in the living room was responsible for the incident.

Tribute Paid Airmen In Battle of Britain

TRENTON — Sunday morning over 700 RCAF officers and men of Air Transport Command Headquarters, RCAF Station Trenton and 6 Repair Depot paraded at RCAF Station Trenton to pay tribute to the allied airmen who fought in the Battle of Britain 25 years ago.

Air Commodore R. J. Lane, the Air Officer Commanding Air Transport Command, took the salute as seven squadrons under the command of W/C T. R. N. Duff marched past the reviewing stand. In his address to the personnel, A/C Lane included a personal message from the Minister of National Defence, the Honorable Paul Hellyer, which said in part: "All Canadians join me in paying tribute to them and their surviving colleagues. Their great example of courage, fortitude and self-sacrifice is a source of inspiration to us all."

During the church services following the parade, the scripture lesson was read by G/C G. F. Thompson, Commanding Officer 6 Repair Depot. G/C E. M. Butcher, the Commanding Officer of some Trenton base the responsive reading.

Several hundred Canadians fought with the RAF during the aerial siege. The only Canadian Squadron involved was No. 1 Fighter Squadron (late 401 Squadron). During the Battle of Britain, the Canadian pilots recorded some 120 victories in aerial combat, with about 100 more enemy aircraft counted as probably destroyed or damaged.

Scientists have developed a treated type of book paper which they hope will last 1,000 years, instead of crumbling in a few generations as do most modern papers.

Social Work Outlined to Women's Club

TRENTON — The wife of a United Church minister started a career as a school teacher but turned to social work when she became aware of the needs of the people on the docks of Liverpool.

The wife of Rev. W. A. Adam, United Church minister of Wooler worked particularly among colored people she told the Trenton Business and Professional Women's Club.

Although she was not a paid official she devoted considerable time and effort helping them meet the problems of racial prejudice and dope addiction. In her visits to prisons and asylums she learned that they had become unfortunate victims of circumstance and those who were natives of Africa did not want communism—only freedom from colonization. By attending their weddings and acting as godmother to their children she gained the respect and lifelong friendship of many of them, she said.

Mrs. Adam was introduced to club members by Mrs. Nina Reid. Mrs. Ruth McAuley moved the vote of thanks.

Try Bonded Stock on a friend without letting him see the label.

It's the best way to find out what people really think about a whisky: how do they like it when they don't know which brand they're drinking?

If you've tried Bonded Stock yourself, the playback won't surprise you. Bonded Stock is a great Canadian whisky. You can conceal the label but you can't disguise the flavour. It's an extremely mellow whisky with a deceptively smooth flavour.

The other thing that's deceptive about Bonded Stock is its price. But the price doesn't fool people with taste.

Bonded Stock's sensible price is a sort of bonus you get for good judgment.

And what could be fairer than that?

MR. AND MRS. ROBERT BRUCE LANGABEER

Langabeer – Poirier

(Photo by Lumber's Studio)

St. Joseph's Catholic Church was the scene of the recent marriage of Julia Mary Janet Poirier and Robert Bruce Langabeer. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Ernest Poirier and the bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Henry Langabeer, all of Belleville. Rev. Thomas Callaghan, C.S.S.R. of Toronto, cousin of the bridegroom, was the officiating clergyman.

Wedding music was played by Sister Mary Polycarp, who accompanied the soloist, Mr. William Mann.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a floor length gown in silk satin-de-peau with a bell-shape skirt and a lace train fastened to a wide bow at the back of the dress. Her shoulder length veil was caught to a pill-box headdress, and she carried a cascade bouquet of white-baby carnations and gold gilt ivy.

Mrs. Margo Carter of Belleville, sister of the bride, was matron of honor. She wore a gold peau-de-soie dress with fitted bodice, scoop neckline and elbow length sleeves, and a bell skirt. Her headdress was of matching peau-de-soie and she carried yellow Commercial 'mums. The bridesmaids, Mrs. Valerie Poirier of Ottawa, Mrs. Janet Young and Miss Mary Lee of Belleville were almond green dresses, styled similarly to that of the matron of honor, and carried bronze Commercial 'mums.

Mr. Brian Langabeer, brother of the bridegroom, was groomsman, and Mr. Peter Young, Mr. Gerald Garvin and Mr. Wayne Langabeer, all of Belleville ushered the guests.

At the reception, held at Club Canara, the bride's mother received the guests attired in a two-piece blue floral sheath dress with a sky blue duster coat. She wore matching accessories and a corsage of baby pink Sweetheart roses. The bridegroom's mother assisted, wearing a mint green lace sheath dress with matching accessories and a corsage of pink Sweetheart roses.

The bride's travelling costume was a three-piece brown tweed ensemble with dark brown accessories and a corsage of yellow Sweetheart roses.

Following their wedding trip to the Poconno Mountains in Pennsylvania, Mr. and Mrs. Langabeer will live at 199 St. Clair Street East, Toronto.

Quinte W.I. Tours C.J.B.Q. Intelligencer

2ND THURLOW — The Quinte Women's Institute met at the W.I. Hall on Tuesday afternoon when about 28 ladies were present.

The president, Mrs. Charles Wood was in charge of the meeting which opened in the usual manner. The secretary-treasurer, Mrs. Robert Atkins read the minutes, correspondence and thank-you notes, after which the members left for a tour of the new Intelligencer and CJBQ building.

Upon arrival they were met by Mrs. G. Stickle, Mr. Jack Devine and Mr. Claire Hoy. The ladies were divided into two equal groups and Mr. Devine and Mrs. Stickle escorted one group through the CJBQ area while Mr. Hoy took charge of the other group.

Mr. Devine explained the workings of the broadcasting equipment; how the news is prepared prior to its delivery on the air; how the music recordings are selected to suit the various programs and an explanation given in regards to the intricate devices used in broadcasting including the many uses of tape recording. Also shown was the interview studio at which time one of the announcers was interviewing members of the March of Dimes committee.

Mr. Hoy took each of the groups on a tour of the newspaper section climaxed by going through the press room and during the tour explained the various steps required beginning at the time the news is presented, right through to the mailing room where papers are folded and made ready for delivery. Included were visits to the editorial department, the composing room, the proof reading room and the photographic department where the plates required for producing a picture in the paper were shown as well as the finished product.

A vote of thanks was tendered Mrs. Stickle, Mr. Devine and Mr. Hoy by the convener Mrs. Douglas Atkins for a most interesting and informative afternoon.

Upon returning to the hall a number of unfinished business items were discussed. It was decided that Mrs. J. Parrott and Mrs. C. Reid will attend the two-day training course in "Hats for You" at Stirling and two ladies Mrs. Morris and Mrs. Nickelson were named to help serve at the Stirling Manor bazaar in October. Each organization contributing will make three loaves of bread in plain and fancy sandwiches for this event.

Mrs. Robert Atkins gave a financial report stating that a considerable expense was caused by the burning of widows by vandals during the summer.

Lunch was served by Mesdames C. Reid, R. Vinson, Bell, Morris and Weese and a social time was enjoyed.

Mr., Mrs. J. B. Belshaw, Stirling, Wed 60 Years

The big square rooms of their 125-year-old home in Stirling echoed to the sound of good wishes and congratulations Sunday as Mr. and Mrs. James B. Belshaw, were "at home" to friends and relatives on their 60th wedding anniversary.

The Belshaw house on Stirling's Front street is believed to be the oldest house in the village and has been the couple's home for the past 58 years.

Still remarkably active, Mr. and Mrs. Belshaw retain a keen interest in church and community affairs, although they do admit to relinquishing some of their duties to the younger generation.

"We just didn't feel up to it any more," said Mrs. Belshaw, referring to church duties for which she and her husband were formerly responsible. Mr. Belshaw was warden at St. John's Anglican Church for over 20 years and Mrs. Belshaw was active in the church guild.

WED IN ST. JOHN'S CHURCH

But their interest in church work comes naturally, for it was at St. John's that the couple exchanged marriage vows 60 years ago. Mrs. Belshaw, now 79, was the former Gertrude Morrow.

Mr. Belshaw, at 87, drives his car every day and is still a member of the Stirling chamber of Commerce and the horticultural society. He served 34 years on the school board and 21 of six years on the village council.

Officially "retired" for the past 20 years, Mr. Belshaw farmed in Rawdon township before moving to Stirling 35 years ago, where he continued farming until 1938. He went into the lumber business and operated a planing mill at Stirling until 1945.

HAD GOOD LIFE

In between community chores, the Stirling couple have taken time out to do a bit of travelling. They have motored coast to coast and three years ago took in the Seattle World's Fair. They have been to Florida and back in 1939 spent two months overseas.

"We've had a good life," said Mr. Belshaw. And his wife of 60 years nodded assent.

Court Sharron Holds Potluck Supper Meet

The September meeting of Court Sharron, Canadian Order of Foresters was opened by entertaining the members of Court Bellevich at a potluck supper. The regular meeting, following the supper, was opened in the usual manner by President Bernice Hall.

A District Council report was given by Sister Hall. Court Sharron will hold a bake sale on Saturday, October 9 and all members were urged to assist in this project.

Nominations for the 1966 officers will open in October.

Sister Hall gave her report from the High Court Convention held in Saskatoon in June.

Members were reminded that it will soon be Christmas candy stocking time again. More information will follow in October.

The meeting was closed in the regular manner.

Tenochtitlan, the capital of Mexico under the Aztecs, had 20 schools for the common people as well as others for the nobility.

Wife of Rangers' Coach Stays Home With Children

PETERBOROUGH, Ont. (CP) Two sentences sum up how Marion Sullivan used to feel about New York Rangers and how she feels about the National Hockey League team today.

"I used to cheer for the whole team and worry about the whole team."

And since the whole team is his concern, the same goes for his pretty wife, mother of their children.

George Sullivan married Marion Redmond in 1951. Both were residents of Peterborough, but now they get home only between hockey seasons.

Over the years they have lived in Boston, Hershey, Pa., Chicago and now New York. They rented a furnished house on Long Island until last year when Marion stayed in Peterborough because of the children's schooling.

Since Danny, 13, is in Grade 8, they decided it was important for him to have the full year at one school. Sisters Jane, 10, and Suzanne, 5, attend the same school. St. Anne's, but Kate won't be going for a few years. She's 15 months old.

The family is together about once a month during the season. Red comes home when he can and Marion goes to New York occasionally.

"It's a real holiday for me to go. I see and do more than when I lived there."

And she says she's a little tired of people being sympathetic about her staying home.

"Actually, we don't feel we're giving up things. In hockey, even when you're together, you're apart a lot. So we're all used to it."

WASP STING FATAL

HAMBURG, Mich. (AP) — Janice Heiner, 16, died Sunday 20 minutes after she was stung by a wasp, state police said. Dr. J. D. Murphy said the cause of death was anaphylactic shock, or constriction of the larynx. Janice was stung just below the neckline on her left shoulder.

PLEASE DON'T EAT THE MATTRESS!

Dear Susanna: Closing up time at the cottage is also a time to barricade against those tiny, bold, unwanted intruders, mice. Drip a few drops of oil of peppermint on cotton balls and place them in utensil drawers, dish cupboards and dresser drawers — mice avoid these like crazy cats.

Also, sprinkling of ground cloves all around the cracks and crevices in the kitchen area not only smell good, but are a real deterrent to the inroads of ants next spring. — J. S.

You may remember when we printed the recipe for making the old - fashioned pomander balls, they were well studded with cloves for hanging in clothes cupboards. Again, a two fold purpose here. To us, it's a nice smell of spice, but that aroma of cloves to moths simply spells "Move out Mister."

More about those free-loading rodents who like to spend the winter in cottages. A dear, but slightly kooky friend of mine insists she isn't kidding about her method of keeping mice from nibbling at the mattresses. She says her family sprinkles hanks of plain untreated absorbent cotton liberally on the floors of the bedrooms and the mice carry this off for their nests — or whatever they use it for — instead of attacking and chowing up the mattresses.

PREVENTIVE PATCHES

Dear Susanna: Being the mother of seven boys I am anxious to get the most wear out of a pair of long pants. Since so many dress pants do not have double knees I sew patches of fine material on the inside of the knees (to the seams). This removes much of the strain from the knee and the pants seem to last considerably longer. — Mrs. Iris Halliday.

Ann Landers

Artificial Mansfields Run Risk of Tumors

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I am a plastic surgeon who has been a faithful reader of your column for a long time. I've been tempted to write to you concerning matters that fall within my professional province. Your advice to the flat-chested woman who wanted to have her inadequate bosom built up by surgery provided the final stimulus.

ANN LANDERS

You should understand, Ann Landers, that a woman's image of herself is extremely important to her emotional well-being. If this image is a poor one the woman may become withdrawn and introverted. Some women don't mind being flatchested but others become depressed and serious personality problems result.

You say, "Why subject yourself to surgery when a $2 purchase in a lingerie store can produce the desired results? "Have you ever seen one of those $2 purchases pop out of a bathing suit and float on top of the pool? Furthermore a $2 purchase will not permit a woman to wear a low-cut evening gown. The "purchases" slip and slide and sometimes they fall out.

Plastic surgeons now use jelly-like implants to build up bosoms. This produces a natural appearance and the operation is relatively simple. The degree of success is extremely high and the women love it.

Why don't you consult with specialists and learn the wonders of plastic surgery? Yours Truly—TAMPA PLASTIC SURGEON.

DEAR SURGEON: If you have been reading my column for years you should know I'm well aware of the wonders of plastic surgery and that I've made millions of others aware of it, too.

In the very column you attack I wrote: "Once upon a time people had to play the hand nature dealt them because they had no choice. Today, surgeons can uncross eyes, remove pocks and scars, reshape noses, rebuild undersiung jaws and make people feel better about themselves. I am all for it."

My position on surgery to build up bosoms is unchanged. The plastic surgeons with whom I consult tell me the silicone implants (you call them jelly-like) have been used successfully in a great many cases. However, in some patients, the implants have produced breast tumors, I would not advise any reader, no matter how depressed over a flat chest, to take such a foolish chance.

(P.S: The $2 falsies do not slip or fall out when sewn in a bathing suit or evening gown. And the new padded bras are better than ever.)

DEAR ANN LANDERS — I married a divorced man. I knew life would not be a bowl of cherries but I never expected to choke on so many pits. The problem is Art's former wife, Ellen is determined to be part of his family and I'm sorry to say she is succeeding.

Wherever we go to my mother-in-law's apartment Ellen is here. She has also become a close friend of Art's sister and gets herself invited to every family affair. The shrewd little she-devil has even managed to become friendly with my own sister.

Neither Art nor I is comfortable in Ellen's presence. She is forever referring to incidents from the past. Sometimes I get the feeling she has not yet accepted the fact that she and Art are no longer married.

Is it fair for Art's family to continue to be friendly to Ellen now that she is divorced? Should I ask Art to order them to stop including her? — NUMBER TWO.

DEAR TWO: Art has no right to determine for his family either their friends or acquaintances. He can, however, ask them not to include you and Art when they have invited Ellen. And I suggest you do just that.

COCOANUT CAKE, BAKED TOPPING

Be prepared was the motto. But just what I was preparing for I hadn't a clue until Paul and six of his friends came down the driveway in the attic in two cars to do a little water skiing.

Naturally they had to change into their swim suits and to do so walk through the kitchen. Now if a big fresh cake is sitting on the counter with a knife beside it, being 20 years old and knowing your Aunt Mary was around somewhere, you cut yourself a piece of cake and make yourself at home. Do that 14 times and then there is none.

Chilled Grape Juice; Broiled Beef Cakes; Homemade Chili Sauce; Parsley Potatoes, Frenched Yellow Beans; September Apple Pie a la Mode; Tea.

Need I say it was a wonderful cake? I had four egg whites leftover from making New Zealand Trifle (I will show you tomorrow in this column) so decided to make a white cake and to test the new instant flour while I was at it. To give the cake some character I added cocoanut to the batter and a baked topping to the surface. Judge the results yourself.

WHITE COCOANUT CAKE WITH BAKED TOPPING (4 egg whites):

½ cup butter or margarine, 1 cup sugar (1st amount), 2½ cups unsifted instant flour (or 2¼ cups sifted cake flour), 4 teaspoons single-acting baking powder, ¾ teaspoon salt, 4 egg whites, ½ cup sugar (2nd amount), 1 cup milk, 1 cup flaked cocoanut, 1/3 cup chopped pecans (topping), 1/3 cup flaked cocoanut (topping), 1/3 cup sugar (3rd amount — topping).

Cream together the butter or margarine with the 1 cup sugar until light and fluffy. Sift together the flour, baking powder and salt. Beat the egg whites until foamy then gradually beat into them the ½ cup sugar until you have a very stiff meringue. Add the flour mixture, alternately with the milk, 1/3 of each at a time, to the creamed mixture, until all are smoothly blended. Fold the cocoanut into the meringue. Then gently fold the meringue into the batter until blended. Turn into large cake pan 13 x 8½" (I used my pyrex general duty baker) lined on bottom with buttered wax paper. Mix together the pecans, cocoanut and 1/3 sugar (last amount), sprinkle evenly over top of unbaked cake and bake at centre of oven at 350 deg. Fahr. for about 35 to 40 minutes, or until when touched with fingertip at centre it feels done.

I cannot tell you what this cake tastes like cold because it never was!

Mother Forgets Son No Longer a Child

DORIS CLARK

DEAR DORIS: I am 19; I pay for my room and board at home. My problem is my mother. Every time I want to go out she has to know who I'm going with, where I'm going, and then she tells me what time I have to be home.

I don't think she's being fair. When I do tell her where I'm going and who with, she then says I'm not to go any further. If I do, I'm supposed to phone, home and tell her. How would you feel if you were out having fun and the gang suddenly go somewhere else and you said "Just a minute, gang, I have to phone home to tell my mother I'm going to the restaurant for a coke?"

It would make you feel like a mama's boy!

When I do get to use the car, it has to stay at the place of destination. If I decide to go somewhere else I can't.

When you are paying for your room and board you are supposed to have freedom to come and go as you please to a certain extent, aren't you?

Another thing, she won't let me have a key to the house. If I'm out late to a party I have to pound on the door, getting everyone up out of bed. Then when I get in the house she tears me apart.

What do you think I should do? Should I leave or stay here and let her rule over the rest of my life?—READY TO LEAVE.

DEAR READY: Mama's demands suggest a chronic lapse of memory. She thinks you are still 12 years old.

You are adult enough to be paying your way; this means that you are ready for a fair degree of self-government. And a key to the house is normal procedure for family members — many a 12-year-old schoolboy having one!

Try for a new understanding with both your parents; don't leave until you are quite sure the amnesia can't be reversed.

DEAR DORIS: I am a girl of 17 who soon will be 18. I was wondering if you think a boy should have to meet the girl's parents on the first date.— WONDERING.

DEAR WONDERING: If you can work it, yes. It's about the nicest way I know of starting off on the right foot.

guard by U.S. marshals—but a torn slip of paper bearing some scrawled notations in French also provided a vital link in the chain of evidence against Rivard.

It was found on Caron at the time he was arrested at this point across the Rio Grande from Mexico Oct. 10, 1963, and he said it gave instructions for him to check in after crossing into the U.S. with the 76 pounds of heroin he had taken aboard his car at Mexico City. A hand-writing expert testified Rivard was the author.

Caron's evidence against the other three was that Groleau had passed on some money and instructions to him and that the other pair had told him of bringing heroin into Montreal from Europe.

Likewise, all Beauchemin's evidence—which touched only on Rivard—was strictly of the oral variety.

However, in U.S. federal courts—and that is where the Canadians are being tried—juries may convict on the uncorroborated testimony of accomplices after weighing it for reliability. This does not hold good in Texas state courts, where such evidence is value, less unless backed up by independent material.

der ultimatum to India with a charge that Indian troops had fired on a Chinese border guard.

An Indian spokesman denied the charge and said the Chinese claims were "mere fabrications." He accused China of "indulging in provocative activities."

EXTEND DEADLINE

The border troubles followed Peking's three-day extension of its ultimatum to India and a peace initiative from Moscow that put diplomatic activity in the forefront of the India-Pakistan war, now in its third week.

There was a lull in the fighting itself.

China claimed that five Indian soldiers crossed into Chinese territory Sunday at a point in the western sector of the China - India border and opened fire at Chinese on duty in a civilian check-point.

The New China news agency, in a dispatch from Lhasa, the Tibetan capital, said the Chinese staffing the checkpoint "repulsed the intruding Indian soldiers" after repeated warnings were ignored.

POST IS 'ILLEGAL'

The news agency said the alleged intrusion was east of the Tumchele post "illegally set up on Chinese soil by Indian troops."

It was the fourth time this month that China accused India of violating its frontier. On Saturday, the Chinese claimed three Indian soldiers had intruded near the village of Demchok.

An Indian spokesman today reported "some precautions" by Chinese troops on the Sikkim-Tibet border.

He said Indian troops had not returned the fire and were well within the Indian border.

India also asserted that fresh Chinese troops were advancing through the Himalayan passes toward India's northern frontier.

The Indian defence ministry said the Chinese took up positions near Ladakh, a disputed area of northeast Kashmir. This was one of the sectors where the Chinese crossed over in their invasion of India three years ago.

A new note from China Sunday, delivered in Peking before the old deadline was due to expire, gave India until "Midnight, Wednesday to dismantle installations that Peking charges have been built on the Tibetan side of the Sikkim-Tibet frontier.

The small Himalayan kingdom of Sikkim is an Indian protectorate and Tibet is a newly proclaimed "autonomous" area of China.

Across a picket line manned by 60 workmen.

In New Delhi, Indian officials said the deadline extension made little difference because there were no Indian installations inside Chinese territory to dismantle.

'WE WILL FIGHT'

India's Defence Minister Y. B. Chavan repeated in a broadcast what India had said in reply to the first Peking ultimatum—"we will fight with valor and courage" if the Chinese attack.

In Moscow, Russian Premier Kosygin has proposed in messages to the Pakistani and Indian leaders — President Mohammad Ayub Khan and Prime Minister Shastri—that the two meet on Soviet soil to discuss the restoration of peace to the subcontinent.

Pakistan replied that it appreciated the Russian offer and was giving it "earnest consideration." In New Delhi, Indian officials said Shastri was studying Kosygin's proposal.

lacks the strength to insist on integrity in high places.

In Oakville, Mr. Diefenbaker told the executive o the Halton County Progressive Conservative Association that a Conservative government would set up a capital fund for construction of teaching hospitals with research facilities.

'GOODY' COUNCIL GRANTS

He also said it would increase grants to the National Research Council and the $2-a-head grant to universities for operating costs.

It would also appoint a senator for the Yukon and one for the Northwest Territories. He repeated an earlier pledge that homeowners would be allowed to deduct municipal taxes from taxable federal income.

The prime minister concentrated on the need for a majority government in his speeches, but touched on the education issue at a Saturday night rally in Espanola.

He said free university education will come in time. "It won't come immediately, but I know that in 30, or 25 years from now, it will be taken for granted just as free high school education is today."

Mr. Pearson also said at his nomination meeting he will campaign without smears or slanders, and said with a majority the government could do more in less time. It wasn't good enough, he said to have the government depending on "the whims of opposition leaders, and often discordant followers."

Fog prevented Mr. Pearson landing Friday at Sudbury and forced his aircraft to go to North Bay and him to make a 216-hour drive to Espanola. It also prevented his returning to Ottawa until Sunday.

An Air Canada aircraft carrying Mr. Diefenbaker Saturday had to turn back to Ottawa for refueling when fog prevented a landing at first at Toronto. The second attempt was successful.

INDIAN PRINCESS Kahn-Tineta Horn with Andrew Maracle at Deganawidah monument near site of Mohawk Fair Saturday. (Deganawidah was fifteenth-century chief who founded first Iroquois Confederacy for peace—the world's first "United Nations").

CANADIAN INDIAN DANCERS from Toronto drew hearty applause as they staged various tribal dances as highlight of Mohawk Fair Saturday.

NAIL-DRIVING contest was among the traditional events staged at fair which drew many women contestants like Betty Pickell.

White Man Must Live Up to Indian Treaty Princess Tells Newsman

The white man has not lived up to his treaty obligations to Canada's Indians—and he may be having a good deal more about it in the future.

The intimation came Saturday at Mohawk Fair from Kahn-Tineta Horn, the young Indian princess and leading Montreal fashion model.

Mohawk herself, the 22-year-old Miss Horn hails from the Caughnawaga Reserve on the St. Lawrence River near Montreal. Her outspoken attitudes on issues concerning her people have made her the nation's most published commentator on Indian affairs.

Her appearance at the fair during its afternoon events on Tyendinaga Mohawk Reserve went without comment until she was recognized by a reporter.

Ostensibly she was just there to look around and she smilingly brushed aside questions that there might be any deeper significance to her visit.

"I just want to talk to the people here — I'm just here for a visit," she said.

However, she revealed she soon will visit the United Kingdom and also plans to speak to Canadian Clubs across the country.

The theme of her talks?

Miss Horn said she would be telling "the non-Indians what their obligations are to us."

Terms of treaties signed with the white men were "that we give up this continent in exchange for a small payment," she said.

The white man agreed to look after the Indian's welfare.

The Indians lived up their part of the bargain and the whites must now do the same.

"Or", she added laughing, "we will foreclose — on the continent."

"In Quebec," she said, Indians were having a great deal of problems" and authorities there were trying to gain control of them and separate them from other Indians.

Miss Horn also was enthusiastic about the Mohawk Fair which — after a rain-sodden start — launched into a bustling afternoon of events.

Hit of the day were the colorfully-garbed Canadian Indian Dancers group from Toronto—representing members of the Ottawa and Cree tribes.

"I'm very impressed with this fair," said Miss Horn. "To me, it looks very impressive. It's one of the best things I've seen Indians put on."

Woman's Body Is Discovered At Aurora

AURORA, Ont. (CP) — King Township police today are investigating the discovery of a woman's body on the grounds of St. Andrew's College near here Sunday night.

Police said the partly-clad body was found in a creek. Further details were not released.

Aurora is about 27 miles north of Toronto.

Child Found Sleeping Near Herd of Cattle

PETERBOROUGH (CP)—An overnight search by 4,000 men for a two-year-old boy ended at dawn today 20 miles southwest of here when he was found sleeping in a pasture near a herd of cattle, about a mile from where he was reported missing.

Paul Cormier, son of Mr. and Mrs. Yvon Cormier of Oshawa, wandered away from a family picnic Sunday. He was noticed missing at 4:30 p.m. and his parents searched for about two hours before notifying provincial police in Millbrook.

The search party, consisting of police, guards from the Ontario Reformatory at Millbrook and private citizens searched through the night before Paul was found sleeping in the field.

Searchers believe the boy must have snuggled against a sleeping cow during the night because he was not noticed on previous sweeps through the pasture.

UN Again Demands Ceasefire

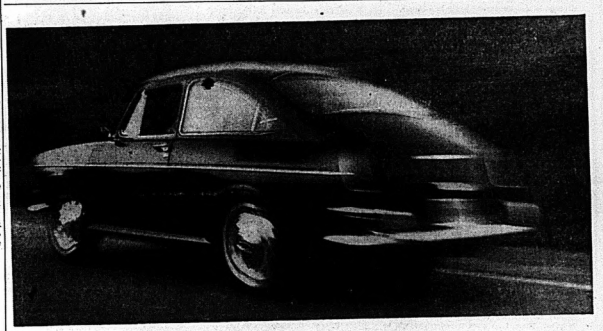
By WILLIAM N. OATIS

UNITED NATIONS (AP) — The UN Security Council demanded today that India and Pakistan order a ceasefire in 48 hours.

The council voted 10-0 in a postmidnight session to adopt a resolution whose terms strengthen its unanimous ceasefire appeals of Sept. 4 and 6. Jordan abstained.

The resolution, sponsored by The Netherlands, gave an implied warning to China to stay out of the India-Pakistan fighting. It called on "all states to refrain from any action which might aggravate the situation in the area."

Peking has extended until Wednesday an ultimatum to India to dismantle China-Sikkim border fortifications or face "grave consequences."



Security Council delegates had stood by for more than 15 hours while J. G. de Beus of The Netherlands wrenched agreement on the wording from the United States, the Soviet Union, Britain and France.

LEAVES WAY OPEN

The resolution did not contain what Secretary-General U Thant had suggested—an implied threat to invoke coercive provisions of the UN charter unless India and Pakistan complied. But it left the way open for such action if the council deems it necessary.

OLIVIER APPLAUDED

MOSCOW (AP)—Soviet President Anastas Mikoyan loudly applauded Sir Laurence Olivier as Othello in his final performance at the Kremlin theatre. The audience, led by Mikoyan, applauded Olivier for 10 minutes Sunday night. Afterwards the Soviet president went backstage to congratulate the actor personally.

Giants Grabbed It ★★★★★ Foul Ball Fair' Cost Braves Victory ★★★★★ Reds, Dodgers Win

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

If anyone asks Bobby Bragan next winter what finally knocked Milwaukee Braves out of the National League pennant race, he can blame it all on a slow roll and a fast bunt.

They came in rapid succession in the eighth inning as the Braves' game against San Francisco Giants. With the score tied 2-2 and Hal Lanier on first, pinch-hitter Jim Davenport of the Giants dropped a sacrifice bunt down the first-base line.

Milwaukee first-baseman Joe Torre watched attentively while the ball trickled along the chalk line and stopped 15 feet from the bag, then confidently picked it up figuring it had rolled foul.

"Fair ball," yelled umpire Billy Williams.

Infuriated, Torre slammed the ball down and charged at Williams. Lanier rounded second and kept running. By the time Torre realized what was happening, the Giant second baseman was on his way home with the tie-breaking run and the Giants went on to win 4-2.

The victory, San Francisco's 16th in 17 games, kept the Giants 3½ games ahead of second-place Los Angeles Dodgers and dropped the fourth-place Braves eight full games off the pace.

"I pulled a bush play", was Torre's rueful post-mortem.

Lanier said he would have scored anyway as the Braves had no one covering home plate.

Elsewhere in the NL, the Dodgers whipped St. Louis Cardinals 5-0, Cincinnati Reds edged Houston Astros 4-3 after losing 8-6, Pittsburgh Pirates nipped Philadelphia Phillies 1-0 in 10 innings and New York Mets beat Chicago Cubs 8-6.

In Saturday's games the Giants downed Milwaukee 2-0, the Dodgers nipped the Cards 1-0, the Cubs edged the Mets 4-3 and the Pirates defeated the Phils by the same score.

After Lanier scored, the Giants added a run in the eighth as Willie McCovey's sacrifice fly. Juan Marichal then came on in relief and stopped Milwaukee in the last two innings. Torre, at bat, had a home run and a run-scoring double. The Giants' Willie Mays and Jim Hart each had a home run.

Ron Perranoski rescued Claude Osteen in the ninth inning and saved the Dodgers' second straight shutout over St. Louis. Osteen, 15-14, didn't allow a cardinal past second base while the Dodgers built their lead with the help of homers by Jim Lefebvre and Wes Parker.

Jim Gentile's three-run 26th-inning homer in the eighth inning lifted Houston past Cincinnati in the first game.

Tommy Harper's homer in the Cincinnati seventh inning broke a 3-3 deadlock in the nightcap and left the Reds 4½ games from the top.

Bob Veale, 18-11, allowed the Phillies only one hit in 10 innings — Tony Taylor's two — outdueling Jim Bunning, 19-8.

Als Upset Lions With 11-6 Win

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Montreal Alouettes and Edmonton Eskimos each will try to prove tonight they are the most improved club in the Canadian Football League.

The Alouettes, a distant third in the Eastern Conference standings, have only won two of seven starts but one of them was an 11-6 win in Vancouver Saturday night over last season's Grey Cup champion British Columbia Lions.

Edmonton also has lost five games but the Eskimos have won their last three starts and the club coached by Nelli Armstrong is determined to catch a playoff berth in the Western Conference.

Both clubs are in prime shape. The Eskimos have rested since their 30-25 win over Winnipeg Blue Bombers at Edmonton eight days ago. The Alouettes looked great in their win over the Lions.

They had overwhelmed us," said coach Dave Skrien of British Columbia after the Saturday night game.

Coach Jim Trimble of Montreal said the club was starting to rack but would carry it to the Grey Cup final.

Some shuffling in the standings resulted from other weekend games.

Calgary Stampeders vaulted past Saskatchewan Roughriders into first place in the WFC with a 15-12 win over the Riders in Regina Saturday night. Saskatchewan is in second place, one point behind Calgary.

Winnipeg jumped into third place, one point back of Saskatchewan, after a 19-12 win over Ottawa Roughriders. The Bombers are one point ahead of the Lions and four in front of Edmonton in the five-team WFC but Winnipeg has played one game more than both.

GRAB FIRST PLACE

Ottawa, before its loss to Winnipeg, was even with Hamilton Tiger-Cats with 10 points also the Eastern Conference. But the Ottawa loss, combined with Hamilton's 30-0 win over Toronto Argonauts, put Cats first and Ottawa second.

At Vancouver before a crowd of 31,684 paying fans it was a battle of the defences between Montreal and British Columbia. Three Lions and six Alouettes had to be helped from the field after jarring collisions.

The only touchdown of the game was scored by fullback J. W. Lockett of Montreal who dove over from the B.C. one. The other Montreal points came from fullback Pat Batten who kicked a field goal, a single and a convert.

Peter Kempf, making his first start in three years on offence, booted two field goals for the Lions.

The difference between the teams was quarterback Bernie Faloney who clicked on 20 of 34 forward attempts for 276 yards.

The touchdown march — 75 yards in eight plays—was highlighted by a 17-yard forward to end Larry Tomlinson and a 12-yard forward to flanker Terry Evanshen.

Before 15,114 fans at Taylor Field in Regina, Calgary defeated Saskatchewan by scoring a touchdown with 28 seconds to go. Roughriders had taken a 12-6 lead with less than four minutes to go.

Defeats Juniors 5-0

Bloomfield Wins Playoffs

By ROBERT SNEFJELLA

BLOOMFIELD — Picton-Bloomfield tallied five unanswered runs in the eighth inning of a thrilling finale to B. and D. Softball action for the year to whip Belleville Ellis Juniors 5-0 here on Saturday night. The game, sixth in the best-of-seven series for the league's laurels, was much closer than the score indicates. For the first five frames of the contest neither team managed a single hit, and for the brief but suicidal lapse by the Juniors in the eighth, neither team showed much of an advantage.

Ken DeMille, winner of the Herby Henn Memorial Trophy, buried a superb three-bit effort in gaining the all-important victory. During the first six innings he pitched no-hit ball, and the Juniors managed only one safety in each of the last three.

The Most Valuable Player of the B. and D. League, Bob Ethier, pitched almost as well. He allowed only one hit until the fateful eighth, when the winners jumped on him for three hits and five runs.

Keith MacDonald, Bloomfield's lead-off hitter and workhorse, bounced a baseball to third base to start the fireworks. Leo St. Denis also singled, and with one out first and second, none out, Ron Weese bounced to Don Gardner at second base. Gardner tried for the force-out at third, but his throw was over the third-baseman's head, and Mac-Donald scored. However St. Denis was put out at third on an attempted steal.

Carl Stacey reached first on a fielder's-choice, and Weese went to third. Jim Belle hit a tricky bouncer and Weese scored as the throw home was too late. Dick Hillis stole second and Keith Stacey hit a grounder that was held by the Juniors.

With the bases loaded, Warren Ostrander was put in as a pinch-hitter, and struck out. The next batter, Frank Forster, lined a base-hit that scored another run.

Ethier was ejected from the ball game at this point by base umpire Nickle for using bad language. Bob Doyle, his replacement, walked-in one run, and hit the next batter to bring in another. The runner was later forced going from second to third, and the holocaust was over.

DeMille's fine pitching performance was the real key to the win. Besides giving up three hits and no walks, he whiffed 14 opponents.

Ethier and Boyle allowed four safeties, three walks and three third strikes apiece.

Keith MacDonald, Leo St. Denis, Kenny DeMille and Ron Weese stroked singles for Bloomfield.

For Ellis', Bob Moon, Bob Ethier and Bob Boyle had base-hits.

Murphy Wins US Amateur

TULSA, Okla. (AP) — Bob Murphy of the University of Florida won the U.S. amateur golf championship Saturday with a 72-hole score of 291. A playoff by Bob Dickson of Muskogee, Okla., collapsed on the final hole.

Dickson, penalized four shots on the second nine when an extra club was accidentally placed in his bag without his knowledge, went one over par on each of the final two holes to finish a shot back at 292.

The favorite and third-round leader, Charlie Coe of Oklahoma, bidding for his third title, had a final-round 80 for 297.

Murphy, 21, from Gainsville, Fla., one-putting six greens, shot a final-round 73 to finish the tournament seven over par for the 72-hole route. Dickson finished with 74.

Ticats Grab Lead; Crush Argos 33-0

Defence Stars

TORONTO (CP) — Hamilton Tiger-Cats are all alone on top of the Eastern Football Conference again, thanks to Winnipeg Blue Bombers and another inept performance by Toronto Argonauts.

Hamilton handed Toronto its eighth defeat in a row Sunday, a 33-0 whitewash that all but disputed possession of first place in an interlocking game in Winnipeg.

The Ticats came through with their customary standout defensive performance in recording their sixth victory against two losses: Ottawa now has five wins in seven starts.

The loss left Toronto in last place in the EFC, four points behind Montreal Alouettes who scored a surprise 11-6 victory over British Columbia Lions Saturday night in Vancouver.

The Als have a chance to pad their margin tonight when they take on the Eskimos in Edmonton.

DEFENCE SCORES TWO

The Ticats' offence again left something to be desired, producing only two touchdowns against the winless Argos. But Hamilton got two more touchdowns from its vaunted defence, both of them on pass interceptions. The Ticats' defensive backfield, led by Garney Henley, made the afternoon miserable for 22,854 Argonaut fans and Toronto quarterback Peter Liske.

Liske completed only six of 28 passes and had four intercepted. The Ticats have picked off 21 enemy aerials so far this season.

Henley, who batted down several of Liske's passing tries, enacted one in the first quarter and ran the ball 26 yards into the end zone for Hamilton's first touchdown.

Defensive back Billy Wayte came up with the other touchdown interception with just over a minute left in the game. He caught the ball on his own 45-yard line, cut to the sidelines and scampered 65 yards to score.

ZUGER GOES OVER

He scored his first touchdown early in the second quarter on a rollout from the Toronto eight after a 39-yard drive, helped along by passes to Tommy Grant and Stan Crisson.

His second came with just over two minutes to play. He got it on a keeper from the four after guiding Hamilton on a 46-yard march.

The rest of the Tiger-Cat points came on a single by Zuger from the Toronto 37 that opened the scoring in the first quarter, a 35-yard field goal and a convert by Don Sutherin in the second quarter, and a pair of bewildering safety touches in the fourth quarter.

The Argos conceded the Hamilton's doubtful offence produced only 134 yards rushing, eight less than Toronto, but Zuger completed eight of 16 passes for 127 yards. The veterners picked up 15 first downs to 10 for the losers and were penalized seven times for 80 yards to Toronto's five for 30.

The Argos fumbled four times, losing possession once, and Hamilton fumbled three times but didn't lose any. Zuger averaged 45.6 yards in 13 punts, while Argo punter Dave Mann averaged 40.3 yards in 12 kicks.

Argo backfield star Dick Shatto, who announced Friday that he will retire at the end of this season, started the game at left halfback and was used throughout by coach Bob Shaw. He picked up 31 yards in six carries.

Nicklaus Wins Portland

PORTLAND, Ore. (AP) — Jack Nicklaus became the biggest money winner in golfing history by shooting his fourth consecutive sub-par round Sunday to earn the $20,000 Portland Open tournament title.

The $6,600 Nicklaus won boosted his season total to $134,045, breaking the record of $128,230 set by Arnold Palmer in 1963.

Nicklaus was 15 strokes under par with rounds of 69-68-68-68—273 on the par 72 Portland Golf Club course.

Billy Maxwell captured third place with 278. Bob Verwey of South Africa was fourth, a stroke behind Maxwell. Billy Casper finished fifth, at 280.

For Nicklaus it was his fifth tournament victory of the season, equalling 1963, his best previous year. He had won the Portland Open twice previously.

Magic Number Is Three

Twins Finger-tip Flag Behind 'Zoilo'

By MIKE RATHET
Associated Press Sports Writer

Zorro is leaving his mark on the American League: But it's not a Z, it's MVP.

Zorro is Zoilo Versalles, the driving force behind Minnesota Twins who rekindled their magic pennant-clinching number to three Sunday by walloping Washington Senators 8-1 for their ninth victory in 10 games.

The flee-footed Cuban has also stolen 25 bases — 16 in a row without being caught — and has not been thrown out all season long stretching singles into doubles.

However, he undoubtedly will face stiff competition in the MVP balloting from at least one of his team-mates, Tony Oliva. Oliva, who sat out the average as Carl Yastrzemski of AL batting lead with his .321? Boston Red Sox went 0-for-7 and slipped to .315.

SOX EDGE ATHLETICS

The Red Sox, however, edged Kansas City Athletics 3-2 Sunday, Chicago White Sox whipped Cleveland Indians 7-5 and New York Yankee blanked Detroit Tigers 3-0. Baltimore Orioles and California Angels, scheduled for a doubleheader, were rained out.

The Twins took care of the Senators 4-2 Saturday while Chicago thumped Cleveland 8-5, Boston downed Kansas City 5-3 and Detroit outlasted the Yankees 4-3 in 10 innings. The Orioles and California again were rained out.

The Twins continued their rush to the pennant Sunday by belting the Senators with an 11-hit attack, including a two-run double in the third inning by winning pitched Jim Perry that built their lead to 6-0.

Any combination of Minnesota victories and Baltimore defeats totalling three will bring the Twins the pennant.

The Red Sox got the job done against the As with a three-run third inning as Jim Gosger hit a fluke-the-park homer and Felix Mantilla stroked a two-run single.

Joe Pepitone's single and a double by Roger Repoz in the eighth inning brought in the Yankees' first run and broke up a scoreless duel between Rich Beck and the Tigers' Dave Wickersham.

A three-run double by Tommy Agee highlighted Chicago's four-run rally in the fourth that sent the White Sox ahead of Cleveland to stay.

Senior OHA

'Dogs' Appeal Rejection

WINDSOR (CP) —Windsor Bulldogs, advised by OHA secretary-manager Bill Hanley Saturday that their bid to re-enter the Ontario Hockey Association senior league in the 1965-66 season has been rejected, intend to appeal the decision.

Sedo Martinello, acting as spokesman for the re-organized Windsor club which won the Allan Cup two years ago as OHA representatives, said a protest will be lodged in two directions.

"We intend to appeal to the OHA and also intend to protest to Merv McKenzie, Ontario athletic commissioner," he said.

"The only reason we weren't allowed to enter was that the four holdover teams from last year wanted $200 in expense money for every trip to Windsor and the Bulldogs, as a share-the-wealth venture, could not give it to them".

Guelph Regals, Galt Hornets, Woodstock Athletics and Oakville Trafalgars are the four returnees from 1964-65 while Kingston has been accepted as a new entry.

"Kingston got in by offering $200 to each of the other teams for each trip to Kingston," claimed Martinello. "But when we couldn't do the same thing we were rejected. And, to make it worse, the OHA backed them up. It doesn't make sense if these people really are interested in building up senior hockey."

Giants Trampled 31-2

Browns, Colts, Packers Win Openers

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Cleveland Browns, Baltimore Colts and Green Bay Packers, three powerhouses in the National Football League, opened their seasons successfully Sunday while St. Louis Cardinals suffered a major upset.

The defending champion Browns stopped dark horse Washington Redskins 17-7. Baltimore, Western Division champions last year, turned back Minnesota Vikings 35-16 and Green Bay crushed Pittsburgh Steelers 44-0 after trailing at half-time.

In the major upset, Philadelphia Eagles whipped St. Louis 24-27 with halfback Tim Brown doing most of the damage.

In other NFL openers, Dallas Cowboys routed New York Giants 31-2, Detroit Lions blanked Los Angeles Ram 20-0 and San Francisco 49ers crushed Chicago Bears 52-24.

In the American League, Houston Oilers blasted Boston Patriots 31-10, Buffalo Bills ripped Denver Broncos 30-15 and San Diego Chargers stopped Oakland Raiders 17-6. Saturday night, it was Kansas City Chiefs 14, New York Jets 10.

Brown, who talked Eagle coach Joe Kuharich out of moving him to flanker during the exhibition season, led the Eagles over St. Louis with two touchdowns and seven pass receptions for 129 yards.

BROWNS STIFLE REDSKINS

Cleveland's defence stifled the Redskins, shutting them out until the final two minutes of play. Frank Ryan passed for both Brown touchdowns, hitting Walter Robert for 80-yards and Gary Collins for 25.

The Vikings intercepted two of Johnny Unitas' first four passes but the Baltimore ace, given time to recoup by the Colts' stingy defence, rallied for the Western Division champ past Minnesota.

In the AFL, Buffalo intercepted five Denver passes and recovered three fumbles as Jack Kemp completed 20 of 40 passes for 280 yards. It was the first meeting between the two teams since they swapped halfbacks—Billy Joe moving to Buffalo and Cookie Gilchrist to Denver. Joe gained 48 yards on 14 carries and Gilchrist 36 on 12 attempts.

Belleville Parsons Soccer Club lost their first game in 5 weeks against the Smiths Falls team in Kingston on Saturday.

With a wet, muddy field Parsons made the mistake of trying to play passing soccer where the Smiths Falls club hit the ball hard.

A picture goal was scored by Kleiboer, when he broke through the Parsons defence and sank a low drive into the corner of the net.

Parsons kept coming hard, but Gledel in the Smiths Falls net robbed them on several fine opportunities.

Early in the second half Hall added another goal for Smiths Falls when he broke away to score from close in.

Bob Rutherford finally made it 2-1, when he slammed a loose ball high into the Smiths Falls net. Seconds later he again beat the goalkeeper, only for a defender to kick it off the goal line.

Smiths Falls made it 3-1, with a fine drive by Kleiboer on a free kick.

Parsons have only one game left in the league schedule, this is a cancelled game against Batawa, possibly this will be played at Zwicks Island on Oct. 2nd. At this time the playoff series will begin.

Surtees Wins At Quebec

MONT TREMBLANT, Que. (CP)—John Surtees of London won the second annual Player's Quebec international sports car race in a Lola Sunday.

Surtees, 1964 world Grand Prix driving champion, turned 32 laps of the 2.72-mile circuit in 94 minutes, 28 2-10 seconds. His fastest lap, a record for the newly-lengthened track, was 1:46.2.

Ludwig Heimrath of Toronto was the highest-placed Canadian, driving his McLaren-Elvaisto into fourth spot.

It was the second victory in as many days for Surtees, who flew to Montreal from London Saturday after a race at Oulton Park, England, where he won the International Gold Cup race for Formula One cars. Jim Clark, Scotland's world champion, finished sixth despite setting a lap record.

60,000 Honor Mantle

NEW YORK (AP)—Mickey Mantle, New York Yankees' slugging star, was honored on his day Saturday as he played in his 2,000th game for the American League baseball club.

Some 60,000 fans were on hand when Mantle, his wife Merlyn, and their four sons received thousands of dollars worth of gifts, including an automobile, two quarter horses and free vacation trips to Rome, Nassau and Puerto Rico.

Mayor Robert Wagner proclaimed Saturday Mickey Mantle Day in New York. Red Barber, master of ceremonies, read a congratulatory telegram from President Johnson. Joe DiMaggio, former Yankee great and a member of baseball's Hall of Fame, presented the switchhitter to one of the largest crowds of the year at Yankee Stadium.

Donations of more than $10,000 were given to the Mickey Mantle Fund for Hodgkins Disease Research Foundation. Mantle's father died 13 years ago of the disease, which is a form of cancer.

Mantle's speech was brief as promised. Without eluding to the talk this may be his last year, Mantle said:

"I hope to be able to play another 15 years. This game has been great to me and my family. So have the Yankees. I only wish that my dad could have been here."

Three New Shows Picked As Sad Affairs by Writer

By CYNTHIA LOWRY

NEW YORK (AP) — Nobody ever makes a bad show on purpose, or so we are constantly assured by television's producers, directors and stars. After a look at the assortment of new shows during the weekend, one can only conclude that a lot of people in the television business are accident-prone.

It is more merciful to ignore the worst stumbles—CBS' The Smothers Brothers Show, which had its premiere Friday night, and NBC's I Dream of Jeannie Saturday.

Along with NBC's My Mother the Car seen earlier last week, these alleged comedy-fantasies were undoubtedly the saddest of specimens among the 33 new programs.

A charitable judgment is that, with a few exceptions, the new entries of the 1965-66 season make the good old days of the roller derbies and professional wrestling seem scintillating.

Maybe they'll all improve in subsequent weeks — at least they better or there will be a lot of Dempsey-Tunney bouts.

ALL DISAPPOINT

Among the 15 new shows previewed between Friday and Monday were three for which the highest hopes were held—CBS' Hogan's Heroes, NBC's Get Smart and ABC's The FBI.

Every one was a disappointment.

Hogan's Heroes — a Friday night show—is set in a jolly German prisoner-of-war camp run smoothly by a slick American colonel — a prisoner — so smoothly that happy soldiers broke into the camp instead of out of it. If our former enemies were as stupid as portrayed, it is a wonder the Nazis ever got out of that Munich beer hall.

Get Smart is a broad burlesque of James Bond and apparently will keep satirizing him for a solid season. A little of this goes a long way.

The FBI received a polished production from action-adventure specialist Quinn Martin with help from star Efrem Zimbalist Jr. as the top agent. But beneath the trappings, it was just another of those cops-and-robbers potboilers we have seen over and over through the years.

It wasn't all bad, though. There was NBC's The Wackiest Ship in the Army Sunday night —an amusing and adventurous sea yarn with Jack Warden and newcomer Gary Collins.

Lucille Ball Not Happy With TV Programming

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—At least one leader of the television industry views today's programming with alarm: Lucille Ball.

Once more, Lucy is TV's classic combination of glamour and comic genius. Away from the set lamps, she has an executive's steel-trap mind, as well as a concern for the entire medium about which she helped build.

"I don't like the way television programming is going," she said with concern during a lunch break on her own Monday night CBS show. "There is too much sameness, too much repeating of the old formulas, there is no real exploring of new avenues for entertainment."

Lucille voiced particular alarm over the fact that all three networks are offering old movies in prime evening hours this season: CBS on Sunday, CBS on Thursday, NBC on both Tuesday and Saturday. She branded this as creative abdication.

ABANDONING DUTY

"It seems to me that the networks are abandoning their duty to create new entertainment for television," she declared. "They are making of TV little more than a second-run movie house."

Lucille has more than the usual concern. As president of the three-studio Desilu Productions, she would like to supply series to the networks. Her chances are lessened when eight hours weekly in nighttime TV are occupied by Hollywood movies.

But her concern is not merely corporative. "The public deserves more creativity from TV," she said.

Meanwhile The Lucy Show continues its own course of comic invention.

"I wondered if I could get my enthusiasm up for this season," said Lucille, whose television career began in 1951. "But that hasn't been a problem. I found myself enjoying the shows more than ever."

At the Park

EXPOSE ON "SLAVE TRADE IN THE WORLD TODAY" TO OPEN TONIGHT

"Slave Trade in the World Today," an expose of the many forms of slavery which still exist throughout the world, will open at the Park Theatre tonight for it's first showing.

This extraordinary film, produced by Maleno Malenotti and directed by Roberto Malenotti, was photographed in color on location in Africa, the Arabian Peninsula, India and the Middle East. Three camera crews spent six months in these areas in search of slave traders and their hunting camps, working under conditions of great difficulty and often at the risk of their lives, since knowledge that this condition exists has long been carefully suppressed by the various African and Arabian governments.

The cameramen sometimes posed as Europeans, setting up their cameras in hiding places, frequently making use of the Italian camps. They filmed slave caravans on the trail from Africa to Arabia, penetrated the secret slave markets where human being are examined, assessed and haggled over like cattle, took their cameras into the brothels of the Sudan and mingled with the Moslem travelers on their annual pilgrimmage to Mecca.

The producer acquired some rare film footage inside a harem by an English girl who had sold herself into bondage for three years. The thousands of feet of film footage gathered by these film units give indisputable evidence to the fact that a slave traffic flourishes today in many lands.

The film was inspired by material from the book, "The Slave Trade Today," a shocking account of slavery in Africa and Arabia as investigated by its author, Sean O'Callaghan, and published in paperback by Lord Robin Maugham, a longtime

Whip Green Gaels 10-7

Salmonbellies' Square Series

OSHAWA (CP) — Trainer Syd Bellwood may have been partially right last week when he suggested Oshawa fans should turn out at New Westminster practices if they wanted to see "real lacrosse."

The Western champions decided to drop a daily workout and save their energy for the game. It paid off in a 10-7 triumph Saturday night over Oshawa Green Gaels and deadlocked the best-of-seven Canadian junior lacrosse final at two games each.

Fifth game will be played tonight with the sixth Wednesday and the seventh, if necessary Friday.

The burly Salmonbellies displayed little speed in the first three games and the lighter Green Gales repeatedly maintained ball possession.

Saturday the Salmonbellies showed the hustle, held a wide edge in play and forced Oshawa to play New Westminster's brand of lacrosse.

"Maybe it was working them a little too hard in practice," said coach Keith Jackson of New Westminster. "We decided to ease up. This way we used our speed only when it counted and this was our best performance in the series."

COACH NOT PLEASED

Coach Jim Bishop was anything but pleased with Oshawa's over-all-play. Only defencemen Jim Higgs and Bill Armour and netminder Merv Marshall showed any spark.

Marshall made 25 saves, several on breakaways and most of them from point-blank range.

New Westminster managed to split the Green Gaels defence repeatedly for clear drives on goal.

"We've got to run, run, run if we want it, the champion-ship," said Bishop. "This is a strong, mature club . . . and you can't afford to relax."

Wayne Goss and Ken Winzuki supplied the key scoring power for the Salmonbellies.

Goss got three goals while Winzuki scored twice and set up a third.

Goss lifted his series goal total to eight — tied for the lead with Dillon and Goss — with three goals for Oshawa.

A crowd of 2,209 Saturday night pushed the series attendance total to 11,404 and almost insured the mark of 15,000 set in the 1959 Minto Cup final between Brampton and Victoria, will be surpassed.

Cyclist Beats Trotter

BRONI, Italy (AP)—World speed cycling champion Giuseppe Beghetto of Italy competed against a trotting horse named Occasso over 800 metres in this North Italian town Sunday. Beghetto won by 10 lengths.

Beghetto had a famous predecessor in the feat—Buffalo Bill Cody, during the Wild West showman's visit to Italy early in the century. Cody and his horse beat Buni, a famous cyclist of that era.

Beghetto covered the distance in 1:04.8. Occasso, a trotter driven by Adolfo Pisani, kept up with Beghetto for most of the way until he broke his trotting rhythm and lost ground.

Dief Waits On Roblin to Make Up Mind

By KEN KELLY

SASKATOON (CP) — Progressive Conservative Leader Diefenbaker expects to hear soon whether Manitoba Premier Duff Roblin will fight as his side as a candidate in the Nov. 8 federal election.

He told a press conference here Sunday the time has spent together at an agricultural conference Saturday night in Winnipeg was too short for Mr. Roblin to inform him on his possible candidacy for a seat in Parliament.

At that time, Mr. Roblin told reporters he had nothing to say on his candidacy.

"I hope to get in touch with him again in the next 48 hours," Mr. Diefenbaker said.

Meanwhile, highly - placed Conservative sources could confirm Mr. Roblin wants to make the move into federal politics but is still waiting to see the problem of relinquishing provincial leadership.

Mr. Roblin was reported to have told Mr. Diefenbaker he had made no decision but had indicated a desire to make the jump. He is under strong pressure from federal Conservatives who do not have the members of his Manitoba party are reported as strongly against such a step at this time.

CHAT TOGETHER

Mr. Roblin chatted for about 30 minutes with Mr. Diefenbaker and Gordon Churchill, a former cabinet minister and member of the Manitoba Parliament for Winnipeg South Centre. Mr. Churchill is said to have made the initial approach to Mr. Roblin to run federally.

This was followed by a caucus palm organized by former agriculture minister Alvin Hamilton to meet the premier and urge him to bombard the Manitoba premier with messages urging him to enter the federal campaign as a candidate.

The Winnipeg airport conference was the first of a series of 20-hour day for Mr. Diefenbaker while a crowd of Conservatives — on hand to greet him — to mark Mr. Diefenbaker's 70th birthday, chanted "Dief and Duff."

Earlier, at a luncheon of the Halton, Ont., constituency Conservative Association, Mr. Diefenbaker outlined two aspects of what he calls the Conservative "policies for people."

He pledged that a Conservative government will appoint a senator for the Yukon and another for the Northwest Territories. A Conservative government would shift the territorial government to the jurisdiction from Ottawa and enfranchise all territorial residents in their elections.

Mr. Diefenbaker also enunciated the party's education platform.

WOULD RAISE GRANTS

He called for an immediate increase in the $2 per capita grants to universities and annual increases thereafter. These grants should be based on university enrolment rather than population because some provinces had a larger university population.

A Conservative government would discuss a more satisfactory financial formula with the provinces and the universities, he said.

He promised increased research grants for the National Research Council and increased federal aid to the Medical Research Council and the Canada Council.

In line with recommendations of the Hall royal commission on medical care, he proposed

Pearson Again Candidate in Algoma East

By STEWART MacLEOD
ESPANOLA, Ont. (CP) — Dogged by fog, Prime Minister Pearson launched his election campaign here Saturday with a promise to his constituents that he will fight without smear or slander for a majority government.

"This is the issue," he told 250 persons attending his own nominating convention in Algoma East. "A majority government to keep Canada strong and united."

He will work in co-operation with the provinces, but we want a strong central government to speak for Canada.

"I'll be talking about things like this rather than attacking opposing personalities. I am not going to be involved in smear, slander or name-calling."

Apart from the Saturday afternoon nominating convention, the Liberal people filled the small hall, Mr. Pearson's campaign - launching visit to his home constituency disrupted by fog.

Sunday, Mr. Pearson again was grounded in Espanola when a car driving through the fog to North Bay where his aircraft was waiting, left and originally planned to fly home Saturday night.

IS UNOPPOSED

Not unexpectedly, Mr. Pearson was unopposed at the nomination meeting. Gordon Chance, him to stand for the riding he has represented since 1948. This was the first local 13th federal association when the present nomination for "other candidates" would be followed by an address by the candidate, L. B. Pearson.

The government, he said, is the disentangling of national unity and in this we want a strong central government to speak for all parties.

"This is a campaign for Canada—to keep our country strong and united."

ABOVE PARTISANSHIP

Such considerations rose above all questions, he said. "We Canadians all are working together to build a country which we can be proud, a country which has a great future and a greater destiny than any other country in the world."

Some people had asked why a majority government was necessary when a great deal had been accomplished with a minority.

"The answer is simple and special grants to build teaching hospitals and research facilities, to improve the quality of teaching, dentistry and medical education facilities.

He also mooted "education allowance" covered in children's allowances should be extended to cover the education of students, Mr. Diefenbaker said. He repeated an earlier commitment that the income tax exemption would be allowed to deduct provincial taxes in calculating liability for federal some tax.

After the luncheon, it was an old-style political picnic where he addressed a crowd in the municipal park from the back of a truck. Police said between 1,000 and 2,000 persons had attended.

URGES JOINT ACTION

He urged Halton voters to join with a strong Conservative party in a crusade to "maintain, preserve and conserve the high principles of Confederation."

He claimed that the Liberal government lacked the "strength to insist on integrity in high places" and urged a return to the banks of such Conservative dissidents as George Hees, his former trade minister.

The first of three birthday cakes was presented and cut by Mr. Diefenbaker. He was given others at Winnipeg and Saskatoon.

Captive Killer Whale Goes to New Quarters To Spend the Winter

SEATTLE (AP)—Namu, the captive killer whale, goes into sectioned winter quarters this month after a profitable summer as the top performer at Seattle Marine Land aquarium.

The four-ton tourist attraction is scheduled to be moved to a heated pool with roofed cove on Puget Sound Sept. 27.

There will be a net across the entrance to the cove in it and a while keeper on duty 24 hours a day to keep intruders out.

While Namu is idling away the winter months, its owners hope they can switch him gradually from his $150-a-day salmon diet to a bottom fish menu which would cost about half.

Even if his expensive tastes don't change, Namu's owners aren't complaining much. The whale, towed south from British Columbia waters this summer, has been strictly a paying, though involuntary, guest.

Namu arrived in early July after Namu was brought here in a floating pen following capture in the Queen Charlotte Islands, B.C., June 23. Then the tourists started flocking to the Seattle aquarium — to see Namu obligingly rolled and cavorted.

Before the summer was over aquarium owners Ted and Jim Griffin say they will have put $8,000 they paid the Canadian fishermen for Namu but the entire amount hasn't been involved in getting him here.

RAISE PRICES

Admission prices were raised from $1 to $1.50 for adults and from 50 to 75 cents for children. Namu's local fan mail and there was revenue from Namu, Inc., a corporation licensed to manufacture trademarked Namu items, like sweatshirts, toys, key chains and posters.

The Griffins say they also are producing a Namu coloring book and a Namu record, to make the 22-foot mammal a movie star.

But their attendance is tapering off," said Don Goldsberry, assistant aquarium director. The kids are back in school, tourists are going home and the weather is cooling off. Namu is about the same. However, and Namu's appetite is going strong. Yesterday he had 420 pounds of fish.

Goldsberry said Namu is "in excellent health." He said there has been no problem of pollution at his waterfront pen.

The owners of a watertight liner in Namu's display pen and installed a pump that brings in clean salt water at the rate of 2,000 gallons a minute.

A new floating pen is being built for Namu to his winter home. When he's brought back to the aquarium in early spring he'll have a new display pen.

Goldsberry said three coves in Puget Sound are being considered for winter quarters. The locations haven't been announced.

about 270 miles northeast of Saigon to find themselves facing Viet Cong fire from all directions.

The U.S. force went into the area to find and eliminate a Viet Cong battalion believed to be operating about 15 miles east of An Khe, and landed right in the middle of it.

Smith said U.S. air power accounted for many of the Viet Cong dead but also told of fierce hand-to-hand fighting and attacks in the face of withering Viet Cong fire.

OCCUPY AREA

Sunday morning the Viet Cong pulled away from the U.S. sniper fire and the Americans moved into the guerrilla battle's thatched hut headquarters.

There they found water still boiling over the fires, hundreds of wooden hand grenades and wooden mortar shells used for booby traps. U.S. Americans and German arms, more than 2,000 rounds of small arm ammunition, medical supplies, documents, training aids and Chinese mortar shells.

Smith said it was a main force Viet Cong training camp and "a valuable piece of information we had been set down in."

The first American troops began a small force operation movements to clear a perimeter in the paddy field.

The Viet Cong laid down heavy fire about 100 yards from where the helicopters landed.

U.S. air power was lifted roared down on the Viet Cong, taking a heavy toll of casualties.

Everywhere the Americans fought to hold their positions Viet Cong squad leaders blew whistles to marshal their forces and Americans gunners tried to spot these whistle-blowers and kill them first to create disorder.

The Americans made an attack up a hill toward a mortar that had been firing on them. They reached the mortar but one soldier had time only to grab the firing tube and the mortar they retreated.

On a second attack the Americans broke through to capture the hill—and find only pieces of the mortar left.

The battle around the paddy ranged throughout the day but slacked off at night.

U.S. troops also fought the Viet Cong just north of Saigon today and U.S. Navy fighter bombers again pounded a suspected Communist stronghold in the Mekong Delta.

U.S. authorities said air force planes flew a record-breaking 324 strike sorties in support of Viet Nam in the week ending Sept. 17. The previous high was 306 sorties flown during week ending Sept. 10.

In the continuing Viet Cong pressure around the capital itself, antiinstalled two Viet Cong mortar fire years a South Vietnamese marine unit only eight miles southwest of Saigon and both were duds of the assault, but suffered moderate losses, spokesmen said.

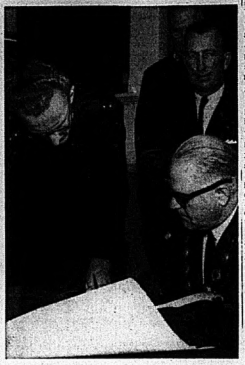
It is generally expected here that the 10-year Canada-U.S. NORAD agreement will be renewed when the current treaty expires in 1967. Canada's main contribution to it would continue to be the radar network it works.



That anti-missile system designed to handle a Chinese longrange threat could cost up to $10,000,000.

No official here is willing to guess how much Canada might be prepared to contribute. Annual spending now on the air defence system is around $130,000,000 or about 20 per cent of RCAF expenditures.

Scientists of the defence research board have been working for years in the field of longrange missile detection and the results of their studies have been fed into the big U.S. effort to develop a counter-missile system.

Capt. B. Robertson of the Salvation Army Cavalcade watches as Mayor H. J. McFarland of Picton signs Salvation Army scroll which is being carried across Canada as a feature of the Army's trans-Canada Cavalcade. A. Douglas Alkenbrack, M.P. Prince Edward - Lennox, look on from rear. This is the Salvation Army's centennial year and the scroll will be signed by mayors and other officials across the country.

Mayor Greets Cavalcade Of S. A. at Shrine Hall

PICTON (Staff) — Mayor of Picton H. J. McFarland yesterday officially greeted the Salvation Army's cross - Canada cavalcade on the steps of Shire Hall. Along with him to welcome the Salvation Army delegation were Warden of Prince Edward County, Bernard Hepburn; A. Douglas Alkenbrack, M.P. Prince Edward-Lennox; and other civic leaders.

The cavalcade arrived at 11:45 after motoring from Kingston.

Marking the Salvation Army's centennial year, the cavalcade features a huge sheepskin, which is being carried across Canada. At every place the caravan stops the sheepskin is signed by the Mayor and Salvation Army officials.

The brief ceremony was followed by a luncheon at the Picton Salvation Army citadel. Capt. L. Pearo of the Picton Salvation Army made all arrangements for the arrival of the cavalcade and acted as host for the day's activities.

Yvon Dupuis Demands Prompt Trial

ST. JOHNS, Que. (CP)— Yvon Dupuis, former minister without portfolio in the federal government, Sunday demanded a prompt trial on the influence-peddling charges he faces and said he will not run in the Nov. 8 federal election if found guilty.

Mr. Dupuis, speaking at a political rally in his home riding of St. Jean-Iberville-Napierville, said: "I am ready to appear (for trial) tomorrow, if you want the truth to make itself known, send me to trial."

The new wing, as he called it, of the Liberal party is afraid of the possibility of his being acquitted, he said. "I'm in dangerously good health for those who think I'm finished."

Mr. Dupuis was asked to resign from the cabinet by Prime Minister Pearson in January. Shortly afterwards, he was charged with having asked for and received $10,000 from a St. Johns man for, it was alleged, using influence to try to obtain a provincial racetrack franchise.

Trial was set for the fall assizes.

PROTESTS TREATMENT

Mr. Dupuis protested the handling of his case and suggested that he had been roughly treated because he is not of the university-educated class. "I'm a man of the people like you," he told his audience in a nearly-full 500-seat hall.

"The RCMP came into my house and searched it from basement to attic three times before my wife and children," he said. "I protest at that."

He spoke of a number of other cases in which Liberal politicians, both federal and provincial, had been mentioned in connection with the law. "Did the RCMP visit them?" he asked.

"No, in my case, yes. Is this equal justice for all?"

Mr. Dupuis told reporters he will stand for election in his constituency if the trial has not taken place by Nov. 8.

Birth Control Pronouncement Will Likely Be Made by Pope

VATICAN CITY (AP)—Pope Paul VI is almost certain to make a major pronouncement on birth control in time for the Vatican ecumenical council to put clear guidelines on contraception into its document on modern world problems, Vatican sources said Sunday.

The 2,200 bishops of the Roman Catholic council will begin debating the 138-page document during this second week of the council's fourth and final session. Airing of the big issues—birth control, nuclear warfare, world peace and social justice —will follow a declaration of religious liberty, which is expected to win an approving vote today or Tuesday.

The number of prelates wanting a papal statement on birth control is increasing. Their hope is to clear up uncertainties among Roman Catholics and to keep the council from going down in history as ducking the controversy.

The document on modern world problems is the longest of the 11 topics on the agenda and debate and voting on it is expected to occupy much of the 10 weeks or so before the council ends.

Biggest difficulty in reaching unanimous agreement is reported to be the desire to set forth broad principles that will outlast each new step in birth control research.

Last fall, married life was to have been discussed in the council. However, specifics in the dilemma that Roman Catholic couples face—the need for mutual physical love while confined by church law to only the rhythm method of birth control or of periodic abstinence—were not to be discussed.

But bishop after bishop insisted that the whole question of Roman Catholicism's moral teaching on marriage should be examined.

VATICAN CITY— (AP)—Vatican informants say Pope Paul will change Roman Catholic mixed marriage laws by the end of the month to remove what Protestants regard as a sore point—having to sign a promise to raise children as Catholics.

They will still have to make the promise, the informants said, but it will be an oral agreement instead of a written pledge.

The change was described as a compromise between views held by bishops in the Vatican ecumenical council.

Vote To Proceed With Religious Liberty Motion

VATICAN CITY (AP). —The Vatican ecumenical council voted preliminary approval today of its religious liberty declaration, defeating a conservative bid to shelve the controversial document.

A council spokesman said the assembly's cardinals, archbishops, bishops, patriarchs and other prelates voted 1,997 to 224 in favor of accepting the document as a basis for a definite declaration after further deliberation.

This vote in effect committed the council to go ahead with the preparation of a final document putting the Roman Catholic Church on record in support of the right of every man to worship according to his conscience.

The announcement of the result of the vote was greeted by cheers from both the bishops and the non-Catholic observers.

Progressive prelates had fought for acceptance of the document while a small group of conservative bishops had argued for its rejection. There were reports Monday night that conservatives had sent Pope Paul a petition to put off voting on the declaration.

The vote amounts to a defeat for those prelates who sought to shelve the declaration.

URGES ACCEPTANCE

José Cardinal Beran, who spent 18 years in Communist confinement in his native Czechoslovakia, Monday urged acceptance of the document in a speech being hailed as one of the great addresses before the three-year-old council.

Cardinal Beran said Catholicism in Czechoslovakia seemed to be suffering now for what he called its own "defects and sins" in such past acts as burning the reformer John Huss in 1415 as a heretic.

Cardinal Beran made clear he felt the burning of Huss—in

Hellyer Annoyed At Move

OTTAWA (CP)—To the considerable annoyance of Defence Minister Hellyer, North American Air Defence Command is publicly advocating adoption of the American VF-12A plane as a NORAD interceptor.

One of the advocates appears to be RCAF Air Marshal Larry Dunlap, Norad's deputy commander.

Mr. Hellyer has said the RCAF's 41 Voodoo jet interceptors will represent a sufficient Canadian contribution to NORAD until the 1970-72 period to handle a declining bomber threat against North America.

Informants say this view could be changed by new Russian or Chinese—bomber production but there is no indication of such Communist action.

NORAD's latest statement on the subject, made last week, says the command "is still concerned with attempting anti-bomber defences and is searching for a better fighter that can intercept high-speed enemy aircraft armed with air-to-surface missiles."

The statement adds that the 2,000-miles-an-hour YF-12A, unveiled a year ago, is designed "to provide an effective defence against the manned bomber threat throughout the NORAD area of responsibility—the entire continent."

Air Marshal Dunlap was quoted as saying that "certainly the development of the YF-12A interceptor aircraft is the evidence that industrial technology has advanced sufficiently to build a weapons system capable of meeting this threat."

Officials here said acquisition of a new interceptor when there is no defence yet against the major threat — the intercontinental missile—would be questionable, to say the least.

There hasn't been a serious open row between Ottawa and NORAD headquarters since late 1958 when RCAF Air Marshal Roy Slemon, then NORAD deputy commander, advocated acquisition of the Canadian Arrow interceptor when the then Conservative government was in the process of scrapping it.

Quick Vote On Auto Pact Sought

By ARCH MacKENZIE

WASHINGTON (CP) — The Senate finance committee today concluded public hearings on a bill to implement the Canada-United States auto agreement and then moved immediately into an executive sitting to draft its report.

Senator Albert Gore, Tennessee Democrat, wound up his consistent criticism of the measure by questioning of a report by the U.S. tariff commission which, among other things, says that Canada's auto-trade deficit could reach $940,000,000 by 1968. Under the agreement, Canada hopes to reduce an annual deficit which amounted to nearly $600,000,000 last year.

The main feature of the agreement is abolition of tariffs for manufacturers but not consumers.

Monday Senator Russell B. Long urged a quick windup of the committee's hearings.

The agreement calls for suspension at the manufacturers' level of tariffs on new cars and original equipment for new cars shipped either way across the border.

The Louisiana senator, who also is assistant Democratic leader, clashed with two witnesses over the slow pace of the

Report Rail Brotherhood Will Quit Non-op Group

TORONTO (CP)—The Globe and Mail says the Canadian Brotherhood of Railway, Transport and General Workers (CLC) decided Monday to secede from its affiliation with 14 international non-operating railway unions.

The paper says the decision was made at a meeting at Niagara Falls, Ont., of the joint protective committee of the Brotherhood attended by 108 chairmen of union locals. The move followed a refusal by the international unions to permit the Brotherhood to negotiate separately on behalf of 1,500 Canadian National Railways sleeping, dining and parlor-car employees.

The move ends 15 years of joint negotiations with Canada's railways, the paper says.

After the meeting, the committee announced that the Brotherhood, which represents 23,000 CNR employees, has set a wage goal of 90 cents an hour in increases over a two-year period.

Election Campaign Starts In Earnest for All Parties

OTTAWA (CP)—The Liberals start campaigning in earnest today for the Nov. 8 election. The NDP and Conservatives follow right behind.

Liberal campaign personnel, candidates and prospective candidates gather in the capital today for a talk session on campaign strategy. About 75 to 100 are expected from across the country.

It will be an afternoon affair at the Chateau Laurier, Ottawa's prestige hotel. Prime Minister Pearson is to speak at a workshop luncheon and at closed sessions later.

Finance Minister Gordon, the Liberals' national campaign chairman, will be another top-rank speaker at the event, billed as the party's official campaign kick-off.

However, Mr. Pearson got the campaign on the road last weekend on a trip designed to fog—to his home riding of Algoma East in Northern Ontario.

The Liberal leader is expected to be more non-political than political for the remainder of September. A month-end visit to St. John's, Nfld. will mark the start of his serious on-the-road campaigning, informants say.

Mr. Pearson will be preceded in Newfoundland — where the Liberals held all seven seats in the last Parliament—by Opposition Leader Diefenbaker, RETURNS TO OTTAWA.

The Conservative leader returns to Ottawa today from Saskatchewan and flies to Halifax Friday, with a Montreal stopover, for his formal campaign opener. It will be a rally in the Queen Elizabeth High School auditorium in the Nova Scotia capital.

He flies to Newfoundland the following day for an evening rally at St. Mary's Hall in St. John's before flying back to Halifax. There he boards a train Sunday.

He'll whistlestop through Quebec from Amqui to St. Hyacinthe Monday, reaching Montreal at 8:40 p.m. EDT.

NDP Leader Douglas is addressing public meetings in British Columbia this week. They will lead up to the socialist party's campaign kickoff

Police Suspect Foul Play in Man's Death

LONDON, Ont. (CP)—Police suspect foul play in the death of Victor Charles, about 34, whose body was found Monday about a half-mile from the automobile of his home on the nearby Oneida Indian reserve.

A former found the partly-clad body lying face-up in knee-deep grass along the First Concession line in Delaware Township.

Police said the victim had suffered head injuries, and the circumstances looked like "murder-arson."

Indians Return Fire

NEW DELHI (Reuters)—Indian troops on the Sikkim frontier today returned fire from the Chinese side, a defence ministry spokesman said.

All-India radio had announced earlier that Chinese troops were keeping up their fire on the Sikkim and Ladakh borders.

The radio said also that active Chinese patrolling was noted and that Chinese troops continued to hold positions close to the Tibet-Sikkim border.

The latest announcement said there were no casualties on either side in the exchange of small-arms fire.

Answering questions at a press conference the spokesman described the situation as "not all that serious," adding: "They fired a few shots and we fired a few shots—that's all."

PEKING (Reuters) — China today handed a new note to India—the third in four days—charging it with "serious armed provocation India has made on the Sino-Indian border", news agencies said. Border dispute erupted into war three years ago.

China alleged that India opened armed fire on Chinese civilians Sunday at Dumchele, in the western sector of the Tibetan-Indian border zone.

Observers in Peking said the tone of the latest Chinese note, handed over to Indian Charge d'Affaires J. S. Mehta early today, was curt.

The note was delivered less than two days before the scheduled expiration of Peking's extended ultimatum to India over military installations on the Tibet-Sikkim border.

Peking has ordered India to dismantle the installations or face the consequences. India has refused any such installations to dismantle and that India's forces will fight back with "grim determination" if the Chinese attack.

Peace Force Formula Is Sought

By BORIS MISKEW

UNITED NATIONS (CP) — The search for a formula for the handling of future peacekeeping or peace-making role among the most pressing problems facing the 20th session of the United Nations General Assembly which opens today.

The opening was overshadowed by an atmosphere of increasing international tension as the Security Council awaited the opening debate by India and Pakistan of a ceasefire order issued Monday by the council.

The 11-member council, after much study and debate, passed a resolution ordering the governments of the two countries—in dispute over Kashmir—to halt a ceasefire by Wednesday and withdraw all their armed personnel to their positions before last August 5.

Sources in New Delhi were reported as saying that Prime

Burns U. S. Library In Karachi

KARACHI, Pakistan (AP)—About 10,000 demonstrators burned the U.S. information service library in Karachi today and pulled down the United Nations flag from the building.

The violence followed a general strike in the city with all shops and businesses closed to protest the UN resolution ordering Pakistan and India to ceasefire.

The demonstrators shouted anti-UN, anti-U.S. and anti-Indian slogans. They also demanded that Pakistan withdraw its membership in the United Nations and the Central Treaty Organization and the Southeast Asia Treaty Organization, both Western defence alliances.

Fire brigades and police dispersed the mob and put out the library fire.

Some demonstrators marched toward the U.S. Embassy but were blocked by police. Later about 100 Arab students went to the U.S. Embassy and presented a letter expressing their resentment over U.S. government policy toward Kashmir and Pakistan.

Police removed the students from the premises.

Students and other demonstrators carried life-size portraits of President Sukarno of Indonesia, Communist Chinese leaders Chou En-lai and Mao Tse-tung, King Hussein of Jordan, the Shah of Iran and Turkish President Cemal Gursel, who have expressed support of Pakistan against India.

Shastri Cancels Address

NEW DELHI (Reuters)—India Prime Minister Shastri today cancelled at the last minute a statement he was due to make in parliament on the United Nations demand for a ceasefire in the war with Pakistan.

Earlier informed sources said Shastri has told the United Nations he will accept a Security Council demand for a ceasefire if Pakistan also complies.

The informants said Shastri asked to be notified at once of any reply by Pakistan so that orders can be sent to India's troops.

The sources said Shastri reported this course of action to a meeting of leaders of his political opposition.

There has been no word whether Pakistan has replied to the Security Council demand, Pakistani Foreign Minister Z. A. Bhutto flew in New York today to discuss the ceasefire resolution.

The Security Council set Wednesday as the deadline for compliance with its ceasefire demand. It was prepared to consider invoking a threat of force if India and Pakistan fail to heed the latest call.

REPORT WARNING

Shastri's aides were reported warning him against accepting the UN's additional request that he order India's armed forces to halt back to positions held Aug. 5 before the war over the disputed state of Kashmir intensified. A similar call has gone out to Pakistan.

Evidence in, Only Argument Remains Before Rivard Case Is Given to Jury

LAREDO, Tex. (CP)—Unless Lucien Rivard pulls a rabbit out of the hat, a south Texas jury will receive today the case of the alleged narcotics kingpin and two other Montrealers accused of conspiring to run vast quantities of heroin into the United States.

The trial entered the seventh day, there remained only a few hours of argument for and against the group centred around Rivard, who has long fight against the U.S. government—including political involvements and a jailbreak — was finally come down to the wire.

Closing pleas to the jury were to come only on behalf of Rivard, 50, and Joseph Raymond Jones, alleged runner of drugs from Europe to Montreal.

None of the Canadians took the witness stand when the defence's turn came Monday after more than four days of evidence by which the U.S. government sought to prove by two dozen witnesses and 126 exhibits that they formed part of a pipeline to flood $200,000,000 worth of dope into the U.S. by way of Canada and Mexico.

Their lawyers called only two minor witnesses to challenge testimony given by the government's case, and none at all was summoned for Rivard himself. United figure in the conspiracy allegations and in the still-echoing political reverberations in Canada.

Defence testimony and pleas Monday were aimed at establishing the innocence of Charles Emile Groleau, a frail furniture salesman accused by the government of being Rivard's "executive officer," and Julien Gagnon, another salesman and alleged dope courier, Their lawyers attributed perjury to the government witnesses.

The only evidence brought in on Rivard's behalf was part of the transcript from his extradition hearing in Montreal, in which two defence witnesses gave a handwriting testimony clashing with evidence of a U.S. treasury expert here.

It dealt with a note found on Joseph Michel Caron, self-styled dope courier who testified that he was picked up here in 1963 with 76 pounds of heroin. Caron testified the note's key to a PO box for telephoning Rivard after getting into the U.S. from Mexico.

The government's handwriting evidence was that Rivard wrote the note but the Montreal witnesses — Prof. Paul Rioux and former police captain Armand Morin—said he did not write it.

The transcript was admitted over prosecution objections, but later Assistant Prosecutor William Bueter told the jury:

"Even if Rivard didn't write the note, there's still all this other testimony."

The chief "other testimony" was that of Caron, who implicated all of the defendants in one aspect or another: Mrs. Caron, who accompanied him to Mexico and on two other alleged dope-delivery runs from Montreal to the United States, and Roger Beauchemin, another courier who claimed he ran a load successfully from Mexico to the U.S. and Canada for Rivard in 1963.

Gagnon's lawyer, Charles Pamelar, called a Montreal service station operator, Vincent Valenti, to testify that Aug. 6,

McFarland's One of 7 Firms Said Dividing Up Contracts

OTTAWA (CP)—On Sept. 3, 1963, the city council of neighboring Hull, Que., opened sealed tenders from five companies for an access street paving work.

Out of one of the envelopes fell a memo—placed there inadvertently—which listed exactly the tenders of all five companies which had just been unsealed.

The city of Hull went to the Federal Restrictive Trade Practices Commission and asked for an investigation under the Combines Act.

The commission reported today that an unwritten agreement had existed among seven paving contractors in the Ottawa-Hull-Eastview area for 15 years to assist one or another of them to obtain municipal paving contracts.

The arrangement worked this way: One contractor who felt he should get a certain contract advised the others of the price he intended to bid by sealed tender. The other contractors, unless interested themselves in the contract, would put in higher bids.

If two or more contractors wanted the job, they would hold discussions and, as one witness said, "hammer it out between them."

The commission said in its report to Justice Minister Cardin that this arrangement "unduly lessened competition in the transportation and supply of asphalt mixes."

The city of Hull was deprived of the possible advantages of competition and the sealed tender procedure was frustrated," the commission added. The price of asphalt had been "unreasonably enhanced."

Mr. Cardin said in a statement that "the usual consideration will be given the question of what further steps ought to be taken."

Companies named in the report are: Standard Paving Ltd. of Ottawa and Hull, a subsidiary of Standard Paving and Materials Ltd., Toronto; Deschenes Construction Ltd. of Hull and Dibblee Construction Co. Ltd. of Ottawa, both subsidiaries of M. J. O'Brien Ltd of Ottawa; Interprovincial Paving Co. Ltd. of Hull; and O'Leary's (1956) Ltd. of Ottawa.

Kinsmen and Kinettes Install Year's Officers

The first fall meeting of the Belleville Kinsmen Club was held Monday evening at the Shrine Club with the Belleville Kinettes as guests of their husbands.

Deputy Governor Bob Foley of Kingston installed the new officers for both clubs and presented 100 per cent attendance pins to those qualifying.

Kinette club officers are Mary Atkinson, president; Kathy Lettingham, secretary; Deana Canning treasurer; Betty Fralick, registrar; Barbara Christie, bulletin editor and directors Shirley Andrews and Rosemary Belanger.

PINS AWARDED

Several club members received one and two year 100 per cent attendance pins with Rosemary Belanger receiving a three-year pin. Kinette president Mary Atkinson received a nine-year perfect attendance pin and corsage. Don Thomas received a pin for a remarkable 17 years of perfect attendance.

Murray Atkinson gave an interesting report of the Kinsmen National Convention held in Montreal last week.

Deputy Governor Foley said that increased membership was this year's main objective for Kinsmen. Club president Russell was given a standing ovation for his leadership through a very successful year and for his assuming the presidency for another year.

Man Convicted Of Dangerous Driving, Fined

Misinterpretation by newspapers causes confusion in the public mind over the rights of police in making arrests, Magistrate T. Y. Wills said today.

He added it was time "a little more sense" was brought to bear by newspapers and other communications media on the topic.

The magistrate made the comment after police constable Ian McColl told of pursuing a man in a high-speed car chase from Colemans Street to the driver's home on Centre Street.

In his driveway the man told the officer he was on private property and had no jurisdiction there.

When defence counsel Tom Lally queried Constable McColl on his statement the magistrate interjected: "I don't think a police officer has to warn a person he is going to arrest him if he's in hot pursuit. He doesn't have to get out his Magna Carta, his Bible and the Criminal Code."

The magistrate convicted 22-year-old Gary Palmer of dangerous driving, suspended his licence six months and fined him $50.

City Council Concurs in 2 Resolutions

City council yesterday concurred in two of-of-town resolutions calling for compulsory wearing of crash helmets by motorcyclists and for the enacting of legislation to prohibit the use of disposable glass containers in the soft drink industry.

The first resolution from the city of Kitchener called for the compulsory wearing of crash helmets by motorcycle riders and for tightening of existing laws regarding licensing of motorcycle drivers.

The resolution regarding disposable glass containers was from the city of Owen Sound.

Alderman Enos David didn't agree with either resolution. He said it was no more right to require motorcycle riders to wear crash helmets than it was to require motorists to wear seat belts.

And he felt that prohibiting the use of disposable glass containers would be discrimina tion.

A better idea would be to make it a criminal offence to throw and break bottles, he said.

No Socred Candidates In Quebec

MONTREAL (CP)—The Social Credit party will not put up any candidates in Quebec for the forthcoming federal elections, party leader Robert Thompson said Monday night.

Four of the five Social Credit members from Quebec who sat in the last Parliament decided that "survival is still the first law of nature," Mr. Thompson said.

"They believe that, if they stand in the election on a non-partisan basis, they can return to Ottawa."

The four recently announced their change to independent status for the forthcoming election, set for Nov. 8.

A fifth Social Credit member from Quebec, Jean-Louis Frenette (Portneuf), said last week he will try for the Liberal nomination in his constituency.

Mr. Thompson, addressing a suburban service club, said he was sorry that the five had decided to leave the party. He still hoped, however, that they would return to Parliament. It is clear that, in this election, parties will be much less important than individuals, he said.

Application for Rezoning Change Referred Back

The application of Dr. H. F. Williamson for a rezoning change for two lots on Dundas Street East near the hospital to allow for operation of a medical clinic was again before council yesterday again there was no final action.

Following a half-hour discussion, the matter was tabled for two weeks with a request for the owner to bring in definite plans.

The matter of rezoning for a medical clinic on Dundas Street has been before council several times in the past two years and in each case has met with refusal.

On recommendation of council earlier this year, Dr. Williamson re-submitted his application for re-zoning and this was before council two weeks ago. The application was referred to the Belleville and Suburban Planning Board for recommendation.

OBJECTS TO REFUSAL

The recommendation of the board was that the application be re-considered.

"This is coming to the point of absurdity," stated Alderman Don Whalen as the matter was again before council yesterday

He said a medical clinic near the hospital would be an asset and urged that the re-zoning request be granted. He said each application for re-zoning should be considered on its own merits.

During the following discussion Mayor J. Ellis said there was nothing to stop Dr. Williamson conducting his practice from the Dundas Street address.

However, he said that operation of a clinic was not permissible in an "A" district.

The Belleville and Suburban Planning Board in recommending that the application be not approved said there had been no new material in the new application.

The basic reasons for the board's earlier recommendation that the application be not approved were that there were strong objections from nearby property owners; that "spot zoning" of lot numbers 260 and 262 should not be allowed in advance of detailed land use studies, and that the development would tend to increase traffic noise in the area.

Ald. Requests Fairer Share Of Tax Dollar for Roads

A fairer share of the provincial tax dollar for spending on local streets and roadways and less red tape in getting it, was called for yesterday at city council.

Alderman Donald Joss, citing the reams of reports and surveys piling up at city hall, said that despite that this year's work program was claimed to be the biggest ever, the city's streets program was actually going backwards.

"While the city studies reports the public works department is frustrated and the citizens are irritated," he said.

The alderman recommended that a strongly worded recommendation be forwarded to Queen's Park demanding that the city get more of what was due it without so much red tape.

Alderman Joss declared there was not one property designed roadway entrance to the city, while in addition the Dundas Street bridge needed replacement, the Cannifton Road underpass was long overdue, the Sidney Street bridge needed replacement and improvements were needed at the Bell Ellows.

"It is time that we asserted ourselves to get our fair share of provincial money," he said. "The people in this city are being treated like second class citizens."

Housing Units for Senior Citizens Not Yet Ready

Due to amendments necessary for architects' plans and, because of other holdups, construction of senior citizens' housing in Belleville is not now expected to get underway this year.

This was admitted at city council yesterday by Alderman Douglas Boyle, chairman of the Senior Citizens and Low Rental Housing Committee as he replied to a question from the council chamber.

Alderman Boyle said, however, that the 40 low rental housing units were well underway and it was expected these would be completed and be ready for occupancy by the first of next year.

The land has been acquired for senior citizens housing and the architects' plan for the construction has been presented to the Ontario Housing Corporation but it does not now look as though a start can be made this fall.

Mayor Jack Ellis said that a great deal of work had gone into arrangements for low rental and senior citizens' housing, but the government department was so swamped with requests that projects were being delayed.

Will Extend Welcome Mat To Tourists

The Belleville Parking Authority is going to extend the welcome mat for out of the province visitors to the city.

City council yesterday authorized the Authority to extend "all courtesy" to such visitors.

The courtesy will not mean however that such visitors will be met at the city limits, but will be confined to exemption from paying over-time parking fines.

But Alderman Don Whalen felt that charity should begin at home.

He said that there had been many complaints from local motorists, who have found parking tickets on their cars merely going into a store to secure change for the parking meters.

"Maybe the parking authority officers should not be so quick on the draw," he suggested.

Firm's Growth Is Described By S. Kvarda

Stan Kvarda, a Czech who began producing aluminum signs, plaques, trade marks, name plates and the like in the basement of his home on Dufferin Street in 1947 and built up the business until today his firm, Aluminum Star Products Ltd. of Belleville, is a leader in its field, told fellow Rotarians of the growth of his business in a classification talk yesterday.

Mr. Kvarda said increasing business had necessitated several moves and extensions of premises. Today the firm employs 22 men and the total annual payroll amounts to $100,000.

The speaker, who is president of the Ontario Junior Chamber of Commerce, came to Canada in 1939 after serving an apprenticeship with the Bata Shoe Company in Czechoslovakia. Subsequently he went into business for himself and founded the firm of which he is head.

Di Pompeo, who is leaving shortly for a tour of duty in Greece with the YMCA World Service organization, bade farewell to members of the club.

President Ernest Burnham presided.

May Not Complete Some Projects Planned for Year

Pressure of work for the city works department along with delays of one kind or another could result in some of the projects planned for this year not being completed as was originally expected.

Mayor Jack Ellis said yesterday that it would be physically impossible for the public works staff to inspect all jobs if they were ahead of schedule and as result some projects or parts of projects may have to be laid over.

The mayor said there was still hope that Pinnacle Street might be finished as planned, but to do so it would be necessary to close off parts of the street completely to allow the contractor to work without interruption from traffic.

If this was done, however, it would take all the works department inspection staff and other projects would have to be delayed.

One of the projects which would have to be delayed would be the proposed Dundas Street, West sidewalk. Only part of this project could be expected to be completed this year, the mayor said.

It was expected that a contract for part of the Dundas Street walk would be let this year.

A stone pathway from the west leading to the Sir Mackenzie Bowell School would be placed this fall to improve walking conditions.

Mohawk Claims He Is Free Of U.S. Draft

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP)—A 25-year-old Mohawk Indian contends in a federal court case that he is free from the U.S. military draft because of a 180-year-old treaty.

Brant J. Maracle asked dismissal Monday of an indictment charging him with wilful failure to report for induction.

His lawyer, Omar Ghobasy of New York City, cited the Jay Treaty, signed in 1794.

Maracle was born in Rochester but has lived most of his life in Shawville, Que., Ghobasy argued that, Maracle was entitled to dual U.S.-Canadian citizenship.

Ghobasy said that, by renouncing American citizenship, Maracle becomes a Canadian and is not required to obey the U.S. military draft.

By RUTA GOSLING

MOVER AND SECONDER — Dr. Pauline Jewett, all smiles, locks arms with Helen Hawke (right) and Bernard Lonergan her nominators at well attended candidates' convention at Cobourg last night. She told her supporters, 500 strong, that she visited every resident in Northumberland in her bid to represent the riding in 1963 and she intends to go over the ground again.

Sevigny Regrets Timing of Book Publication

MONTREAL (CP) — Pierre Sevigny, former associate defence minister, said Monday he would have delayed publication of his book on his political experiences if he had known Prime Minister Pearson planned to call a federal election Nov. 8.

He said the book's publication time—scheduled for October—was chosen before Monday's announcement.

It will be run off the presses in English and French.

Mr. Sevigny's resignation from the then prime minister Diefenbaker's cabinet was over the nuclear arms issue and this matter is dealt with in the book, which covers his experiences from 1956 to 1963.

There have been reports that the work, published at election time, would cause the conservative party embarrassment but Mr. Sevigny said last week that he attacks no one in his volume for the purpose of "deliberately destroying reputations."

He said Monday no one in the conservative party has spoken to him about the work and that it has not affected his own political planning.

WON'T WHITE-WASH

"The book will attack no one but neither has it the purpose of white-washing Mr. Diefenbaker," the former cabinet minister said. He was speaking to university students in Montreal.

Asked about the retirement from federal politics of Leon Balcer, once regarded as Mr. Diefenbaker's Quebec lieutenant, Mr. Sevigny said he disagreed with the former transport minister at times.

Mr. Balcer, in announcing his retirement last week, said there is no place in the Conservative party for a French-Canadian.

Said Mr. Sevigny:

"On the contrary, we must recruit people here in Quebec and others who can express themselves vigorously on the Ottawa stage."

He said later that he has a number of invitations from Conservative organizations in various Quebec constituencies to run in their districts but he has not yet decided whether to be a candidate in the Nov. 8 elections. He was defeated in Longueuil, Que., in 1963.

Pauline Jewett Is Given Liberal Nomination in Riding of Northumberland

Will Integrate All Ontario Pension Plans

TORONTO (CP)—All Ontario government - operated pension plans are to be integrated with the Canada Pension Plan, Premier John Robarts announced Monday.

He said this will raise retirement benefits for civil servants, teachers and employees of government agencies with about the same premium costs.

The premier said an agreement will be reached with the federal government to bring provincial civil servants under the Canada Pension Plan. This means the province will match civil service contributions, starting Jan. 1, 1966.

The agreement is needed since the federal government, under the constitution, cannot force the provincial government to make any payments for provincial civil servants.

LIST PLANS

Mr. Robarts said legislative amendments will be made to the public service superannuation plan, the teachers' superannuation plan, the pension plans for the Ontario Northland Transportation Commission, Workmen's Compensation Board and the Ontario municipal employees retirement system, to integrate them with the Canada Pension Plan.

He cited the case of the teachers' superannuation plan and the municipal employees' plan, local school boards and municipal governments will have to match the premium contributions of their employees.

Contributions to the existing plans will be reduced so the Canada Pension Plan will not put an extra burden on the contributors. However, pension benefits should increase in most cases for substantially the same premiums.

COBOURG — Dr. Pauline Jewett told her nominating convention last night that there is nothing she would rather do than represent the people of Northumberland again in the Federal government at Ottawa. Her bid for Liberal candidate was unopposed as expected. She became a Member of Parliament in 1963 when she unseated Conservative candidate Lindsay, high school teacher, Harry Bradley, with a better than 500 and Mr. Bradley is stepping down this time in favor of the ex-president of the Montreal Stock Exchange.

Some 500 loya l supporters gave her a standing ovation lasting several minutes when she accepted the challenge to represent the November 8 election with former Trade Minister George Hees, expected to provide stiff opposition as Conservative standard bearer.

Miss Jewett's domination was moved by Helen Hawke and seconded by Bernard Lonergan, both well known residents of the constituency.

MORE JOBS COMING

Defence Minister Paul Hellyer said the Liberal government would not rest until all those who want work gets jobs. Although 500,000 new jobs were created in the last two-and-half years and unemployment is the lowest since 1957 the situation is not good enough yet—particularly in Quebec and the Maritimes, he explained. One reason for concern he pointed out was that post war babies were becoming of age and causing high schools and colleges to burst at the seams. We have to see jobs are provided for them to build a better Canada, he emphasized. He suggested increasing post-graduate education to keep skilled people there seeking opportunity elsewhere.

The Minister spoke on behalf of Miss Jewett. He described his association with her in parliament thus: "Pauline is an outstanding M.P., a cut above average in all respects."

Platform dignitaries included: Russell Honey, former M.P. for Durham, and Mrs. Honey; Cobourg mayor Jack Heenan, and Mrs. Heenan, Jim Campbell, president of the Northumberland Liberal Association and Robert Temple, former M.P. for Hastings South.

'Exact Role' Of Daraban To Be Given

QUEBEC (CP) — Dr. Guy Marcoux, Social Credit member for Quebec-Montmorency in the last Parliament, said Monday he will publish a book on the "exact role" of Quebec businessman Moise Daraban in "the affair of the six Social Credit MPs."

He was referring to six Social Credit MPs who decided to support the Liberal party following the 1963 general election. The six were said to have become Creditiez.

Dr. Marcoux said in a telephone interview that his 50-page book will be published in about two weeks' time and will contain the text of documents "which have accumulated in files since April 1963."

Dr. Marcoux, who recently announced he will run as an independent in the Nov. 8 elections, said the book "will show the people how persons in high places have been able to ridicule democracy."

Fireman Named to Permanent Post

TRENTON — Dennis Smith, 26, a volunteer fireman with the Trenton Department for a number of years, was last night appointed to the permanent force by Trenton council. He will replace Duane Pinhay, who resigned this month to become chief of the Picton department.

Mr. Smith was chosen from among five other volunteer applicants for the job. One other man had more seniority than Mr. Smith, but does not live in Trenton, and had no interest in moving into town, the council committee reported. It is mandatory that all permanent men live in town.

WILL BUY PROPERTY

Trenton council voted last night to buy up the Mowbray property on the riverside of Front Street, provided the selling interests can clear the title. Cost to the town was roughly $4,300. This includes a buying price of $3,000, back taxes and a $500 "cushion" to satisfy persons who claim they have an interest in the property. Voting to acquire the property were councillors Reid, Graham, and Tripp. Against, Burtt, Todd, and McDonald, with Mayor MacDonald breaking the tie by voting yes.

Sewer Charge Is Protested By Resident

TRENTON — James Moon of Wragge Street appeared before Trenton council last night to protest the city's big sewer charge. He pointed out that his street is not serviced by sewers and that he is still being charged the regulation 50 percent of his water bill. Three years and tenants who do not have sewers as yet are required to pay 50 percent of the water bill, "in anticipation" of the time when they will have sewers. (Mr. Moon said he had been "anticipating" sewers ever since the era of the late Mayor Harry Corry, "and that's a good 33 years ago.")

Council will bring Mr. Moon's letter before the next meeting of the Trenton Public Utilities Commission.

WANT MAIL BOX

The Trenton Traffic Committee has been requested to town council that a mail box be placed in the downtown Trenton area. The committee has stated publicly that they find it a burden to take stamped mail books away to the new Front Street post office.

Will Seek Representative From County

TRENTON — Trenton council will ask the authorities if they intend to provide the Trenton Board of Education will meet in the near future regarding a site and price providing a walk for students coming off Sidney Street and proceeding to the new V. P. Carswell Elementary School on Reid Street. A gravel path under the Sidney Street subway and up a hill has been suggested, and in fact, some work has been put on a pathway along this route. However, children are using North Murray Street and Reid Street itself, and in the case of the latter, crossing railway tracks is involved.

Business Briefs

BY THE CANADIAN PRESS

Security transactions between Canada and other countries during the second quarter of 1965 resulted in a net capital import of $31,000,000, the bureau of statistics reported in Ottawa today. A net inflow of $74,000,000 in transactions with the United States was partly offset by a net outflow of $43,000,000 to Britain and $4,000,000 to other countries.

URGES POSTPONEMENT

The president of Columbia Cellulose Co. Monday called the British Columbia industry to postpone non - vital projects. Paul M. Marshall said in Vancouver such postponements will prolong the period of expansion in the province and relieve expansionary pressure. Columbia is building an $80,000,000 kraft pulp mill near Prince Rupert, B.C.

Airmen Promoted

TRENTON — The RCAF recently announced the promotion of seven No. 6 Repair Depot personnel. Those promoted were: R. H. Sawyer, a refinishing technician, to Corporal; W. A. Jones, an electrical technician air, to Sergeant; R. H. E. Simms, a metal technician, to Corporal; J. M. G. Gagnon, an electrical technician air, to Sergeant; H. McLaughlin, an air frame technician, to Flight Sergeant and A. H. Robb, a machinist, to Flight Sergeant.

Clerk, Solicitor Will Study Canvass Issue

TRENTON — Clerk comptroller G. W. Larry and town solicitor Roderick Campbell will undertake a study of the problem of door-to-door canvasses in Trenton. Mr. Larry has suggested that a "clearing house" for such projects be established.

The need for a study arose when canvasses for the CNIB and the Retarded Children's Association overlapped this month. The Association for the Blind, through its spokesman, Nostrand Sprague, objected through the town office.

Another facet of the investigation will be just what sort of canvass council should give its official sanction to. Here, church groups sell candy door-to-door; Kiwanians, peanuts; Lions, light bulbs. Other groups, such as the March of Dimes and the Salvation Army ask for cash donations.

Councillor Edward Todd said at last night's council meeting he couldn't see much difference in people selling Christmas seals from door-to-door and Kiwanians selling peanuts. Still, card sellers must get a license and pay a fee to sell their wares.

Macnaughton Praised by Prime Minister

OTTAWA (CP)—Prime Minister Pearson said Monday Alan Macnaughton, who has announced his retirement from politics, made a "distinguished" contribution to our parliamentary life as a member and Speaker."

Mr. Macnaughton, 63, said in a statement he will not seek re-election in the Nov. 8 general re-election in the Montreal riding Royal riding he has held since 1949.

After a four - hour cabinet meeting, Mr. Pearson officially told reporters Mr. Macnaughton had been one of three mn sug ested to the post of permanent Speaker of the Commons if the office is created.

Mr. Pearson said the second man, former Conservative-appointed Speaker Roland Michener, has indicated he would not be willing to take the job.

The third, Lucien Lamoureux, Deputy-Speaker in the last Parliament and seeking re-election in Stormont riding, is "still in public life," the prime minister noted.

Mr. Pearson said the cabinet meeting was lengthy because "we don't expect to be around much in the next four or five weeks." He had no announcements to make about what was discussed.

Museum Has Exhibit Of Music, Instruments

By EUGENE LANG

For an added attraction this Fall the County Museum on Church Street is festuring exhibits of various aspects of the world of music. Collected and collated from various sources are many most interesting displays that have been tastily arranged by the Museum staff.

Examples of Musical Curiosities, Hymnals, Song Books and Rudimental Treatises of the past century come along with sacred scores of various major religious works. Band instruments are represented in the guise of old one valve trumpets, alto horns, bugles and cymbals that blared forth many decades ago and now have earned a well deserved rest in their glass cases. Many instruments of varied types are being shown in this Fall Exhibit such as a Glockenspiel, Zither (with child's version also), and members of the string family.

Some instruments that were popular during the last century and are practically unknown today that are included in the collection are the harp-lute, the auto harp, and the mandolin guitar of which some resurrected examples have been gathered and are being shown. Old phonographs with cylinder rolls and speaking horns share their honored place beside a massive upright piano of the late Brahmsian age. There are diverse examples of music boxes (and they work) of Swiss and French makes, some being able to chime off a repertoire of a dozen selections. A distinct curiosity of the music box is on hand in the form of a genuine Barrell Organ — definitely now a collector's item, even though Mozart wrote a few selections for this instrument toward the end of his life in 1791. Violins and 'Cellos of the mid nineteen hundreds stare from their pedestals at Spanish Guitars of ancient vintage and venerable tambourines (the Biblical Timbrel). Even a small spinet like three octave keyboard instrument graces one corner of the room.

MUSICAL SCORES PRESENTED

Musical scores are presented from treasured copies of the Beethoven Piano Sonatas, through early editions of Bellini's "La Sonnambula" and Mozart's spurious "Twelfth Mass" to many examples of the salon music so popular in pre Civil War Days. Titles that dripped with sentimental slush such as "Good Night, Little Girl, Good Night" or "Rock Me To Sleep Mother" and "The Maiden's Prayer" (or "Through Cloudless Days") were standard fare for the young maidens of mid Victorian times just as much as the endless set of variations on songs by, let us say, Stephen Foster were the parlor pieces for the young men learning been preceded on Saturday Night by "The Jolly Dog's Quadrille" or "The Siege of Harfleurs." These and many more of those dated stereotyped musical exhibits that delighted our great grandfathers will revive the past for the elder viewers along with the many pictures of various Bands from Belleville and this area of six, seven and eight decades ago.

The opening night of the exhibition featured the Eastern Ontario String Quartet made up of Stephen Choma, Mrs. Marion Stratton, Joachim Riemann and William Grant with Jolene Grant as piano-accompanist on the retuned vintage grand.

It is to be hoped that many will take advantage to see this well thought out set of musical displays and will make it a point to attend the exhibition during its course for the next few weeks. Better still, why not look in those old boxes in the attic that have been stored away for many years and see what might come to light in the way of anything in the musical line that has lain dormant in its resting place these dozens upon dozens of months. Who knows, there might be a Harpsichord or a Hunting Horn! Maybe you have one — the Museum could use it for their Fall Music Exhibition.

Six Jets Lost, Heaviest Toll For Single Day

From Reuters-AP

SAIGON (CP)—American air power suffered its heaviest blow of any single day in the Viet Nam war Monday with the loss of six jet fighter-bombers and a rescue helicopter.

Three jet pilots and the four crew members of the helicopter were reported missing.

The New China news agency claimed a Chinese aircraft shot down a U.S. Air Force F-105 Starfighter over Hainan Island and said the pilot, Capt. Phillip E. Smith, was captured.

A U.S. military spokesman confirmed that Capt. S m i t h's plane went down in the Tonkin Gulf, but said the pilot radioed his aircraft was suffering mechanical difficulties and he was using ejection.

A search-and-rescue operation failed to locate Smith and he was listed as missing.

LOSSES HEAVY

Two air force F-105 Thunderchiefs were lost over North Viet Nam.

A rescue helicopter was shot down by North Vietnamese patrols which also drove off a second helicopter with intense fire.

A U.S. Navy rescue helicopter picked up the pilot of an A-4 Skyhawk from the carrier Independence whose plane was shot down on the coast of North Viet Nam.

Two U.S. Air Force Starfighters were lost when they collided in the air over Da Nang air base, in South Viet Nam.

North Viet Nam claimed to have shot down eight American planes Monday, bringing to 581, the total of U.S. aircraft the North Vietnamese c l a i m to have downed since Aug. 5, 1964.

DIE FROM MUSHROOMS

ROME (AP)—Nine persons in Italy have died in the last five days from eating poisonous mushrooms. More than 20 have been taken to hospital. The toll rose to nine Tuesday when a 52-year-old woman and a 25-year-old girl died. Near Gallarate, in northern Italy, seven members of the same family have died since last Thursday.

Hees Returns to the Fray

The coming election promises to be an interesting one by reason of the return to the Conservative active list of former Trade Minister George Hees and former Justice and Works Minister Davie Fulton.

Mr. Hees has resigned his post as president of the Montreal and Canadian stock exchange to run in Northumberland County where Miss Pauline Jewett is the sitting Liberal member.

The former trade minister quit the Conservative ranks early in 1963 following a disagreement with party leader John Diefenbaker on whether Canada should acquire nuclear warheads for Bomarc missiles.

Mr. Fulton is campaigning in British Columbia in an attempt to regain his old seat. He left the federal party in 1963 to take over the Conservative leadership out west.

What degree of party unity does the return of these Tory stalwarts represent? Only the election itself will provide the answer. Mr. Hees said in Cobourg last week there was no point of controversy remaining between him and Mr. Diefenbaker. Which goes to show what time can do, in politics as in human relations, allied to the fact that nuclear warheads for Bomarc missiles are no longer an issue in this country.

Peking's Ultimatum

It seems that communist China will never mend its ways. One reason why it has failed to gain admittance to the United Nations is its reputation for creating trouble on the Asian continent.

There was Tibet, a remote, legendary region to the south, a peaceful country minding its own business and posing no threat to anyone. But Tibet lay in the path of Chinese expansion southward. The spread of Chinese influence in Asia would be so much easier with the frontier pushed closer to the Himalayas.

China annexed Tibet and the next thing was, Chinese and Indians were skirmishing amid the mountain peaks. One thing led to another and soon the Chinese were giving the Indians a hiding and could have been down on the Plains of Assam without further ado if they had not suddenly decided to call a day.

But the effect was the same. India had suffered a humiliating defeat, with China demonstrating it could come and go virtually as it pleased.

Now India is embroiled in an undeclared war with its neighbor, Pakistan, and China has indicated it cannot resist taking advantage of the situation. It has issued an ultimatum giving India three days to dismantle all military installations along the China-Sikkim border. Sikkim is a Himalayan protectorate of India, bordering China-controlled Tibet.

So it goes on. The Chinese ultimatum could hardly be more blatant, or more indicative of Peking's meddlesome ways. The dangers of such a policy are compounded by the fact that, militarily, China's neighbors (with the exception of the Soviet Union) are no match for it. That is why Peking can call the tune in Asia, pretty much as it pleases.

Fog Peril

Prime Minister Pearson and Opposition Leader Diefenbaker are finding out quickly enough that fall election campaigns are subject to the vagaries of the elements.

Rain and fog prevented the Viscount carrying Mr. Pearson and his party from landing at Sudbury last week, and he missed the early part of the program arranged for him at Espanola.

The plane carrying Mr. Diefenbaker to Toronto came down to 250 feet before the pilot decided not to risk a landing in the fog.

Fog is still probably the number one hazard facing airlines. The usual practice for aircraft flying in the vicinity of a fog bank is to land where visibility is normal. This was done in both cases mentioned above, although it seems the pilots came down to an unusually low altitude before deciding not to land in the first place.

I went to Saskatoon one time just to make sure it really existed; I am always suspicious of being duped in these matters; and it was in the same night I decided to go to the Garden of the Gulf. . . . It was the flies, I think, that finally chased me out of Prince Edward Island. They are numerous, they are big, they are aggressive. . . . Flies I abominate; I've spent a lifetime batting the beasts which qualifies me for life-long treatment when the Chinese take over the world. —Globe and Mail columnist Richard J. Needham.

This Government has, in effect, an economic-early warning system. Data and information concerning the economy is collected and refined by various government agencies — and brought directly to the attention of the President — so that economic policy instruments can be used, if necessary, to head off trouble ahead. — U.S. Vice-President Humphrey.

Pearson Will Mind Store At Ottawa During Campaign

By RICHARD JACKSON
From The Intelligencer's Ottawa Bureau

OTTAWA—With the Cabinet hitting the campaign trail, who keeps store on Parliament Hill, in the Privy Council, the seat of any and all Federal administrations, Liberal and Conservative alike?

This time it's going to be different.

For the Prime Minister himself will be in charge in the Capital, at least some of the time.

And this makes sense.

Mr. Pearson spelled it out the other day.

He detests campaigning. Makes no secret of it. He finds the physical strain an enormous ordeal.

And so, too, does Conservative Leader Diefenbaker, readily confessing that the "very, very rough, man-killing," even while revelling in it.

These times now both men have staggered back to the Capital after it was all over, greyfaced with fatigue, those in the point of utter exhaustion a and who knows how far from actual physical and nervous collapse.

This high-speed political pinwheeling by plane, train and motorcade through nine to 11 weeks of endlessly grinding days-and-nights-rolled-into-a crazy-quilt of coast-to-coast crisis-crossing was more than a bad enough feeling say on the Prime Minister, speaking with a shadow of his three campaigns as Liberal Opposition Leader.

DUTY CALLS

Now it's different.

He's Prime Minister with a national leader's duties, obligations and responsibilities which he suspects couldn't properly be fulfilled "out of my hip pocket" on the fly from high school auditorium to hotel convention ball to sports stadium to church basement, everywhere from East to West and back again and again and again.

So he will be in Ottawa more this time, at least two or three days a week and certainly every Wednesday for the regularly scheduled Cabinet conference.

In between urgent East Block duty assignments, he'll fly out for one night stands on election platforms at Party leaders across the land.

He had hoped — and so, too, had Dief — that there could have been some kind of a seniority sign-off to shorten the campaign.

But for the PM it was "too late now for that." Or, rather, it was "the door to negotiation is shut."

So each leader must make the best he can of the ordeal.

And this "best" for the Prime Minister was "a matter of balance" between campaigning as a candidate and performing as PM.

Last time, when Dief was Prime Minister, he left one or the other of the 32 Members of his Cabinet back in Ottawa to be the Stabilizer-a-roo. Federal shop as "Acting PM."

But there are decisions only the Prime Minister can make and not some "Acting" stand-in ca make. And for this, Dief had what amounted to a "hot line" kept open along the Trans immediate-at-any-moment's use

ON THE JUMP

Newspapermen travelling with the campaign press party have vivid memories of him through his three elections as Prime Minister, leaping from his car or train or tarmac-ed plane to take calls waiting for him from Ottawa.

The longest calls would be backed up by the dozen for him when he reached his hotel at campaign day's end. and it would take perhaps a couple of anxious hours to clear the hot line switchboard of them.

When the hot line cooled down there were always other matters of both administrative and political importance, above the level of ordinary routine b but still not of quite such personage-to person urgency, that clamored for attention and decision.

So between the East Block and the campaign cavalc a de there would be another re-revolving bak of courtiers with files of documents requiring checking and signature.

This kind of government-by-remote - control through the cross-country relay of prime ministerial messengers and by long distance hot line may be awkward, but the years h had proved the best inconvenient way of doing the national business this out of the Capital electioneering.

How efficient or otherwise it has been was the only job for or Prime Minister and a few of his trusted, elite in the East Block decks could tell.

This Prime Minister now is changing all that.

He'll be there, of course, "and with vigor and zest," he said with some cross-cuds phoze booth."

As campaigning goes, this is the big time. Mainly because the go-for-broke way of electioneering, but out of it could something of a Party leader and perhaps a Prime Minister with a majority mandate, still if good health and strength for the hard job ahead.

Recession Fear

Victoria Times

Mr. Pearson thinks well to fear the effects of a recession. For the vast development programme on which he has staked so political popularity, the sweeping welfare programs which has made his trade mark, depend on a rising economy and a continuance of the extensive revenues the government receives from income and sales tax sources.

In the 1958-59 years a serious slump in these revenues the government might well be in some trouble. Which is why the premier has predicted the province's biggest boom for this year, it is odd that he should have picked Prince George, the centre of much of British Columbia's construction upsurge, to utter such typical remarks as: "there could be a recession, and I'm sure it could" builds on itself the same as prosperity."

A Vast Unexplored Region

Christian Science Monitor

Man is ever in quest of new frontiers. With jungles, deserts, and polar regions, skies and mountain peaks behind them men are soaring into outer space and plunging to the utmost depths of the oceans.

"Astronaut" may prove a more familiar term than "aquanaut", but exploration of the underwater frontier is about to move into high gear. It is ironical M. Scott Carpenter who will provide the present thrust. He is about to join Navy divers where he will live in Sealab II, 205 feet beneath the Pacific for 30 days. His "very intensive training in working in a hostile environment" prompted his choice for this assignment.

About three-quarters of the earth's surface is under the water, in the depths lies a vast region little explored by man. Natural curiosity, technical progress, economic factors, and strategic considerations have combined to ensure the exploration and development of this realm of enchantment. The moon and Mars may be largely barren wastes, but the seas are filled with life and color.

Who that has seen the film of the underwater explorations of the team headed by Jacques-Yves Cousteau could not wish to join, at least, the first tourist cruise through the coral labyrinths he reveals? For the underwater pioneer there is no idea of extremity or remoteness.

As underwater domains become increasingly important to national interest, we wonder whether there will be a great rush to claim them, colonize them, fortify, and even carve them up among existing nation states. Or will mutual agreement be able to place them under international authority? So much depends upon conquest of the ultimate frontier—man's mastery of their own inner nature.

The rate of road casualties has been rising frighteningly; and drivers impaired by excessive drinking undoubtedly have contributed to the carnage. # Surgical Menopause Is Easier to Treat

By JOSEPH G. MOLNER, M.D.

Dear Dr. Molner: I am 36 and have just had a hysterectomy. Everything was removed but my ovaries. How does this compare with normal menopause? I expect I will get flashes or such problems? — Mrs. L. E.

Menopause symptoms are caused by the natural and gradual cessation of activity of the ovaries. When they are removed, it amounts to the same thing except that hormone supply from them ceases abruptly. The result is surgical menopause — and the only difference is what causes it, and when.

This does not mean that hot flashes or other symptoms will begin instantly after the operation. They appear rather as part of your system's readjustment to new and different hormonal or glandular balance.

So far as that goes, I don't think you should expect such symptoms. Rather, don't be surprised if you have them — or if you don't. Your latter mention a medication you are taking. This contains estrogens, or female hormones, and the purpose is to prevent you from having such symptoms.

One advantage of surgical menopause is that the physician knows when it will start to come therapy. With natural menopause, there is no certain way of knowing. One of how rapidly the ovaries will stop functioning, so you have to wait for the symptoms before giving hormones.

For more thorough discussions of the menopause, there's my booklet, "Male Menopause Easier." Some physicians apply whether for natural or surgical menopause. If you want a copy, send me a stamped, self-addressed envelope and 25 cents in coin in care of this newspaper.

Dear Dr. Molner: I walk fast 20 blocks to work every day, and have always walked a lot during my adult life.

My husband says walking is the worst possible exercise for a person, that it does not keep the weight down, that it is causing my hips and thighs to be larger.

I disagree with him because I start getting soft when I don't walk for a week or two, and I don't have facilities or time for sports or other exercise at home.

If my husband is right, I want to know. If he is wrong, I want to answer the next time he tells me to take the bus instead of walking. — Mrs. B. T.

I don't know where your husband got such an idea. There's nothing to it. The fact is that is better than walking — especially briskly. You tone up muscles of legs, hips, back, arms, shoulders, and even the neck. You stimulate circulation and breathing.

You don't use up as much energy as in some strenuous exercise, and hence you don't lose as much weight. But you always help control weight when you burn up energy in any form of exercise.

That "rump-sprung look" comes from too much sitting, not too much walking.

Dear Dr. Molner: I was taking diet pills under my doctor's supervision but stopped when I became pregnant. He said they weren't harmful but I was afraid they could cause a deformity in the baby. He said I could stop using them until after the fourth month if I was worried, but I would like your opinion. Do you think such pills are harmful before or during pregnancy? — Mrs. S. D. C.

I agree with your doctor. The pills are used for reducing don't, so far as we have been able to discover, cause any mysterious birth defects. Rather, the harmful symptoms (if the drugs are used to excess) become readily apparent to a doctor although the patient too often attributes them to something else.

I don't think the diet pills will hurt either you or the baby, since you use them under your doctor's supervision. However, overweight can cause complications in childbirth, and this can be controlled by diet, with restriction and other means without the use of pills.

Today in History

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Sept. 21 1965

Edward II, king of England and first prince of Wales, was murdered 640 years ago today — in 1327— by his wife, who had led a rebellion on behalf of the 15-year-old son, who became Edward III. Edward I, "the hammer of the Scots," had advised his son not to continue war with Scotland, but Edward II's rashness had led directly to the battle of Bannockburn, at which the English army overwhelmingly defeated. This failure and Edward's susceptibility to his favorite, Gaveston, prepared the way for his downfall.

1949 — Formal end of the military occupation of West Germany.

First World War

Fifty years ago today—in 1915 — Greece demanded a Franco-British guarantee of 150,000 men as the price of her entering the war on the Allied side. Bulgaria mobilized against Roumania; the bombardment before the British attack at Loos began.

Second World War

Twenty-five years ago today — in 1940 — Sqdrn. Ldr. Douglas Bader, commander of the RAF's "Canadian" fighter squadron, was awarded the DSO; night air raids on London continued almost unopposed; Japanese warships entered the Gulf of Tonkin; the second Canadian war loan was oversubscribed by 14 per cent.

Hit-and-hunt System Suits Typewriter

By SYDNEY J. HARRIS

Since a typewriter is the tool of my livelihood (like me as a writers, I would starve to death if I had to write laboriously by hand), I have enjoyed reading this account: "The Wonderful Writing Machine," by Bruce Bliven, Jr., which is a diverting history of the instrument.

I have often wondered why I, knowing nothing about the "touch" system, could bring only two fingers (two on each hand) can type nearly as fast as a good stenographer — and sometimes more accurately.

The reason is, according to Mr. Bliven's book, the standard keyboard, which "makes practically no sense at all." It was designed in 1873 by the typewriter's inventor, a Christopher Sholes, and the position of the letters has no relationship to their frequency of use.

Everyone who has scientifically studied the typewriter keyboard agrees that it is considerably less efficient than it the arrangement had been left to mere chance. But, so strong are the habits of people, once the keyboard is "standardized" it proved impossible to reform it. The public wouldn't take to a "streamlined" typewriter any more than it will take to simplified spelling.

As Bliven points out, the typewriter is "left-handed" and so am I, which accounts for my particular difficulty. The standard order gives the left hand 56 percent of the total strokes.

The standard typewriter also demands an entirely unnecessary amount of awkward reaching, knocking down efficiency with which the letters of the alphabet are encountered. Almost 30 percent of all finger motions are one-handed, and in the long way — thirty playing the word "federated" with the touch system, or "minimum pumpkin."

About 10 percent of all present typewriter motions are "hurdling", which could be virtually eliminated on a sensible keyboard. Jumping from "e" to "r" or from "n" to "u" destroys the dexterity of a master pianist.

Most men around newspaper offices operate a machine as skilfully as a technician. A trained typist, even though their technique is as mysterious as mine. They won't tell you how it is taught in a typing school, but using two or four fingers gives you a certain flexibility that makes up for your lack of scientific fingering. And, if they ever change their antiquated keyboard, we hunt-a-peckers are ready for the chase.

Fine'in Theory

Brandon Sun

The trouble with Mr. Diefenbaker's approach is not that it is fundamentally wrong, but that it goes against current political realities. The concept of a strong central government and a "one Canada" approach is fine in theory, but it could cause the break-up of the nation when it is opposed by a great number of Canadians.

GLEANINGS FROM OUR FYLES OF BYGONE YEARS

20 YEARS AGO

September 21st, 1945

Unnatural weather conditions have been blamed for one of many things, including partial crop failures, and again it is the weather which is responsible for more than the usual number of four and five-leaf clovers. So we're told this summer. Several city residents have reported four leaf clovers quite common this year, but one of the members of the local fire department has found several five-leaf clovers in his back yard. As proof of his find he was showing today a sample to his firemen contemporaries.

Blight on late varieties of potatoes reported in Prince Edward county districts is also prevalent in the Bay of Quinte area, according to farmers attending the local market Saturday morning.

Mrs. Don Welsh of Picton has joined the sales staff at Lattimer's Drug Store.

Some of the older residents will remember Robert Cole, to whom the following item concerning our file copy at this time in 1895 refers: "Robert Cole was removing up the barber last evening when he was run down by the steamer Varuna. Both were demolished, and Michael, being a one-legged man, would positively have drowned were he not been rescued by men on C. Mulcahy's scow which was coming into the harbor at the same time."

Labor Unrest

Hamilton Spectator

In the first six months of this year Canada has lost 1,200,000 working days thanks to labor disputes. This was more than twice as many as the corresponding period of 1964. Everywhere one looks there is unrest, in some of full skilled employment and higher salary scales than ever before, and even in the grass roots. It is not the labor leaders who are leading their men out on strike. The men are leading their leaders.

TORONTO (CP) — Industrials were mixed with some emphasis on the downside in light to moderate morning stock exchange dealings today.

Algoma Steel gained 1 to 66¼ among winner and Canada Cement ⅛ to 36. Bank of Nova Scotia rose ⅛ to 73¼ and Aluminium and Canadian Imperial Bank of Commerce ¼ apiece to 28¼ and 66¼.

Base metals took the heftiest losses. Denison Mines was off ¼ to 35¾ and Roman Corp., which controls Denison, dipped 30 cents to $7.55. Weakness was attributed to remarks made Saturday by Prime Minister Pearson. He said the deal to sell 100,000,000 pounds of uranium to France had been stalled and active negotiations would not be resumed immediately.

Falconbridge, strong recently amid stock split rumors, slid ¼ to 105¾ and Hudson Bay ⅝ to 68¾. Pine Point as a bright spot, climbing 2¼ to 74. Its parent company, Cominco, was ahead ¼ to 45¾.

Extremism of Right, Left Rejected in West Germany By Election of Erhard

By HAROLD MORRISON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Chancellor Ludwig Erhard's return to power with a vote larger than that of his predecessor, is a sure indication that West Germany, the North Atlantic anchor in Europe, seeks a continuation of the "good life" under the founder of Germany's great post - war recovery.

Extremism of the right and of the left have been rejected. The voice of the fascist element has been ignored. And the fortunes of a socialism, which seemed at one time to be rising in Europe, have been dealt a double blow, first with the defeat of the Socialist regime in Norway and now with failure of Willy Brandt's Social Democrats to grasp the prize in West Germany.

The fighting mayor of West Berlin had every reason to hope that this time he would oust the Christian Democrats or at least amass so many votes that Erhard would be forced to join Brandt in coalition. The public pulse-taker had given him as even chance of winning. The crowds attending his meeting were large.

TIMES PROSPEROUS

But somehow Brandt's image did not penetrate. West Germany prosperity seemed to have thrust into the background the impact of the Berlin wall and the issue of German reunification. West Germans still yearn for an end to the artificial barrier between the two halves of their old country, but they seem more concerned at the moment about getting more cars, more refrigerators, more homes and more security.

Erhard seemed this more than his contestants and even more than his party colleague predecessor, Konrad Adenauer. The retired chancellor had tried to stir up criticism of the disarmament policies of the United States, Britain and Canada. He also seemed more in tune with the views of French President de Gaulle.

But Erhard sang a different song, a sort of lullaby of strong North Atlantic relations, while whispering of a possible new Atlantic - to - the - Urals security proposal that might find acceptance in Moscow and help reunite West Germany with Communist - ruled East Germany. In fact, one of his first moves after the election was to ship Karl Carstens, the No. 2 man in his foreign ministry, to Moscow here he undoubtedly will feel out the possibilities of a meeting between Erhard and Soviet Premier Alexei Kosygin.

COALITION CONTINUES

Of course, Erhard did not achieve an outright majority. He still will have to rule with the support of the small Free Democratic party. But the vote means a continuation of German stability, linked to a moderate foreign policy that should enhance West Germany's value in the North Atlantic alliance.

As for Brandt, his political future now is in doubt. Some European observers are questioning whether Brandt will again be his party's candidate in the 1969 election.

Record Car Sales in '66 Forecast by General Motors

By CHARLES C. CAIN

DETROIT (AP) — General Motors Corp. has predicted record car sales in 1966, Chrysler Corp. has announced car price increases which might indicate an industry trend, and Studebaker has emphasized it is staying in business.

In still another development, Ford Motor Co. showed the press today the 1966 models from its Ford division—a line strongly influenced by the success of the company's Mustang this year.

GM's chairman, Frederic G. Donner, and President James M. Roche Monday forecast sales of 9,000,000 1966 model passenger cars in a public statement expressing GM's "confidence in the economy." A record 8,800,000 were sold in the model year just ended.

In their statement, Donner and Roche pointed to GM's plans to spend $2,800,000,000 this year and next in a world-wide plant and equipment program. About $1,800,000,000 will be spent in the United States, they said.

NOT FOR SALE

Officials of Studebaker, which transferred its auto operations to Hamilton, Ont., in 1963, insisted, "Studebaker is not for sale."

This reply, by Gordon E. Grundy, president of Studebaker's automotive division, came when a reporter asked if the firm's auto operations are profitable or at the break-even point.

Grundy said the firm sold about 19,000 cars during the 1965 model run. He said Studebaker is "close to the break-even point" but declined to be more specific.

He said the company's 1966 sales target is 30,000 to 35,000 cars. He declined to reveal prices of 1966 Studebakers, which will go on sale early in October.

Changes were apparent in all the Ford division offerings, but the model most changed was the Falcon, which bore a particular resemblance to the well-received Mustang.

"By 1966, with the most sweeping changes in its record-setting history, the Falcon is effect has become a family Mustang," said Walter T. Murphy, division general marketing manager.

The 1966 Falcon will be available in 10 models instead of the 13 on the market in the 1965 model year. The Fairlane, with more engine options, wound up with 17 models, a gain of five. Ford itself had 19, up two, and Thunderbird had four offerings instead of three.

RELEASES PRICES

The Chrysler price list was the first released in the auto industry as the hour neared for new models to hit dealer showrooms.

A few Chrysler Corp. models will carry lower price tags than their 1965 counterparts, but for the most part the trend was upward.

In the Chrysler-Plymouth division, for example, of 59 prices listed, 47 were higher than last year. Eight were down and four presented new models which Chrysler did not manufacture last year.

Increases in the Chrysler-Plymouth cars ranged to $55, the decreases to $132.

The Chrysler announcement had been awaited eagerly by industry observers who wondered whether the auto makers would be able to hold the price line for the seventh straight model year.

TAX CUT, SAFETY

The big questions in the auto price picture this year were the auto excise tax cut and the costs of general safety package which auto companies are making standard on 1966 cars.

Chrysler pointed out in its announcement that the excise tax reduction, effective last May 15, had been passed along in its entirety to consumers and that further scheduled tax cuts also would be passed along.

Chrysler's announcement of its new prices pointed out that the new prices "do not include any provision for increased labor or material costs."

Something Everyone Knows

Like the man said, "Anybody who runs for city office is crazy."

Well, maybe so, but somebody has to run for office don't they?

A report in the Ontario Building Officials' Association Bulletin said that a recent Gallup Poll shows that only 25 per cent of the adults interviewed would like to see their children go into politics as a life career. Not a very high percentage for such a vital job.

Every city, including Belleville, has long-standing local jokes about its politicians. Surely you know that everyone on city council makes at least $10,000 a year under the Table. I didn't know this until recently. A lady in a local supermarket, watching a councillor buy two large steaks, let me in on all the scandalous facts.

"No wonder he can afford steaks," she said. "He's on city council and he makes at least $10,000 under the table."

"He does," I asked. "How do you know?"

"Well, everybody knows that silly," she said, picking up four steaks of her own and putting them in her shopping cart.

It may seem harmless to rib city officials and other politicians this way, but it isn't really. A person willing to give his time and energy to public duties can always expect criticism, but he should not expect to be the target for abuse from everyone who couldn't get his own way.

When you categorize all politicians as crooks, you're knocking our whole democratic system of government.

Politicians are in a place of public trust. If they are not trustworthy, they should not be there, and if they were not voted for, they wouldn't be.

Sure, some of them are crooked, but so are some ministers and doctors and everything else. Why knock the whole system just because it's more convenient to do that than it is to offer some constructive help?

How often have you heard, or said, when you see a laborer taking a rest beside a road job he's been working on, that "he must work for the city?" Maybe he does, but how many breathers do you take in your daily work? Don't you ever stop once in a while for a cigarette or a cup of coffee? Don't you ever kid the fellow beside you about who won last night's football game? Sure you do. The only difference is that you're hiding away in an office or plant where only a few people can see you. The city worker is out on the street where everyone can see him.

And it's much the same with the city officials. They too are out in the public eye all of the time. If they make a mistake, everyone knows it and derides them. If you make a mistake, nobody else has to know.

The decisions you make affect yourself and your family, and perhaps a few others, but city officials must make decisions affecting the whole community. If they tried to satisfy everyone, nothing would be accomplished and you would have something to complain about.

Anyway, if you do not like a particular politician, then don't vote for him. Our system of government is built on votes, not on paltry, unfounded insinuations about men who are doing the best they can.

Parents Are Example Of How Not to Behave

ANN LANDERS

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I'm a 16-year-old nervous wreck (male type). The trouble is my parents.

A typical day at our house starts something like this:

I usually get up before my folks and fix breakfast. When I am just about half through my folks come into the kitchen. If I don't say "Good morning" first they say I am rude. If I happen to be reading the paper they say I am selfish because I should have left it alone until they got down.

Next my father complains because the coffee is weak or the eggs are hard or the toast is burned. My mother yells back that if he didn't have something to complain about he would be miserable.

After breakfast either my mother or dad can't find something and each one blames the other for misplacing it. To look at my folks you'd think they were the happiest people in the world. My dad makes about four times the average man's salary, (about $25,000 a year.) When company is at the house they are as sweet as can be.

They never argue over anything important. It's always silly stuff. What can I do short of slipping tranquilizers into their coffee? — THE SHOOK LOOK.

DEAR SHOOK: You can say good morning first and hand over the paper immediately. Then you can leave the kitchen so your mother can knock the coffee, eggs and toast privately. You can donate five minutes every morning to the Treasure Hunt as your contribution to family unity.

Finally, when you get married and have a family of your own you can remember how it was at your house and vow to do better so your teen-agers won't have to write to me about you.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: You seemed surprised when the woman wrote to say the doctors insisted that her friend have a blood test as soon as he was checked into the hospital. Why? Most people who have little or no contact with hospitals don't have the vaguest idea of what goes on inside. They are filled with misinformation, apprehension and old wive's tales.

I've worked in hospitals since I was 16 and the ignorance of the general public is astounding. It's amazing how many folks think a blood test means VD, a cardiogram means a heart attack and an X-ray means cancer or TB. When they are asked to list next of kin they are sure it means they are not expected to live. It's too bad the general public isn't better informed. It would save a great deal of needless anxiety.

Please tell people through your column, Ann Landers, that hospitals are highly organized institutions and that they must be operated in a way that enables them to give the best possible service to the greatest number of people. This means they have to have all sorts of information as a matter of routine. — IN THE KNOW.

DEAR IN THE KNOW: Thanks for an excellent letter. But I still wish someone in the Know would tell me why they give hospital patients sleeping pills at night and then awaken them at 6:00 a.m. to wash their faces.

Confidential to FED UP TO THE EYEBROWS WITH LECHEROUS JERKS: If you don't like what you've been catching why not change the bait?

Too many starry-eyed lovers do not know the difference. Do you? Send for Ann Landers' booklet, "Before You Marry — Is It Love Or Sex?", enclosing with your request 20c in coin and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Church Groups

ST. THOMAS' W.A. AFTERNOON BRANCH

The opening meeting of the Afternoon Branch of St. Thomas' Women's Auxiliary was held in the Parish House and took the form of a regular business meeting which was largely attended.

The president, Mrs. H. Smith was in the chair. Archdeacon A. S. McConnell took the opening prayers and Mrs. S. E. Morton read the Scripture lesson.

Reports from the different departments were heard. A number of thank-you notes and other correspondence were also read.

Members were honored in having as guest speaker, Mrs. J. E. Uttley, Social Service secretary of the Diocesan Board. She was the only one from this Diocese to attend general synod meetings in Montreal. Her informal talk on her trip west gave a first hand view of proceedings from a western standpoint. She with other delegates were guests of the University of B.C. This beautiful setting made a most pleasant part of the sessions. The Rev. James Riseberry, a former curate of St. Thomas Church also represented the department of Social Service in the Diocese.

Mrs. S. E. Morton thanked Mrs. Uttley for an interesting and informative address and complimented her for her introduction to a field which has been left to the men for so many years.

Mrs. Alker and her group served refreshments.

No Animal Fats Used In Cosmetics

LONDON (AP)—A new cosmetics shop will try to convince British women they can be pretty without using products made from animal fats.

The shop's various beauty aids are composed entirely from vegetable bases. Its $38,000 capital was supplied by the contributions of loans from 5,000 members of the Beauty-without-Cruelty Movement.

The movement contends that most cosmetics on sale use animal fats, and that animals have to be slaughtered to provide the fats.

Kathleen Long is responsible for the cosmetics.

Asked how she began manufacturing animal - free cosmetics, she replied:

"I started in my own kitchen. I brew them up myself."

Sunflower - and - wheat face cream is one buy.

The store also carries a sideline in plastic pocketbooks and wallets, and imitation fur coats.

The Beauty - Without - Cruelty Movement was founded by Lady Dowding, wife of Air Chief Marshal Lord Dowding.

Susanna's Family Fare

PILLOW PATTER

Dear Susanna: It's always a problem to keep school - age children occupied when they are sick in bed. They become tired of the usual comics and coloring books. Once when I had them all home I copied a simple picture from a coloring book on an old pillow case and set my daughter to work embroidering it. The boys got interested and I let them choose a picture for their own pillow case.

This turned out to be operation success. On my clothesline now you are apt to see pink elephants, green goldfish or some mighty strange - looking rockets.

The best, I think, is a picture of a pirate complete with a parrot on his shoulder and the name Long John Silver in great gold letters underneath.—Mrs. G. Geary

I WON'T IF YOU DON'T

Dear Susanna: I find this hint very useful. Our well water is mineral and the tea cups stain quickly — my pyrex tea pot does too.

I've experimented, and plain baking soda is the best to remove these stains.

Please don't ever stop your wonderful articles coming — I read them every day. — Joy Meale

. . . and please don't ever stop your wonderful letters coming. I read them twice every day. That's just how good they make me feel!

NEW ZEALAND TRIFLE

When some Canadian friends were posted to New Zealand they were often invited to the races and to the luncheon in the club house. Reminiscing on the beauty of the buffet table they described the glittering cut glass bowls filled with trifle. The chef was famous for his English Trifle and guests looked forward to tasting this traditional and popular dessert.

Together we attempted to reproduce it as they remember it. While there is no one about to say we did not succeed I shall only claim that what we did produce was delectable — ding trifling.

NEW ZEALAND TRIFLE:

One 1-day-old sponge or chiffon cake or equivalent in split fingers, using half of the cake. Drizzle the sherry slowly over all of the cake. Spread the jam or jelly over the cake in the lower half of the bowl. We used about 1/3 cup. Over this we arranged sliced peaches, but they had to be sweetened. Into a saucepan slice 3 or 4 peaches. Mix together 1¼ teaspoons minute tapioca and ¼ cup sugar. Stir in¾ cup water. Pour over peaches, and cook stirring until tapioca is clear. You could use only berries in season, sprinkled lightly with sugar. If chopped almonds are included sprinkle about 2 tablespoons of them over at this stage. Then have ready and pour over

SOFT BOILED CUSTARD:

1 teaspoon gelatine, 1 tablespoon cold water, 2 tablespoons sugar, ¼ teaspoon salt, 1¼ cups hot milk (see below), ½ cup table cream (see below), 4 egg yolks (or 2 whole eggs) 1 teaspoon vanilla.

Soak gelatine in cold water. Heat milk with cream in top of double boiler. (Cream may be omitted and substituted with milk.) Combine sugar, salt, egg yolks (or eggs), mixing well. Stir in a little of the hot mi.k and return all to double boiler. Stir over gently boiling water just until it thickens. Remove from heat, stir in gelatine liquid and vanilla. When cool pour half evenly over prepared trifle. Cover with remaining cake and rest of custard. Chill. At serving time top with whipped cream and garnish with cherries. A sure fire success!

Student Has Stiff Routine In University

SASKATOON (CP) — Gail Sabo is a student at Southern Illinois University with a schedule that would make the average undergrad exhausted.

She attends classes three hours, works at a secretarial job in the afternoon and studies at night.

The 19-year-old blonde from Saskatoon is no mangers in squeeze a three hours a day of gymnastic practice and another five hours a day on weekends.

But whenever the grind starts to get her down she has her medals and trophies to remind her that it's all worthwhile.

Gail has been Canada's senior gymnastic champion the last four years, she captured the senior women's all-round division title in the U.S. Gymnastic Federation national championships at Nashville, Tenn., she placed third in the Pan-American Games in Brazil in 1963, and recently she added her fifth straight Canadian title.

It all started when she began tumbling at the age of 10 with a group of girls under the direction of Mike Matich in St. Mary's Hall here. She entered her first out-of-town meet in 1957 in Regina.

Gail accepted the offer of an American gymnastics coach in 1963 to go to Carbondale, Ill., as a member of the trial team at Southern Illinois.

The prospect of going away to school was a frightening one but the lure of more frequent competition prompted her to go.

Now she's too busy to think about any fears. Except for Christmas and summer vacations, she has little time to go home. Even spring vacation is taken up with training, usually two workouts a day.

Fashion Designer Thinks Ready-to-wears Will Come

By JOY MILLER
AP WOMEN'S EDITOR

NEW YORK (AP)—A small, bouncy man from Indiana, who sketches many of his designs on order pads at the hamburger hangout where he dines, is probably the most influential man in U.S. fashion.

At 43, Norman Norell is generally held the dean of American designers. He's the winner of every important fashion industry award, rival of Paris as arbiter of American fashion and the most copied man in the U.S. wholesale market.

Some of America's most elegant women consider him the last word in fashion.

Some of America's most bejeaguered husbands wish he were the last word, and they'd never have to hear another about his $300-$4,000 fashions. Norell's clothes may be sold off the ready-to-wear rack, but they come with couture price tags.

In a rare interview in connection with The Associated Press, the dapper designer tossed off his views that run counter to their trk the touchy tab-paying male, braced as he is for the fashion agree-ment-which-is-what he thinks of visible female knee joints.

Q. What do you think of the Paris fall fashions?

A. The news seems to be St. Laurent. You hear all about the mondrian dress. It's not new, but St. Laurent has given it authority. As for the other collections, they are nice clothes for their clients to buy. Now no shape.

LESS CREATIVITY

Q. Do you think couture is dying?

A. I'm not saying its dead. Couture is making the most beautiful clothes in the world. But when you compare what used to be in Paris and what is here, it's scary. How many houses there now are really creative? Five, six?

Grand couture will disappear and will be replaced by ready-to-wear. It won't happen overnight—not from the 30s to the late 70s it will be disappearing.

Q. Why?

A. Many women are buying ready-to-wear who used to go to the couture houses and have all fittings. In ready-to-wear you try it on and you like it or you don't. Lots of women haven't time to wait three or four weeks for a dressmaker.

Q. What about Paris's influence on fashion?

A. Paris is still the fashion centre, but it is less important now. Italy is there, Spain is coming up. We're coming up. Not to take away from Paris, but notice America. We're here, too.

Q. How do you like a woman to look?

A. Tailored and simple in the day; glowing like a beautiful, glamorous creature at night.

Q. What advice do you have for women who can't afford couture clothes?

A. All our dresses get copied, so shop around and get copies. Buy one good thing and wear it out. Don't wear a lot of cheap clothes. The thing to do is to wear very simple clothes. Good fabric. Good shoes and bag. Be well groomed, clean and scrubbed. Say you have a simple black dress, white gloves, while gardenia . . . you can go anywhere, any time.

ACCENT BEST POINTS

Q. What's your chief criticism of how American women dress?

A. They're too afraid they won't look like everyone else. You should know what your good points are and buy dresses that do the most for you.

Q. What do you think of dresses above the knees?

A. Marvellous for kids. But the knee is a functional joint and not very pretty. Everyone knows what length she likes.

Worried Wife Wants Hockey Husband Home

DEAR DORIS: My husband coaches a little league hockey team. This means that from now on he'll be out at least three nights a week. Since he also works most week ends we won't be seeing much of him.

I could enjoy the games myself but not and take two small children. I tried. You just can't make them sit still and you can't watch them and a game too.

I tried to divert myself last fall by joining the C.W.A.C. reserve army. This means one night out for me, a week-end, which I enjoyed and also got paid for. My husband objected to I quit.

Doris, am I wrong or being selfish in expecting Bill to spend his time with us? I think he should wait until our son is old enough for little league. Then we would all go.

I have eczema on my hands. Three doctors can't cure it and my fingers are swollen stiff and sore. This doesn't help my patience at all. Sometimes I feel as though I'm fighting a losing battle. — DISCOURAGED.

DORIS CLARE

DEAR DISCOURAGED: It's an old, old refrain. It echoes to me from all over Canada, The man who goes out of the house all day too often fails to sense the deadly staid-at-home routines which eventually drive a woman up the wall. We all need change, companionship, relaxation.

Besides, if two married people are to stay in love, they simply must reserve some time for each other. I'm not a doctor, but I'd be willing to place a bet that your sore hands will heal when you get a new deal in happy times with Hubby.

No, you are not being selfish.

DEAR DORIS: Could you tell me if there is any time of the day that is incorrect to wear a hat? I was told that it is not proper to wear a hat after five o'clock unless it is to a formal engagement like a church or wedding ceremony.

I have also seen many women wearing a hat shopping, in doctor's office and theatre, and thought they looked very well dressed. So can one wear a hat for just street dress? — WHAT'S PROPER?

* * *

DEAR WHAT'S: For street dress, a hat is optional. If a hat is worn, gloves are called for. If attending a banquet after five, in dinner clothes, hat stays home. Evening dress does not include a hat, except that you wear a head covering to a church wedding whatever the time of day.

Peace Force

Minister Shastri's cabinet had tentatively agreed to accept the UN ceasefire ultimatum.

TO ATTEND SESSION

And in Rawalpindi, the capital of Pakistan, it was announced that Foreign Minister Z. A. Bhutto was to leave for the United Nations headquarters today to discuss the ceasefire resolution.

Should the two countries refuse to comply with the UN demand for a ceasefire, the Security Council might consider invoking a clause in the UN charter that includes possible military intervention.

Adding fuel to the international tension as the assembly met after an important 19th session because of a dispute of peacekeeping costs is the threatening border clash between China and India and the fighting in Viet Nam.

Canada has long pushed for an improvement in UN peacekeeping facilities. It will likely be the theme of External Affairs Minister Paul Martin's address to the General Assembly Friday.

The Canadian minister was scheduled to arrive here by jet from Ottawa shortly before the official opening of the assembly at 3 p.m. (est).

PLANS MEETINGS

Martin will remain in New York until after his assembly address, meeting with Paul Tremblay, Canada's permanent representative to the UN, and other members of the Canadian UN delegation as well as with a number of foreign ministers here for the opening of the session.

One of the items of business scheduled was the election of an assembly president to succeed Quaison-Sackey of Ghana whose term expires.

Italian Foreign Minister Amintore Fanfani was a surprise of election as president when Koca Popovic of Yugoslavia withdrew his candidacy.

The Security Council Monday voted unanimously to recommend to the assembly the granting of membership to the Maldive Islands, just off India, and to Singapore which recently broke away from the Malaysian federation.

Maldive Islands and Singapore, along with Gambia approved last spring by the council, will bring to 117 the number of member states in the world organization.

bearings. Long said he knew a filibuster when he saw one. The senators denied they were filibustering.

As acting chairman, Long allowed one hour today for the hearing of tariff commission testimony and announced the committee then would close its doors and start consideration of the bill.

The House of Representatives has passed the bill but it still needs Senate approval to send it to the White House.

EXPRESSES CONCERN

On Monday, concern whether consumers as well as manufacturers will benefit from the Canada - United States auto agreement was expressed by Labor Secretary Willard Wirtz.

The concern was to get the benefit of lower prices if the objective of the agreement—to expand the industry in both countries—is to be met, Wirtz told the Senate finance committee.

"I feel concern, which I think is general, whether the benefits in both countries will be passed on to the consumer," said Wirtz.

"I do hope very strongly the administration of the program one way or another does result in passing on the benefits to consumers."

SUIT CUTS IDEA

In theory, the consumer will get his slice through economies achieved by producing production patterns in North America. However the auto industry in testimony last week continued to pour cold water on any suggestion that price cuts are possible immediately.

They agree they are paying $50,000,000 less a year in Canada in duties on imported cars and parts but say that it is costing a lot to rearrange Canadian production for higher volumes.

medieval situation where religious freedom was lacking—was a worse evil than current religious expression in Czechoslovakia.

"Perhaps one can say that hypocrisy in the profession of the faith is more harmful to the church than the hypocrisy of hiding the faith," Beran said.

Huss is a hero to the Reformed Churches of Protestantism and regarded as a forerunner of the 16th-century Reformation. Cardinal Beran spoke of the Huss case as leaving a hidden wound in the hearts of the people.

SEES INJUSTICE

Cardinal Beran's words showed he saw an injustice done against Huss even while not himself upholding Huss' religious views.

If the Roman Catholic Church proclaims full religious freedom, though its official council, theologians speculate on whether it might also decide that men like Luther and Huss were simply following their own consciences.

Those who think the idea has merit cite the conclusions against the long - dead "heretics" themselves could be lifted. Then Huss could be shown as the Catholic doctrines or approving the tenets taught by the condemned.

1963, during a period when Caron claimed Gagnon's car was being unloaded of heroin, it was in Valenti's establishment for repairs.

Valenti admitted he had not been sure of the date in testimony before the extradition hearing but said he now was positive of it.

Fansler suggested Caron made up the story involving the four accused after getting nailed here with the heroin.

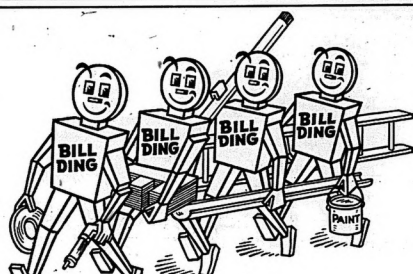
For Groleau, 36, counsel Lawrence Mann called as a witness a woman friend, waitress Simone Huard, who said she had never heard him mention Caron. She had been with Groleau during most of his visiting hours while he was in hospital with a heart attack in July and August of 1963 and had never seen Caron there.

Caron has testified that during this period Groleau telephoned him instructions and also called him to the hospital and gave him money.

The prosecution then introduced a last-minute witness—Fred Goldstein, a staff member of the Montreal Jewish General Hospital, who said Groleau had a telephone in his room during most of his stay.

Groleau's lawyer said Caron's testimony was so full of inconsistencies and lies it should be given no credence.

The prosecution speech-making low-keyed except for a few ringing phrases from Woodrow Seals, chief U.S. district attorney from Houston, who talked of a conspiracy "staggering the imagination" and of "brilliant minds operating out of a friendly country, out of what they thought was a privileged sanctuary."



Assistant Prosecutor Butler stipped into baseball idiom to describe Paul Mondoloni, alleged to have handled Canada-bound dope at the Mexico City end for Caron and Beauchemin.

"He's the pitcher, you might say, and Rivard the catcher," Butler suggested.

Of nine persons named in the alleged conspiracy to smuggle dope into the U.S., Mondoloni is one of two who has not been caught. The other is Jorge Moreno Chauvet, a Mexican, also alleged to have helped load up the two couriers at the Mexican end.

Beauchemin and Caron are not named. Caron has pleaded guilty to smuggling and is doing 10 years; he is not charged in the present case. Beauchemin has never been charged. A conspiracy charge has been laid against Frank Cappola of Bridgeport, Conn. — alleged to have received dope from Caron—but he is to be tried separately later.

The count carries a minimum of five and maximum of 20 years. In addition, Rivard has been charged, along with Mondoloni and Chauvet, with "causing" heroin to be brought into the U.S., and the prosecution Monday pressed for a conviction on this count as well as the first. It carries the same penalty, leaving Rivard open to a total of 40 years maximum should he be found guilty.

University Service Overseas Aims at Putting 1,000 People In Foreign Fields Each Year

By WILLIAM NEVILLE
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Amid the rash of publicity over the government-sponsored Company of Young Canadians, a relatively-unknown Canadian-style "peace corps" is working quietly toward getting 1,000 volunteers a year into the field.

This is the immediate goal of the Canadian University Service Overseas (CUSO).

A privately-administered organization, it sent its first worker overseas four years ago and has since built a steady, if inconspicuous, reputation as a highly successful helping hand to developing nations.

Buoyed now by its first real financial aid from the federal government, though still a jealous guardian of its independence, CUSO has just put 168 new volunteers into 22 different countries to do everything from nursing the sick in Bolivia to carrying out social service work in Canada.

A total of 208 volunteered to go abroad this year but 40 who were assigned to India had to be left behind at the last minute because of the outbreak of fighting between India and Pakistan.

"We work on the basis of two-year assignments so this year's group, together with those from 1964, gives us 323 workers abroad by this fall," said CUSO's secretary, William McWhinney.

"That leaves us some way from the 1,000 goal, but I'm sure we can double our workers a year into the field within a year or two. On the two-year average, 500 people will give us our 1,000 before very long."

MEN AT HOME AND ABROAD

Mr. McWhinney, a muscular University of Toronto graduate who was a geography teacher in Ceylon before becoming secretary in 1962, firmly believes that the advent of the Company of Young Canadians, now in the planning stages, won't mean the end of CUSO.

"I look more for a great deal of co-operation between us with each organization concentrating on its own way in its own field," he said in an interview.

Mr. McWhinney stressed that CUSO works only with young men and women barely out of local high school, though not necessarily university, education and gives them relatively long-term overseas assignments. Unlike the CYC, CUSO does not at this point plan to volunteer work within Canada.

"It seems to me that there are some real advantages, particularly in regard to flexibility, in operating this type of service on a strictly non-governmental basis."

At home, interested candidates are screened first by volunteer committees at 33 Canadian universities and then put through a final examination by a national committee at CUSO headquarters in Ottawa.

STRESS LANGUAGES

Those accepted—208 out of 300-odd applicants this year—undergo extensive training orientation first in Canada and then in the country of destination. The accent is on language, although this year's orientation program includes an extensive seminar in community development.

At the other end of the line, CUSO has built up its own direct contacts with governments and agencies in the developing nations. It now has its own full-time co-ordinators in India and Nigeria with senior volunteers performing this function in other countries.

Recipient countries pay the salaries of CUSO volunteers on a local - equivalent basis and have the final say in accepting a volunteer for any specific assignment. Success of the system is reflected in a failure rate of less than five per cent.

CUSO pays the full cost of orientation, transportation, insurance, some allowances and central administration. Mr. McWhinney said this is $2,500 to $3,000 a volunteer, a far cry from the $18,000-a-member cost of the U.S. Peace Corps.

Until this year, CUSO relied almost totally on private sources for its finances, with a smattering of aid from provincial governments. In April, however, it was given a financial boost with the announcement by External Affairs Minister Martin that the federal government would provide it with $500,000 this year.

FURTHER HELP LIKELY

Mr. Martin hinted strongly that, despite development of the CYC, the government will continue to aid CUSO in a partnership arrangement which will "preserve the independence and the vitality and the voluntary character of CUSO, while at the same time lending the stability and resources of the government."

It was this aid, double the $250,000 raised from private sources, that allowed CUSO to set its sights at 210 volunteers in 1965 compared with 148 last year and 96 in 1963.

They include social workers to Sarawak, mechanical engineers to Kenya, town planners to Tanzania, lab technicians to Jamaica and geologists to Ecuador.

What it can mean to the participants is reflected in a letter from Judy Pullen, an Oakville, Ont., girl teaching at a Tibetan refugee school. She wrote:

"There aren't enough hours in the day to tackle all the problems we face, but the rewards are great. The children respond to all our activities with boundless energy and enthusiasm.

"The whole atmosphere is one of self-help and joy in every task or game. We can't believe our luck."

Three Main Exhibit-filled Buildings Burn

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP)—Wind-fed flames swept through the Tennessee State Fair Grounds Monday night destroying three main exhibit-filled buildings and sending thousands of opening night spectators fleeing in fright.

An early morning count showed 17 persons received hospital treatment, nine of them firemen who suffered smoke inhalation.

Mayor Beverly Briley estimated damage between $10,000,000 and $12,000,000.

Destroyed were the Women's Building, the adjacent Merchant's Building and Administration Building. All were three-storey barn-like wooden structures about 50 years old.

The Women's and Merchants buildings were filled with art, antiques, handicraft, photography and merchandise exhibits. "Also destroyed was the grandstand alongside the three buildings. It was emptied when the evening show ended shortly before the fire broke out.

Mayor Briley immediately closed the fair which was beginning a one-week run.

Electrical wiring was believed the cause of the blaze.

Dos, Don'ts for Political Broadcasts Outlined

By TOM MITCHELL

OTTAWA (CP)—You'd better not see Lester Pearson on television dressed like St. George and riding a white charger.

Or John Diefenbaker acting as crime-busting Elliot Ness.

If you do, somebody is in trouble with the Board of Broadcast Governors.

The board has issued a reminder to all broadcasting stations outlining the dos and don'ts for political broadcasts during the current campaign for the Nov. 8 federal election.

One of the prohibitions concerns "role playing." As the BBG puts it, "participants in a political program may not assume another role for the purpose of simulating dialogue with political opponents."

Also under the ban as "unnecessarily theatrical" for a political broadcast are political cartoons, "still or animated," jingles and even background music unless that music is an integral part of some real filmed event, say the band at a political rally, being shown.

THREE-DAY SILENCE

The Broadcasting Act prohibits political broadcasting on election day and the two days immediately preceding it. "Political broadcasting in this campaign must conclude at 12 midnight on Nov. 5-6, 1965," the BBG says in its reminder.

Speeches by candidates are permitted after the polls have closed.

The latest reminder covers both free-time and paid political broadcasts and operations by individual stations and networks. It lays down rules for conflicting times for paid and free-time programs.

"No station may broadcast a paid political broadcast or announcement . . . in the same language during the time that a network free-time broadcast in the same medium is scheduled to be released in the same community.

"There is no objection if a radio station releases a paid political broadcast opposite a network free-time telecast, or to a paid political telecast being released opposite a network radio free-time broadcast."

The free-time and paid programs may be released at the same time where they are in different languages.

MUST DIVIDE TIME

The amount of free time available to the political parties is reached at meetings of party representatives and the networks. The BBG notes that under the broadcasting regulations "stations are required to allocate time, whether free or sponsored, as equitably as possible between all parties and candidates."

The board also notes that "no speaker on any free-time political broadcast may be allowed to run overtime."

However, a candidate who gets carried away is to be let down as gently as possible.

"It is the responsibility of the manager of the originating station to make in each case appropriate arrangements which will allow a special announcement to be given with the least possible disturbance to the speaker."

The board sent out the latest reminder last week, including copies of other material it has provided on political broadcasting before previous elections.

Britain, Canada Will Jointly Finance Survey

DAR ES SALAAM (Reuters) Britain and Canada will jointly finance a survey of the entire route of the proposed Tanzania-Zambia railway, it was announced Monday.

The surprise announcement follows the arrival here a month ago of a 12-man team from China to survey the Tanzania leg of the 1,200-mile rail link. China had offered to pay the survey costs.

The Tanzanian government said the British-Canadian project would be a "preliminary engineering and economic survey" at a cost of about £150,000 sterling ($420,000) to be met by grants from the two governments.

Montreal Girl Gets Leniency In U.S. Court

NEW YORK (AP)—A Montreal blonde won leniency Monday and escaped a prison sentence for her role in a bizarre plot to dynamite the Statue of Liberty and other United States shrines.

A conditional five-year prison sentence against Michelle Duclos, 26, was suspended and she was placed on five years' probation. She also was banished from the United States forever.

Miss Duclos, tall, blue-eyed and nervous, pleaded guilty May 13 to smuggling 30 sticks of dynamite and three blasting caps into the U.S. from Canada last winter for use in a bomb plot hatched by three American Negroes.

Expressing resentment over treatment of Negroes in America, the three hatched a fantastic scheme to dynamite the Statue of Liberty, the Washington Monument and the Liberty Bell in Philadelphia.

Hon. Leslie M. Frost, Q.C., Honorary Chairman of a $200,000 appeal in support of Queen's Theological College, Kingston, is seen discussing plans for the appeal to be conducted among United Church congregations within the Bay of Quinte Conference with Campaign Chairman, John A. Black of Kingston, centre, and Rev. H. M. Davis of Bridge Street United Church, Belleville, who is President of the Conference. Plans for the appeal were outlined to lay and clergy representatives of presbyteries within the conference at a luncheon meeting at Trinity United Church, Cobourg, on Saturday.

Seek $200,000 for Theology College Needs

COBOURG — Objectives of an appeal to congregations within the Bay of Quinte Conference in support of Queen's Theological College at Kingston, were presented to lay and clergy presbytery representatives at a luncheon at Trinity United Church, Cobourg, Saturday.

John A. Black of Kingston, a solicitor, active in church activities as an elder in his own congregation (St. Margaret's, Kingston) and in the Presbytery and Conference, is chairman of the appeal for $200,000.

Hon. Leslie M. Frost, Q.C., former Prime Minister of Ontario, who is honorary chairman of the appeal, was present at the luncheon.

Mr. Black explained the organization of the appeal would be co-ordinated through the Principal's office at the college. The appeal will be made to congregations within the Conference, largely through Presbytery organizations in liaison with individual churches, he said.

Dr. Elias Andrews, Principal of the College, said the appeal is being made to enable the College to increase its faculty and attract and retain a highly qualified teaching staff; to increase the College's library resources; to assist in renova- tions to the College building, erected in 1881, and to provide a College residence for the Principal.

Queen's Theological College, established in 1840 by the Church of the United Church of Canada, affiliated with Queen's University, Kingston. This year, The Theological College has an all-time record enrolment of 62, Principal Andrews said.

Members of the Conference Committee are: Mr. Frost, Mr. Black, Rev. Dr. Andrews, J. England, Kingston, secretary; D. S. Swain, Brighton, public information, and from Presbyteries within the Conference: (Kingston) James Baines and Rev. H. J. McAvoy; (Belleville), H. T. Martin and Rev. Paul Packman; (Peterborough) A. Lankford and Rev. J. S. Gibson; (Renfrew), Rev. W. F. Jowell and Rev. A. W. Osborne; (Oshawa), H. C. Freeman and Rev. John Porter; (Cobourg), Allin Osborne and Rev. D. M. ## Italian Will Greet Pope as UN President

UNITED NATIONS (AP)—Amintore Fanfani, 57, is scheduled to take over today as president of the UN General Assembly.

It will be his duty to preside over one of the most difficult sessions of the assembly since the United Nations was founded 20 years ago. One of his responsibilities will be to greet Pope Paul Oct. 4.

The Pope's visit was generally believed to have been a factor in the withdrawal of the rival candidate, Koca Popovic, former foreign minister of Yugoslavia.

Fanfani's supporters made much of the fact that he not only was an Italian, but a Roman Catholic and that it would have been an affront to the pontiff if he had been received by a representative from a Communist country.

By MUSHMOUTH
(Our Man on Zwicki's Island)

Dear Boss:—
I see where my old cotton-pickin' buddy, Satchel Paige is back in the public prints.

Way back when Ole Satch (they dubbed him Satch because his feet were so big they could not fit him with boots and he trod around with "satchels" on his feet) and I were swapping shrimps with the flimsiest Indians in the Florida Everglades, he was 16 and I was twelve. I am now 59 and Satch claims he's 57.

They shoulda called him Sittin' Satch... He loves nothin' better than parkin' his carcass in a chair and rockin' himself to death.

I remember a few years back when Satch was barnstormin' and he stopped over in Belleville to play an all-star baseball team.

A good crowd turned out but Satch failed to turn up. Six, seven innings went by and the crowd started to holler for Satch.

I went moseyin' around and I finally located him sittin' in a rockin' chair in a big station wagon. He was, of all things, making fish bait out of a mess of hooks and feathers.

A buddy came along and said, "Satch, it's your turn." And Satch looked up, shrugged, took a plug of fizz, and did a Bojangles Robinson out to the plate.

He threw six pitches, struck out two batters, yawned again and went back to the station wagon.

Now I see where he's King Satch of the Kansas City Athletics. And Ole Satch pulled the rockin' chair stuff again.

Said Satch to Owner Charles Finley, "Man, I'm close enough to below the surface as it is. I sure don't want to be below the surface to say hullabaloo baseball or no baseball. I want to spend the rest of my days on at least even ground."

So what happens?

Finley has given Satch a 150-year-old rockin' chair and in addition he will have a special nurse in attendance and a private water boy.

And, boss, I recall when Ole Satch used to be available for duty in the outfield when he was not whinin' 'em by batting. If his team was short of outfielders, he had no objection to takin' his glove and goin' to the picket line where he did a capable job of fielding.

One day during a tour in Venezuela, this need arose and Satch went to right field. Beyond the normal fielding area lay a swampy mesa covered with a thick tangle of undergrowth.

During the game one of the Venezuelan players hit a long drive that got by Satch and rolled into the edge of the swamp. Satch galloped to the point where the ball entered the brush.

Suddenly he stopped and whirled like a ballet dancer and took off at top speed for the dugout.

His eyes were popping and his breath was short when he arrived and announced that the biggest snake in the world had almost got him.

One of his team-mates, who had ranged out in that direction when he saw Satch hadn't got the ball, verified the story.

This one said the snake was as "big as a telefoam pole."

Said Satch: "Bigger."

After that Satch never played the outfield again. He argued that it was unlucky for him to do anything but stay within sixty feet of home plate and pitch.

And boss, down here on the island the eels are shedding their skins like Riviera beauties peel their bikinis for midnight swims. Small fish are dying and the frogs are croaking. Saw a couple of pear-shaped bathbeads playing with cuties on the beach. You're seven. You had five at last count. I checked the count. I counted the hairs on their pates. They had turtle school. Mike the Mock if missing. Could be he's checking the underwater dives at Mazinaw Lake.

Losers Lose Quarter ★★★★★ 'Mud Larks' Defeat Eskimos 24-13 ★★★★★ Fumbles Galore

By DON MacLACHLAN

EDMONTON (CP) — Edmonton Eskimos lost quarterback Bill Redell and two ends Mac Moe Monday when they bowed 24-13 to Montreal Alouettes on a rain-soaked field.

Redell suffered partial dislocation of his left collarbone when stopped on a keeper play in the third quarter. Flanker Randy Kerbow finished the game for Redell at that point. Both ends counted their second win in three days in Canadian Football League action.

The Alouettes recovered three of five Eskimos fumbles and two led to touchdowns before about 16,000 fans.

The sloppy field and rain-slicked ball "really hurt us," head coach Neil Armstrong of the Eskimos said later. "That's why we fumbled." And, he said, "those backs just couldn't get up there" in the mud.

The Alouettes fumbled three times and lost two. A fumbled snap gave Edmonton a touchdown by fullback Butch Pressley and a wild snap on a third-down kick gave Edmonton a safety touch.

Montreal opened the scoring as soon as the game started, John Baker's bouncing kickoff bumped deep into Edmonton end zone and Jim Thomas conceded.

Halfback Pat Batten scored a touchdown after an Eskimo fumble and booted two converts and a field goal. Flanker Terry Evenshen and end Don Davis added single touchdowns.

For Edmonton, end Tommy Joe Coffey converted fullback Butch Pressley's touchdown and kicked a field goal. The Eskimos' other point came when Kerbow kicked a 76-yard punt to the deadline.

The result made no changes in the standings. Montreal remained in third spot in the four-team Eastern Conference and Edmonton in last place in the five-squad Western Conference.

The Alouettes dumped British Columbia Lions 11-6 at Vancouver Saturday. Montreal is at home to Winnipeg Blue Bombers Friday.

"The return us only two days for practice," coach Jim Trimble complained after the game. "We're not used to this three games in seven days."

CUT WINNING STRING

The loss broke the Eskimos' winning string at three games after five consecutive losses. The Eaks failed to make the WFC playoffs last year and Armstrong said they'd have to win another five to make it this year.

Eskimo guard Al Benyer suffered a slight concussion when dropped in the second quarter as he blocked a punt outback. He returned in the third quarter. Montreal reported no injuries.

Kerbow, also the Eaks' punting regular, had a strong third-quarter game after he replaced Redell. But the Eaks dropped the ball in the end zone for safety for being too long in the huddle and Kerbow was tackled for a loss.

He and Redell were good on 11 of 25 pass attempts while Kerbow clicked on 7 of 21 for Alouettes. Montreal intercepted two passes and Edmonton one.

Montreal had nine first downs and total offence of 121 yards, 49 by rushing and 72 by passing. The Eskimos had 13 first downs, 164 yards in the air and 93 rushing.

Whips New Westminster 14-9

Brooklin Win Shy Of Mann Cup

NEW WESTMINSTER, B.C. (CP)—Brooklin Merchants became unsung Mann Cup for a shelf space after a convincing 14-9 victory over New Westminster here Monday night.

The Ontario club scored its third straight victory in the best-of-seven senior lacrosse final and moved to within a step of the national title.

The next game here Wednesday night could mean the re-turn of the cup to Eastern Canada for the first time in five years.

Brooklin grabbed a 3-1 lead in games by employing a typical eastern lacrosse tactic—the hard rush—and wearing down the pass-prone British Columbia champions.

Doug McEvoy, coach of the New Westminster team, said his players concentrated too much on "razzle dazzle" instead of tough leg work. Brooklin won simply by beating the defenders with rushes, he said.

SHOW FINESSE

New Westminster demonstrated to the 2,800 fans the lacrosse finesse that has typified most western champions—exquisitely executed pass plays in which the ball is whipped around in three or four players before a down-the-floor movement is made.

It worked for a while. New Westminster piled up a 4-1 lead in the first period.

But the gap was closed quickly. Brooklin players began breaking away from New Westminster defenders and galloping down on goalie Les Norman.

Glen Lolton, one of the best scoring aces on the team, fired three goals to break a slump he has had in this series. Jack Madgett, Grant Heffernan and Don Craggs got two each, while Jim Hinkson, Gerry Burrows, Ken Lolton, Ken Crawford and Ken Ruttan added singles.

Madgett was crushed into the boards by New Westminster's Wayne Shuttleworth after his second goal and was taken to hospital suffering a suspected vertebrae injury.

Paul Parnell and Shuttleworth scored two each for New Westminster. Wayne Bellwood, Wayne Goss and Paul Shynne got the others.

The sixth game will be played Wednesday with a seventh, if necessary, Friday.

"We finally played like we did last year on the coast," said coach Jim Bishop of Oshawa after the game, a reference to his club's victory in five games over the Salmonbellies in 1964.

"Our club has to have two home-ice games going for it. We have to break fast and we can't stand around in their end. I believe we tired them out and they couldn't come back."

Lead Series 3-2

Gaels Trim Salmonbellies

OSHAWA, Ont. (CP)—Coach Keith Jackson must be wondering if the New Westminster Salmonbellies have to do to slow down Oshawa Green Gaels in the Canadian Junior lacrosse final and stave off elimination.

The rugged Westerners, regarded as a superior all-round club prior to the best-of-seven series, were down to their last leg after the Green Gaels trounced them 14-6 before 2,405 fans Monday night.

The Green Gaels' winning formula was speed and hustle as they took a 3-2 margin in the series, in which they hope to win the Minto Cup for the third consecutive year.

Humidity and a 75 - degree temperature in Oshawa Civic Auditorium failed to dampen the Oshawa cunning game, but New Westminster showed noticeably after the halfway mark.

The peppery Eastern champions were paced by centre John Davis and defenceman Jim Hogg in attack and a brilliant Merv Marshall in goal. Davis, 31 and in his fourth and final Minto Cup series, fired five goals, including the first three of the game, to pace the attack. Hogg slammed home two, but he was the genius behind six others scored by his teammates.

MADE 29 SAVES

Marshall's bonebellies did shake loose of the dogged Oshawa defenders in the hard-hitting and speed game, Marshall was almost unbeatable in goal and finished with 29 saves, on 29 breakaways.

Ken Thompson scored twice and Ross Jones, Neil Armstrong, Brian Thompson, Bill Clayton and Gaylord Powless once each to complete Oshawa's scoring.

Joe O'Malley scored three goals for New Westminster. Wayne Bellwood, Wayne Goss and Paul Shynne got the others.

The sixth game will be played Wednesday with a seventh, if necessary, Friday.

"We finally played like we did last year on the coast," said coach Jim Bishop of Oshawa after the game, a reference to his club's victory in five games over the Salmonbellies in 1964.

"Our club has to have two home-ice games going for it. We have to break fast and we can't stand around in their end. I believe we tired them out and they couldn't come back."

Mighty Cars At Mosport

MOSPORT, Ont. (CP)—Some of the world's mightiest sports cars and the drivers who know best how to handle them are entered in Saturday's fifth Canadian Grand Prix.

Leading a field of 30-odd drivers expected to start in the 250-mile race for $11,000 - in prize money is John Surtees of England, 1964 world champion and winner of both the 200-mile international sports car race here last June and of the 15-mile international race at Le Circuit Mont Tremblant - St. Jovite, Que., last Sunday.

Surtees will drive a Lola T-70 powered with a big 5.8-litre Chev engine. Other entries will match him in power. Bruce McLaren, world of the spring-'65 international here in 1964 and No. 7 in world driving last year, is entered with two Chevpowered Special.

Pedro Rodriguez of Mexico City, winner of the Canadian Grand Prix in 1963 and 1964 will drive the only Italian Ferrari in the race. Rodriguez holds the race record with an average speed of 94.36 miles an hour.

Favorite entry among Mosport fans is Jim Hall, Midland, Texas, millionaire, who has yet to win a race here although he has appeared here since the track opened in 1961. Hall, who holds the lap record over the twisting 2.5-mile circuit with a speed of 101.5 miles an hour, will drive a Chev - powered Chaparral of his own design, with the only automatic transmission in the race.

Top Canadian is Ludwig Heimrath of Toronto driving a Ford-powered McLaren. Heimrath is runner-up to Bob McLean of Vancouver, who has already won the Canadian driving championship for 1965.

A change in Canadian Grand Prix regulations this year will keep McLean out of the big race. The race is limited to cars of more than two litres. McLean, who won both over-all and under - two - litre Canadian positions this year, drives a Lotus 23B and is the leading entry in a special 30-lap race for sports cars and prototypes up to two litres.

Japanese Hurler Sparks Giants' Win

Top Performance

By MURRAY CHASS
Associated Press Sports Writer

Masanori Murakami had his day. Now he's had his night, too.

The Japanese pitcher, the recipient of a day in his honor last month, turned in possibly his most glittering performance of the year Monday night as San Francisco Giants defeated Cincinnati Reds 4-0 and increased their National League lead to four games.

The victory, their 17th in 18 games, put the Giants in such a position that if they break even in their last 12 games, second-place Los Angeles Dodgers will have to win 11 of 12 to overtake them.

Murakami, 21, centre of an international controversy about where he would play this season, relieved Bob Bolin with two on and none out in the sixth inning, retired the next three batters and stymied the Reds on one hit the rest of the way.

The performance extended his five-week hot streak in which he has been an extremely effective relief pitcher for the Giants. The streak began after the left-hander made the only start of his two - season major league career.

That was Aug. 15, the day he was honored by his fans and given, among other gifts, a sports car, but that day didn't turn out too well for Murakami. He lasted only 2 1-3 innings, Philadelphia Phillies battering him for three runs and four hits.

WANTED STARTING ROLE

Despite the shaky showing, Murakami said he would like to start again, but manager Herman Franks said, "Murakami is more valuable to me in the bullpen."

So the only Japanese player in the majors went out and proved Franks correct. In 14 relief appearances since then, Murakami has given up just two runs in 22 innings while striking out 32. He hasn't allowed a run in his last 8 2-3 innings.

The Giants wouldn't mind if he takes that streak into the World Series.

In the only other National League games, Pittsburgh Pirates walloped New York Mets 10-0 and Philadelphia Phillies beat Milwaukee Braves 6-4.

Bolin, holding a 3-0 lead, blanked the Reds on four hits through five innings. But after he walked Vada Pinson and Frank Robinson in the sixth, Franks called on Murakami.

The southpaw retired pinch hitter Tony Perez on a pop fly, Deron Johnson on a deep liner to right field and John Edwards on a grounder. He retired four more Reds in a row before Pinson bit a harmless single in the eighth.

Tom Haller singled in two Giants runs, the first off Jim Maloney, who was seeking his 20th victory. Instead he lost his eighth game, and the third-place Reds are 5½ games behind.

Pittsburgh replaced Milwaukee in fourth place as Tommy Sisk followed up Bob Veale's one-hitter with a three-hitter against the Mets.

Sisk, 7-3, gained his first major league shutout with help from Bill Mazeroski, who doubled in two runs, and Donn Clendenon, who drove in three with a pair of singles. Jack Fisher suffered his 22nd setback against eight victories.

Only 812 persons, smallest crowd in Milwaukee's 13-year history, watched the Braves lose their seventh game in the last inning. Philadelphia scored all 4 of their runs in the first inning, two on a single by Pat Corrales after Wade Blasingame walked four Phillies.

Coach Kept His Promise

ST. GEORGE, Utah (AP) Dixie High School football coach Walter Brooks has kept his word, although he was a little late.

One of his players, Leif Turner, 17, suffered a torn ligament in his knee in a game at Henderson, Nev., Friday night.

Brooks promised he would visit Turner Sunday at 7 p.m.

Brooks fell from a horse, and at 7:30 p.m. hospital attendants carried Brooks in on a stretcher and put him in a bed next to Turner for treatment of a possible fractured hip.

Hold Top Positions

Ticats Lead 'Pass Pickers'

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

In case you're wondering how the defensive unit has been able to keep Hamilton Tiger-Cats on top of the Eastern Football Conference standings, a quick look at the latest statistics provides the answer.

EFC defensive halfbacks are picking off enemy passes at a record pace and the Ticats are leading the way. In fact, Hamilton players hold down the top three positions in pass interceptions and five of the top eight. Altogether, the Ticats have intercepted 26 passes in eight games. They have six more contests in which to pass the record of 38 interceptions set by Ottawa Rough Riders in 1957.

This has helped to offset some questionable performances by Hamilton's offensive squad which is third behind Ottawa and the last-place Toronto Argonauts in total yards gained. The Ticats a have amassed 1,810 yards compared with Ottawa's 2,288 and Toronto's 1,838.

In the passing department the Ticats have gained 814 yards. Significantly, they've picked up almost half again as much on interceptions, running enemy passes back 299 yards.

Billy Wayte and Garney Henley lead in pass interceptions with five each. And right behind them with four apiece are another Hamilton defensive stalwart, Ted Page, and Ottawa's Bob O'Billovich. Tied with three interceptions each are Dick Cohee and Herb Gray of Hamilton and Jackie Parker of Toronto and Joe Poirier of Ottawa.

Henley tied two EFC records Sunday when he snared a pass thrown by quarterback Pete Liske and ran it 27 yards for a touchdown. The touchdown was Henley's seventh this season on an interception and tied the record of two in one year set by Bob Simpson of Ottawa in 1955 and equalled by Ottawa's Gary Schreider in 1960 and O'Billovich last year.

The other record Henley tied was a career mark of three interceptions for touchdowns. Schreider snared three enemy passes for scores in his career. Henley is in his sixth season with the Ticats.

The statistics, which do not include Monday night's interlocking game in Edmonton between the Eskimos and Montreal, show the situation pretty much unchanged from the previous week.

Ottawa halfback Bo Scott continues to lead in rushing with 331 yards in 82 carries and in kickoff returns with 257 yards. Don Sutherin of Hamilton retained his scoring lead with 42 points and Terry Evanshen of Montreal continues to lead pass receivers with 21 catches for 237 yards. Joe Zuger of the Ticats still leads in punting with an average of 45.7 yards in 76 punts.

Henley has an average of nine yards to lead in punt returns and Ottawa quarterback Russ Jackson has emerged with the lead in passing ahead of Bernie Faloney of Montreal and Liske, who dropped from a third-place tie to third spot last week.

Meet Orioles In Big Series

Twins 27 Hours Off First Pennant

By JIM HACKLEMAN
Associated Press Sports Writer

Two in 27 takes it all for Minnesota Twins.

After leading the chase for the American League pennant for most of the season, the Twins are coming into a two-game series within a 27-hour span that could settle the race.

They play Baltimore Orioles today and Wednesday, with the magic number at three—any combination of Minnesota victories and Oriole losses totaling three gives the Twins their first flag.

So, it could all be over 27 hours after today's first pitch.

Kansas City's last-place Athletics kept the Twins from reducing the magic number to one day, scoring an 8-2 romp before the smallest crowd in Minnesota's five-season at Metropolitan Stadium for the game, which was delayed 18 minutes by rain and was played in an almost steady drizzle.

Baltimore hung on by beating California Angels 4-2 behind the combined three-hit pitching of Steve Barber and Stu Miller.

In the only other AL game, Cleveland Indians edged Detroit Tigers 5-4 in 14 innings on Chico Salmon's bases - loaded pinch hit single.

PASCUAL vs. PAPPAS

Manager Sam Mele of the Twins starts Jim Pascual (9-3) against Baltimore's Milt Pappas (12-8) today and has penciled three-hit pitching of Jim Kaat and Stu Miller.

Cleveland Manager Birdie Tebbetts has given Sudden Sam McDaniel, his leading batter, is hampered by a slight injury to his right knee.

Jim (Catfish) Hunter and reliever John Wyatt limited the Twins to four hits—two of them homers by Don Mincher. The A's clipped 19-game winner Jim Grant for three runs in the third and a homer by Larry Stahl in the fifth, then scored four times in the ninth off Gerry Roggenburk and Bill Pleis.

The loss was only the second for Minnesota in its last 11 games. Other than Mincher's homers, the only Twin hits were a double and single by Frank Quilici.

The Orioles scored their four runs in the sixth inning against Angel rookie Jim McGlothlin, making his big league debut. They bunched five of their 11 hits in the uprising, led by Luis Aparicio, plus singles by Russ Snyder, Boog Powell, Brooks Robinson and Jerry Adair.

Barber blanked California on two hits through seven innings but after two walks, Paul Schaal's two-run double, then another walk in the eighth, Miller took over and held the Angels the rest of the way.

Max Alvis led off Cleveland's 14th inning with his fourth hit of the game, a single. After Norm Dash missed pitcher Orland Pena's pickoff throw, enabling Alvis to go to third, the next two batters were walked intentionally. That set the stage for Salmon's game - ending single.

The Tigers tied the game in the ninth with a run on singles by Bill Freehan, Don Demeter and Mickey Stanley.

The game was enlivened by a bat-throwing incident that came close to turning into a brawl. Pedro Gonzalez of the Indians, brandishing his bat, charged Larry Sherry in the fifth inning after two close pitches by the Tiger reliever.

Gonzalez swung twice, but Sherry backed out of danger, then the two grappled as players from both dugouts poured onto the field.

Order was restored before things got too hot, and Gonzales was thrown out of the game.

MEXICO CITY (Reuters)—Canada's national basketball team, winding up a Latin American tour, defeated the Mexican national team 73-68.

Petroleum Exploration Rush Grows

Big Search Across Canada

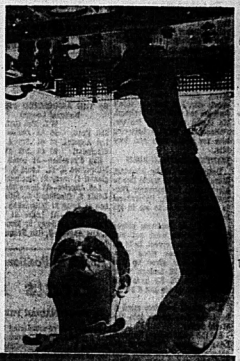
With a nationwide explosion of activity, Canada's oil explorers have stepped up their exciting quest in the north, south, east and west. The panoramic stage set for this massive, far-reaching search stretches from where slender spruce saplings defy the sweeping winds along the arctic tree line to where hardy Maritime fishermen face the chilled, heavy waters of the North Atlantic, from where the warm Pacific seas foam gently against heavily-wooded shores to where the white whales cruise in secret in the depths of Hudson Bay. By air, land and sea, the oil seekers are making their geological and geophysics investigations in a growing effort to find future resources of buried energy expected by many to become North America's leading source o vital petroleum in decades t come. The discovery of giel new oil fields (especially i northern sea areas where sil ing distances are economi cally short), could also satisf hungry markets in weste Europe where constantly e pending consumption mak fresh sources of supply a imperative need. Canadian r men, looking back at th rapid, healthy growth of the young industry and encou aged by the buoyant presen are looking ahead to eve xxer expansion — and Car da's biggest oil rush ever i en. In the north, drilling crews probe selected sites in the sprawling wilderness of rush and muskeg and geolo gists and geophysicists make regional studies of the under lying formations of Hudson Bay and its surrounding shores. In the east, vessels roam nautical mile after nau tical mile, explosive charges dropping from their sterns to rupt moments later in tall, white columns of spray as the echoing reverberations bounce back from deep down layers of rock to the seismographs. In the west, hull-down from the high, timbered Pacific coast, other vessels record more series of explosions. Across prairie plains and in the foothills, extensions of existing oil fields are found, new areas and levels are being probed with success. With 84 oil companies sharing exploration permits for a total of nearly 300 million acres of likely land and marine areas the big oil rush of the sixties is gathering impetus, aimed at the fabulous wealth and rewards promised by international industry's future demands for Canadian oil.



Not far from the Arctic Circle, in the Northwest Territories, stands a Shell Oil Company drill rig, its crew, right, drilling down 12,000 feet in the search for oil.

NATIONAL FILM BOARD PHOTOSTORY

Quest For Oil by Land and Sea

As Canadian oil production zooms to 1,000,000 barrels a day (with an annual gross production revenue around the $1,000,000,000 mark) and new drilling footage sets another record, the nation's oil explorers are looking ever farther afield for new reserves for the future. Targets for their geophysical and geological studies are the great sweeps of northern mainland, the little-known reaches of Hudson Bay and its encircling shores, and the slopes of the continental shelves off east and west coasts. Already, thousands of square miles of shoal sea areas have had their sub-surface formations probed by seismic detectors that trace the paths of shock waves, caused by detonating explosive charges, as they pass through the varying densities of rock and hidden deposits. From these repeated signals geologists hope to discover the massive inverted saucers of rock under which rich pools of oil are gathered and trapped by their floatation properties. On the Grand Banks the first drill ship is at work, boring exploratory holes in the ocean bed through 40 fathoms of water. From this wave of exploration activity will come reserves of petroleum to feed the mighty industrial complex of North America and other bustling areas of the oil hungry world — a future revenue for Canada that will have a tremendous effect on the national economy in years to come.

Supplies proceed by barges along Canada's mighty Mackenzie River for later haulage overland to remote drill-rig site where crew is boring down two miles in probe for oil.

Shatto Tab Said $500

Shaw Hit Argos In Wallets

TORONTO (CP) — Toronto Argonaut backfield star Dick Shatto admitted Monday that he was one of several players fined by head coach Bob Shaw after the team's 28-0 loss to Saskatchewan Roughriders in a Canadian Football League interlocking game here Sept. 10.

Rumors had it that Shatto was fined $500 and the others lesser amounts. Shaw refused to say how many were fined or how much the fines were. But he said he fined Shatto more than the other players.

Shatto, who announced last Friday that he will retire at the end of the season, said he has grown tired of reading stories about his professional differences with Shaw, who took over as head coach of the Argos this season. Only a few days ago they had a confidential discussion and agreed to forget past incidents.

The Argos are winless in eight starts.

"It was a good-sized fine, I guess," Shatto said Monday. "But I have an opportunity to get it all back before we play our final game."

TO MAKE AWARE

Shaw said the fines were intended to make the players more aware of their responsibilities on the playing field.

"This is not unusual where football players are fined for making mental mistakes," Shaw said. "They have all been given the opportunity to make it back by not making mistakes. We don't want their money. All we want is concentration and an honest effort."

Sunday the Argos lost 30-0 to Hamilton Tiger-Cats.

Shaw said he thought the Argos showed some improvement in certain areas of play despite their 35-0 licking. He also felt the fines helped.

Despite the team's poor record, Shaw said he has not been called in by the directors for an explanation.

"I haven't done anything that I haven't done in the past," Shaw said. I can't catch the football or run and I can't block for them."

Sets New Channel Swim Mark

ST. MARGARET'S BAY, England (AP) — Ted Erikson, 37-year-old Chicago physiotherapist, clambered ashore beneath England's white cliffs early this morning to complete a record - breaking two - way swim of the English Channel.

Erikson, the first Channel swimmer to set his course by computer, returned 30 hours, three minutes after leaving Dover Sunday evening.

Only one other man has ever made the two-way swim—Argentina's Antonio Abertonod in 1961. Abertonio's time was 43 hours, five minutes.

In planning his computer course, Erikson went against the advice of experienced Channel pilots and swam on the strong tides.

This was his third attempt in two weeks. He gave up twice before after about 12 hours in the water because he had been blown off course.

He reached France in 12 hours, 13 minutes and took only three minutes ashore before plunging in on the home leg toward England.

The Channel is 22 miles wide. Swimmers, because of tides, swim much farther, usually about 40 or 45 miles...on each leg.

Maniago Out With Rangers

KINGSTON (CP)—New York Rangers of the National Hockey League opened their training camp here Monday with 34 players.

With the retirement of goalie Jacques Plante, the Rangers have a key position to fill. There are four goalies in camp but none played in the NHL last year.

But coach George (Red) Sullivan doesn't appear worried.

"Goaltenders are funny," Sullivan said. "They can blossom overnight.
